Corey Beach intersection just got safer

Crosswalks to be installed

BY SAM DESMOND

Following an additional pedestrian count conducted by the Suffolk County Department of Public Works at the intersection of Middle Road and Corey Avenue in Blue Point, it was determined that crosswalks and requisite signage would be installed at all four approaches of the intersection in spring of 2022.

Legis. Rob Calarco (D-7th District) was described as a “longtime proponent” of improving the safety at the intersection, according to Blue Point Civic Association president Jason Borowski.

Calarco’s office was first contacted two years ago by community members in Blue Point who were concerned for pedestrians at the busy intersection, which includes an active beach and restaurants.

“The initial traffic study of the area unfortunately indicated that no additional safety measures were warranted. When Bodhi’s opened up this year, it brought an increase in foot traffic to Corey Beach and the surrounding area,” said Borowski.

With the concern renewed in the community, Calarco then directed a second,

Proving to be Sayville’s premier coordinator, chamber president Eileen Tyznar and her board members provided the community with a much-needed outdoor celebration. And being the full-throttle force that Tyznar is, she didn’t close down Main Street for outdoor dining, shopping, and performances for just one night; she made it a weekly event for families in August.

The first Thursday Live on Main was canceled due to weather, but Aug. 19 and Aug. 26 were filled to capacity, as eventgoers enjoyed the activities and the music as a perfect backdrop to the end of summer.

Celebrating all the classic beauty of Oakdale

An art show titled “Seasons of Oakdale” was held by the Oakdale Historical Society on Saturday, Aug. 28, in conjunction with the Islip Arts Council.

Originally planned before the pandemic through the IAC’s grant from the Robert D.L. Gardiner Foundation, the show was revived after restrictions were lifted on gatherings.

The host of the show was St. John’s Church in Oakdale, which is the second-oldest church in Suffolk County and contains original glass windows from the 18th century at its side.

Artwork of all media, including photography, was exhibited.

Artists were encouraged to cover the following sites: Connetquot River, Byron Lake, Second Pond Windmill (now lost), Bourne Indian Neck Estate, St. John’s Historical Church/Cemetery, Railroad Station, Premm School, Vanderbilt Idle Hour Estate, Vanderbilt Well, Artist Colony, former Vanderbilt Farm, Homestead Road, former Pepperidge Hall Farm, Grand Canal/Bridges, Snug Harbor, Wharf Consuelo’s Tea House, or a view of Oakdale.

A contest was held, where eventgoers voted which pieces of artwork would be included in the OHS calendar.

Suffolk County News’s photographer, Ryan Swezey, submitted his breathtaking photo of an Oakdale staple and was selected to be in the calendar.

Christopher Reinhardt mounted vintage photographs of Oakdale for a striking piece.

Tom Alfano, a leading force in the preservation of the Idle Hour Mansion, submitted his treasure trove of local photos.

David Chan, who runs the Idle Hour night watch community group, captured the old-world charm of Oakdale.

'The animals are his priority'

The story of one man's fight to help the cats of Long Island

BY MARIANA DOMINGUEZ

One word that would describe John DeBacker is selfless.

DeBacker, who lives in Seaford, travels all across Long Island to help save cats, or to trap colonies of stray or feral cats to do what's called trap-neuter-return, or TNR. In TNR, cats are humanely trapped and then taken to a veterinarian to be neutered and vaccinated. The cats are then returned to where they were found. TNR is a safe and humane way to decrease stray and feral cat colonies, as no new litters are born, resulting in shrinking colonies.

TNR is crucial now more than ever on Long Island because with the onset of COVID-19, the feral and stray cat population has exploded.

"With all the programs being shut down last year, all the cats that were kittens last year, that were born last year, are now giving birth themselves," DeBacker said. "The numbers have gotten way high."

The 28-year-old DeBacker said he has always loved animals and has been involved with rescue organizations for many years. He got involved with TNR when he lived in Seaford some time ago and a neighbor around the block abandoned four cats that he trapped.

In addition to his TNR work, DeBacker travels all over Long Island helping cats that have found themselves in dangerous situations.

He recently helped shut down the Grand Central Parkway to save a cat that was stuck in a sewer. He also was able to get PSEG to come with a bucket ladder to save a cat that was trapped in a tree for a week.

"He goes absolutely all out for all animals," said friend Dottie Zametti. "You can call him day or night and he comes out to rescue injured animals."

Another friend, Kellie Shuart, agreed, and touched upon the great rapport DeBacker has in the community with rescue groups and veterinarians.

"People respond to John," Shuart said. "The same people could call a rescue and they'll be like, 'Nah, we're really full.' And John will call and be like, 'Hey, I have this cat, somebody is holding it now; when you get some space, can you take it?' and they're like 'Yeah.' He has the respect of people."

Something that DeBacker said he does need help with is people willing to foster cats and kittens when shelters cannot take them. He is also currently in the process of creating a 501(c)(3) called Long Island Cat and Kitten Solution.

DeBacker also mentioned the need for more people to be trappers for TNR.

"We just need more people to get involved at this point," DeBacker said. "There's so few trappers, there's no way we can be at every location at once."

DeBacker posts frequently on Facebook, where he has built up a following of people who help him foster and reach out to him when they are in need. He also works closely with Last Hope Animal Rescue in Wantagh.

"John is just so selfless," Shuart said. "He will go out at all hours and never has said, 'Hey, you need to pay me for xyz.' Everything is 100 percent donations, and when people cover the costs of the things that he's doing for them, it's truly appreciated." ■ expedited traffic study to be conducted to assess and determine the best course of action following this new development.

"We are very thankful that Legis. Calarco's resilience and dedication to this issue has led to tangible change that will make the intersection safer for everyone who enjoys Corey Beach and the surrounding amenities," said Borowski.

While the Suffolk County Department of Public Works stated that the traffic conditions did not meet the criteria for stop signs, they did note that increased pedestrian crossings warranted the installation of crosswalks and signage.

The Department of Public Works strictly adheres to the standards set forth by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

"The safety of residents is always our top priority, and I am hopeful that installing the crosswalks and associated signage will mitigate the potential for accidents in this area," said Calarco.

The purpose of the crosswalks and requisite signage is to raise awareness of pedestrians in the area with motorists, so that they will proceed with caution.

The Department of Public Works is continuing to monitor the pedestrian traffic, as well as traffic volume, to determine if additional traffic control measures are warranted.

While Middle Road is a county road, Brookhaven councilman Neil Foley (R-5th District) was also instrumental in relaying the community members' concerns to Calarco.

"As the local town councilman, I'm the first level of government people turn to. My door is always open, and I'm the people's voice when we come to bridging the gap of communication with county, state, or federal government. This was a very dangerous issue that needed to be addressed," said Foley. ■

A long-standing concern for Blue Point residents, the intersection at Corey Avenue and Middle Road, has been evaluated to need crosswalks and signage to minimize pedestrian and motorist accidents.

Understanding ambulance insurance billing

Exchange Ambulance Corps vows to never take anyone to collections for an inability to pay

BY MARIANA DOMINGUEZ

In the last few years, the price of providing emergency services has skyrocketed.

ISLIP TOWN According to a FOIL request letter obtained by the Suffolk County News in February 2019, Town of Islip supervisor Angie Carpenter and Town of Islip comptroller Joseph Ludwig held a meeting that “indicated that the increase in costs of providing emergency medical service by the five EMS agencies in the Town of Islip was exceeding the rate that the town could continue to increase funding.”

In April 2020, Exchange Ambulance Corps of the Islips commenced insurance billing to cover some of the costs the town could no longer provide.

The funds of Exchange Ambulance Corps of the Islips are used to help partially fund medical equipment, medical supplies, and part of the payroll of the few people on staff that supplement the volunteers.

According to Robert Stadelman, vice president of the board of directors at Exchange Ambulance, the group will never send anyone to collections for an inability to pay. Individuals can expect an initial notice and then two follow-up letters regarding their bill. Exchange Ambulance use the third-party billing company Professional Ambulance Billing LLC.

When asked if there has been pushback from residents on the insurance billing, Carpenter said there has been few.

“We are looking to follow Huntington’s example, where the amount of taxes that needed to be raised for ambulance service decreased as a result,” Carpenter said. “If there is insurance in place, private EMS transportation is covered; therefore, taxpayer-funded agencies likewise should be reimbursed.”

Stadelman said that Exchange Ambulance has received a few questions regarding the insurance billing, but for the most part, people understand.

In Suffolk County, EMS may charge for their services but fire departments cannot. Exchange Ambulance of the Islips is considered a Suffolk County Volunteer Ambulance Corps. ■

We made a promise

Let us never forget.

A total of 2,996 people were killed in the 9/11 attacks, including the 19 terrorist hijackers aboard the four airplanes. At the World Trade Center, 2,763 died after the two planes hit the Twin Towers.

We, for one, can remember the immense pride and solidarity that followed those events—a time so different from the strong divisiveness we feel now. If we owe those who died during those attacks in the name of our freedom anything, we owe them a love for our country again and pride in being an American.

It is the soon to be 20th anniversary of Sept. 11, 2001, and all school-aged children are no longer old enough to remember the events that happened on that day firsthand. Because of this, our promise to never forget must hold truer than ever.

That, coupled with the recent tragedy in Afghanistan, briefly mentioned in an effort to get too political. Regardless, those who survived suffered and paid the ultimate sacrifice on that day 20 years ago have been remembered, recognized and memorialized ever since.

They should continue to be celebrated for who they were, what they accomplished in their lives cut short, and for their heroic actions on a day that will forever be ingrained in United States history.

This year, the Suffolk County News would like to offer our readers a platform to once again see anyone in the community who was a part of the attack 20 years ago in print. In doing so, we will offer as many pages as necessary to print all the photos submitted by our readers of their loved ones who were a part of the attacks. We want to see smiling faces, family memories, uniformed officers, firefighters and military members. We want to see workers, employees, and anyone who suffered from the falling of the Twin Towers.

For let us remember, not one last time, but for now, tomorrow and the next 20 years.

HOW TO SUBMIT:

To submit photos, email the editor Nicole Fuentes at nicoleallegrezza@gmail.com. Please label the email with a 9/11 subject line, include the town in which your loved one lived, what capacity they served or what job they held, their name, age and any other pertinent information.

CALARCO'S CORNER

Labor Day: Appreciating the American workforce

When we think of Labor Day, most of us think of barbecues, picnics, and the beginning of a new school year. However, Labor Day is about more than just savoring the last few days of summer. Labor Day is a chance to directly acknowledge the contributions and accomplishments of the American workforce. While this day of observance is now deeply ingrained in modern society, making Labor Day a national holiday was a challenge, one that reflects the countless struggles that organized labor has endured throughout American history.

The very first Labor Day was observed on Tuesday, Sept. 5, 1882, in New York City. The Central Labor Union organized this effort in New York with the American Federation of Labor. Even though workers had to give up a day's pay to attend, more than 20,000 men and women filled the streets. Other states took notice, and by 1894, 30 states had made Labor Day a state holiday.

Labor Day was born amongst rising unrest over oppressive labor conditions. It may be hard to imagine now, but people regularly worked 12 hours a day, six days a week, in unsafe working conditions during the turn of the century.

Employers often locked their workers in hot, crowded rooms, known as sweatshops, for extended periods without an opportunity for breaks. Children were not immune from this and were also exploited, and were often being paid less than their adult counterparts while being made to complete dangerous tasks. As a result of these conditions and the absence of any mechanism to push back against them, workers were frequently killed or injured on the job. Eventually, workers began to strike, demanding shorter workdays, safer conditions, and better pay. It was one of the most significant and most violent strikes that led to the creation of Labor Day.

In May of 1894, workers at the Pullman Train Car company in Chicago went on strike to protest wage cuts and long hours. The boycott spread to other states and crippled railroads nationwide. Over 125,000 workers across the country participated. Railroad service in more than 27 states came to a screeching halt. After several violent days, the National Guard was called in to break up the strike, and the boycott was crushed. Although a blow to the American Railway Union, President Grover Cleveland made Labor Day a national holiday on June 28, 1894, as a concession to the union leaders.

Samuel Gompers, the president of the American Federation of Labor, wrote in 1910, "...Of all the days celebrated for one cause or another, there is not one which stands so conspicuously for the social advancement of the common people as the first Monday in September of each recurring year—Labor Day."

We have labor unions to thank for many of our most basic workplace rights. Without unions, we would not have weekends, the 40-hour workweek, the end of child labor, minimum wage, and employer-based health insurance. The sacrifices of our union leaders and labor activists transformed the way we work and live in modern society, making us stronger as a national community. The work of labor activists is never complete, and today union leaders continue to advocate for working people everywhere, especially throughout the COVID-19 pandemic. We are stronger as a community when we have strong unions. This year, thank a union member, whether you are catching the sun at the beach or enjoying a hot dog at the family barbecue. ■

Bradstock's Circle of Chiefs

Trucking along for a good time for a good cause

BY JAMES BERSTCH

"What a long, strange trip it's been," the Grateful Dead sings in their song "Truckin'." Long trip is a fitting way to describe the 27-year-old musical festival Bradstock (www.bradstock.org/index.html). If by strange one means holding fast to the goal of providing "a good time had by all," I suspect the Circle of Chiefs, Bradstock's organizers, would wear that term with honor.

Bradstock can't go on as scheduled this Labor Day due to COVID. Thus, it is a fitting time to honor all they have done for our community. Thank you, Chiefs! All of us are in your debt. Even if we don't know it!

What is Bradstock and who are the Circle of Chiefs? In 1994, Bayport's Brad Ringhouse and some friends from Sayville and Bayport put on a music festival in Brad's backyard for Labor Day. A rousing success, they called the show Bradstock, like Brad and the 1969 music festival in upstate New York's Woodstock. Bradstock has been put on ever since. It's been held in five different Long Island locations, north, south, east and west!

The organizers call themselves a Circle of Chiefs as way to remember it's not enough for the show to go on. The circle must go unbroken. Like Native Americans, who lived in peace with one another and with their natural environment for so long, Bradstock is about two things: 1) our environment, and 2) helping others. It's never been about making money. Bradstock keeps truckin'. They just happen to use a moral rather than a commercial compass.

Living up to this vision has not been easy, as we're seeing this year with COVID. Yet the organizers have come to see their adherence to that vision as the magic that makes Bradstock what it is: a non-commercial, community-building way to celebrate the arts and live music. Bradstock is a celebration of the simple things in life: love, nature, music, art, camaraderie and helping others.

Besides COVID, one of the biggest challenges they've overcome is their location. After the second year, the organizers knew they had outgrown Brad's house. That led them to nearby Meadow Croft (III and IV) and then Flowerfield in St. James (V and VI). They thought they hit their sweet spot when the show landed at the Long Island Maritime Museum (VII – XVII). After all, the convergence of historic boat making and location on our coveted natural resource, the Great South Bay, was perfect! But after 11 great years, they had to take their show on the road again.

The festival is now performed in Camp Pa-Qua-Tuck in Center Moriches. The camp is a place where children with disabilities can enjoy the summer. Bradstock's organizers have grown to love the location. With children and now some with grandchildren of their own, the organizers' families and devoted fans can tent or RV camp for the two-day festival. Nearly all of the proceeds from Bradstock now go to Camp Pa-Qua-Tuck.

Bradstock has had a lot of big successes beyond its longevity in these varied locations. Starting with Bradstock X, in 2004, for example, they partnered with WUSB, the Stony Brook radio station, to live-stream the performers. Bradstock and WUSB have offered the longest continuous college radio station simulcast in the nation!

Their biggest success, of course, is avoiding becoming victims of their success. For that they can thank their same moral compass. Consider some of the other shows we all attend as a point of contrast. Bradstock's musicians are unpaid and the show is put on by an all-volunteer staff.

Other shows employ assorted vendors and book performers. The goal is usually to draw the largest crowds that spaces can manage. They provide entertainment and aim to turn a profit for organizers. Those things often have a price. Simple things like community, love, education, friendship and art—the aims of Bradstock—are free.

Here are some of the organizations Bradstock has helped over the years: Long Island Maritime Museum, Friends of Connetquot River State Park, Camp Pa-Qua-Tuck, the Sayville Kiwanis Club, G.R.O.W., WUSB, They Often Cry Out, the Unbroken Chain Foundation, the Sayville Village Improvement Society, the Bayport and West Sayville Civic Associations, the Peconic Baykeeper, the Sayville Food Pantry, Island Harvest and the U.S. Coast Guard Chief Petty Officers Association, among others.

"If you're sick of hangin' around and you'd like to travel," the Dead continues in "Truckin'," you need to "get out of the door and light out and look all around." Make sure to look around at Bradstock during your travels. For while the show isn't running this year, as sure as the sun rises and falls, Bradstock will be back.

In fact, the dates for 2022 have already been set! See you on Sept. 3 and 4, 2022! ■

GEOFFREY M. PAGELS

MAY 23, 1962 - AUGUST 24, 2021

It's with a heavy heart that we must inform our friends and neighbors; both near and far, that on 08/24/2021, Geoffrey M. Pagels lost his fight against pancreatic cancer.

Geoffrey was initially diagnosed this past February (2021) with pancreatic and (possibly) lung cancer, which eventually spread throughout his body. After going through months of chemotherapy and radiation treatments, it was discovered more recently, that the cancer had continued to spread. The decision was made to stop all types of treatment, so that he could be relieved of the pain which he had endured for too long.

Geoffrey was a husband, though he was also the father of two grown sons; Kevin (33) and Kurtis (32). Geoffrey and his family lived in the Chesapeake, Virginia area.

Shortly after graduating from Sayville High School (NY) in 1980, he enlisted into the United States Coast Guard, where he eventually advanced to the rank of Chief Warrant Officer. Before he retired from the "Guard" after some 20+ years, he had become intricately involved with the SAR (Search And Rescue) program. Then, immediately after his retirement, he became the Coast Guard's first Civilian SAR Specialist, serving the Fifth District (Portsmouth, Virginia) and the International Oceanic SAR system. This position was created as a senior Civilian Subject Matter Expert in the District Command Center's, to ensure continuity and provide expert policy guidance, ensuring oversight of all SAR cases. While in this new position, it led Geoffrey to an additional 19+ year career. It was during his time with the Coast Guard, that Geoffrey was invited to National and International Military conferences in which he outlined the services of USCG and of their SAR program, instructing how it could be utilized by the various conference participating countries. As part of the SAR program as an enlisted man and civilian, Geoffrey was part of a team who coordinated the rescue efforts, having saved hundreds of lives from the Atlantic Ocean. This also includes the time spent, while assigned on several ships of the United States Coast Guard. Two major events that he was a part of during his time at sea were; the "Perfect Storm" (1991) and as part of the search and recovery efforts after the Challenger Space Shuttle disaster (1986). More recently, he became a designated USCG Representative coordinating with the Government of Bermuda, for the Americas Cup racing event (2017), organizing where spectator boats should be located and preparation for any possible incidents.

It was during a recent visit to see Geoffrey at his Chesapeake, Virginia home, that his brother Gerhard (Gerry) and his wife Nancy Pagels witnessed and became part of a visit by three United States Coast Guard Admirals; Admiral Keith Smith, Admiral (Retired) Dean Lee and Admiral Laura Dickey. Also in attendance was his wife, son Kurtis and a colleague from his SAR Unit. Geoffrey had worked with the three Admirals over many years. This visit, which was powerful and moving with stories being told about Geoffrey during his time with the Guard, as part of SAR (Search And Rescue) and the saving of hundreds of lives over 20+ years, which then ended with a special recognition award from the USCG Commandant, which only a few have ever received. That "Superior Achievement Award" and recognition read, as presented to Mr. Pagels, stated; "In Grateful appreciation for your dedication as the Fifth District Search and Rescue Specialist. Many lives have been saved because of your service." Semper Paratus, signed Karl Schultz, Admiral, United States Coast Guard, Commandant.

He will always will be remembered as the little brother, even though he was the tallest of the family. More importantly, he'll be known as having a big and good heart, always willing to help anyone in need.

He is survived by his wife Jan, sons Kevin and Kurtis from a prior marriage, brothers, William (Bill) Pagels of Salt Lake City, Utah, Louis Henry (Hank) Pagels and his wife Jennifer of Nesconset, Gerhard (Gerry) Pagels and his wife Nancy of Sayville and his sister Caroline Pagels Sweezey of Sayville. There are also numerous, Aunts, Uncles, cousins, nieces and nephews.

Geoffrey was predeceased by his parents, Helen and William Pagels.

A Celebration of Life is being arranged for Virginia Beach, Va. and will be held on September 19, 2021. Arrangements will be made for another Celebration of Life and burial at St. Ann's Episcopal Church, Sayville, NY in the near future.

MY TURN

A special birthday gift

BY PHILIP RAJ AUGUSTINE

In honor of my recent 40th birthday, my husband Mark gifted me flying lessons. The first happened last week, and it was undoubtedly one of the best experiences of my life.

Scheduled for a 4 p.m. departure on a Cessna Skyhawk, the 45-minute flight was provided by New York Jet—a corporate flying center located at Long Island MacArthur Airport.

Admittedly, as the day of my flight approached, I began to feel nervous. To my untrained eye, a Cessna looked impossibly tiny for my 6-foot frame; plus, rain was in the forecast.

Ominously, the day began with dark clouds and an overcast sky. But by 3 p.m., the skies had cleared, and I wore my favorite blue polo shirt with an airplane logo for good luck.

With Mark and my parents in tow, we found ourselves at New York Jet's well-appointed departure lounge in a private hanger, and I was soon introduced to pilot Matt Midthun. Affable and with a quick smile, the 28-year-old's calm demeanor and Nordic good looks instantly quelled any unease. As mom took photos on her phone, Matt escorted me towards an aircraft I had never flown.

The Cessna 172 Skyhawk is a four-seat, single-engine, fixed-wing aircraft made by the American Cessna Aircraft Company. First flown in 1955, more 172s have been built than any other aircraft in the world. It is a popular flight-training plane for student pilots.

Our particular Cessna was white with red, blue and green stripes running down its fuselage. It was moored alongside several others in a perfect line just off of the runway. My first lesson was to untie the three slipknots that kept the plane secure from strong wind gusts. Matt checked the fuel and handed me my headset, and signaled that I should climb aboard. A small step attached to the plane's tricycle undercarriage helped my entry into the narrow cabin, where I found I had more than enough legroom.

The front seats were covered in a tawny, shaggy fabric and were extremely comfortable, while those in the back were wrapped in dark-brown leather. In front of me was the instrument panel. I recognized the basic six set, also known as a "six pack." These include (top row) airspeed, artificial horizon, altimeter, (bottom row) turn and bank indicator, heading indicator, vertical speed. Matt made quick work with his pre-departure checks and soon our single propeller, powered by a Lycoming IO-360-L2A engine, came to life.

Our headsets allowed us to communicate with each other over the loud din and with air traffic control, who cleared us for takeoff on Runway 22.

Two identical "control yokes" sat between our legs while two pedal shifters are located on the floor. As we waited our turn, Matt, a recent transplant from North Carolina, casually informed me

Governor mandates universal masking in NYS schools

BY SAM DESMOND

As the debate over universal masking hit a fever pitch in early and mid-August, with school board meetings across Suffolk County preparing for significant community participation both for and against mandatory masks in school, the issue was put to rest on Gov. Kathy Hochul's first day in office, Aug. 24, when she announced "a new, comprehensive plan to help ensure a safe, productive return to schools this fall in the midst of rising COVID-19 numbers fueled by the Delta variant."

NEW YORK STATE

As part of this plan, Hochul directed the New York State Department of Health to institute a universal mask requirement in all schools, public and private, as determined necessary at the discretion of the commissioner.

The Department of Health issued the requirement through regulatory action established by the Public Health and Health Planning Council.

Hochul is also planning to mandate vaccines for school employees or require weekly testing in the absence of vaccines, and will continue to work with the Department of Health, education stakeholders and the Legislature on establishing the mandate.

Prior to Hochul taking office, on Aug. 23, New York City mayor Bill de Blasio mandated vaccinations for all school personnel, which includes 148,000 staff members in the largest U.S. school district.

The mandate requires staff members get at least one dose of a vaccine by Sept. 27. The Department of Education staff will no longer have the option to submit to weekly testing instead.

"As Governor, my priorities are now the priorities of the people of New York—and right now that means fighting the Delta variant," Hochul said, adding, "My No. 1 priority is getting children back to school and protecting the environment so they can learn safely. I am immediately directing the Department of Health to institute universal masking for anyone entering our schools, and we are launching a back-to-school COVID-19 testing program to make testing for students and staff widely available and convenient. We are also working to require vaccinations for all school personnel with an option to test out weekly, and we are going to accomplish all of this by working in partnership with all levels of government."

To help ensure testing is available to students as they return to school, Hochul is using $335 million in federal funds to launch a new COVID-19 Testing in Schools Program in partnership with local health departments.

Hochul also launched an additional back-to-school COVID-19 testing program in partnership with the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Rite Aid and BioReference to make testing more widely available for New York State public school students before the start of the 2021-2022 school year.

In addition to these new testing programs, New York State has available more than 4.3 million child-sized clothed face masks, about 10 million adult-sized clothed face masks and almost 55 million non-surgical face masks to provide to students and teachers in schools across the state.

State Health commissioner Dr. Howard Zucker said, "Since early July, COVID-19 cases in New York have risen 10-fold and 95 percent of sequenced positive cases were confirmed to be Delta variant. Based on incidence and prevalence, our findings demonstrate the necessity of layered prevention strategies, including this mask requirement. While a simple measure of prevention, requiring masks now is crucial for protecting the health of our children and ensuring we can get our students back in their schools this fall."

Commissioner of education Dr. Betty A. Rosa said, "Since the onset of the pandemic, the health and safety of our students, teachers, and school personnel has been our top priority. With the increase in COVID variant cases around the state, Gov. Hochul's action, taken after consultation with educators, demonstrates her commitment to the health and well-being of our students and the importance of keeping our schools open. The State Education Department supports a consistent application of masking requirements in schools, easing the return to school with a common line of defense against the spread of the COVID variant."

Board of Regents chancellor Lester W. Young, Jr. applauded and supported Hochul's decision and said, "[It is] protecting students and teachers alike with a statewide mask mandate for schools. We must do everything in our power to limit the transmission of COVID in our schools so students continue to receive in-person instruction throughout the school year. Requiring students, teachers and staff to wear masks is the right thing to do for all New Yorkers." ■ that I would be responsible for takeoff once we reach a speed of 60 knots. I did not tell him about the knots in my stomach; instead, I gamely nodded my head and gave him a thumbs up.

As we got into position, Matt engaged the throttle and we barreled down the runway. A few seconds later, with clammy hands, I pulled on the yoke and we were airborne.

As the ground beneath us fell away, an immense cerulean sky beckoned. At 1,500 feet, I glimpsed over at Manhattan's impressive skyline silhouetted on the horizon. We then banked left and flew over the Great South Bay and to Fire Island. The views were breathtaking and with a bird's perspective, we flew past Sayville, the ferry terminal and Bayport.

At 3,000 feet and with a glint in his eyes, Matt asked if I liked rollercoasters. Without hesitation I replied, "I love them," to which he responded by accelerating and pushing the nose of the plane up. I felt us climb towards the clouds before an abrupt freefall descent. It was a visceral, sensory experience, better than any rollercoaster ride.

"It's all about positive and negative G forces," explained Matt, who aims to one day be a commercial pilot and commandeer a Boeing 747.

We did a couple more maneuvers and in the process, I saw how busy the New York airspace was. Helicopters and other airplanes flew above and below us. Air traffic control and a little touchscreen radar, similar to a car's GPS, showed us every other flying object in our vicinity and kept us at a safe distance.

For years I've watched small planes fly above our house, and to be able to finally be on one of them was awesome.

On our final approach, a westerly breeze had us conduct a crosswind landing. All in a day's work for pilot Matt, who received his "wings" two years ago and is busy stockpiling flying hours.

As we touched down and taxied back to our stall, I thanked Matt and queried, "What makes a good pilot?" To which he replied: "A great sense of adventure." ■

'There will always be someone next in line to care for'

South Shore University Hospital rolls out "The Pause" initiative

BY MARIANA DOMINGUEZ

The last year at South Shore University Hospital has been a whirlwind of emotions and trauma. Nurses and frontline workers battled a worldwide pandemic, with very little time to stop and process their emotions.

ISLIP TOWN It was because of this cycle of constant motion that the emergency department decided to implement a program titled "The Pause."

"The Pause" was developed by Jonathan Bartels and involves reading a passage followed by approximately 45 seconds of silence. The passage is kept with staffs' badges. This pause allows workers to honor a patient who has died and ground themselves before returning to work.

At South Shore, "The Pause" was implemented after the Collaborative Care Council at the hospital created a healthy work environment challenge in November 2019.

"It had to do with how you could implement something across the system and the ED [emergency department] is very different than the floor units, so we tried to think of something that we could relate to the medical floor units and unfortunately, that is when patients expire because that happens in any setting on any floor," said nurse Amanda Sagendorf on why the emergency department chose this initiative for the challenge.

The ED later won the company's Healthy Work Environment Challenge, and the program is being implemented throughout the hospital. Even though taking two minutes may seem inconsequential to outsiders, the nurses said the program has really helped them emotionally.

"You're sort of in this world where you're treating one person and you need to quickly go to the next person," said nurse Jessica Svoboda. "We sort of get that depersonalization and desensitization to death and tragedy. The pause really allows us to stop and reflect on things, whether it be something going on in our own life or to say a prayer or a poem, or whatever we need to say for a person of our community who has passed away. It sort of brings back some of that humanization and a little bit more of that humanity to a job that has seen a lot of death."

According to South Shore, before implementation of the cards, 52 percent of staff reported that the amount of stress they feel is unreasonable. After their implementation, the percentage of staff reporting unreasonable stress dropped to 19 percent. In addition, there was a 28 percent increase to the survey response, "I leave the room of an expired patient feeling closure."

"I think pausing and having a moment of silence among team members who see tragedy every day is really important, and it really helps us with our mental health and moving forward with caring for others," Svoboda said. "There will always be someone else that is next in line to take care of, and we need to refresh in order to take care of the next one." ■

'El Toro' headed for national title

Fight scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 4

BY SAM DESMOND

With a 10-0 record and boasting four knockouts, Alex "El Toro" Vargas, of Bellport, is a formidable contender hoping to earn a national title in his flourishing boxing career.

This Saturday, Sept. 4, he will fight another 9-0 contender, Jose Arellano, from Colorado, at the Paramount in Huntington.

The large crowds and venerable venues are home for Vargas, who made his debut as a winning amateur at the premier arena in Barclays Center in Brooklyn over four years ago.

"The Paramount is the biggest professional venue I've boxed in," said Vargas, adding, "but I'm pretty conditioned. You get such an energy from the crowd, and you control their energy within. The nerves never go away, but I've gotten used to performing in front of thousands."

At each match, Vargas selects a different color for his trunks, and T-shirts of the corresponding hue are given out to the audience. "It's such an incredible sight: a sea of people in your color," said Vargas.

For Saturday, Vargas has chosen purple and white. Sometimes inspired by fighters on television for his sartorial choice, Vargas said that "my heart decides" in the end.

The pandemic has allowed Vargas a more accessible training schedule, with grueling two-a-day sessions that involve a minimum of a 4-mile run, strength and conditioning, and sparring.

Diet is also key to Vargas being in Olympian shape—his nutritionist and coach, Anthony Timorello, dictates a strict meal plan and considers Vargas's daily weight fluctuation to fine-tune his carbohydrate intake.

This week is the most difficult in the training plan, as Vargas is to shed approximately 15 pounds off his 155-pound frame to make the 140 weight-in for the fight.

"I'm so used to the diet, I've always been on one," said Vargas, "but the thirst is unquenchable. All the water is the tough part."

While a tried-and-true warrior now, Vargas remembered first going professional, and not having headgear and using significantly smaller gloves to box with (amateur is 12 ounces, professional is 8 ounces.).

"Obviously, you feel the punches a lot more, but the headbutts and the elbows can cause cuts or swelling," said Vargas.

The true starting point for Vargas's career was as a young boy, boxing in his basement with his beloved, doting, and supportive father, Michael.

Falling in love with the sport on television, Vargas grew up admiring heavyweight fighter Mike Tyson for his style, demeanor, and dominance.

Vargas was particularly inspired by Tyson's ability to overcome his smaller size, as he was often lighter and shorter than his opponents.

In the super lightweight division that Vargas is competing in this Saturday, it is expected to rely on speed and skill, as bouts normally last longer than heavyweight fights that have substantial knockouts.

"Power is something I have, but I definitely am working on harnessing," said Vargas. "My father has always focused on footwork."

Father Michael also encouraged Vargas to play other sports like football, wrestling and track, where he made lasting friendships, which are important to Vargas because "boxing can be a lonely sport."

Vargas's mother and sister also play a significant role in supporting his all-encompassing training, with his mother often cooking for his special dietary needs.

Getting to polish his skills at this higher level of boxing, Vargas has trained with Chris Algieri, IBF world champion Richard Commey, and WBA lightweight champion Chris Colbert, whom he credits for helping him gain the confidence for professional bouts. ■

Local sailors take to the sea

Around 250 young sailors from all over the country competed in the event from July 30-Aug. 1. The SYC partnered with Phin, a Blue Point-based charity manager, to provide each sailor with a sponsored $10 donation to a charity from Phin's curated list.

Winners in each category got to make an additional donation of about $200. All of the donations were underwritten by Magnetic Advisers, another local entity.

According to Doug Shaw, "We have sailing instruction programs for children and adults, and mentor new members in running regattas from our internal weekly racing to some of the high-level national and international competitions we are asked to host. Our season is winding down, and [Tropical Storm] Henri forced many of us to put boats away, but we should have a few more good races this year."
