HBO's 'Tina' paints an intimate portrait of a music superstar

Music fans who think they know Tina Turner's story may find a few surprises in a documentary upcoming on HBO and HBO Max.

The two-hour film "Tina," premiering Saturday, March 27, gives an unvarnished account of the life and six-plus-decade career of the iconic performer of such hits as "Better Be Good to Me," "The Best" and "What's Love Got to Do With It," looking at her early rise to fame in the late 1950s, her professional and personal struggles in the 1970s and her rousing comeback in the '80s.

Through never-before-seen footage, audio tapes, personal photos and intimate interviews with Turner at her home in Zurich, Switzerland, the film from Oscarwinning documentarians Dan Lindsay and T.J. Martin ("Undefeated," "LA 92") paints a picture of a woman whose personal strength and faith saw her through hard times that included a loveless relationship with her mother, an abusive marriage and subsequent divorce from her former music partner Ike Turner and sexism and racism in the music industry, to become a global icon with platinum records, multiple Grammy Awards and a slew of other accolades to her name before retiring in 2008.

It's ground that's been covered before in print, movies (the 1993 feature "What's Love Got to Do With It") and theater (Broadway's recent "Tina: The Tina Turner Musical"), only here the story is told from Turner's point of view. And both filmmakers hope that gives those familiar and not-so-familiar with her story a new understanding of the artist.

"A lot of the theme of the film is ownership," Martin explains. "Ownership over her being, over her body, ownership over her name and ultimately ownership over her narrative. Her ability to, even when she kind of felt like she was getting control of her life again by giving the narrative to the world, all of a sudden the world had a little bit more control in the perception of what her story is. And so I think the hope amongst many is coming away from this film, you get a little bit more insight into Tina's own point of view of her story."

One thing she makes clear in the documentary is that she doesn't dwell on the past, particularly her marriage to Ike. While she had her first professional success with him, she also experienced much physical and emotional abuse. When they divorced in 1978, he got everything except Tina's name. And that proved to be the most valuable asset by far.

Ultimately, this is a story of survivorship, of a woman who endured several lifetimes' worth of adversity to have a happy, peaceful life with second husband Erwin Bach on a lake in Switzerland.

"She was relevant from almost the beginning of popular music in the late '50s/ early '60s until the 2000s, when she retired," Lindsay says. "You look at all these major events along the way in popular music and she's there. ... Obviously everybody appreciates her as a singer but we hope to like slightly reintroduce people, so to speak, to her talent because she is just an absolutely incredible performer."

Daniela Ruah didn't think her "NCIS: Los Angeles" tryout would go anywhere. She clearly miscalculated.

On the CBS Sunday drama since its 2009 debut, she continues portraying resourceful Naval Criminal Investigative Service agent Kensi Blye, now married to fellow NCIS veteran Marty Deeks. He's played by Eric Christian Olsen, and Ruah is wed in real-life to her on-screen husband's brother: David Olsen, Eric's stunt double.

"I started my career in Portugal in soap operas," reflects the friendly Ruah, who recently made her "NCIS: Los Angeles" directing debut. "Then to come to the U.S. and have this happen, something that's informed my personal life as well as my professional life – I met my husband on the show – it's been fantastic."

Even so, Ruah admits she wasn't familiar with the original "NCIS" series when she auditioned for its first spinoff.

"I had grown up in Portugal watching 'Criminal Minds' and all the 'CSI' series," she says, "and the procedural was by far my favorite genre of show. I loved the character Kensi, but I thought, 'There's no way they're picking this up. CBS has, like, five procedurals now; they won't put another one on.'"

Twelve years later, that clearly wasn't the case ... though Ruah muses, "I almost didn't go to the audition because I didn't think anything was going to come of it, but my agent said, 'If you like the character, just go for it.' And it went horribly, which (executive producer) Shane Brennan later confirmed – but he said, 'You have the energy we're looking for.' So, he gave me another chance and I got a callback, and that went well."

Birthdate: Dec. 2, 1983 Birthplace: Boston

Current residence: Los Angeles

Marital status: Married to David Olsen, brother of "NCIS: Los Angeles" co-star Eric Christian Olsen; they have two children

Other television work includes: "Guiding Light,"
"NCIS," "Hawaii Five-0," "Inspector Max," "Danca Comigo" (the Portuguese "Dancing With the Stars," which she won the first season of) and several Portuguese serials – "Tu e Eu,"
"Dei-te Quase Tudo," "Filha do Mar" and "Jardins Proibidos"

the novelist's Landry Family series, this installment finds Ruby (Raechelle Banno) still grasping for happiness after living in her father's posh mansion for a vear. She's looking forward to making a new start when she and her twin, Giselle (Karina Banno), are sent away to an elite boarding school, only to find herself once again shunned for her backwater upbringing. Meanwhile, Ruby's stepmother Emmy, Grammy and Tony Award winner Cynthia Erivo ("The Color Purple") slips into the skin of Queen of Soul Aretha Franklin in Season 3 of this dramatic anthology series. The eight-episode "Aretha." which unfolds in two back-to-back episodes nightly through Wednesday, chronicles the saga of how this musical prodigy raised in Detroit couldn't read music, yet taught herself to play the piano.

for outstanding TV drama are "All Rise," "Bridgerton," "Lovecraft Country," "Power Book II: Ghost" and "This Is Us"; nominated in comedy are "BlackAF," "black-ish," "Insecure," "grownish" and "The Last O.G."

7:20 p.m. on (15)

Movie: Mary Poppins Returns Emily Blunt steps into the iconic (and Oscar-winning) movie role of the practically perfect nanny in Rob Marshall's 2018 musical fantasy, a sequel to Walt Disney's 1964 classic "Mary Poppins." The new story finds Mary Poppins returning to Depression-era London to help the now adult Michael and Jane Banks (Ben Whishaw and Emily Mortimer) who are grappling with some very grown-up troubles.

8 p.m. on 36 Movie: Don't Go Breaking

My Heart Miranda (Italia Ricci) finally is enjoying some success with Breakup Boot Camp, a program she developed to help the recently broken-hearted. Her latest group of "campers" includes journalist Ben (Ryan Paevey), who insists he has come entirely to support his sister, not out of any personal need in the fallout from a recent failed there on assignment to do an undercover story on whether Miranda's venture is just giving false hope to clients in this new 2021 romance.

9:15 p.m. on 56

Movie: Luther

Stacy Keach stars as Martin Luther, a seminal figure of the Protestant Reformation in 16thcentury Europe in British director Guy Green's 1974 film adaptation of a biographical play by John Osborne. The story, which covers events from 1506 to 1526, finds Luther being challenged on several pivotal decisions in his life by a young romance. The truth is, Ben's knight (Julian Glover).
