Canine Companions to gain a new wing and help more people

Bay Shore builder donates $3.5M project

BY NICOLE FUENTES

Bay Shore construction company owner Jim Nazzaro is building and donating a new dorm wing at the Canine Companions headquarters in Medford. Construction on the $3.5 million project has already begun.

Canine Companions is a national organization that enhances the lives of people with disabilities by providing highly trained service dogs at no charge to the recipient. The dogs are either golden retrievers or Labrador retrievers, or a mix of both. Volunteers raise the dogs in their homes for a year and a half, and then they come to the training center for six to nine months of training with a professional trainer.

The project, according to Canine

Companions Northeast Region executive director Debra Dougherty, will double the number of service dogs they are able to match with clients by providing additional dorm rooms for their stay during trainings.

The donor, Nazzaro, is the owner of the Construction and Real Estate Development company, J. Nazzaro Partnership LP. He and his wife were also a Canine Companions volunteer puppy raiser.

It's razzle dazzle time with '42nd Street'

BY LINDA LEUZZI

You'll root for Peggy Sawyer, a talented newcomer who wants a Broadway break. When bad luck circumstances present themselves onstage, can she and the kids in the cast save the "Pretty Lady" show after the lead lady has an accident?

That's the basic premise of "42nd Street," which had its Broadway revival in 2001 and joyously ran to 2005.

It's also Gateway's new season, opening this Friday.

Several of its stars met with the Advance during a recent rehearsal lunch break out on the patio area to talk about this popular musical that keeps on giving with fabulous tap scenes, humor and songs.

Ryan K. Bailer (national tour, "Evita," "Les Misérables;" regional, "The Sound of Music," "Evita," "42nd Street," plus several recent Gateway shows) plays the legendary, brusque Broadway director Julian Marsh. (He gets to belt out the rouser "42nd Street" song.)

"He needs one more hit," explained Bailer of his exacting character. "It's not from 'I haven't accumulated enough,' but from his passion. He's boisterous and

Planting a tree for Arbor Day

Village of Patchogue again named a Tree City USA municipality

BY GARY HABER

The Village of Patchogue has again been named a Tree City USA municipality by the Arbor Day Foundation. The Nebraska-based nonprofit runs the program with the USDA Forest Service and, in New York, with the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation's Urban and Community Forestry Program. To mark the occasion, elected officials, members of the village's Conservation Tree Committee and officials from Patchogue-Medford Youth & Community Services gathered for a brief ceremony on the grounds of Patchogue-Medford Youth & Community Services on Bay Avenue on the afternoon of Thursday, April 24. They planted a tree in the yard of Patchogue-Medford Youth & Community Services, and village clerk Lori Devlin read a proclamation from Patchogue mayor Paul Pontieri designating April 24, 2025, as Arbor Day in the Village of Patchogue. "I urge all citizens to celebrate Arbor Day and to support efforts to protect our trees and woodlands," the proclamation read, in part. "And further, I urge all citizens to plant and care for trees to gladden the heart and promote the well-being of this and future generations." Devlin gave the framed proclamation to Patchogue-Medford Youth & Community Services executive director Samantha Wood. "We understand the value and the importance of the environment and we're committed to it," Wood said. In order to qualify for the Tree City USA designation, municipalities have to do several things. They must enact a community tree ordinance (Patchogue's ordinance was enacted in the 1960s), maintain a tree board or tree department (Patchogue's board is called the Conservation Tree Committee), celebrate Arbor Day, and spend at least $2 per resident on tree-related expenses, including planting, pruning and maintaining trees. With Patchogue's population of more than 12,000 residents, that works out to more than $24,000, a number that Patchogue more than doubles, said Devlin, who launched the Conservation Tree Committee while she was a village trustee. For Arbor Day last year, the village planted serviceberry trees on the grounds of Patchogue-Medford Youth &

Community Services. This year, it planted a tulip poplar tree, a hardwood that is native to the area. The tree is known for its tulip-shaped flowers. "We try to only plant native plants," Devlin said. Last year, the village received a $75,000 state tree-planting grant from the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation. "We're a very green community," said village trustee Thomas Ferb, who attended Thursday's ceremony. Ferb is also a member of the Patchogue Garden Club. The club will hold its annual garden tour on Saturday, July 5. This year's tour will include four private gardens, the Patchogue Garden Club community garden at Terry Street and South Ocean Avenue and the community garden behind the Village Parks and Recreation building on Bay Avenue, the Patchogue Garden Club's Paula Murphy said. ■

CANINE COMPANIONS: Grand opening expected by the holidays

According to Nazzaro, his passion for the organization came from being a puppy raiser.

"It's the best thing that ever happened to us," he said of raising a Labrador retriever named Zach, who was later matched with a young man with disabilities in Maryland, of which he remains in contact with today. "Zach was amazing, and from the very beginning we understood the concept that you're saying goodbye to him someday. But we also knew he was going for a greater good."

However, the only reason he said he hasn't raised another dog is because of his travel.

"We didn't think we could properly do the job of raising a future service dog. I said to myself, 'You know what? I could actually make a larger impact doing what I know best, and that being construction,'" he added.

Then, when he learned the organization's need for additional dorm rooms for clients at the Northeast Region Training Center in Medford, he immediately wanted to provide.

"I hesitated for maybe 30 seconds," he said. "We'll just build them! This is something I can do to make this dream come true and double the number of service dogs that can go to clients."

According to Nazzaro, who is on site nearly every day overseeing the project, he anticipates a grand opening by the holidays (November/December).

"This is probably the last construction project I'm going to do in my career," he added, proud to end with something so special. "I've been building for 42 years and now I'm ready to slow down a bit. I couldn't leave on a better note."

The project, which will double the dorms from 11 to 22, essentially and eventually allowing the organization to double their output of helping people and bringing down their waitlist, broke ground in March. The location has about 80 to 100 people waiting for a service dog at any time.

Canine Companions currently accommodates about four classes per year, with some side placements, totaling about 60 graduates per year (about 70 pre-COVID). They estimate being able to place over 100 dogs with the additional dorm space.

Thanks to the project, Dougherty said they have also started increasing the breeding program out in California with plans to get more puppies in the next few years.

"And it's all because of Jim," she said. "There was a lot of shock and then gratitude that he made such a generous opportunity for us to be able to serve more people."

Nazzaro will also be honored during the Canine Companions 50th anniversary gala on May 10. The gala will be held at noon at the Medford location. For tickets, visit canine.org/goldennortheast or call 631-561-0201.

Pat-Med Board of Education

Two candidates to run for two seats

BY GARY HABER

Voters in the Patchogue-Medford School District won't face a tough choice when they go to the polls on May 20 to elect candidates to the Board of Education. Only two candidates are running for the two open seats on the board. The seats are for three years, starting July 1.

Incumbent Francis Salazar, an assistant middle school principal in the Copiague School District, is running for reelection to a second term on the board. Lauren Kuban, a Patchogue-Medford High School alumnus and a fifth-grade teacher in a neighboring district, who ran in 2024, is seeking her first term.

Current board member Thomas Donofrio is not running for reelection.

Among the top priorities for the board will be selecting an interim superintendent and finding a permanent superintendent to replace superintendent Donna Jones, who is retiring as of June 30.

The Long Island Advance asked the candidates to tell us why they're running and what their priorities are if elected.

Francis Salazar

Age: 45

Town of Residence: Patchogue

Occupation: Middle School Assistant Principal, Copiague School District

Family: Married for 16 years, two children, ages 13 and 11.

Why are you running for re-election to the Board of Education?

I am running for re-election for my second term. I am running because I have a vested interest in the community and the schools. I have two children in the school district and wish to see the children of the community as well as my own, get the best educational experience they can have that prepares them for the real world. I have been employed as an educator for the past 20 years and wish to lend my experience to the Board of Education.

What are your priorities if re-elected?

The most important issue that we are dealing with currently is the search for a new superintendent of schools. It is imperative that we as a board select the right person for our community as well as ensure a smooth transition for the school district. This will be completed with transparency and will involve a range of stakeholders to make certain the voices of the community are heard, and their needs are met.

I have been an advocate for children and public education for the entirety of my professional career going on for 20 years. My experience in education as a special education teacher, coach, dean, chairperson, and assistant principal has afforded me an understanding of good educational practices.

Lauren Kuban

Age: 38

Town of Residence: Patchogue resident for more than 30 years. Attended Pat-Med schools. Graduated from Patchogue-Medford High School in 2004.

Occupation: Fifth-grade public school teacher in a neighboring school district who has been teaching for 15 years.

Family: Married with two sons, both in elementary school in Pat-Med.

Why are you running for election to the Board of Education?

I am running for the school board because I take great pride in our community and believe in the importance of shaping a strong future for our children. As a parent and someone deeply invested in where we live, I want to ensure that every decision made by the board reflects what's truly best for not just my own children, but for all the children in our community. With a background in education, I also bring valuable experience and insight that I believe will be especially important as we begin the critical process of selecting a new school superintendent.

What are your priorities if elected?

If elected to the school board, my top priorities will be to be a well-informed and balanced voice for both parents and students. As a school board member, I will use my experience as a teacher to make informed decisions that prioritize what is best for students, while also ensuring responsible spending of our district's resources. Additionally, with the introduction of numerous new initiatives from New York State, it is more important than ever to have board members who not only understand the complexities of these changes, but also know what realistically works and what doesn't in a school setting.

As a proud Patchogue-Medford alumnus and now a parent, I am deeply invested in the future and success of our school district and I humbly ask for your vote on May 20.

What: Patchogue-Medford School District budget vote and election for Board of Education

William Floyd Board of Education adopted its proposed budget for the 2025-26 school year, which includes a zero percent proposal or no tax increase during the April 22 meeting.

The district has held or decreased taxes for four of the past five years, including reductions of 4.86 percent and 17.88 percent in subsequent years, as well as a zero percent proposal twice, including this year.

Last year, there was an increase of less than one percent.

"We are pleased to be able to provide a zero percent increase for the 2025-26 school year in this year's budget proposal," said Kevin Coster, superintendent of schools, William Floyd School District. "The district continues to manage its finances responsibly to ensure top-notch opportunities for our students, while being fiscally responsible to our residents."

Also on the ballot is a proposition to create a $5 million repair reserve for future repairs, as well as the election of three trustees, seats currently held by April Coppola, Lorraine Mentz and Luis J. Soto. All three are running unopposed.

The annual budget hearing is scheduled for Tuesday, May 13 at 6:30 p.m. in the William Floyd High School library. The budget vote and trustee election are scheduled for Tuesday, May 20, from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. in the William Floyd High School east lobby.

Mike Cirigliano to enter Pat-Med High School Hall of Fame

BY GARY HABER

If you live in Patchogue, you know Mike Cirigliano.

From his work as board president at GiGi's Playhouse Long Island to his role as chair of the Greater Patchogue Chamber of Commerce's PATCHOGUE Family Fun Event Committee, which organizes events like Circus on Main and Midnight on Main/Winter Wonderland, Cirigliano is never too busy to lend a hand to a worthy nonprofit.

"He keeps finding ways to help," said Patchogue-Medford Public Library director Danielle Paisley, a member of the Family Fun Event Committee. "He leads with his heart."

A 2000 graduate of Patchogue-Medford High School, Cirigliano is among those being inducted into the Patchogue-Medford High School Hall of Fame on Friday, May 2. He's part of a class that includes eight other individuals and the 1925 Patchogue High School basketball team.

With his many activities, Cirigliano, 42, checked all the boxes when it came to selecting members for the Hall for 2025.

"He met just about every criteria we have and scored just about as high as you can score," said Manny Felouzis, president and one of the founders of the Patchogue-Medford High School Hall of Fame.

"When you say that a person represents their community, Mike is someone you'd point to as representing Patchogue-Medford," Felouzis said.

Cirigliano had his share of glory days on the playing fields and in the gym at Pat-Med.

A three-sport athlete, he played center-field on the baseball team, guard on the basketball team and quarterback on the football team, including the 1997 team that went undefeated his sophomore year and won its second consecutive Long Island championship and the Rutgers Trophy as the top team in Suffolk County. The team was inducted into the Hall of Fame in 2017.

Cirigliano, who owns the Cirigliano Agency, an insurance and financial services agency in Patchogue, says he learned the value of hard work and teamwork from his Pat-Med football coaches, Bob Sconone and Billy Carpluk.

After high school, Cirigliano attended Dowling College on a baseball scholarship. He graduated in 2004 with a bachelor's degree in sport management and a minor in physical education. He later earned a Master of Business degree in corporate finance, in 2013.

He opened the Cirigliano Agency in 2014 after working as a business manager for MarineMax, which owns boat dealerships.

What motivates Cirigliano to volunteer so many hours to projects that benefit young people?

It goes back to Cirigliano's time growing up in Medford, where he said, "Outside of Little League, there wasn't much else going on."

Cirigliano's goal, he says, is to create more opportunities for people to interact and enjoy themselves.

"I love seeing people in our community having fun, being outside, making friends," he said. "It brings value to our community, being fit, having a healthy lifestyle," said Cirigliano, who works out at the YMCA five days a week.

How does Cirigliano manage all his volunteering, as well as running a business and being a husband and father of three, including a newborn?

"Time management is the key," he said.

It also helps that Cirigliano is an early riser. He gets up at 5 a.m., even on weekends.

Chambers celebrate the best of the best at annual reception

BY GARY HABER

Chambers of commerce from across the town of Brookhaven gathered together on Wednesday night, April 16, at The Meadow Club, in Port Jefferson, to celebrate and to recognize members who have done great things for their businesses, nonprofit organizations and their communities.

It was the Brookhaven Chambers of Commerce Coalition's 25th annual Outstanding Member of the Year Awards reception. It was like the Academy Awards ceremony for Brookhaven's small-business community, and the response from those in attendance was just as enthusiastic as they cheered wildly as the name of each award recipient was read and each came forward to collect their trophy and make a brief speech.

The evening was "a validation of small businesses and the chambers they belong to," Barbara Ransome, president of the Brookhaven Chambers of Commerce Coalition, told the audience.

The organization was established in 1992.

Each chamber of commerce selected a recipient for its member of the year award, and Marisa Pizza, of the Farmingville Hills Chamber of Commerce, was selected as the 2025 Chamber Member of the Year.

In addition, the Brookhaven Chambers of Commerce Coalition also handed out $3,700 in grants.

Chambers from the Long Island Advance's coverage area were well represented at the event. Merri Italiano, owner of Avino's Italian Table in Bellport, was named the Bellport Chamber of Commerce's Chamber Member of the Year. Michele LaMartina, manager of Harbor Crab in Patchogue, was named the Greater Patchogue Chamber of Commerce's Chamber Member of the Year. Medford-based Gershow Recycling was named the Medford Chamber of Commerce's Member of the Year.

For Italiano, it was the second time a family member won the award. Her father, James Avino, won the same award about seven years ago.

Italiano said she joined the Bellport chamber 18 years ago.

In that time, Italiano said she's found in the chamber a community of other area small-business owners who support each other, are there to help with advice, "or just to chat, just to bounce things off."

She is a director of the chamber and its meeting and event coordinator.

The Bellport chamber has more than 100 members. Its biggest annual event is Bellport Day.

Temple Beth El holds Holocaust Remembrance Day observance

BY GARY HABER

Midway through her talk at Temple Beth El of Patchogue on Sunday, Mireille Taub paused and held up a tattered child's shoe.

Taub was the featured speaker at the synagogue's third annual Holocaust Remembrance Day observance.

The shoe, she explained, was part of the pair she wore as a child, who wasn't yet 2 years old, during her family's harrowing trek across France, Spain and Portugal, in 1940, as they fled their home in Paris, one step ahead of the Nazis.

The family's journey started with a train ride from Paris to Bordeaux, which Taub said she learned was the last train the Nazis allowed to leave the city. It ended three months later when Taub, her parents, and sister arrived in New York Harbor on a Greek freighter.

The family settled in Brooklyn. Taub would go on to attend Brooklyn College, marry her husband David in 1959, and move to Long Island in 1968, where the couple raised three children and Taub worked as a literary specialist for the Freeport School District and Nassau Community College.

Taub also shared with the audience the story of David's escape from Paris, which included being sent by his mother to a small French village, where, to survive, he had to hide his Jewish identity, which included serving as an altar boy.

"It's a happy story," Taub said. "Thank God we're alive to talk about it."

Taub, now 86 and a grandmother, is part of a dwindling generation of people with firsthand knowledge of the ravages of the Holocaust, which resulted in the murder of six million Jews and millions of non-Jews at the hands of the Nazis.

Eighty years after the end of World War II, fewer than 210,000 Holocaust survivors are alive worldwide, of whom just 34,500 live in the U.S., according to The Conference on Jewish Material Claims Against Germany, which administers payments from the German government to Holocaust survivors. The median age of those who are left is 87.

Temple Beth El's Rabbi Ilan Pardo emphasized the importance of hearing from Holocaust survivors, of hearing "stories from the people who lived it," he said.

"It seems like the story's disappearing," said Pardo, who brought the idea of an annual Holocaust observance to Temple Beth El, which was something he'd done at his previous pulpit in Pennsylvania. "It's important to not forget and to never let it happen again."

"It's always challenging times, if you're Jewish, but these are especially challenging times," he said.

Linda Tabatchnik, a synagogue member who helped organize Sunday's observance, said it is especially important for young people to be taught about the Holocaust.

"Hopefully, the younger generation will stand up to injustice," she said.

Several students from St. Joseph's University in Patchogue were among those in the audience for Taub's talk.

Liam Schibi, 24, a sophomore nursing student from Sound Beach, said Taub's words left an impression on him.

As part of an eighth-grade class trip to Washington, D.C., Schibi had visited the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum.

But to hear from someone who lived that history was more meaningful.

"We learned the big picture, but we didn't necessarily learn the stories," he said. "It was very eye-opening to hear her story." ■

Four unusual Patchogue residents make it in the modelling biz

Four unusual Patchogue residents show that anything is “pawsible” with the right “catitude.” Queenie and Wally, two cats who live with Rita Caprino, and Chase and Mikie, a pair bonded of felines who live with Michaelyn and Martin Read, have arrived in the glamorous world of modeling by getting their own cards in the Cats Myth and Magick Oracle card deck from U.S. Games Systems.

Queenie was adopted from a local Petco. Her card illustration is reminiscent of the fairy tale “The Princess and the Pea”—a beautiful cat lolling on a pile of elegant cushions. Her inviting image encourages the viewer to find happiness and contentment. Wally, a flaming ginger cat, was rescued and nursed back to health by Caprino after being hit by a car in her neighborhood. His card invites the viewer to be creatively inspired.

Mikie and Chase were adopted into the Read family household from the Westhampton Bideawee, where Michaelyn Read is a volunteer. Always together, the picture on the card perfectly illustrates their close relationship as they try to climb on top of each other in a fishbowl.

What’s next for Queenie, Wally, Mikie and Chase—perhaps a stroll down a high-fashion catwalk? No word on that yet, but an art exhibition is in the works with the Comsewogue Library in Port Jefferson Station, which will feature the foursome along with more than a dozen of the beautiful Cat Mythos and Magick card deck illustrations on larger-than-life canvases. Details to be announced.

Cat Myth and Magick can be purchased at Barnes and Noble, Amazon and on the U.S. Games Systems website: <https://www.usgamesinc.com/cat-mythos-and-magick-oracle>.

Cats Mythos and Magick is published by U.S. Games Systems Inc. (USGS) who is a publisher of playing cards, tarot cards, and games located in Stamford, Connecticut.[Founded in 1968 by Stuart R. Kaplan, it has published hundreds of different card sets, and about 20 new titles are released annually. The company’s product line includes children’s card games, museum products, educational cards, motivational cards, tarot cards, and fortune telling decks.

Native tree gets planted on Arbor Day

BY LINDA LEUZZI

Bellport mayor Maureen Veitch, trustee Lorraine Kuehn and Bellport Garden Club member Evonne Hammond hoisted shovels, digging a village hall home for the new white oak on Arbor Day, while a crowd of enthusiasts cheered.

Wahoo!

Bellport was named Tree City USA in 2023. There are currently 3,587 recognized cities nationwide providing tree cover; status requires meeting four core standards of sound forestry management and the celebration of Arbor Day.

Founder and partner Brian Sawyer, of Sawyer/Berson architects, provided new landscaping as well as the white oak tree along with the Environmental Committee gratis, said BGC president Mary Butler.

There will now be four on the grounds.

“He volunteered to redesign the Bellport Village property after it got ripped up during renovations,” said Butler.

It was an exciting push, especially for the garden club, said BGC and Beautification Committee member Sherry Binnington.

(These ladies are very modest in taking credit.)

“Christine Novelli was instrumental, making sure our Tree City USA status remains current,” Binnington said. “You have to apply every year. We were a Tree City years ago, but the title went by the wayside. Then Ray Fell picked it up again and John Kocay worked on it. Christine got it going again.”

So how many trees have been planted?

“We started plantings in 1938,” Binnington said. “I’m sure we planted over 1,000 trees.”

She added that the garden club has spent, overall, over $110,000 for the trees.

Bellport Garden Club tree stalwart Evonne Hammond agreed. “We usually plant 15 to 30 trees every year,” she said. “Years ago, they cost $20 each; now it’s closer to $300. The amount we plant depends on how much we raise at fundraisers.”

Besides native trees like sycamores, native oaks, maples and zelkovas, Hammond said that wire-friendly trees are among the mix. “It’s so they don’t get butchered (with LIPA’s tree trimming). There’s a whole list LIPA puts out,” she said. Some are flowering trees, like cherry and plum trees.

Donations determine the number planted.

“People make donations for memorial trees or for weddings,” Hammond said of those who want to remember a person or special event.

Money raised also funds treatment of diseased trees, like the ash trees in the village. “We had to take out 22 trees that were affected, but the last two years we’re treating the remaining with injections; it costs $5,000.” Thankfully, she added, O’Kula Tree Care, in Center Moriches, arborists who offer organic spraying services, haven’t raised their prices. “We’re trying to save as many as we can because it takes a long time to grow a tree.”

You can support the Bellport Garden Club on Memorial Day through their plant sale in front of the old CVS, or send a check to the Bellport Garden Club, Box 203, Bellport. ■ bigger than life, but he really cares about the kids in the cast and the process.”

Elizabeth McGuire (regional, “42nd Street,” “Irving Berlin’s White Christmas,” “Legally Blonde”) plays the hard-working, earnest, starry-eyed Peggy Sawyer.

“She has many dances and songs,” McGuire explained. “There’s good material in the scene work and she has her own arc. It’s fun to play with her strength that deepens through the story, and she’s full of love for the art form.”

No romance between Julian and Peggy in this adaptation, but he does admire her.

“I think he sees an innocence in Peggy,” Bailer explained. “Peggy has a genuinely pure spirit, not for her own glory but because she loves it. He sees something in her that reminds him of how he started.”

The fun, temperamental lead of “Pretty Lady,” Dorothy Brock, is performed by Kristen Beth Williams (Broadway, “Hello, Dolly!,” “Pippin,” “Nice Work If You Can Get It”; national tour, “A Gentleman’s Guide,” “101 Dalmatians the Musical”).

“I wouldn’t say she’s spoiled,” said Williams of her diva character. “She’s a star and asserts her power. I see her as a Bette Midler type.”

Her demands aren’t over the top or unreasonable, Williams stressed. “She’s looking for a driver and a new dressing room,” she said—just perks of stardom. “The story also shows a lot more relationship with (boyfriend) Pat Denning (played by Jesse Swimm), giving it more weight.”

There’s also a vulnerability she eventually displays. “Dorothy says, ‘It’s taken a broken ankle to make me realize I wanted this relationship in life.’”

Award-winning director and choreographer Randy Skinner is back at Gateway, dusting this show with his magical touches. He was tasked with carrying on the 2001 Broadway revival, after director and choreographer Gower Champion died just before its opening night, and has become a legend in the industry with many Broadway, Off Broadway, regional and Los Angeles productions.

Skinner was asked if he changes the dance scenes with each show.

“There’s always little tweaks and improvements,” Skinner answered. “I put in a new little step just yesterday.”

Skinner promises a lot of surprises in this production.

Associate choreographer and former Rockette Mary Giattino, who has performed on Broadway and Broadway national tours, is working again with Skinner.

Giattino promised a surprise blowout number at the finale. No spoiler alert.

But she did discuss her favorite dance number in the show?

“I think it’s the Act II ‘42nd Street Ballet,’” she said of the major production number with precision tap dancing.

“Randy has choreographed the most amazing steps,” Giattino said. “You don’t always see tap performed in a storytelling way with Peggy, Billy (Griffin Wilkins) and the others in it. It’s about six minutes long.”

Executive artistic director Paul Allan added this scene teaser. “There’s so much happening, you don’t want it to end.” ■

Oyster Shindig

BY MARIANA OLIVA

If you’re looking for an evening out while supporting a cause, Save the Great South Bay is hosting its annual Oyster Shindig on May 2. Coastal Kitchen, located on Bay Shore’s Main Street, will be hosting the local nonprofit organization. The event will be held from 4:30 to 6 p.m. The organization aims to improve the conditions of the Great South Bay for future generations. Previous events they have hosted include cleanups such as removing debris, monitoring invasive species, and restoring oyster habitats. So far this year, Save the Great South Bay has held 13 Creek Defender cleanups. Tickets include fresh oysters straight from the Great South Bay, a selection of hors d’oeuvres, cold beer and chilled sparkling wine. There will also be live shucking provided by Little A’s Oysters’

Michel Mission. Attendees will learn how they can help grow oysters to support the Great South Bay’s Oyster Project. To top off the evening, there will be live music performed by Bobby Digital. “We hope to educate the community about the importance of oysters in restoring the bay’s ecosystem, share volunteer opportunities, enjoy fresh local oysters together, and kick off the summer while supporting a great cause,” the organization said in a statement. Tickets are $50 per person and can be purchased at www.givebutter.com/S5ODYH. Proceeds will help support the nonprofit. For more information on how you can support Save the Great South Bay, head to www.savethegreatsouthbay.org. Save the Great South Bay aims to support oyster sanctuaries. ■

New York Press Association names next executive director

New York Press Association board president Terry Tuthill announced Tuesday that Bryce Jacobson, formerly a publisher in Colorado and Wyoming, will become the next executive director of NYPA. Jacobson will replace Michelle Rea, who is in her 34th year at the helm of NYPA. Tuthill noted that the extensive nationwide search took several months. A transition committee comprising six past presidents conducted the search with a clear vision of what we wanted—someone who could understand NYPA’s mission and execute the fiduciary responsibilities necessary to support the mission. “We think Bryce’s extensive experience with community newspapers will enable him to effectively engage with all of NYPA’s constituents—member news organizations, advertising clients, legislators, and staff,” Tuthill said. Jacobson is scheduled to join NYPA May 19 and spend the following weeks traveling the state, meeting with publishers, ad directors, and clients. ■

LETTERS DEADLINE IS MONDAY AT 5 P.M.

Thank you for your protest coverage

Thank you for your continued, refreshingly objective coverage of the protests taking place at Andrew Garbarino’s Patchogue office. Including photos of the participants’ creative signs helps readers who weren’t there sense the upbeat energy and determination one feels among the crowd. Since our representative has yet to acknowledge that we’re protesting or address our concerns in any meaningful way, let alone talk to us in person,

I hope he reads the Advance to learn what’s happening at his front door. This past week’s issue was a particularly informative one for him, if he did read it. Articles on school funding, Habitat for Humanity, his local library, and Earth Day all highlighted larger issues and institutions for which he’s either expressed or implied support, yet are directly threatened by his party’s stated goals, positions and actions. So far, he continues to align with his party leadership. As Suffolk County Democrats were quoted in last week’s article, we’ll continue to stand outside his office “until Republicans either get the message or we turf [sic] them out of office.” “Turf” is likely a typo for “turn,” but it’s a provocative image, like turning over the sod so something healthier can grow. Our representative could grab a shovel and dig with us. Or simply talk with the thousands of voters gathering at his doorstep. The sooner before midterms the better, given his leaders’ disregard for constitutional law. -Nell Bard Brookhaven

REVIEW

Mathematics plus moments equals 'Proof'

BY JACKIE SARDO

Math is hard, but the biggest problems we face are not in the pages of Baby Rudin but in the lives we lead. "Proof," at the Clare Rose Playhouse through May 11, is a highly acclaimed drama written by UChicago alum David Auburn, that illustrates this beautifully in a tale of human struggle and achievement.

"Proof" tells the story of Catherine, a mathematical genius struggling with depression fueled by her past and fear of the unknown future. As the plot unfolds, all characters run the narrative that it's our flawed natures which make us human.

For instance, as Catherine struggles with her father's past incapacitation with mental illness and the weight of dropping out of college to be his full-time caretaker, she has unexpected but relatable feelings of loneliness, and even relief.

Alexandra Mandy Thomas's performance as Catherine is incredible. She commands the stage with versatility and nuance, whether she is the main focus or not, and shows impeccable timing with witty and sarcastic comebacks. She also clearly demonstrates the gruff exterior which hides her pain and grief. Catherine felt truly human—completely honest acting.

Playing her father Robert, whose brilliance succumbs to mental illness, is Clare Rose regular Carl DiModugno. Through clever use of flashbacks, DiModugno displays Robert's downfall with subtle grace as we see him transition from his best to his worst.

The remaining two characters care deeply for Catherine, but also want something from her, in a paradoxical way that is invariably human. Hal (Ron Motta), a previous student of Robert who becomes romantically involved with Catherine, is earnest and nerdy. While he clearly connects with Catherine, countering her disillusionment and drawing out an upbeat side of her in touchingly awkward and intimate moments, he has his own motive.

He wants to discover unpublished math in Catherine's attic, which he hopes her father wrote during moments of lucidity. Likewise, Claire (Mary Ann Cafiero), Catherine's terse, disciplined and put-together East Coast sister, shows genuine care for Catherine and wants to provide a fresh start by moving her away, yet seemingly chides her in every moment just as the two seem to be connecting.

While billed as a drama where many recent productions have felt heavy, director James Carey and his cast have found much humor in the script by placing the tiny moments under a microscope, so Auburn's words do not feel as bleak as they can be in this play.

The set designed by St. Joseph's University Play Production class brings us into the backyard of Catherine's childhood home, with details such as fallen leaves with equations on them to represent the grip mathematics has on the home, and a tree that shrinks to indicate scenes in the past. However, this production is much more than a story about math. None of the characters are perfect.

Life is not math, and no matter how much of a genius one might be, it cannot be solved in an elegant proof. "Proof" runs through May 11. Tickets may be reserved by calling the Clare Rose Playhouse Box Office at 631-654-0199. ■

Facility dog helps boy relearn how to walk after spinal surgery

Dorothy, the facility dog at NYU Langone Orthopedic Hospital, played a key role in helping 5-year-old Liam Block relearn how to walk after spinal surgery for cerebral palsy. Before surgery, Liam couldn't stand or walk without support. He needed a year of intensive physical therapy—up to five sessions a week—to rebuild basic skills like walking and kneeling. Recently, Liam and his mother, Sarah, returned to the hospital to thank Dorothy for keeping him motivated.

"The treatment for cerebral palsy is physical therapy," Sarah said. "Keeping it interesting and motivating is really important." ■

Pat-Med flag football races to 10-0 start

BY TONY BELLISSIMO

Since its inception in the fall of 2023, the Patchogue-Medford girls flag football program has thrived.

The Raiders played for the county championship in their inaugural campaign and made back-to-back appearances in the finals last spring, so can the third time be a charm?

"We're definitely in the mix again," head coach Brad Weinman said.

Pat-Med finished 10-1-3 in season No. 1 and followed up with a 9-4-1 mark. Add in this year's 10-0 record and the program is 29-5-4 all-time. Three of its losses are to Half Hollow Hills, including both county title games, but Weinman's team made a statement April 24.

The Raiders went on the road and defeated Hills, 7-6, in a defensive struggle for a signature win that was celebrated the entire bus ride home.

"It's really exciting," Weinman said. "We were 0-3 against Hills, so this is a big win. Two explosive offenses and it ended up being a defensive battle. It was scoreless at halftime and the difference was we batted down their extra-point attempt with about four minutes left."

Senior Angelina McGrath starred on both sides of the ball in the victory, collecting a pair of interceptions and catching a touchdown pass from junior quarterback Mackenzie Hughes. Senior Paige McGowan also had a pick, and the front-line rushing tandem of seniors Kelsey Vargas (four) and Skyler Smith combined for seven sacks.

"It was a game we had circled since the calendar came out," said Weinman, who is assisted by Bob DeSilva.

Hughes threw for 19 touchdowns last season with only three interceptions and added 171 yards rushing and two scores. Her game has reached another level in 2025, and heading into this week's action, she leads Suffolk County in touchdown passes with 35 and has 2,106 yards through the air, putting her third in the category.

"Last year's experience is paying off for Mackenzie," Weinman said. "We're primarily a throwing offense and she has a great arm and vision. She can also run when we need her to. She's shifty."

Hughes owes a good deal of her success to the Raiders' talented receiver trio of McGrath (42 receptions, 775 yards and 10 touchdowns), McGowan (37-502-7) and freshman Camryn Young (34-342-6.)

While the offense has fired on all cylinders most games, the defense is also doing the job, with no more than 13 points allowed in any of the first 10 and one shutout—20-0 over North Babylon April 14—with Smith registering a pair of sacks and McGrath picking off a pass. McGrath's nine interceptions rank third in Suffolk.

The defense also stood tall three days earlier at Sachem East. Hughes connected with junior Marie Cataldo and freshman Ella Melo for touchdowns, and Melo had 11 flag pulls and an interception to lead the defense in a 13-7 victory.

The Raiders have a favorable schedule down the stretch, with each of their last four regular-season games at home. They'll host Connetquot May 1, Whitman May 5, Ward Melville May 7, and close with Commack May 9.

Senior Angelina McGrath ranks among Suffolk's leaders in receptions, touchdowns and interceptions.

Seniors Kelsey Vargas (right) and Skyler Smith combined for seven sacks in the Raiders' 7-6 win over Half Hollow Hills on April 24.

Bellport athletic trainer earns Athletic Trainer of the Year Award

South Country School District's head athletic trainer, Gina Harris, has a lot to be excited about. She has been recognized with the prestigious District 2 Athletic Trainer of the Year Award by the National Athletic Trainers' Association Secondary School Athletic Trainers' Committee and as a finalist for the National Athletic Trainer of the Year Award. She will formally accept her award in June at the 76th NATA Clinical Symposia and AT Expo in Orlando, Fla.

Harris earned the recognition for her dedication, professionalism, mentoring and volunteerism following a nomination and application process. She was selected from a pool of applicants from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware.

"It's an incredible honor to be named the District 2 Athletic Trainer of the Year," said Harris. "I'm proud to represent my region and even prouder to make a meaningful impact on the lives of the student-athletes I work with every day." She added, "Athletic training is about more than injury care—it's about connection, mentorship and helping young people grow through adversity. We're not just building stronger athletes—we're helping shape stronger, more resilient individuals."

Harris, who has served as head athletic trainer at Bellport High School since 2017, is a board-certified athletic trainer with over a decade of experience in emergency response, injury prevention and athlete performance. She earned her Bachelor of Science in athletic training from SUNY Cortland and her Master of Science in exercise physiology and sports nutrition from LIU Brooklyn, where she worked with high-caliber athletes, including three-time Olympic medalist Brendon Rodney and former UFC Middleweight Champion Chris Weidman.

She recently completed a Master of Science in applied clinical nutrition from Northeast College of Health Sciences, enhancing her ability to support student-athletes in both performance and recovery through an integrative approach to care.

In 2023, Harris was nationally recognized as the sole recipient of the Henry Schein Medical Rising Star Award, presented to one emerging athletic training professional across all practice settings in the country. This prestigious award honors early-career athletic trainers who demonstrate exceptional clinical skill, leadership and impact on the profession.

"Mrs. Harris is a tremendous asset to the South Country Central School District," said Martino Sottile, director of health, physical education and interscholastic athletics. "Her professionalism and care for our student-athletes is unmatched, and she consistently goes above and beyond for our kids. She is constantly looking to grow and expand, earning various certifications and continuously evolving. It's no surprise to me that she is being recognized as one of the best athletic trainers in the nation."

The South Country School District extends its congratulations to Harris on this impressive accomplishment.

Lights-out pitching sparks Phantoms

BY TONY BELLISSIMO

After its pitching staff posted four consecutive shutouts in a weeklong span concluding April 15, Bayport-Blue Point's baseball team allowed eight runs to a talented Babylon lineup the following day, but that's when the Phantoms' offense came through in the clutch to keep its unbeaten streak alive.

Senior Tyler McKillop's two-out, two-run ground-rule double in the top of the seventh inning proved the game-winning hit for BBP in a thrilling 9-8 victory. The hit capped a four-run rally and plated senior Cooper Fuller and junior Colin Most. McKillop was also the winning pitcher in relief, and senior Mike Messina earned the save with a pair of strikeouts in the bottom of the frame.

"Messina is one of our three starting pitchers and although I hate to use any of those guys in relief, it was a big game," Phantoms' second-year coach Vic Manzella said. "I challenged our guys going into the seventh and they responded."

Following the comeback win with a 10-0 triumph at Mattituck three days later brought senior-led BBP to 10-0 in League VII and a two-game lead over Center Moriches in the loss column and a three-game cushion on Babylon with the tiebreaker in hand over the latter.

The starting pitchers—Fuller, Messina and fellow senior Brady Gelling—combined for seven shutouts in the first 10 games. Messina no-hit Mattituck and fanned nine.

Fuller was an all-league selection last spring and also quarterbacked the BBP football team to a county championship in the fall. He's 3-0 on the mound and also the No. 3 hitter with a team-best 12 runs scored. Messina and Gelling didn't pitch much last season but have stepped up to round out the rotation. Messina is 4-0 and Gelling is 3-0, with Messina, like Fuller, not allowing an earned run, and Gelling racking up 24 strikeouts.

Having a stud behind the plate like senior Guytano Kiesel, an all-county selection in 2024, is a luxury only a few programs in Suffolk can match. He's hitting .333 with 12 RBIs and 10 runs and has been a human eraser of would-be base stealers with six of 10 nabbed. "He's a game changer with all the tools," Manzella said.

McKillop anchors the infield defense at shortstop and is headed to UMAss-Lowell. He's crushing the ball to the tune of a .440 average after earning All-League honors in 2024. "He 100 percent sets the example for everyone else," Manzella noted.

Senior Brendan Mattimore (third base), BBP's most-improved player in the field and at the plate according to Manzella, and freshman Ryan Kloss handle the corner infield spots, with Fuller and either junior Aiden Richman at second. The outfield features Messina in center, Most in left and senior Sal DaVore in right.

After reaching the Suffolk Class A finals a year ago, BBP is looking to bring home its first county championship in over a decade.

"Our goal is to win the county title," Manzella said. "I'm super happy how our pitching and defense has performed. It's something I was preaching all offseason. And we're also getting timely hitting." ■
