Kismet Coffee and Canine Companions provide free coffee

BY MARIANA OLIVA

Those who stopped by Kismet Coffee on March 21 enjoyed a free cup of hot, iced or cold brew coffee at no cost. The coffee shop, located on Main Street in Bay Shore, participated in its second year of Free Coffee Day. This year was in coordination with Canine Companions, a non-profit organization that helps provide service dogs to individuals with disabilities at no cost.

Last year's Free Coffee Day was held on March 8, just over three months of having been open. It was sponsored by Minor Figures, a coffee company that specializes in coffee products and oat milk. Over 400 cups of coffee were given out to anyone who ordered coffee with oat milk.

After having an unexpected influx of people stopping by last year, owner of Kismet Coffee, Jackson Davis, was extra prepared this year with both staff and coffee.

Not only did people get to enjoy a free coffee, but they also got to meet and greet some of the puppies that are in training to become service dogs. From 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., labrador retrievers were giving a furry welcome to all. If you stopped by early in the afternoon, you got to meet

Judge overturns $25 million award against Bay Shore District in sexual abuse case

Orders retrial or significantly reduced settlement

BY GRACE MERCURIO

After a jury awarded $25 million against the Bay Shore School District for maintaining Thomas Bernagozzi's employment, despite allegations of sexual abuse, a Suffolk County judge tossed the award and called for a significantly reduced settlement or retrial.

The district had been found liable for maintaining Thomas Bernagozzi's employment as an educator, despite allegations he sexually abused students. While the ruling of liability still stands, the judge's decision will result in the plaintiff receiving $4 million instead of the original $25 million, or a new trial will commence regarding the amount of damages.

The suit in question had been brought by an individual who claims to have been sexually abused while a third-grade student in Bernagozzi's class at Gardiner Elementary School.

Between the years of 1970 and 2000, the 76-year-old Babylon resident Thomas Bernagozzi worked as a third-grade teacher at Gardiner Manor Elementary School and Mary G. Clarkson Elementary School. Under the Child Victims Act, 45 individual victims filed lawsuits against both the Bay Shore Union Free School District and Bernagozzi for his

Central Islip Senior High School introduces inaugural Science National Honor Society Class

Inside the newly renovated “little theater” at Central Islip Senior High School, the Central Islip Chapter of the Science National Honor Society held its first-ever induction ceremony to recognize students who achieved excellence in science.

Led by advisor and science teacher, Mrs. Roann Roderick, the students were inducted for their outstanding achievements in the subject of science by having an average of 85 or higher.

Jazlyn Rubio, president and CIHS senior, began the ceremonies and led the audience in the pledge of allegiance, and Mrs. Roderick offered her thanks to all in attendance for their support.

The honor society officers spoke about academic excellence, community, science education, leadership, recognition, prestige and service. The honor society officers are as follows: Jazlyn Rubio, president; Jamie Paul, vice president; Landon Perez, treasurer; Daniel Mejia, corresponding secretary; Giancarlos Benitez, recording secretary; and Indigo Ho Sang, public relations correspondent.

After the students concluded, Dr. Sharon A. Dungee, superintendent of schools, and Mr. Eric Haruthunian, high school principal, offered words of wisdom to the students before they were each called to receive a special certificate and pose for a photo.

The senior class inductees were Giancarlos Benitez, Josiah Garcia, Eduardo Granado, Juel Hernandez, Indigo Ho Sang, Isaiah Hoyte, Daniel Mejia, Jamie Paul, Landon Perez, Jearmi Rosario and Jazlyn Rubio.

The junior class inductees were Dayana Banegas, Luis Blanco Baires, Taylor Burrell Ford, Guastavo Castillo, Christopher Castillo, Tiffany Chuquillin, Isabella Donaghue, Ijdsrobo Dudoh, Anthony Fuentes, Andrea Funez, Sabine Hippolyte, Leticia Kim, Lauren Parada, Genesis Parada Arias, Davian Perez, Diahna Reddick, Katelyn Reyes, Kamila Sarmiento Romero, Kirah Swift, Bryan Urrutia, Brandon Urrutia, Daphne Vaisman and Egypt Young.

Four RCK fifth graders attend Long Island Trombone Clinic

Fifth grade trombonists Arianna Bayram, James Denniston, Rory Dineen and Adriana Rodriguez attended the Long Island Trombone Clinic on March 18 at Longwood High School, accompanied by their band director Savannah Legg. Members of the SUNY Fredonia Trombone Choir, led by Prof. Jonathan Lombardo, conducted the rehearsals and taught the students from East Islip’s Ruth C. Kinney Elementary School more about the instrument.

Day and night of STEAM in East Islip showcases future careers

The East Islip School Business Partnership recently hosted its annual STEAM events in the East Islip High School gymnasium to prepare students for future careers utilizing skills in science, technology, engineering, art and math. STEAM Night, held on March 5, was open to all students in the district as well as community members, while STEAM Day on March 6 featured all of the district’s second, fourth and fifth graders – from East Islip Middle School, John F. Kennedy Elementary School and Ruth C. Kinney Elementary School visiting the events. On display at this event were hands-on activities and demonstrations to showcase the many classes, clubs and careers related to STEAM.

Allstate Insurance and Zebra Technology sponsored this year’s STEAM events, with other participating employers including Thomas D. Blore Architect; Cetera Investors; Cradle of Aviation Museum; East Islip Public Library; Stony Brook Medicine; Suffolk County Department of Labor; the Town of Islip historian; and the Town of Islip Planning, Engineering and Human Resource Department.

More than 80 high school students volunteered for the events, including members of Art Honor Society, Math Honor Society, STEAM Club, Robotics Club and robotics classes, cosmetology classes, WFTK Studios and broadcasting classes, Elementary STEAM Educators K-6 and Middle School technology classes, career experience and career exploration classes, as well as those from the School Business Partnership.

For the 2025 STEAM events, a new bonus prize competition was added. Students who attended the evening event on March 5 were able to enter a drawing to name the East Islip High School Robotics Club’s competition robot. The winner was RCK’s Avery Jansen, who was awarded a $50 Amazon gift card for her suggested robot name Gearo the Great.

“This event is a team effort and truly a partnership between businesses, educators and administration,” East Islip School Business Partnership Coordinator Bridget Lopiccolo said.

East Islip High School science students test skills at Physics Olympics

Under the guidance of physics teacher Fred Coulton, five East Islip High School students – Sameer Ali, Ryan Flad, Jesse Hodge, Adam Menendez and James Terhune – participated in the 39th annual Physics Olympics, held on March 20 at Farmingdale State College. At the event, sponsored by the Long Island Physics Teachers Association, participants worked together to solve physics challenges, fostering team spirit and communication skills.

The beauty of birds!

Island Symphony Orchestra and Seatuck collaboration

BY MICHAELA MEDECK

With the end of the winter season and spring underway, the Island Symphony Orchestra and the Seatuck Environmental Association came together to celebrate in a unique collaboration!

This past Saturday, St. Peter's by-the-Sea Episcopal Church was filled with concertgoers and art lovers alike. At 2 p.m., attendees made their way into the nave of the church, where they were treated to an orchestral performance by the Island Symphony Orchestra, featuring guest soloist Mindy Kaufman.

Piccolo and flutist Mindy Kaufman joined the New York Philharmonic in 1979 at the age of 22. She received a Bachelor of Music degree from the Eastman School of Music, where she studied with Bonita Boyd, Walfrid Kujala, and James Galway.

Kaufman has appeared as a soloist with the New York Philharmonic under the direction of former music directors Zubin Mehta, Kurt Masur, and Lorin Maazel. Since September 2014, she has been teaching for the Shanghai Orchestra Academy. A sought-after commercial artist, Kaufman has performed on more than 45 film soundtracks.

The first piece was "Concertino for Flute and Orchestra," composed by Cecile Chaminade.

According to the program notes, edited by Nathan Garfinkle, the work is in one-movement and rondo form. It begins with a broad statement from the orchestra, which leads into the flute entry.

A lyrical melody is built on a foundation of quick arpeggios and trills, and this decorative solo is the foundation of the whole work. More technical passages act as an interlude, which leads into the next sections.

Next, there is a central section, which is marked animato. This slightly more upbeat section uses techniques such as double tonguing and decorations, making the solo part much more difficult. The speed is part of what makes the work fiendishly tricky. An interlude from the orchestra leads into the next variation of the theme.

This leads to the very exciting cadenza, which requires keen dexterity from the soloist as well as a bold sound and range. The work's final section is composed of a reprise of the opening melody. The fast scale runs are much more prominent in this final part of the concertino. An animated coda ends the work with an exciting passage of music.

The second piece was composed by conductor Eric R. Stewart, which truly captured the overall theme of the spring concert. In the notes written by Stewart, he shares that this piece was conceived on a winter's day in a calm, serene setting in Orchard Park, N.Y.

The first image he wanted to capture musically was the snow-covered landscape, which became the canvas for the sounds he heard. These sounds were of birds, with their songs resonating through the air.

The calls of chickadees and juncos were most prevalent during that particular afternoon, with some faint murmuring from mourning doves. The presence of the mourning dove, however, inspired him to create a melodic musical theme, as most of the other birds' songs and calls were of a more inter-trajectory nature.

As he became increasingly fascinated with the idea of musically representing the songs with birds, he conferred with naturalist John Turner of the Seatuck Environmental Association.

Before the final piece, there was a brief intermission, during which many attendees took the opportunity to explore "The Beauty of Birds" art exhibit, which was displayed outside the nave.

As the exhibit name suggests, there were photos, drawings, and paintings of different types of birds. Just a few of the birds portrayed in these pieces were blue jays, cardinals, hummingbirds, swans, ostriches, robin eggs, and more.

The Great South Bay Audubon Society, whose primary mission is to advocate for the conservation of habitats for native birds and other native wildlife on Long Island, distributed pamphlets that shared information about the black-capped chickadee, the whip-poor-will, the mourning dove, the dark-eyed junco, and the piping plover, which played a role in Stewart's piece.

After intermission, the Island Symphony Orchestra performed one last piece, Antonin Dvorak's "Symphony No.6 in D Major Op. 60."

The program notes that the Sixth Symphony is a milestone in Dvorak's artistic development. It is one of his finest achievements, the first of his symphonies to be published and become an international success. Despite some striking reminiscences of Beethoven and Brahms, the symphony speaks a language that is truly Dvorak's own from beginning to end.

The Island Symphony Orchestra 2025 concert season is supported by Long Island Grants for the Arts through funds provided by the office of the Governor and the New York State Legislature, and administered by The Huntington Arts Council. ■

Emos rejoice—Taking Back Sunday and Say Anything to hit the main stage

GSB Music Fest preliminary lineup released

COMPILED BY NICOLE FUENTES

The Great South Bay Music Festival is back for their 17th anniversary. The four-day music and arts festival will return to Shorefront Park in Patchogue Village.

Dates are Thursday, July 24 through Sunday, July 27, 2025, and tickets are available to purchase now at www.greatsouthbaymusicfestival.com.

The preliminary lineup was recently announced, with Taking Back Sunday, Say Anything, Gym Class Heroes, and Head Automatica on Thursday and Saturday. Umphrey's McGee, Pigeons Playing Ping Pong, and Eggy will perform on Saturday.

The festival will feature over 55 performers on four stages, presenting legends, as well as local emerging artists in classic rock, jazz, jam-band, country, folk, zydeco, hip-hop and funk.

For handmade arts and crafts lovers and shoppers, Great South Bay's Artisan Market features a diverse collection of interesting, handmade and imported creations.

The Great South Bay Music Festival is also committed to providing educational fun for all with their KIDZONE, featuring quality, educational fun and children's entertainment all day on Saturday and Sunday.

The festival also promises a diverse food court, multiple beer and wine gardens, and local art installations.

Great South Bay will continue to donate a percentage from every ticket sold to the GSB-Stony Brook Cancer Center Fund. To date, the fest has raised well over a quarter of a million dollars for the cancer center.

Tickets are available: Online at <https://greatsouthbaymusicfestival.com/tickets/> and hard tickets are available for sale at the Shake Down on Medford Avenue in Patchogue. ■

Chamber of Commerce members sworn in

BY MARIANA OLIVA

The Bay Shore Chamber of Commerce held its second meeting of the year on March 25. It took place in the

BAY SHORE

Bay Shore-Brightwaters Public Library at 7 p.m. It was also the second meeting for new president Eddie Fraser, who succeeded Donna Pericone after having served the community of Bay Shore for 27 years.

“Welcome everybody to our second chamber meeting of the year,” Fraser said. “As you can see, it’s a packed room; this means that there’s a lot of people in this room that care, and care to talk about our downtown, our greater Bay Shore area, and we’re gonna get ready to do that tonight.”

Early in the meeting, all members of the Bay Shore Chamber of Commerce Board were sworn in by Town of Islip councilman Michael McElwee and provided certificates on behalf of the Town of Islip. McElwee had previously served on the committee for 15 years. Members of the committee raised their right hands as they took an oath.

President of South Shore University Hospital Irene Macyk provided updates on the hospital. Macyk has been serving in her position for about 15 months. She was born in Southside Hospital and raised in the Town of Islip.

Macyk spoke of improvements that have been occurring at SSUH, including being a 325-bed hospital. Over 3,000 employees work in the building, a majority being from the community. In about a year from now, there will be a new building to help SSUH grow and serve its residents and an additional 90 beds.

Magazine Discover Bay Shore was introduced, similar to the Discover Patchogue magazine, which launched in Patchogue about seven years ago. The magazine will aim to help promote local businesses with ads that can be purchased. It will be available digitally and in print; 12,000 will be printed, with 8,000 being mailed out directly and the remainder going to different locales.

Suffolk County Legis. Steve Flotteron introduced the update coming to Gardiner Manor Park in Bay Shore. The playground is over 30 years old and in need of a makeover. The new playground will aim to be all inclusive, autism friendly, and ADA compliant toward different disabilities.

It will feature an area aimed at younger children such as from 2 to 5 years old and another area for 5 to 12 years old. It will also have sensory-friendly areas. Flotteron aims to have the playground open by the fall.

McElwee announced that the Town Hall in Islip is undergoing an expansion to make the building fully ADA compliant. The project is not being completed with taxpayer money, but rather with ARPA funds that the Town of Islip received from the federal government for COVID.

Officer John Wright, with the SCPD Third Precinct, mentioned the next community meeting, which will be held on April 1. They are held the first Tuesday of every month. It will be held in the Brentwood Public Library at 7 p.m.

The Great South Bay YMCA announced $120,000 worth of summer camp scholarships. Applications are available at the YMCA. Children have previously received full scholarships for the entire eight weeks of the summer camp.

Save the Great South Bay announced a creek cleanup at the Penataquit Creek. The nonprofit works to improve and protect the water quality of the South Bay. It will take place on April 13.

The next meeting is scheduled for May 27 at 7 p.m. at the Bay Shore-Brightwaters Library. ■

Tarragon, the youngest puppy brought out all day, at just 10 weeks old.

For Jackson Davis, this year’s collaboration was a bit more personal. Davis’ late brother, Nick Davis, was one of the youngest recipients to receive a service dog from a Canine Companions at just five years old. Nick Davis’ service dog, Feathers II was one of the early graduates of the Long Island location.

“For them [Nick and Feathers II] specifically, it was a very emotional, almost like, spiritual bond that they had,” Jackson Davis said. “I think he [Nick] felt just more confident when she was around, you know, it was like they were best friends.”

There were also giveaways, raffles and limited-edition Kismet Coffee and Canine Companions coffee bags to help fundraise and support the non-profit. Anyone who made a donation toward Canine Companions was entered into the raffle.

All of the proceeds went to the organization who is also celebrating its 50th year providing service dogs and helping individuals in need. In total, over $3,000 were raised for Canine Companions.

“Canine Companions is the nation’s first and largest service dog organization, serving adults, children and veterans with disabilities, all free of charge,” Canine Companions Volunteer Coordinator Sue Parrinello said. “It costs well in-excess of $50,000 to raise and train each dog, which we are able to give away at no cost thanks to the generosity of donors and supporters like Jackson Davis and Kismet Coffee...We’re very pleased that Jackson and his family continue to support Canine Companions with fabulous events like Coffee & Canines.”

Family fights TikTok on dismissal due to First Amendment

Teen was targeted with suicide content

BY SAM DESMOND

On Feb. 5, attorneys for the Nasca family of Bayport entered a filing with the Eastern District court of New York in response to a motion made by defendant, ByteDance, Ltd. (“TikTok”), in December, that asked for the dismissal of their 2023 wrongful death lawsuit on behalf of their son Chase, who died by suicide in February 2022.

With the uncertainty of TikTok operations in the United States following President Donald Trump’s inauguration in January, the lawsuit was unaffected by the removal and quick reinstatement of the application. National Security Adviser Michael Waltz has been tasked with aiding the brokerage of a sale of the app to an American entity.

The original lawsuit named the Long Island Rail Road and the Town of Islip as defendants, but a Suffolk County judge dismissed all three from the lawsuit, where they were accused of not fencing off an area where Chase entered alongside the LIRR tracks and was subsequently killed.

The motion filed by TikTok’s attorneys in December asserts that the First Amendment negates the claim made by the Nasca family. Specifically, defendants are citing Section 230, which absolves liability for third-party content, thus unable to be legally responsible for suicidal actions.

In March 2023, the Nasca family spoke at Congress to address the concerns of parents and the popular social media app.

In court documents, the Nasca family’s attorney stated that TikTok’s COO and CEO made statements that the app was “welcoming” and “sunny.”

The Nasca family alleges that “to further transfix minors, [TikTok] created an algorithm that presents young users with psychologically disturbing videos because such videos produce a greater dopamine response in children as opposed to safe, benign content.”

Chase was described in court documents as a “smart, athletic, social child who never demonstrated outward symptoms of depression.”

The Nascas said they did not consent to their son’s download of the social media app, but believed it only contained “silly dance videos.”

The court documents allege that Chase sought “uplifting content,” but the TikTok algorithm instead showed suicide-themed content, including some videos that urged young people to kill themselves by stepping in front of a moving train. ■ alleged sexual abuse, citing that the district did not do enough to prevent the abuse.

Bernagozzi has been charged with criminal sex act with a child under 13 years of age and course sexual conduct with a child under the age of 11, as well as possession of child pornography for allegedly possessing five images of a former minor student with his genitals exposed.

The uninsured claim brought against the Bay Shore School District under the Child Victims Act went to trial in October of last year. A Suffolk County civil court jury awarded $25 million to the plaintiff. The jury had also found the Bay Shore school District liable for negligence in supervision and acting with reckless disregard for continuing Bernagozzi’s employment as a teacher, despite allegations of abuse.

Yet, according to a transcript of the proceeding, on March 20, a Suffolk County judge ruled that a retrial for damages may commence, unless both parties agree that the amount awarded to the plaintiff be lowered to $4 million, a drastic decrease. The ruling holding the district liable still stands.

At least 45 claims have been filed against the Bay Shore School District involving Bernagozzi, and other claims that have been settled so far have averaged about $3 million each.

The district’s annual budget for the 2024-2025 school year is $197 million.

Edible gummy consumption issues involving children

BY STATE SENATOR DEAN MURRAY

A recent ABC News headline reported, “Marijuana gummies send 11 New York middle-schoolers to hospitals.” The rollout of the legalization of recreational marijuana has been an unmitigated disaster with sales at illegal, unlicensed shops, far outpacing sales at the licensed locations. While it appears that the state is starting to get its act together, there are still many issues to address. Legislation in the State Senate and Assembly sponsored by NYS Sen. Dean Murray and NYS assemblywoman Jodi Giglio would address the issue of targeting children by requiring that warning labels on edible cannabis products be displayed, as well as imposing criminal violations and restrictions on the sale of adult-use cannabis products to children. This bill has been introduced and awaits action by the NYS Legislature.

According to the two state representatives, “this legislation is about the safety of our children, and we should not allow them to be targeted with the marketing of adult-use products of any kind.” Sen. Murray stated, “There appears to be an uptick in enforcement of the rules and laws regarding the sale of adult use cannabis products... With one glaring shortfall... and that is what seems to be a growing trend of targeting children.” Assemblywoman

Giglio added, “Here we are, four years later, trying to fix a problem that was created by one-party rule in Albany. Edible cannabis products, particularly those in the form of candies, gummies, and chocolates, can pose significant risks to children if not properly packaged and stored. Due to their resemblance to common snack foods, there have been incidents where children accidentally consume these

Bipartisan bill to end waiting periods for metastatic breast cancer patients

BY CONGRESSMAN ANDREW R. GARBARINO, REPRESENTATIVES KATHY CASTOR (D-FL-14), BRIAN FITZPATRICK (R-PA-01), AND JUDY CHU (D-CA-28)

Congressman Andrew R. Garbarino (R-NY-02) today reintroduced the Metastatic Breast Cancer Access to Care Act. Representatives Kathy Castor (D-FL-14), Brian Fitzpatrick (R-PA-01), and Judy Chu (D-CA-28) co-lead this bipartisan legislation to eliminate waiting periods for Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) benefits and Medicare coverage for those with metastatic breast cancer.

“Breast cancer affects thousands of families across New York each year, with over 16,800 women diagnosed and around 2,500 lives lost annually. Long Island continues to have one of the highest breast cancer rates in the nation,” said Rep. Garbarino. “For those battling metastatic breast cancer—a disease responsible for nearly 90 percent of breast cancer deaths—every moment counts. With a life expectancy that can be as short as four months, there is no justification for forcing patients to endure unnecessary waiting periods for the health benefits they are entitled to. This legislation ensures they get the care they need when they need it, easing the financial strain and allowing them to focus on their fight.”

Specifically, the Metastatic Breast Cancer Access to Care Act would eliminate the five-month waiting period for SSDI benefits and the subsequent 24-month waiting period for Medicare coverage for individuals with metastatic breast cancer. Under current law, individuals deemed disabled for SSDI and Medicare purposes must endure these waiting periods before receiving benefits. During this time, patients with metastatic breast cancer face significant financial and medical hardships, struggling to support themselves and access the critical care they need. Due to the aggressive nature of the disease, many may not live long enough to utilize the SSDI and Medicare benefits they qualify for.

“The statistics are startling. In 2025, it is estimated that almost 43,000 people will die from breast cancer in the United States—90 percent as a result of metastatic breast cancer (MBC). To save lives and improve breast cancer outcomes, we must increase access to affordable, high-quality care for individuals with MBC while also continuing to invest in research for treatments and cure. Our bipartisan bill would eliminate barriers and reduce current health disparities by immediately connecting recently diagnosed, eligible individuals with access to treatment. People diagnosed with MBC should not have to worry about long waiting periods for eligibility to care. I look forward to working with my colleague, Rep. Andrew Garbarino, to deliver financial security and critical care to families,” said Rep. Castor.

“Each year, nearly 14,000 Pennsylvanians are diagnosed with breast cancer, and for those with metastatic breast cancer, the life expectancy ranges from just four to 36 months. Delaying access to life-saving care is simply unacceptable. This bipartisan legislation will eliminate the five-month waiting period for Social Security Disability Insurance and the 24-month waiting period for Medicare, ensuring immediate access to critical benefits. By alleviating financial burdens, we give patients and their families the freedom to focus on what truly matters—the fight for their lives. Cancer is not a partisan issue, which is why I call on my colleagues from both sides of the aisle to join me in supporting this critical legislation,” said Rep. Fitzpatrick.

“Every day counts in the fight against metastatic breast cancer, and unnecessary delays in accessing crucial health care benefits only increases the likelihood of the cancer spreading and adds to the suffering of patients and their families,” said Rep. Chu. “I’m joining Reps. Castor, Garbarino, and Fitzpatrick in introducing the Metastatic Breast Cancer Access to Care Act to eliminate waiting periods, ensuring that patients can immediately access the Medicare and Social Security Disability benefits they desperately need upon diagnosis. By removing these barriers, patients will be able to access the financial support they need at the most crucial moment in their fight against this devastating disease.”

The Metastatic Breast Cancer Access to Care Act is endorsed by the National Breast Cancer Coalition (NBCC).

“The life expectancy of those diagnosed with metastatic breast cancer is, on average, three years. This legislation will solve the urgent problem that women and men are dying before they can access earned benefits that they are legally entitled to,” said Fran Visco, president of the National Breast Cancer Coalition. “We are grateful to Reps. Garbarino, Castor, Fitzpatrick and Chu for their leadership to close the loophole, and the NBCC advocate community is ready to work with them to ensure this legislation becomes law.”

“I strongly support the timely passage of the Metastatic Breast Cancer Access to Care Act,” said Joanne Marquardt, Long Island field coordinator for the National Breast Cancer Coalition. “Sadly, my daughter, Catherine, passed away from MBC. As a result of the cruel waiting periods, she received less than 48 hours of Medicare benefits, which were used for hospice care before her death. Thank you, Rep. Garbarino, for your leadership toward ending these horrific waiting periods!! Let’s get it done!!”

Protect our immigrants

BY SISTER EVELYN LAMOUREUX AND SISTER MARY BETH MOORE

The current threat of deportation for many of Long Island’s immigrants is unjust, unwise, and cruel. Members of Pax Christi Long Island, representing the Catholic peace movement, urge our community to recognize the long tradition of Catholic Social Teaching that guides us to the command of Jesus in Matthew 25 that we “welcome the stranger.”

Our belief in the dignity of the human person demands that we treat immigrants with respect and recognize their great contributions. But our nation imposes quotas and bureaucracies that make legal immigration overwhelmingly difficult and brands those who flee their troubled homelands as “illegals.”

As a new surge of poisonous nativism creates fear among the immigrant communities, Pope Francis has spoken clearly in a letter to American Catholic bishops:

“I have followed closely the major crisis that is taking place in the United States with the initiation of program of mass deportations. The rightly formed conscience cannot fail to make a critical judgment and express its disagreement with any measure that tacitly or explicitly identifies the illegal status of some migrants with criminality. At the same time, one must recognize the right of a nation to defend itself and keep communities safe from those who have committed violent or serious crimes while in the country or prior to arrival. That said, the act of deporting people who in many cases have left their own land for reasons of extreme poverty, insecurity, exploitation, persecution or serious deterioration of the environment, damages the dignity of many men and women, and of entire families, and place them in a state of particular vulnerability and defenselessness... The true common good is promoted when society and government, with creativity and strict respect for the rights of all—as I have affirmed on numerous occasions—welcomes, protects, promotes and integrates the most fragile, unprotected and vulnerable.”

As Long Island residents, we have deep connections with the immigrant community. They are family members, friends, classmates, neighbors and co-workers. Our decades of experience show that most immigrants are hardworking and law-abiding. The Immigration Research Institute reports that immigrants account for 22 percent of Long Island’s economic output.

We value and respect local law enforcement officers. We remind them that enforcing federal policy on immigrants is the responsibility of the federal government. We urge local law enforcement to refrain from collaboration with federal immigration agencies, such as Immigration and Customs Enforcement, unless a person is detained because of a criminal act or has a criminal record. We also remind local law enforcement that:

No one can enter a private dwelling unless they have a warrant signed by a judge. An administrative order signed by ICE does not meet legal criteria for entering a private dwelling.

Hospitals, schools, and places of worship have always been respected as places of refuge. No law enforcement agency should be allowed to violate those spaces without probable cause.

Persons reporting crimes should not be forced to prove their identity before they are helped. This is especially true in cases of domestic violence.

Minors should not be intimidated or questioned unnecessarily; rather, they should be protected.

Pax Christi Long Island stands with our immigrant community because it’s the right thing to do. We acknowledge their sizable contribution to the health and welfare of Long Island. We ask all Long Islanders to embrace and protect them nonviolently from injustice and abuse. We hope to remain true to our religious tradition and the universal standard of decency, by treating all people the way we would like to be treated.

Pax Christi Long Island members Sr. Mary Beth Moore and Sr. Evelyn Lamoureux are Catholic nuns who have worked with immigrants for decades. Contact Pax Christi Long Island peaceli@gmail.com

EDITORIAL

Advertisements do not reflect the viewpoints of this publication

OP-ED, letter, or editorial?

After some confusion over the content and meaning of advertisements, op-eds, letters, and editorials printed in all three of our publications, including the Long Island Advance, Suffolk County News and Islip Bulletin, our editorial staff has decided to clarify the distinctions and rules between the types of our print copy.

Our publication has also been slammed for the printing of paid ads from the Republican party supporting President Donald Trump. Several subscribers have threatened to unsubscribe, claiming the printing of such ads insinuates our publication supports the viewpoints of said ad.

Paid advertisements are just that: paid for by whoever decides to place them, and do not reflect the viewpoints of this paper.

The fundamental principle our paper exists on (as it has proudly for decades in our editorial department) is: "It is not our aim to tell readers what to think, but to provide them with food for thought and to make interpretive editorial comment on the news."

With that said, we welcome any and all advertisements from either side, Republican or Democratic, as well as advertisements from anyone who seeks to place one. Additionally, what most might not also realize is that we are a local business and our very livelihood exists in part from paid advertisements. However, we diligently work to maintain separation between advertising and editorial.

With that being said, we do believe our true editorial coverage has been nothing short of fair, balanced and credible. At this time, we hope our readers understand the difference between editorial reporting and paid advertisements, show us grace, and continue to support their local news, of which we are always in danger of losing.

Rather, if you do not appreciate the viewpoints of said ad, take a look at who took the time to create and pay for it. Those are the businesses, groups, or individuals of which might be more effective to discuss your displeasure with.

Additionally, op-eds and letters are submitted to our publications via readers and are in no shape or form commissioned or requested by our staff, unless indicated otherwise. From time to time, we request op-eds for specific topics, including Veterans Day or Black History Month. If that is done, it is always noted. Letters are solely reader submitted and not commissioned by our publications. Neither letters nor op-eds represent the voice or opinion of our publication.

ADVERTISEMENTS: Advertisements are print ads that appear in our publication weekly. Ads do not reflect the viewpoints of the publication. Rather, they are a traditional form of advertising for promotion.

OP-ED: An op-ed, short for "opposite the editorial page," is a written piece which expresses the opinion of an author not affiliated with our editorial board. We encourage all readers as well as elected officials and public figures to contribute op-eds, giving their personal views on local issues, current events, or day-to-day life, to appear on the op-ed page. All submissions 600 words or less will be considered. If space allows, larger pieces will also be considered at the discretion of the editor.

LETTER: A letter to the editor (LTE) is a letter sent to a publication about issues of concern from its readers. Letters to the editor that comply with the printed rules are only edited for length and clarity. All letters will be printed, regardless of topic or political affiliation. We also welcome all letters; we do, however, reserve the right to decide whether a letter is acceptable for publication and to edit for accuracy, clarity and length. Letters deemed potentially libelous or that malign a person or group will not be published. Letters should not exceed 250 words.

MY TURN: Occasionally, our reporters write My Turns, which are written in the first-person and indicated as a My Turn, about personal experiences and light topics. My Turns are also available to the public at the editor's discretion.

EDITORIAL: An editorial is a written piece done by our editorial board to reflect the paper's opinion of a certain topic or issue. The editorial is usually based off an internal story printed in the publication.

NEWS STORY: These stories are written in-house by our staff and are solely news based, including what happened, who it happened to, where it was, why and how. It will also include quotes from involved individuals.

FEATURE STORY: A feature article is a human-interest story about a person, event, or place. These are also written in-house by our staff.

To submit a letter or OP-ED you can reach us by mail at 20 Medford Avenue, Patchogue NY 11772 or email at liascnib@gmail.com. Please include your full name, phone number or email. Your number and email will not be printed but will rather be used for confirmation.

If too many letters are submitted, we will print a representative sample of the opinions expressed and may run additional letters online. Also, we will not accept letters endorsing a candidate in the issue before any election. ■

WORD OF THE WEEK: Creek Defender

BY SAVE THE GREAT SOUTH BAY

A dedicated volunteer who protects the waterways in their community by leading cleanups, providing education and cultivating the next generation of local stewardship. There are Creek Defenders in each of the 16 towns and villages across the South Shore protecting the 50-plus creeks that are the arteries for freshwater to the Great South Bay. Save the Great South Bay is eternally grateful for the hard work they do to protect our bay!

Every year, Save The Great South Bay engages thousands of volunteers in dozens of Community Creek Cleanups across the 16 towns and villages along the South Shore. These cleanups are essential in keeping our creeks—vital freshwater arteries to the Great South Bay—free from waste and pollution.

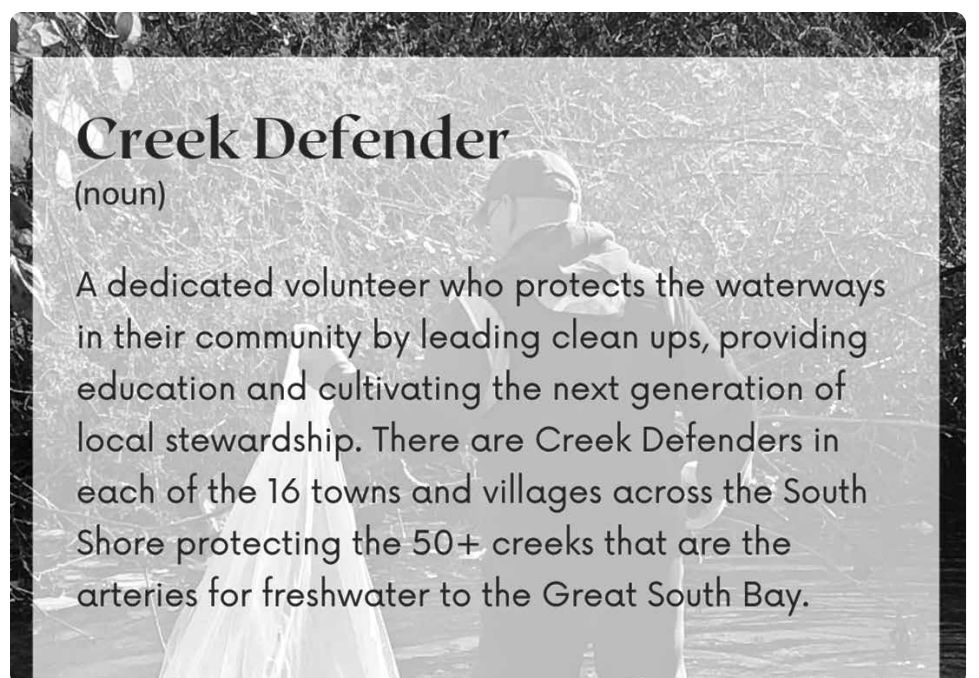

Our dedicated Creek Defenders lead their communities in removing debris and ensuring waterways remain unblocked and unclogged, allowing for a healthier bay. By stopping pollutants at the source, we help protect marine life and improve overall water quality. Plus, creek cleanups are a fantastic way to bring neighbors together, enjoy the outdoors, and learn about the local environment while making a tangible difference. Since the program's launch in 2017, Creek Defenders have led their communities in removing over 70,000 pounds of trash from our creeks. To enhance our impact, we encourage volunteers to use the Clean Swell app to track the debris they collect.

This data helps us better understand pollution sources and advocate for lasting solutions to protect our waterways.

Want to get involved? Sign up for an upcoming cleanup at www.savethesouthbay.org/volunteer.

Save The Great South Bay is a local environmental nonprofit dedicated to restoring water quality for future generations. Through initiatives like our Word of the Week, we make environmental science accessible to everyone. Explore past Words of the Week under News & Events in our Photo Gallery.

Join us in making a difference—one creek at a time! ■

Looking for places that serve local Long Island seafood?

A new app will make it easy

BY GARY HABER

A new campaign launched by the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets and Cornell Cooperative Extension, Suffolk County, will highlight GREAT SOUTH BAY restaurants and fish stores that offer sustainably caught and farm-raised fish and shellfish from Long Island.

The Long Island Seafood Cuisine Trail is starting with 20 locations on Suffolk County's South Shore, extending from Bay Shore to Montauk.

They include Shands General in Patchogue, Varney's Restaurant in Brookhaven, Mastic Seafood, The Fish Store in Bayport, The Cull House in Sayville, Blue Island Oysters in West Sayville and The Snapper Inn in Oakdale, where the officials held a press conference on Wednesday to announce the launch of the trail. The program is part of Gov. Kathy Hochul's 2024 Blue Food Transformation initiative to strengthen local food systems and boost New York's seafood and aquaculture industries.

Long Island is already "in the forefront of the eat-local movement," State Agriculture and Markets commissioner Richard A. Ball said on Wednesday.

Ball said highlighting the region's seafood industry has a lot of benefits.

"I think it's going to be good for our farmers," Ball said. "It's going to be good for our seafood producers. It's going to be great for the tourism business and jobs and the economy on Long Island. It's a win, win, win."

load "makes it easy for consumers to do the right thing, which is to support the local economy," he said.

The plan is to add five more South Shore locations and 25 on the North Shore, said Kristin Gerbino, fisheries specialist with Cornell Cooperative Extension, Suffolk County. The North Shore locations will extend from Oyster Bay to Greenport.

Locations had to apply to be part of the program.

"We knew we wanted to be part of the trail, since we've been serving local seafood since 1929," Snapper Inn general manager Kerry Blanchard said.

Jay Varney, owner of Varney's Restaurant in Brookhaven, said locals already know about the restaurant, which opened in 1981. He's hoping that being part of the trail will spread the word among tourists looking for fresh Long Island seafood.

"It makes it so easy," he said of the app.

Long Island attracted 42 million visitors in 2023, and the most popular activity is dining in local restaurants, said Kristen Reynolds, president and chief executive officer of Discover Long Island, which promotes Long Island tourism.

Visitors want to try Long Island's famed local seafood, but they don't always know where to find it, Reynolds said.

The trail will help visitors locate restaurants specializing in local fish and boost Long Island's $7.5 billion tourism and hospitality industry.

Reynolds said Discover Long Island will promote the seafood cuisine trail through Discover Long Island's 11 social media channels, which reach 10 million people, including the 250,000 visitors expected in September for the Ryder Cup international golf matches at Bethpage State Park in Farmingdale.

The free seafood trail app is expected to be available in the coming weeks. Travelers on the Long Island Expressway will also be able to find it at the Taste of New York display at the Long Island Welcome Center in Dix Hills, said Amy Lesh, program manager for Taste of New York, Long Island region. ■ products, leading to overdoses. These overdoses can result in a range of symptoms, including drowsiness, dizziness, vomiting, and in severe cases, respiratory distress or other health complications." Sen. Murray continued, "There have been many examples over the last couple of years of children accessing, ingesting or using THC-infused edible gummies, with frightening results. Most recently, 11 middle school students were taken to the hospital after ingesting marijuana gummies at school. School officials say these gummies were packaged as though they were regular candy products. Packaging like this makes it entirely too easy for kids and parents to be fooled and mistakenly think these products are perfectly safe candy. Fortunately, none of the 11 children in this case were seriously injured or harmed, but that is not always the case, which is why it is so important for us to take action in Albany and pass our marijuana packaging legislation." Assemblywoman Giglio concluded, "To prevent such incidents, it's critical for cannabis edibles to be packaged in child-resistant containers, clearly labeled with dosage information, and with safety warnings. In addition, public education efforts are essential to inform caregivers and parents about the potential dangers and the importance of keeping cannabis products securely stored out of reach of children." ■

Bay Shore Historical Society hosts Bay Shore High School Women's Empowerment Club

To celebrate Women's History Month, the Bay Shore Historical Society hosted the Bay Shore High School Women's Empowerment Club. This was the club's first speaking engagement to a public audience. The presentation "Bridging the Generational Gap: Uniting Women Across Ages for Progress" focused on issues that women face and the ongoing fight for equality. The panel discussed many of the issues that they felt affected women today like how social media can be a toxic environment for teenage girls, workplace discrimination, and issues with bad female representation in media. The group also highlighted their accomplishments like hosting movie nights and selling T-shirts as a scholarship fundraiser for girls in the Bay Shore School District. The students organized a celebration for the International Day of the Girl where they hosted women who served in the military and work in politics to speak to their classmates. The Women's Empowerment Club was very proud that they were able to use their group to create a safe environment for women and allies to come together and have respectful conversations about how to tackle difficult issues. The presentation ended with the girls from the club, asking the Historical Society members about their experiences and the progress that they saw women achieve in their lifetimes. ■ of the Hook and Ladder Company and quickly excelled in his craft. He was elected second lieutenant in 1980 serving through 1982; first lieutenant in 1982 serving through 1984; and company captain in 1984 and serving through 1986. After 22 years, he transferred to Engine Company 1, assuming a leadership role with several other members in the department by organizing a specialized tactical rescue unit. This unit became responsible for such rescue disciplines as: high/low angle rope rescues; underwater search and rescue; ice emergencies; confined space; vehicle extrication and hazardous materials incidents. He was later elected as the Tactical Rescue Company's inaugural captain in 1998, serving through 2000. Throughout his career, he has been instrumental in the training and educating of members in the department, serving as one of the department's first designated training officers. After 16 years, he transferred to the Fire Police Company, where he remains an active member. Given this remarkable achievement, the department is proud to bestow him with the rank of Honorary Chief. ■
