Health File - Mental Health

What a fascinating idea. It not only gave local mental-health service providers a place to advertise, but offered readers a great deal of information. If it helps even a few people to realize there is no stigma in getting help, this special section will have more than done its job.

CONGRATULATIONS!

We're proud of the journalists at The Charlotte Observer and the McClatchy Newsdesk East in Charlotte, who won 33 awards this year from the North Carolina Press Association. It's the 22nd consecutive year in which we've won at least 20 awards from the NCPA. More importantly, it continues a tradition of journalism that not only distinguishes The Charlotte Observer and charlotteobserver.com, but also connects day after day with our communities and readers.

Connecting people and communities

At the heart of journalism lies an unwavering drive to improve lives.

Whether chronicling the stories of a community and its people, celebrating successes, or standing as the watchdog for truth and integrity, journalists invest their lives in working to make a difference for others.

We get you. For nearly 140 years, AT&T has been investing in North Carolina, connecting people and communities across the state with each other and the world.

With the latest technology and over 3 million strand miles of fiber optics, we are giving businesses an edge in the global marketplace, keeping first responders connected and delivering information and entertainment people want – when and where they want it.

Congratulations to all the winners of the NCPA 2018 News, Editorial and Photojournalism Contest!

Your professionalism and passion help make our state an even better place in which to live and work.
