FRESH fruits and vegetables don't have to be expensive if you buy them in season and many are in season year round. To learn more, visit www.sdharvestofthemonth.com

FROZEN fruits and vegetables are packed and frozen within hours of harvest, so they don't lose their flavor or nutritional value. Try steaming vegetables in the microwave or stovetop rather than boiling to keep in more nutrients.

CANNED fruits and vegetables often get a bad rap but they are still nutritious. Choose 100% fruit juice with no added sugar and vegetables with no sale added. Remember to drain the water, juice, or syrup and rinse with water to help remove some of the extra sugar and salt.

Louis Puech Scigliuzzi and Norman Reedus in "The Walking Dead: Daryl Dixon"

Dixon days: Daryl dominates new 'Walking Dead' series

Premiering Sunday, Sept. 10, on AMC and AMC+, "The Walking Dead: Daryl Dixon" sees the return of Norman Reedus ("The Boondock Saints," 1999) as on-screen anti-hero Daryl Dixon.

Created by David Zabel ("ER"), "The Walking Dead: Daryl Dixon" is the fifth spinoff from the flagship series, hereafter referred to as TWD, and takes place after TWD's 11 seasons of horror. And while viewers have already gathered their fair share of Daryl details since his first appearance in TWD's Season 1 episode "Tell It to the Frogs," audiences have never seen the troubled "walker"-fighting hero quite like this.

"Daryl Dixon" follows the titular character as he "washes ashore in France and struggles to piece together how he got there and why" (per AMC). According to the official synopsis, "[T]he series tracks his journey across a broken but resilient France as he hopes to find a way back home," noting that as "he makes the journey ... the connections he forms along the way complicate his ultimate plan."

The title of this latest TWD spinoff was announced in October 2022, which is also when filming began in Paris. Despite AMC's initial desire to produce a series that followed another TWD character, Carol Peletier (Melissa McBride, "The Mist," 2007), the network eventually landed on "Daryl Dixon" as a result of scheduling conflicts with McBride. That said, McBride is expected to reprise her role as Carol in at least one of the premiere season's six episodes.

In fact, as mentioned by Vanity Fair writer Derek Lawrence in his November 2022 article titled "Norman Reedus Unpacks the Walking Dead Finale and His 'F—ing Great' Spin-Off," Daryl himself made a nod toward his own future series in the final episodes of the flagship series' finale.

"It's not like we're never gonna see each other again," Daryl tells Carol in an intimate scene toward the end of "Rest in Peace," Lawrence writes, noting Carol's response: "I'm allowed to be a little sad. You're my best friend."

And while we have no idea what may be in store for Carol, fans can certainly expect more "Daryl Dixon" beyond the first six episodes. Just last month, AMC announced that the series had already been renewed for a second season.

Also joining the cast for Season 1 is French actress Clémence Poésy, known for her roles in films such as the Harry Potter franchise (beginning in 2005), "In Bruges" (2008) and "Tenet" (2020), among others. Poésy plays Isabelle, a French woman with a dark Parisian past and a connection to a "progressive religious group." She joins forces with Daryl on his journey.

Scored by an ethereal rendition of Claude Debussy's "Clair de Lune," the trailer juxtaposes the violence TWD fans have come to expect with the peace and serenity that accompanies a French monastery garden. It just so happens that in this very monastery is where Daryl learns of his next adventure. And without giving anything away, suffice it to say that "The Last of Us" fans may wish to tune in.

When discussing the dawn of "Daryl Dixon" with Lawrence during an interview that occurred pre-WGA/SAG-AFTRA strike, Reedus shared some of his excitement for the spinoff.

"It's so beautiful, it's so moving," Reedus began, "but it's like [Daryl] got swept away in a tornado and woke up in this foreign land and doesn't understand anything. There's French people speaking French, obviously, and part of the story is being confused with what's around him, trying to figure out what they're saying, is this going to be a fight, are we going to get along?"

Despite the "epic" nature of the new series (and, of course, the Walkers), Reedus insists that the entire experience will feel very different from "The Walking Dead."

"It's a different story, it sounds different, it feels different, it looks different," Reedus mused three weeks into filming in late 2022. "It's exactly what I was hoping to do. Like, I could not be more happy with what we're getting."

Checking in with STEPHEN COLBERT

Show-business strikes notwithstanding, Stephen Colbert will be presiding over "The Late Show" for some time to come.

Whether in repeats or new episodes, the CBS weeknight host (also an executive producer of the series) will be welcoming guests to the stage of New York's Ed Sullivan Theater for at least three more years, since he recently agreed to that long a contract extension. A member of the Writers Guild of America himself, Colbert has expressed his support for the striking members, and he reportedly has continued to pay his staff during the work stoppage that has caused his Peabody Award-winning, frequently Primetime Emmy-nominated program to air repeats since May.

Those episodes are of fairly recent vintage, but former "The Daily Show" regular Colbert has a sizable library to draw from, having filled the "Late Show" job since several months after David Letterman left the desk in 2015 ... after Colbert ended Comedy Central's "The Colbert Report" at the end of 2014. The current hiatus for new "Late Show" installments comes after the coronavirus pandemic prompted production of the program from Colbert's home for five months in 2020, and though fresh hours had resumed, an in-studio audience (fully vaccinated against COVID-19) didn't return until June 2021.

Since topicality has been one of the host's strongest suits and top desires, the choice of "The Late Show With Stephen Colbert" encores lately has been interesting. By necessity, the opening monologues have been several months old, at least — but it's to the credit of Colbert and his creative team that the often politically driven humor has been original enough to remain entertaining, even if it isn't optimally timely. The moment for that will come again, though, and Colbert undoubtedly will be more than ready for it.

Norman Reedus from "Ride With Norman Reedus"

tonight's picks

Billions
(435) 7 p.m.

This time: Prince (Corey Stoll) clashes with his employees; Ira (Ben Shenkman) turns to Chuck (Paul Giamatti) for help with an embarrassing problem; Wendy (Maggie Siff) and Luke (Babak Tafti) forge a connection; Sacker (Dola Rashad) confronts her past.

Van der Valk on Masterpiece
(8) (8) 9 p.m.

Amsterdam may look like a picturesque spot with canals and bicycles, but for Dutch defective Piet Van Der Valk (Marc Warren), it's a murder-infested postcard where he and his team must solve cases before neighbors close down all the windmills and hide.

Ride With Norman Reedus
(54) 9:30 p.m.

Norman joins actor Keanu Reeves for a journey through the mind-blowing landscapes of the Utah desert — from the Bonneville Salt Flats to Canyonlands National Park — and even a motorcycle bash in the canyons of Moab. It's epic.

Women's College Volleyball

(25) 8 p.m.

Going in for the kill takes a whole new meaning when two PAC-12 women's college volleyball powerhouses — Nebraska and Stanford — collide at Maples Pavilion in Stanford, Calif. Though the season is young, Stanford was the pre-season league favorite.

Good Bones

(33) 8 p.m.

Just a little off the top. Mina helps a friend convert a historic Fountain Square home into a salon for her beauty business. They hope to add a coffee shop into the plan, but things could go south when the health department steps in with other ideas.

The Hunt

Welcome to Wrexham

(59) 9 p.m.

This down-on-their-luck story had a terrific run last season, falling just short of a trophy. In this Season 2 premiere, Ryan Reynolds and Rob McElhenney take that almost winning spirit and channel it into what they hope is another blessed run.
