Heart since 1983.

Lorraine Cranston, 74, is a parishioner from Kingston who still misses Father Johnson's presence at the parish.

"You come to Mass and I'm still looking for him to be at the altar," she said. "Even yesterday we were preparing inside, I kept looking for him to come in and he didn't. He's missed a great deal."

Sherry VanLoan, 70, attended the Memorial Mass with her husband, Vincent, and brother in law, Donald. She gave Father Johnson a Keurig and often purchased him his favorite coffee—Barista Prima Coffeehouse Italian Roast.

"I miss his smile, his jokes and his nice homilies," she said.

"This was so special. When we heard about (the Memorial Mass), we couldn't believe it. We said how special it is that the cardinal is coming to do this. We miss (Father Johnson) a lot and we worry about our parish and whether we're going to have a priest. So this was special."
