Christopher Meloni returns to the 'Law & Order' beat with 'Organized Crime'

After years of suggestions and rumors, it's finally official: Elliot Stabler is back.

Following a decade away from the police-detective role he originated on "Law & Order: Special Victims Unit," Christopher Meloni reprises the part in the latest addition to the NBC franchise from executive producer Dick Wolf with the Thursday, April 1, premiere of "Law & Order: Organized Crime." Reintroduced in the "SVU" episode immediately preceding the new show's debut, Stabler now heads a New York task force targeting the title criminal activity; cast members also include Dylan McDermott, Tamara Taylor and Charlotte Sullivan ("Rookie Blue").

"When you say 'Yes' to something like this," the amiable Meloni reflects, "you can have all the fantasies you want about what it's going to be like, how it will turn out, etc. I must say the reality has been very comfortable, though I wouldn't say 'effortless,' since getting back into being the lead of a one-hour show takes effort. But it feels right and good, OK in all ways."

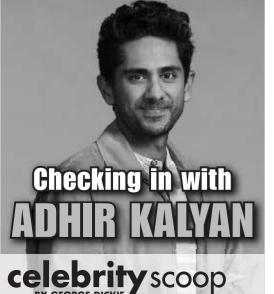

Many viewers are familiar with the Stabler character – who has remained very evident in frequent "SVU" repeats on such cable outlets as USA Network and ION Television – but Meloni attests there are new differences to him, too. "I think what plays into it is the environment that he finds himself in," the actor notes. "Policing in society is a big topic now, and certain aspects of the show will reflect where we're at with that. We hopefully find Stabler a little older and wiser, but also with the heroic qualities that I think he possessed before."

While he maintains his reason for agreeing to play Stabler again is a story for "years down the road," reappearing on "Special Victims Unit" means Meloni has a muchanticipated reunion with Mariska Hargitay, who has played Olivia Benson since that show started 22 years ago. She's the real-life godmother to Meloni's daughter, indicating their closeness, but Meloni admits to having had butterflies over reteaming with her on camera.

"Prepping for it was nerve-wracking," he says. "I had no doubt that the chemistry would find its familiar place, and that's how it played out ... but I did have the thought, 'How is this going to work?'"

Though "Law & Order: Organized Crime" hit a couple of speed bumps on the way to premiering – a change in showrunners (it's now "Empire" and "The L Word" veteran Ilene Chaiken) and a production shutdown over a positive COVID-19 test – Meloni considers it "a hall pass" to be back filming on the streets of New York. "We're doing it under very strict guidelines, and everybody has to follow the protocols, but we're getting things done."

Adhir Kalyan didn't need a chemistry read to know he clicked with his "United States of Al" co-star Parker Young. He'd already met him in the parking lot.

"(I) had just so happened to watch a show called 'Imposters' that he was on, so he was fresh in my mind ...," the 37-year-old South African actor explains. "He arrives in the parking lot with his massive truck that has got mud just splayed three quarters of the way up the truck. And he gets out of this truck and I just think to myself, 'I think this is the guy. I don't know who else I'm reading with today but I think this is the guy. He just feels like Riley.'

"And so we ended up chatting and running the scene a couple of times before his chemistry test," he continues, "and we just from the very beginning had an easy rapport. Anything I was able to offer up to him in a scene he received and returned."

In the half-hour sitcom, which premieres Thursday, April 1, on CBS, Kalyan ("Rules of Engagement," "Aliens in America") plays the title character, an Afghan immigrant brought to America by U.S. Marine Riley (Young), for whose unit he served as interpreter during the war in Afghanistan. Now on American soil, both struggle with the surroundings – Al trying to understand an alien culture and Riley adjusting to civilian life. And both men reacquainting themselves with each other in the new setting.

So it's a fish-out-of-water comedy but with some serious notes. For his part, Kalyan admires the bravery it took for real-life Afghans to work with American troops and against the Taliban during the war.

"To know that these interpreters made the choice to work with U.S. forces," he says, "knowing full well that that could possibly mean that not only their lives but the lives of their families could be endangered because they believed in serving a greater purpose, I think was something that really resonated with me."

Full name: Adhir Kalyan Birth date: Aug. 4, 1983 Birthplace: Durban, South Africa

Family ties: Wife is "General Hospital" actress Emily Wilson; mother is Sandy Kalyan, member of the South

This eerie thriller returns for Season 3. which reportedly will answer the central question of "Manifest": What happened to the passengers of Flight 828? As the action resumes, it's been more than a year since their miraculous homecoming, and while the Stone family continues trying to protect their friends and outwit their enemies, new challenges will test how much they trust the callings, as well as one another. One thing's certain, though: No matter what happens, it's all connected. Melissa Roxburgh and Josh Dallas star.

The Barbarian and the Troll "Trolls" creator Mike Mitchell and puppeteer Drew Massey teamed up to co-create this delightful family fantasy about a troll named Evan (voiced by Massey), who yearns for adventure yet so far has not ventured beyond the shadows of the bridge under which he lives. That changes when he meets Brendar (voice of Spencer Grammer), a formidable female warrior who Higgins (Jay Hernandez, Perdita Weeks) race to find the car, the dog and the car thief, whom they believe may be an escaped victim of a kidnapping. Meanwhile, after a disgruntled customer sues TC (Stephen Hill), he recruits Rick and Jim (Zacharv Knighton, guest star Bobby Lee) to help prove the lawsuit is a scam. 8 p.m. on (8)

6 p.m. on 9 9 Movie: The Ten Commandments

Charlton Heston, Yul Brynner and Anne Baxter star in director Cecil B. DeMille's final film, the 1956 biblical epic about the life of Moses. The picture's first-rate visual effects include the parting of the Red Sea — and bear in mind what a wonder that was for moviegoers at the time, well before the computer-generated effects of today. Yvonne De Carlo, Nina Foch, John Derek and Vincent Price co-star, with little Fraser Heston as the infant Moses.

Movie: Robin Roberts Presents: Mahalia

The first project produced under a partnership between "Good Morning America" anchor Robin Roberts and Lifetime, this new biopic chronicles the life and career of one of America's greatest Black gospel singers. Even during a strife-torn period in U.S. history riddled by racial segregation, Jackson enjoyed incredible success in her music career. She also devoted time to political activism, however, and was a personal friend of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and his family. Danielle Brooks ("Orange Is the New

Movie: One Perfect Wedding

Altar-bound couple Cara and Ben (Taylor Cole, Jack Turner) decide they've let professional distractions postpone their wedding too many times. She's leaving on an international book tour in just two weeks and he's up to his neck in a major business expansion, but they go ahead and book the chalet where they fell in love, throwing together plans for an intimate ceremony with their loved ones in just 10 days. Their best friends Megan and Sean (Rukiya Bernard, Dewshane Wil-

Movie: The Emoji Movie

T.J. Miller, James Corden, Anna Faris, Maya Rudolph, Steven Wright, Sean Hayes, Christina Aguilera and Patrick Stewart lead the voice cast of this 2017 computer-animated sci-fi comedy about a group of emojis who live in a digital city inside the phone of their user. The film's production studio placed an embargo on reviews until mere hours before the film opened, which turned out to be a good call: Most critics trashed the film, which nevertheless went on to make more than $200 million worldwide.
