CBS' three 'FBI' shows join forces for a night

CBS' "FBI" teams usually work different cases on Tuesday nights, but a rare crossover event is about to unite the three series.

On April 4, the Dick Wolf-produced crime dramas span continents – and, in two cases, switch time slots - to tell a new story. "FBI: International" leads the night as "FBI's" Jubal and Nina (played by Jeremy Sisto and recurring guest star Shantel VanSanten) head for Italy to join Forrester (Luke Kleintank) and the "FBI: International" team to seek a missing, Rome-based U.S. businessman. The disappearance may be linked to a potential terror plot in New York, where "FBI's" Maggie (Missy Peregrym) is prompted to summon Remy of "FBI: Most Wanted" (Dylan McDermott) for help, counting on his background in dealing with global gangs.

"It actually spans (the production of) four or five episodes over all the different shows, because we can't all be filming (the crossover story) at the same time," Peregrym explains. "We're just like, 'How are we gonna pull this off?' And then we do, and it's like, 'Yay!' We're also having to go international with it here, so it's a lot."

Noting that her own "FBI" series is "fast-paced anyway," Peregrym acknowledges that each of the franchise's shows has its own tone and style ... and she adds with a knowing laugh, "Ours is just chaos. We get a script two days before we start filming it, and we just hit the ground running. And we're all excited when we complete it."

In terms of the characters from the parent "FBI" drama and their involvement in the crossover, Peregrym reports that the shared story is particularly "Scola-heavy," referencing the federal agent played by John Boyd. Regular "FBI" viewers will realize that he has more than a casual link to the "FBI: International" hour, since Nina is pregnant with Scola's child.

Getting to work with regular cast members from the other "FBI" shows is "fun, definitely," Peregrym attests: "We show up and make the best thing we can. Everyone comes with an idea of their character, and we just roll with it. We all have our processes and insert certain things into the script that might not necessarily be written. So, Dylan will do what he would do on his show on our show."

Peregrym is grateful that the crossover comes near the end of the "FBI" season, rather than right after she returned from maternity leave last fall after the birth of her second child. "That would have been very hectic," she confirms. "I still can't believe I came back to work three months after having the baby, but she's doing really well, and we're kind of getting into the next phase of things."

celebrity scoop

Deep into its 26th season, "The View" remains clear for Sara Haines. One of the six co-hosts of the weekday ABC program, Haines also has been hosting the network's game show "The Chase" in recent years ... but her main professional duty remains joining Whoopi Goldberg,

... but her main professional duty remains joining Whoopi Goldberg, Joy Behar, Sunny Hostin, Ana Navarro and Alyssa Farah Griffin at the Monday-through-Friday table for often freewheeling discussions of the given day's "Hot Topics" and interviews with a wide variety of guests.

The ever-pleasant Haines says she often thinks of Meredith Vieira, one of the original panelists on "The View," when she contributes comments during the program. "My fandom of the show began with her as the moderator," reflects Haines. "That's how I assess the show, but that's also my strength personally and with my family, to throw ideas back out to people. It feels very natural."

Even as attention to "The View" has intensified, Haines maintains that her approach had stayed the same in gauging how viewers react to the show and the comments made by its regulars. The remarks can get political or personal, and sometimes heated, but Haines deems it to be all in a day's work.

"I think I've taken it as I always have," she reasons. "I've found it wasn't helpful to hear what people pick up from the show sometimes, some of the things that are said. With some of the headlines (on social media), they'll jump on something and run with it in a way that's so far from what actually happened, I question everything I read now. I don't pay much attention to it, since I'm like, 'I know what's going on.'"

Birthdate: Sept. 18, 1977 Birthplace: Newton, Iowa Current residence: New Jersey

Marital status: Married; has three children

Other television credits include: "The Chase," "Good Morning America," "Today"

On the addition of Alyssa Farah Griffin as a regular on the panel of "The View" this season:

"She's great. I was a fan of hers early on, and I know from firsthand experience that the more you do this, the more you can be yourself. I think she's been doing an amazing job, and she'll only get better and stronger as she continues to settle in." Page 4C - April 2 to April 8 battles for their lives in the ulti-

Not dying makes you a winner in our book. This new series is set along the wild Alaskan coastline, where teams of adventure racers and survival experts must endure more than 100 miles of inhospitable terrain with nothing but what they can carry in hopes of winning a $500,000 prize. They navigate the mostly uncharted wilderness with massive mountain ranges, ancient glaciers, dangerous wildlife and suffocating rainforests.

Born James Dewitt Yancey (but best known as J Dilla), the Detroit native became a visionary music producer, rapper, and artist who left an undeniable mark on the hip-hop landscape, working with artists like Erykah Badu, Busta Rhymes, A Tribe Called Quest, and D'Angelo. Though his influence has been celebrated far more since his death than it was while he was alive, mainstream recognition remains elusive.

Houses With History Somebody really liked pots. The Season 2 premiere episode features the restoration and renovation of a cool 1800's home that was originally a potting shed on the Henry Huttleston Rogers estate. The home has an interesting history, as its original oil tycoon owner who was a close associate of John D. Rockefeller, a benefactor of Helen Keller, and a friend of Mark Twain. The new owners love the home's character, but need modern functionality and design incorporated into
