House votes to launch impeachment probe of AG

BY STEPHEN GROVES
ASSOCIATED PRESS

PIERRE (AP) — South Dakota's House launched an investigation Tuesday into whether the state's attorney general should be impeached for his conduct surrounding a car crash last year that killed a pedestrian.

A sizable majority of the Republican-dominated House voted to have a committee prepare a report and recommend whether Attorney General Jason Ravnsborg should be impeached. The vote on Resolution 7001 was 58-10, with two excused.

It could take weeks for the committee of seven Republicans and two Democrats to delve into the crash investigation. The committee is a mix of Ravnsborg's political allies and those who have called for his ouster.

Ravnsborg, a Republican who was elected to his first term as attorney general in 2018, pleaded no contest in August to a pair of misdemeanors in the crash that killed 55-year-old Joseph Boever, who was walking along a rural stretch of highway when Ravnsborg struck him with his car. Ravnsborg has insisted that he did not realize he killed a man until he returned to the scene the next day and discovered his body.

House lawmakers said they first wanted to know whether Ravnsborg could be impeached for his misdemeanor convictions, the fact that he killed a man, or that law enforcement associations have said they no longer have confidence in his office.

The state constitution stipulates that officials like the attorney general can be impeached for "corrupt conduct, malfeasance or misdemeanor in office." But a state official has never been impeached in South Dakota.

"Our first meeting is literally to sit down, go through the constitution, go through case law, to get an idea," said House Speaker Spencer Gosch, a Republican.

Gov. Kristi Noem, who has called for Ravnsborg to resign, has delivered a hard drive containing the crash investigation to Gosch, but he said the committee would subpoena the crash investigation from the Department of Public Safety "just to ensure accuracy."

Ravnsborg's office did not immediately respond to a request for comment on the House's move.

County approves variance requests as part of brief agenda

HURON — The Beadle County Commission approved two variance requests, set a bid date for a bridge demolition project and heard a request regarding insurance at its regular meeting Tuesday morning.

County Highway Superintendent Merl Hanson informed the commission that his department has nearly wrapped up an inventory of county and township roads, as requested by the state DOT for consideration in grant funding.

Hanson requested that the Commission approve a bid letting of December 8, for the Carlyle Bridge Removal project, and informed the commissioners that recent surplus heavy equipment sales had brought $110,260, after fees and sales commission. County Auditor Jill Hanson noted that the money will be placed in the highway equipment fund.

Superintendent Hanson also updated the commissioners on the progress of the new county highway building. Work is taking place on inside walls, he said, and the office floor will be poured, so that a prefabricated roof can be installed before the rest of the building is constructed. The roof needs to be put on first, so that a heating unit can be placed upon it.

The rest of the building pieces are expected to depart the factory on Nov. 26, and construction will begin as soon as the building parts have arrived, and are unloaded. Hanson said he expects the process to go very quickly when it begins. Payment

Pathologist: Rittenhouse shot first man at close range

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP) — The first man killed by Kyle Rittenhouse on the streets of Kenosha was shot at a range of just a few feet and had soot injuries that could indicate he had his hand over the barrel of Rittenhouse's rifle, a pathologist testified Tuesday.

But it was unclear from video footage whether Joseph Rosenbaum was grabbing for Rittenhouse's gun or trying to swat it away, said the witness, Dr. Doug Kelley, with the Milwaukee County medical examiner's office.

Kelley was one of the final witnesses for the state before prosecutors rested their murder case after 5 1/2 days of testimony that were aimed at portraying Rittenhouse as the aggressor but often bolstered the young man's claim of self-defense. His lawyers have suggested he was afraid his gun would be taken away and used against him.

The defense then began presenting its side, calling as its first witnesses people who were on the streets with Rittenhouse that night and described him as pale, shaking, sweating and stammering after the shootings.

"He repeats, 'I just shot someone' over and over, and I believe at some point he said he had to shoot someone," testified Nicholas Smith, who said he had gone

House Jan. 6 panel subpoenas 10 former White House aides

BY MARY CLARE JALONICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators have issued subpoenas to 10 more former officials who worked for Donald Trump at the end of his presidency, an effort to find out more about what the president was doing and saying as his supporters violently stormed the U.S. Capitol on Jan. 6 in a bid to overturn his defeat.

The subpoenas, including demands for documents and testimony from senior adviser Stephen Miller and Press Secretary Kayleigh McEnany, bring the House panel tasked with investigating the insurrection even closer inside Trump's inner circle — and to Trump himself.

They come a day after the committee subpoenaed six other associates of the former president who spread mistruths about widespread fraud in the election and strategized about how to thwart President Joe Biden's victory.

"The Select Committee wants to learn every detail of what went on in the White House on January 6th and in the days beforehand," said Mississippi Rep. Bennie Thompson, the Democratic chairman of the panel. "We need to know precisely what role the former president and his aides played in efforts to stop the counting of the electoral votes and if they were in touch with anyone outside the White House attempting to overturn the outcome of the election."

It is so far unclear if the panel will subpoena Trump, though the committee's leaders have said they haven't ruled anything out. The panel subpoenaed several other former Trump advisers last month, including former White House Chief of Staff Mark Meadows and longtime ally Steve Bannon. The House voted to hold Bannon in contempt after he said he would not comply.

The panel has said it wants to not only investigate the attack itself but its origins, namely the lies that Trump spread about massive voter fraud even though all 50 states had certified the election and courts across the country rejected his claims.

The committee said Tuesday that it had issued subpoenas for Miller, who the panel said "participated in efforts to spread false information about alleged voter fraud" and McEnany, who lawmakers said was present at times with Trump as he watched the insurrection and spoke at a rally that morning.

The panel is also demanding documents and testimony from Keith Kellogg, former Vice President Mike Pence's national security adviser, writing in the subpoena that it wants to hear from him because "you were with President Trump as the January 6 attack on the U.S. Capitol unfolded and have direct information about the former president's statements about, and reactions to, the Capitol insurrection." It also says that according to several accounts, Kellogg urged Trump to send out a tweet aimed at helping to control the crowd.

Other former Trump aides subpoenaed include personal assistant Nicholas Luna, special assistant Molly Michael, deputy assistant Ben Williamson, deputy chief of staff

Family sues after loved one's corpse falls out of casket

(AP) A Massachusetts family whose loved one's casket fell open as it was being lowered into a grave, causing the body to fall out, has sued the funeral home and the cemetery.

The family of Andrew Serrano, a resident of Lawrence who died in March 2019, alleged negligence and reckless infliction of emotional distress in the suit filed last Wednesday in Essex Superior Court, The Eagle-Tribune reported.

During the funeral handled by the Perez Funeral Home at city-owned Bellevue Cemetry in Lawrence on April 5, 2019, "one of the side straps on the city-owned casket lowering device broke, causing Mr. Serrano's casket to fall into the grave and break apart," according to the suit.

The "corpse fell out of the casket" in full view of "horrified family members who became visibly distraught and hysterical," the suit said.

The suit seeks $50,000 in damages.

Messages seeking comment were left Tuesday with the funeral home and the city.

'Tiger King' star Carole Baskin sues Netflix over sequel

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The founder of a Florida big cat sanctuary featured in the popular "Tiger King" series is suing Netflix and a production company to prevent the use of interviews and footage involving her in an upcoming sequel.

Netflix counters that nonprofit Big Cat Rescue founder Carole Baskin and her husband agreed in writing that the material could be used in the future and that she is trying to block the company's First Amendment right to free speech.

The lawsuit, pending in Tampa federal court, is the latest twist in the saga involving Baskin and Joe Exotic — real name Joseph Maldonado-Passage — who were at the center of the documentary series "Tiger King: Murder, Mayhem and Madness."

The sequel is set to air beginning Nov. 17, Netflix said in a court filing Monday.

The first series was immensely popular, airing in March 2020 just as coronavirus pandemic restrictions forced people to stay home. It drew some 64 million household viewers in its first month and was nominated for six prime-time Emmy awards, according to the company.

Much of the series has focused on a dispute between Baskin and Maldonado-Passage over treatment of tigers, lions and other big cats at an Oklahoma zoo he formerly operated. Maldonado-Passage is imprisoned after he was convicted of attempting to hire someone to kill Baskin, a tale told in the initial series.

In her lawsuit, Baskin contends that Royal Goode Productions Inc., which produced "Tiger King" for Netflix, led her and husband Howard Baskin to believe their footage would only be used in a single documentary. Baskin also objects to her portrayal in the first series, especially the insinuation she had something to do with the mysterious 1997 disappearance of her previous husband, Don Lewis, who was declared dead in 2002 but whose remains have never been found.

Probe finds Trump officials repeatedly violated Hatch Act

BY JILL COLVIN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK (AP) — At least 13 former Trump administration officials violated the law by intermingling campaigning with their official government duties, according to a new federal investigation released Tuesday.

The report from the Office of Special Counsel says the officials broke the law without consequence and with the administration’s approval as part of a “willfull disregard for the Hatch Act,” which prohibits government officials from using their official roles to influence elections, including supporting candidates while acting in their official capacities.

“The cumulative effect of these repeated and public violations was to undermine public confidence in the nonpartisan operation of government,” they wrote, adding that, “such flagrant and unpunished violations erode the principal foundation of our democratic system—the rule of law.”

The office investigated officials’ comments in the lead-up to the 2020 presidential election, including the Republican National Convention, which was held at the White House in a major break from historical norms.

While the Office of Special Counsel concluded that hosting the event at the White House did not itself violate the Hatch Act, it found plenty of other instances where Trump officials did, mostly by promoting the former president’s reelection in media interviews in which they appeared in their official capacity.

Among the officials cited are former White House Chief of Staff Mark Meadows, Jared Kushner, who served as senior adviser to the president, former White House press secretary Kayleigh McEnany, Kellyanne Conway, then counselor to the president, Stephen Miller, who served as Trump’s senior policy adviser, and Robert O’Brien, the former national security adviser. Conway had been repeatedly cited by the office, which at one point went so far as to call for her removal.

“In each case, the subject official was identified by their official title, discussed administration policies and priorities related to their official duties, and/or spoke from the White House grounds,” the report reads.

The investigation also found that then-Secretary of State Michael Pompeo changed State

Jury awards $42 million to woman injured at work

RAPID CITY (AP) — A Pennington County jury has awarded $42 million to a Rapid City woman after she was denied medical benefits from her previous employer and the employer’s insurance company.

United Parcel Service and Liberty Mutual were ordered to pay Fern Johnson $41 million in punitive damages and $1 million in compensatory damages in a verdict reached Friday.

Johnson took a worker’s compensation claim to court following an injury on the job while working for UPS in 1996. A laparoscopy determined Johnson had a hernia and she underwent surgery. She stopped working for UPS in 1997 due to groin and back pain.

Johnson’s compensable medical expenses were paid for by the employer up until spring of 2010, at which point the appellants requested their attorney to review the case.

UPS hired a neurologist to conduct an independent medical exam. Dr. Bruce Norback said that Johnson’s employment at UPS was no longer a major contributing cause of her need for medical treatment related to her pain because she had not worked for UPS for 13 years, but still experienced worsening symptoms.

A verdict awarding $45 million to Johnson was then reversed by the South Dakota Supreme Court and remanded back to circuit court for retrial, resulting in the second jury award.

One of Johnson’s attorneys, G. Verne Goodsell, said “the consistency of the two verdicts confirms that our community will not tolerate bad and reckless behavior by insurance companies who harm our citizens, particularly when the companies pocket the money for medical care that belongs to the injured worker.”

allowed in ordinance. The Piersons told the commission that the Town of Yale didn’t have an issue with the placement of the home, which will take place next year.

The commission approved travel requests for several employees and some commissioners to attend the Sioux Valley District Conference in Brookings.

Finally, Shon Ford from AFLAC insurance, requested permission from the commission to have individual meetings with county employees, regarding different insurance products available to them.

TRIAL:

to the protests that shook Kenosha that night at the request of the owners of a car dealership to protect the business.

“My god, my life might be over,” another witness, JoAnn Fiedler, quoted Rittenhouse as saying. She said he didn’t give any details about what happened but told her he “had to do it.”

Rittenhouse killed two men and wounded a third during a night of turbulent demonstrations against racial injustice in Kenosha in the summer of 2020.

The former police youth cadet from Antioch, Illinois, was 17 when he went to Kenosha with an AR-style semi-automatic rifle and a medical kit in what he said was an effort to safeguard property from the damaging protests that broke out over the shooting of Jacob Blake, a Black man, by a white Kenosha police officer.

Rittenhouse, now 18, could get life in prison if convicted of the most serious charge against him.

While Rittenhouse is white, as were those he shot, the case has stirred racially charged debate over vigilantism, the right to bear arms, and the unrest that erupted around the U.S. that summer over the killing of George Floyd and other police violence against Black people.

On Tuesday, the jury watched drone video that was zoomed-in and slowed down to show Rosenbaum following Rittenhouse, and then Rittenhouse wheeling around and shooting Rosenbaum at close range.

Kelley, the pathologist, said Rosenbaum was shot four times by someone who was within 4 feet of him. He testified that Rosenbaum was first wounded in the groin and then in the hand and thigh as he faced Rittenhouse, and then was shot in the head and in the back.

Those final two shots were at a downward angle, the pathologist said. Prosecutors have said this indicates Rosenbaum was falling forward, while defense attorney Mark Richards said Rosenbaum was lunging.

Kelley said both scenarios were possible.

Kelley also said Rosenbaum’s hand was “in close proximity or in contact with the end of that rifle.”

Richards pointed out small injuries from soot on Rosenbaum’s hand and said: “So that hand was over the barrel of Mr. Rittenhouse’s gun when his hand was shot.”

“That makes sense,” Kelley said.

The drone footage was the clearest video yet of the shooting that set in motion the bloodshed that followed moments later: Rittenhouse killed Anthony Huber, a 26-year-old protester seen on video hitting Rittenhouse with a skateboard. Rittenhouse then wounded Gaige Grosskreutz, a 27-year-old protester and volunteer medic who came at Rittenhouse with a gun of his own.

Kenosha Detective Ben Antaramian testified that at some point in their investigation, authorities learned someone had recorded drone video. The video had been played on Fox News.

Prosecutors said they received a low-resolution copy earlier in their investigation but weren’t given a high-definition one until Friday, Day 5 of the trial.

Fiedler, the defense witness, was with Rittenhouse outside the car dealership just before the first shooting, and said they were being shouted at and taunted by protesters, including Rosenbaum. But Fiedler, who said she carried a pistol, testified she never saw Rittenhouse threaten or point his gun at anyone.

“The whole night was quite shocking, but we didn’t really do anything,” Fiedler said of the yelling directed at those guarding the store. “We just kind of stood there. You have to ignore that.”

Fiedler said she later opened the door of the dealership for Rittenhouse after the shootings, and he appeared to be “totally in shock” and fell into her, telling her he had shot someone.

“He was pale, shaking, kind of stammering, slurring his words. He was sweating,” she said.

Last week, witnesses testified that Rosenbaum, 36, was “hyper-aggressive” and “acting belligerently” that night and threatened to kill Rittenhouse at one point. One witness said Rosenbaum was gunned down after chasing Rittenhouse and lunging for the young man’s rifle.

On Monday, Grosskreutz testified that he pointed his own Glock pistol at Rittenhouse just before he was shot in the arm.

Wisconsin’s self-defense law allows someone to use deadly force only if “necessary to prevent imminent death or great bodily harm.” The jury must decide whether Rittenhouse believed he was in such peril and whether that belief was reasonable under the circumstances.

On Tuesday, Rittenhouse turned his head and averted his eyes from a defense-table monitor as prosecutors displayed medical examiner photographs of Huber’s body laid out on a gurney, a gunshot wound to his chest clearly visible. Rittenhouse breathed deeply as autopsy photos of Rosenbaum showing his injuries were displayed for the jury.

A few jurors also seemed to find it difficult to look for long at the images, one glancing up at a monitor over her shoulder, then looking straight ahead.

To The Editor:

As we gather to honor our nations Veterans; on November 11, I believe it’s important to discuss respect.

Our Nation’s flag is 50 white stars on a background of blue. It has 13 white and red stripes. There is no other.

Respecting the First Amendment protection of other expressions I can say that Veterans feel it disrespects our sacrifices and service to country.

I hope that as we honor our servicemen, the wounded, both physically and mentally, and the dead, that we would pull down the false flags and pledge allegiance to the one true American Flag.

A Veterans Day salute from two aging vets

BY OLIVER L. NORTH AND DAVID L. GOETSCH

First, a little history. World War I (“The Great War”), which claimed the lives of nearly 40 million human beings (including nearly 117,000 Americans killed and more than 300,000 sick and wounded), ended with a mutually accepted cease-fire on the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month of 1918.

One year later, Nov. 11, 1919, U.S. President Woodrow Wilson declared the date to be “Armistice Day.” Many of our allies in “The War to End All Wars” called it “Remembrance Day.”

In 1926, Congress resolved to make every “Armistice Day” an occasion of “national observance.” In 1938, Congress passed a bill to make Nov. 11, “Armistice Day,” an official holiday. And finally, in 1954, Congress and President Dwight Eisenhower designated Nov. 11 as “Veterans Day,” an official federal holiday honoring all 18.5 million American veterans.

On this Veterans Day, we encourage all Americans to remember Nov. 11 as more than a day off work. No matter how you spend this holiday, we hope you will set aside some time to honor those who took the oath to “... support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic ...”

Since 1775, more than 1.3 million of our fellow vets have been killed in combat, and nearly 2.9 million others were wounded while serving our nation.

Those who donned our country’s uniform deserve our gratitude for their selfless willingness to go in harm’s way to protect us all. They, and the families of all who made the ultimate sacrifice, should know we grieve for their loss, pray for their comfort and salute them on behalf of all our countrymen.

This year, as we honor our veterans, we should remember our most recent losses: the 13 fallen heroes killed during the tragically flawed evacuation from Afghanistan. Here are their names. We urge you to clip this column and tape it to your refrigerator. Allow this to serve as an aide-memoire to thank our Lord for them — and pray for their loved ones left behind:

David Espinoza, Lance Corporal, U.S. Marine Corps

Nicole Gee, Sergeant, U.S. Marine Corps

Darin Taylor Hoover, Staff Sergeant, U.S. Marine Corps

Hunter Lopez, Corporal, U.S. Marine Corps

Rylee McCollum, Lance Corporal, U.S. Marine Corps

Dylan R. Merola, Lance Corporal, U.S. Marine Corps

Kareem Nikoui, Lance Corporal, U.S. Marine Corps

Daegan William-Tyler Page, Corporal, U.S. Marine Corps

Johanny Rosario, Sergeant, U.S. Marine Corps

Humberto Sanchez, Corporal, U.S. Marine Corps

Jared Schmitz, Lance Corporal, U.S. Marine Corps

Max Soviak, Hospital Corpsman, U.S. Navy

Ryan Knauss, Staff Sergeant, U.S. Army.

We honor these heroes and the 18 others who were wounded by the same suicide bomber.

What happened to them in the closing days of our nation’s longest war should never have occurred.

Included in our prayers are the nearly 3.4 million young Americans — the brightest, best and bravest of their generation — who have volunteered to serve as Soldiers, Sailors, Airmen, Guardsmen and Marines since 9/11.

On this Veterans Day, every single member of our armed forces is a volunteer. Thanks to their willingness to serve, there have been no further terror attacks against our homeland, and no adversary has dared to attack us since that dreadful day two decades ago.

To paraphrase Matthew 25:21 and 2 Timothy 4:7: Well done our good and faithful warriors. You fought the good fight, you finished the race, you kept the faith. We thank God our country still has courageous young heroes who, when duty calls, are willing to step forward and say, “send me.”

Running out of...

A bunch of us were visiting at a community picnic years ago.

As we did, Jason, a young man in our community, seemed quite melancholy. “What’s the matter?” someone asked.

“Dad is a bit miffed at me,” Jason replied.

I knew Jason well, and I figured if his dad was only a bit miffed, then it couldn’t be as bad as some things he had done in the past.

“What’s he miffed about?” I asked.

He then shared the story. He said that his dad had gotten a new tractor, so he invited his friends over to see it.

“Wow!” one boy said.

“Yeah,” Jason told them. “It’s got two hundred and fifty horsepower. This baby will pull about anything.”

“What are the wide wheels for?” another boy asked.

“It’s the latest thing on new tractors,” Jason replied. “Those are to help it not get stuck. They spread out across more ground, so the tractor won’t sink as easily in a muddy field. This tractor just floats on top.”

“I’d love to see that,” the boy said. “Do you think it would be okay if we took it for a spin?”

Jason knew he should probably ask, but he was sure the answer would be no if he did. The other boys all looked so hopeful that he just couldn’t disappoint them.

“I’m sure dad wouldn’t mind if we took it for a little drive,” Jason replied.

The boys all stuffed into the cab. Jason started the engine, shifted it into gear, and eased up on the clutch. They started out slow, but it was so fun driving such a powerful machine that it wasn’t long before he pulled the throttle wide open.

They bounced across the field, through small ditches, and out into the pasture.

In the pasture was a muddy bog. When they came near it, one boy said, “Let’s see this baby float across that.”

Jason thought for one brief moment that it wasn’t a good idea. But all the boys were cheering him on.

His single sensible thought quickly left him, as it often does with young men influenced by peer pressure. He gunned the tractor forward and headed straight for the bog. He thought with enough momentum, he would surely make it through.

But the farther they went, the more the wheels spun, and the momentum decreased. Finally, right about the middle of the bog, the tractor stalled with mud up to its axle.

Jason knew his dad would ground him for the rest of his life. When he expressed that sentiment, the others agreed and thought they might not fare too well, either.

“Let’s go get your older tractor and pull it out before he can find out,” one boy said.

That sounded like a good idea, so they walked the half mile back to the equipment yard where the old tractor was.

They got a chain out of the shop, tossed it on the tractor, and all climbed aboard. When they got to the bog, Jason backed up to the mud. The chain wouldn’t quite reach, so he kept backing up. Finally, they were able to connect it.

Jason got on the new tractor, and one of the other boys drove the old one. But the old tractor didn’t move at all. Its wheels just spun down until the mud was up to its axle.

One of the other boys volunteered his dad’s tractor, and the result was the same. Another boy brought his dad’s tractor, and it, too, got stuck. No one had any more ideas, and they didn’t have any more chains.

It was about then that Jason’s dad showed up. He looked dumbfounded at the line of tractors chained together.

“Uh, Dad,” Jason meekly said, “we’re out of chains.”

“Chains, nothin’!” his dad said. “It looks like the entire community is out of tractors!”

“And that,” Jason told us, “was why my dad was miffed.”

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, Nov. 10, the 314th day of 2021. There are 51 days left in the year.

Today’s Highlight in History:

On Nov. 10, 1951, customer-dialed long-distance telephone service began as Mayor M. Leslie Denning of Englewood, New Jersey, called Alameda, California, Mayor Frank Osborne without operator assistance.

On this date:

In 1775, the U.S. Marines were organized under authority of the Continental Congress.

In 1871, journalist-explorer Henry M. Stanley found Scottish missionary David Livingstone, who had not been heard from for years, near Lake Tanganyika in central Africa.

In 1919, the American Legion opened its first national convention in Minneapolis.

In 1928, Hirohito was enthroned as Emperor of Japan.

In 1944, during World War II, the ammunition ship USS Mount Hood exploded while moored at the Manus Naval Base in the Admiralty Islands in the South Pacific, leaving 45 confirmed dead and 327 missing and presumed dead.

In 1969, the children’s educational program “Sesame Street” made its debut on National Educational Television - later PBS.

In 1975, the U.N. General Assembly approved a resolution equating Zionism with racism. The world body repealed the resolution in Dec. 1991.

In 1982, the newly finished Vietnam Veterans Memorial was opened to its first visitors in Washington, D.C., three days before its dedication.

In 2017, facing allegations of sexual misconduct, comedian Louis C.K. said the harassment claims by five women that were detailed in a New York Times report “are true,” and he expressed remorse for using his influence “irresponsibly.”

In 2018, President Donald Trump, in France to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the end of World War I, canceled a visit to a cemetery east of Paris where Americans killed in that war are buried; rainy weather had grounded the presidential helicopter.

Ten years ago: The National Archives released a transcript of former President Richard Nixon’s June 1975 grand jury testimony after a judge ordered the government to do so; in it, a feisty and cagey Nixon defended his legacy and Watergate-era actions.

Five years ago: President-elect Donald Trump took a triumphant tour of the nation’s capital, where he held a cordial White House meeting with President Barack Obama, sketched out priorities with Republican congressional leaders and took in the majestic view from where he would be sworn in to office.

One year ago: A Vatican investigation found that bishops, cardinals and popes downplayed or dismissed reports of sexual misconduct by former Cardinal Theodore McCarrick; much of the blame went to Pope John Paul II, who appointed McCarrick archbishop of Washington, D.C. in 2000 despite an investigation that confirmed he had slept with seminarians.

Today’s Birthdays: Blues singer Bobby Rush is 87. Actor Albert Hall is 84. Country singer Donna Fargo is 80. Former Sen. Saxby Chambliss, R-Ga., is 78. Lyricist Tim Rice is 77. TAPS (Tiger Afterschool Program)

Playing board games requires all participants to follow a set of rules and race toward a desired outcome. Some games are cooperative where everyone works together, but most games are of a competitive nature. Regardless of the games design there are a number of life lessons that can be learned, and taught, while playing. Third grade TAP at the Madison 2-3 Center is using these life lessons to teach younger generations the importance of character, perseverance, teamwork, and more. Great things happen after school.

Madison 2-3 Center

Washington 4-5 Center

What wonderful mentors students at the Washington 4-5 Center have, with the Student United Way-Huron Youth Leadership Council students. They spend time every week with the Washington TAP students playing games, creating playdough monsters and just being fantastic role models.

Pfizer asks FDA to OK COVID-19 booster shots for all adults

BY LAURAN NEERGAARD
AP MEDICAL WRITER

Pfizer asked U.S. regulators Tuesday to allow boosters of its COVID-19 vaccine for anyone 18 or older, a step that comes amid concern about increased spread of the coronavirus with holiday travel and gatherings.

Older Americans and other groups particularly vulnerable to the virus have had access to a third dose of the Pfizer and BioNTech vaccine since September.

But the Food and Drug Administration has said it would move quickly to expand boosters to younger ages if warranted.

Pfizer is submitting early results of a booster study in 10,000 people to make its case that it's time to further expand the booster campaign.

While all three vaccines used in the U.S. continue to offer strong protection against severe COVID-19 illness and death, the shots' effectiveness against milder infection can wane over time.

Pfizer's new study concluded a booster could restore protection against symptomatic infection to nearly 96%, even as the extra-contagious delta variant was surging.

Side effects were similar to those seen with the company's first two shots.

A median of 11 months after their last Pfizer vaccination, trial participants were given either a third dose or a dummy shot. Researchers tracked any infections that occurred at least a week later, and so far have counted five cases of symptomatic COVID-19 among booster recipients compared to 109 cases among people who got dummy shots.

The Biden administration had originally envisioned boosters for all adults, but faced a stinging setback in September when the FDA's scientific advisers rejected extra Pfizer doses for everyone.

Still, under today's policies about 2 of every 3 vaccinated adults is expected to qualify within the next few months -- and many who don't nonetheless can score an extra shot because most vaccine providers don't check qualifications.

The current rules: People who initially received Pfizer or Moderna vaccinations are eligible for a booster six months later if they're 65 or older, or are at high risk of COVID-19 because of underlying health problems or their job or living conditions.

Because the single-dose Johnson & Johnson vaccine hasn't proven as effective as its two-dose competitors, any J&J recipient can get a booster at least two months later.

And regardless of the initial vaccination, the U.S. has cleared getting a booster of a different company's vaccine, what's called mixing and matching.

If the FDA authorizes Pfizer boosters for all adults, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention then will make recommendations for how to use them.

Globally, boosters also are a hodge-podge. Some countries restrict them to older or medically fragile people while others have few restrictions.

Israel, for example, has authorized Pfizer boosters for anyone 12 and older.

On Sunday, Nov. 21, the Center for Independence Foundation will host its annual benefit dinner and open house. The benefit dinner runs from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at 550 Arizona N.W., in the Industrial Park.

This year the open house will be a drive thru benefit, and a freewill donation will be accepted for the dinner. Please enter the parking lot on the north side and drive around the building to the large garage doors on the south side.

The benefit dinner serves not only as an opportunity to enjoy a delicious roast beef dinner, but also as an opportunity to meet some of the people supported and staff from the agency. Everyone is welcome to attend this event.

Proceeds from the dinner go to the Center for Independence Foundation, to be used to fund grants that create opportunities for people to become active members of their community. In recent years, the Foundation has funded grants designed to create and foster relationships by bringing community members together with those served by CI.

Every year, CI teams up with the Huron Middle School for an in school activity called Lead for Life. This event helps students become familiar with different types of disabilities and disability related issues. Other grant funds have been used to help fund items in the community such as electronic door openers at the Nordby Exhibit Hall at the State Fair Grounds.

CI would love to have you attend this drive thru benefit dinner on Sunday, Nov. 21, and learn more about the people they support. Check out their virtual open house video showcasing different areas at www.cfindependence.com.

Please consider donating to the Foundation by mailing your donation to CI Foundation 258 3rd St SW, Huron, S.D. 57350.

You may also bid on home made crafts on Montgomeryagency. hibid.com. The auction will start on Nov. 8 and will run until Nov. 21. Have fun bidding, and we hope to see everyone again next year!

Holidays are a prime time to wield the written word

DEAR ABBY: You often respond to grandparents who are disappointed that their grandchildren have not written a note to express gratitude for a recent present. Personally, I think one of the main reasons they don't is the simple fact that they lack thank-you cards and stamps. (Their parents may not be writing thank-you notes anymore.) When I'm at the post office, I rarely see 20-year-olds buying stamps.

I would like to offer a suggestion for my peers: If you want your grandchildren to send you a thank-you card, make it simple for them — include a small box of cards and some postage stamps when you send their present. They'll get the message. And Abby, they could add a copy of your letter writing booklet if it's still available. — THANKFUL IN TEXAS

DEAR THANKFUL: Your suggestion is a clever one, and yes, my booklet, "How To Write Letters for All Occasions" is still available. People of every age tend to procrastinate when it comes to letter writing because they're unsure how to express their feelings on paper and afraid they will say the wrong thing.

Thank-you notes do not have to be long or flowery. In fact, the opposite is true. Short and to the point is more effective. I advise readers to have a notebook handy when they open their gifts and jot down the first words that come to mind when they see what's inside. Do they like the color? The style? Is it something they have been wanting? Write it down and use it for inspiration.

My booklet, "How to write Letters for All Occasions" contains samples of thank-you letters for birthday gifts, shower gifts, wedding gifts and those that arrive around holiday time. It also includes sample letters of congratulations, as well as ones on difficult subjects, such as the loss of a parent, spouse or a child. It can be ordered by sending your name and address, plus a check or money order for $8 (U.S. funds) to: Dear Abby Letters Book-

With the holidays just around the corner, this is the perfect time to reply with a handwritten note or letter, or a well-written email. For anyone who has wondered where to begin when expressing gratitude, congratulations, condolences, composing a love letter or announcing a broken engagement or a divorce — "How To Write Letters" is a handy guide.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 25-year-old man who has never had a girlfriend. Recently, a woman I work with seems to be showing an interest in me. She's the same age as I am. I might feel the same way about her, but she mentioned that she's going through a divorce. Is it worth asking for her number to see where things go? — HOPING IN THE HEARTLAND

DEAR HOPING: Proceed with caution. You can ask for her number, but take things very slowly. She may need a friend right now more than a romance. Also, much depends upon the fraternization policies in your workplace. Sometimes these relationships are frowned upon, which could cost one or both of you your jobs.

STAR TRACKING

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You might find that you're no longer as invested in a friendship or a community as you once were.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) It might be time to walk away from a job or relationship that's become unhealthy for you. Focus on your well-being.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You're feeling discouraged when it comes to executing a plan. Try not to think too far ahead right now. Start small.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A romantic relationship might hit the brakes today. Take time to get clear on whether this connection is right for you.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22) Dealing with others will be tough today, especially as you're feeling crankier or more stressed than usual. Spend some time alone.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) Trying to get anything done might prove to be impossible thanks to delays, uncooperative co-workers or too many pans in the fire. Step back and take a break.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A difficult financial matter might rain on your parade today. You can turn things around, but it's going to take some time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A family or roommate situation could pile more responsibility on your plate.

You're resilient enough to handle it, but you shouldn't do it alone. Your vulnerability is a strength.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Your stress levels might be through the roof today. It could be time to minimize your list of things to do or to pay more attention to your mental well-being.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) Money could be tight now, throwing a monkey wrench in your plans for the future. The situation is temporary, but focus on just the essentials for now.

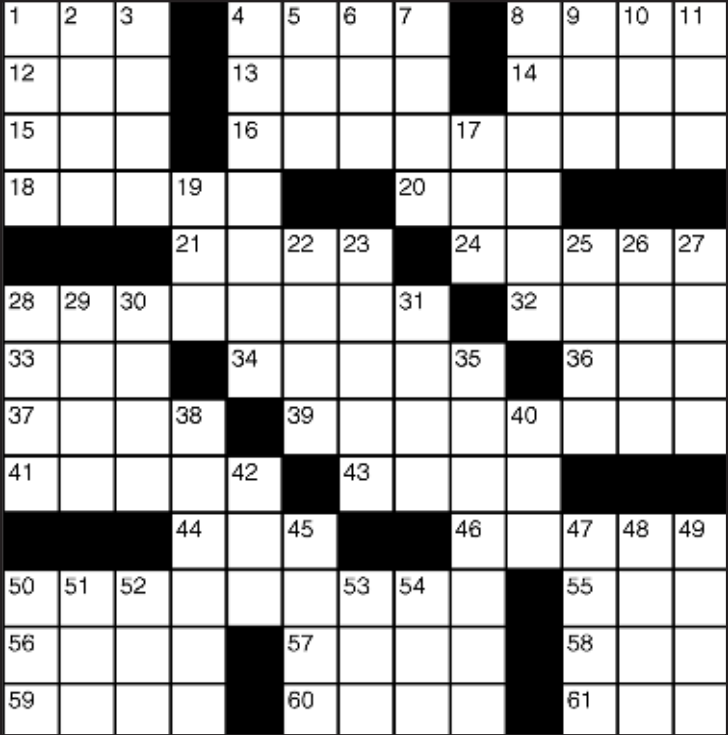

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18) Your supervisor, a parent or your responsibilities could be putting extra pressure on you. Don't be afraid to ask for help or enforce your boundaries.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to March 20) You might be faced with a reality check today, as you discover just how much work or effort a plan requires.

FOR TODAY'S BIRTHDAY You're headstrong and march to the beat of your own drum. You have a rebellious spirit and don't hesitate to question the rules, especially if the rules are unfair or too restrictive. You have strong convictions and will fight for what you believe in. You don't give up on things easily when presented with a challenge.

Belarus TV: American facing Jan. 6 riot charges seeks asylum

BY YURAS KARMANAU
ASSOCIATED PRESS

KYIV, Ukraine (AP) — An American who faces criminal charges from the Jan. 6 riot at the U.S. Capitol is seeking asylum in Belarus, the country's state TV reported, in a move that could further heighten tensions between the turbulent former Soviet nation and the United States.

Evan Neumann of Mill Valley, California, acknowledged in an interview with the Belarus 1 channel that he was at the Capitol that day but rejected the charges, which include assaulting police, obstruction and other offenses. The channel aired excerpts of the interview on Sunday and Monday, and promised to release the full version on Wednesday.

"I don't think I have committed some kind of a crime," said Neumann, 48, according to a Belarus 1 voiceover of his interview remarks. "One of the charges was very offensive; it alleges that I hit a police officer. It doesn't have any grounds to it." Neumann spoke in English but was barely audible under the dubbed Russian.

Both Belarus President Alexander Lukashenko and Russian President Vladimir Putin have used the Jan. 6 riot as a way to accuse the U.S. of a double standard in criticizing other countries, including Russia and Belarus, for cracking down on antigovernment protests

Belarus was rocked by months of protests after election officials gave Lukashenko a sixth term in the 2020 balloting that the opposition and the West have denounced as a sham. The government unleashed a violent crackdown on the protesters, arresting more than 35,000 people and badly beating thousands of them. The crackdown elicited widespread international outrage.

Putin likewise has come under criticism from the West over the imprisonment of opposition leader Alexei Navalny, the detention of thousands of demonstrators protesting his arrest, and the outlawing of Navalny's organizations as extremist. In an interview with NBC in June, Putin suggested that the hundreds of people arrested for rioting at the U.S. Capitol were being subjected to "persecution for political opinions."

U.S. court documents state that Neumann stood at the front of a police barricade wearing a red "Make America Great Again" hat as supporters of President Donald Trump tried to force past officers. Prosecutors say Neumann taunted and screamed at the police before putting a gas mask over his face and threatened one officer, saying police would be "overrun" by the crowd.

"I'm willing to die, are you?" prosecutors quoted Neumann saying to the officer.

Police body camera footage shows Neumann and others shoving a metal barricade into a line of officers who were trying to push the crowd back before he punched two officers with his fist and then hit them with the barricade, according to court papers.

Neumann was identified by investigators after someone who said they were a family friend called an FBI tip line with Neumann's name and hometown. He was charged in a U.S. federal criminal complaint, meaning a judge agreed that investigators presented sufficient probable cause that Neumann had committed the crimes.

Neumann is one of more than 650 people who have been charged for their actions on Jan. 6, when pro-Trump rioters attacked the Capitol building and delayed Congress' certification of Joe Biden's Electoral College victory.

Neumann told Belarus 1 that his photo had been added to the FBI's most wanted list, after which he left the country under the pretense of a business trip. Neuman, who owns a handbag manufacturing business, traveled to Italy in March, and then through Switzerland, Germany and Poland before arriving in Ukraine and spent several months there.

He said he decided to illegally cross into neighboring Belarus after he noticed surveillance by Ukraine's security forces. "It is awful. It is political persecution," Neumann told the TV channel.

Belarusian border guards detained him when he tried to cross into the country in mid-August, and he requested asylum in Belarus. Belarus doesn't have an extradition treaty with the U.S.

The U.S. Embassy in Belarus, which is temporarily located in Vilnius, Lithuania, declined comment. The U.S. Justice Department said it doesn't comment "on the existence or nonexistence of requests for apprehension to foreign governments."

The Belarus 1 anchors described Neumann as a "simple American, whose stores were burned down by members of the Black Lives Matter movement, who was seeking justice, asking inconvenient questions, but lost almost everything and is being persecuted by the U.S. government."

In a short preface to the interview, the Belarus 1 reporter also said that "something" made Neumann "flee from the country of fairytale freedoms and opportunities" — an apparent reference to the U.S., which has levied multiple sanctions against Belarus over human rights abuses and its violent crackdown on dissent.

HURON — The Warner Monarchs volleyball team is headed back to the Class “B” State Tournament. The Monarchs qualified for their 10th state tournament in the last 12 years on the strength of a 25-9, 25-7, 25-9 drubbing of the Edgemont Moguls in a SoDak 16 game played at Huron Arena.

For the Moguls, Peyton Ostensen led the way with five kills and nine digs, while oliva Ellstrom added eight digs on defense. Morgan Peterson, the lone senior on Edgemont’s roster, ended her career with two kills, five assists and 11 digs in her final game.

Edgemont ends the season with a record of 20-11/

For Warner, now 30-5, Kami Anderson had eight kills, as did Kami Anderson, while Jennifer Aman added six kills. Ava Nilsson had an astounding 10 ace serves in the match and handed out 25 set assists, while Courtney Bjorgaard had three aces and led the Monarch defense with 16 digs.

Warner will carry the second seed into next week’s Class “B” State volleyball tournament in Rapid City.

Lady Longhorns, who close the book on a season that saw them with a record of 20-18.

Cadence VanZee led the P-G attack with 12 kills, 10 digs and three aces, while Karly VanDerWerff had 11 kills. Avery DeVries passed out 28 assists in the match and Regan Hoffman led the defense with 18 digs. Baleigh Nachtigal rang up eight ace serves for the Black Panthers and Hoffman added four.

No statistics were available for the Lady Longhorns.

MADISON — The Garretson Blue Dragons will be the No. 2 seed at next week’s Class “A” State volleyball tournament in Rapid City, after a 3-0 win over the Redfield Pheasants in a SoDak 16 playoff game at the Madison High School Gymnasium.

Set scores for the Blue Dragons were 25-17, 25-20 and 25-18.

Garretson has a season record of 27-1.

Redfield ends the year with a record of 15-14.

No statistics were available from the game.

Colman-Egan 3, Miller 0

MADISON — The fifth-seeded Colman-Egan Hawks punched their ticket to the Class “B” State volleyball tournament Tuesday night, with a 3-0 win over the No. 12 Miller Rustlers at the Madison High School Gymnasium.

Colman-Egan, now 25-7 on the season, earned set scores of 25-14, 25-13 and 25-17 to move into the state tournament next week in Rapid City.

Miller, which ends the season with a record of 21-13, was led by Ally Mullaney’s 10 kills, while Tyra Gates had 16 set assists and 13 digs in the match.

Both Payton Kilker and Heather Resel notched ace serves for the Rustlers.

LADY WARBIRDS:

Burke raced to an early 8-4 lead before Boomsma and Leah Williams began to bring the Lady Warbirds back into contention.

A kill from Williams, an ace from Boomsma and a block/kill from Giyahna Richmond gave Wolsey-Wessington a 10-9 lead. Led by Indahl and Koenig, the Lady Cougars opened a big of daylight through the mid portion of the set and led 19-12 before the Lady Warbirds began to charge again.

An ace from Lainey Uttecht, a block/kill by Alyssa Hiles and an ace from Macie Luce got the lead down to three, at 20-17. Burke rallied with an Indahl kill, but then had three straight hitting errors to let Wolsey-Wessington back into the set.

But the Lady Warbirds were unable to build on the gift and watched Ava Hausmann got her only kill of the match to close out the 25-20 win.

Throughout the first two sets, Burke was able to forge a lead and never really allowed Wolsey-Wessington to build much momentum. That changed in the third set, as the Lady Warbirds jumped out early on back-to-back kills from Williams and a quick-set kill by Luce for a 5-2 lead.

The Lady Warbirds took turns notching kills throughout the early part of the set and a big swing from Richmond gave Wolsey-Wessington a 14-9 lead. Boomsma went back-to-back to counter a pair of kills by Koenig and Indahl, before Burke got back-to-back aces from Ava Sargent to cut the lead to three, at 16-13.

Boomsma got two more kills on consecutive swings for the Lady Warbirds, but Bull countered and Indahl notched an ace. A hitting error on Wolsey-Wessington forced a Lady ‘Bird timeout, and out of the break, Boomsma scored a kill and stroked an ace for a 20-16 lead.

Down the stretch, Williams and Richmond each got kills to keep the Lady Cougars at bay and when Indahl’s final attempt of the set missed wide right, the Lady Warbirds had a win, 25-23 and were back in the match.

Burke, however, had a completely different agenda, as the Lady Cougars scored the first four points of the fourth set. The teams traded points throughout, but a solid Burke defense kept the ball off the floor, Indahl, Kailee Frank and Bull provided a wall of blocking power and the Lady ‘Birds missed on seven serves in the final set as Wolsey-Wessington was never able to get closer than three points.

Koenig collected her eighth kill and Frank added number 13 on the night to close the match and begin the celebration for Burke, which missed last year’s state tournament in its final year co-oping with South Central, after three straight trips to the “B.”

Indahl had 12 kills and two aces for the Lady Cougars and Bull tacked on seven kills, while Sargent ended the night with four aces.

For the Lady Warbirds, Boomsma had 17 kills and three aces, Williams added 10 kills and Richmond accounted for seven big swings. Hiles had four kills for Wolsey-Wessington.
