A family contends with Alaska and one another in Fox's animated 'The Great North'

As animated family comedies set in Alaska go, Fox's "The Great North" is in a category all its own.

Premiering Sunday, Feb. 14 (following a January sneak peek), the half-hour comedy follows the adventures of the Tobin clan of the 49th State, which is headed by patriarch Beef (voice of Nick Offerman, "Parks and Recreation"), a single dad trying to keep his disparate group of kids together after his wife

Probably the biggest oddball of them is daughter Judy (Jenny Slate, "Bob's Burgers"), who dreams of being an artist away from life on the family fishing boat. There is also oldest brother Wolf (Will Forte, "Last Man on Earth") and his fiancee Honeybee (Dulcé Sloan, "Chick Fight"); middle brother Ham (Paul Rust, "Love") and youngest brother Moon (Aparna Nancherla, "A Simple Favor"). And with her mother not available, Judy seeks guidance from boss Alyson (Megan Mullally, "Will & Grace") and her imaginary friend Alanis Morissette (voicing herself), who appears to her in the northern lights.

The series was created by "Bob's Burgers" writers/producers Wendy Molyneux and Lizzie Molyneux-Logelin, who originally conceived of this as a vehicle for Offerman and Slate and incorporated elements of themselves and their experiences into the characters, particularly Beef and Judy.

"We were talking a lot about our own experiences as teenage girls who maybe didn't always fit in," Wendy

Molyneux explains, "and that's where we started thinking about Judy and Beef as this sort of like benevolent dad character. We thought the idea of them as a father/daughter combo would be really fun. And then we just wanted to think about an environment that we weren't currently seeing in animation and ... this idea of a little more of a kind of work-a-day dad and a more artistic daughter. And Alaska came up as an idea because Lizzie had visited there a few times and just found it kind of inspiring."

And Alaska isn't just a mere backdrop but a character, as its wildlife, topography and weather all play roles here. So do the northern lights, in the visage and voice of seven-time Grammy-winning singer/ songwriter Morissette, who serves as Judy's lodestar.

"I think we always wanted Judy to have this big, emotional, fantastical life inside of her head," Lizzie Molyneux-Logelin explains. "I think part of that for us was a feeling about when we were teenagers, of sort of feeling like ... 'Oh, I can't wait to get out into the bigger world and see all of the things,' and sort of be a part of this world that you don't experience when you're just living in your hometown as a teenager. So I think Alanis really developed out of that, of giving her somebody to connect with that is part of sort of the more big, global world."

"And thank God Alanis Morissette wanted to play Alanis Morissette ...," Wendy Molyneux adds, "because only Alanis can be Alanis."

Though his claim to fame comes from being other than a when you knew all your friends were in some boring class game-show host, Jason Biggs feels ready for that job.

The "American Pie" alum has fond memories of watching "The Price Is Right" with his grandmother, and he's carrying those into his return to Fox - following last season's sitcom "Outmatched" and his first television credit, "Drexell's Class" - as he presides over the triviabased "Cherries Wild," premiering Sunday, Feb. 14. Twocontestant teams vie to win a $250,000 jackpot with a huge slot machine ultimately involved, thus the "Cherries" reference.

"There have been a couple of heydays of game-show television," the friendly Biggs reflects. "There was the '50s and '60s, when TV was still a relatively novel idea and there weren't that many channels. Then I feel like in the '80s, when I was growing up, there was another incredible wave of game shows. There was a very specific feeling about staying home sick and watching 'The Price Is Right' at school.

"And now, game shows are really having a moment again," adds Biggs, "and there are lots of reasons why. Obviously, there are the business reasons, but it's also just great and fun and easy television that involves everyday people. You can watch at home and imagine yourself in the position of the contestant who potentially wins amazing prizes and money."

As "Cherries Wild" host, Biggs likes the variety of people who come to play: "The stakes being as high as they are, it's no joke, and the opportunity to change these people's lives in a very real way is just so exciting."

After last season's competition was forced to "go remote" because of the COVID-19 pandemic, Season 19 of this music competition (its fourth on ABC) resumes live coverage, with judges Katy Perry, Lionel Richie and Luke Bryan. Ryan Seacrest also returns as host, as does in-house mentor Bobby Bones. Producers began virtual auditions for prospective contestants last August via custom-built Zoom technology. Movie: Crossword Mysteries: Terminal Descent

Shortly before crosswords editor Tess Harper (Lacey Chabert) is scheduled to compete in a puzzle-solving challenge with a new supercomputer known as BB, the AI is connected in the death of its creator (Lochlyn Munro,, "Riverdale"). Soon, Tess finds herself swept up in the ensuing police investigation, once again at odds with Detective Logan O'Connor (Brennan Elliott). Meanwhile, Chauncey (John Kapelos) contemplates retirement Barbara Niven

Movie: The Long Island Serial Killer: A Mother's Hunt for Justice

Kim Delanev stars in this 2021 docudrama as Mari Gilbert, who embarked on a search for the truth about what really happened to her daughter Shannan (Katharine Isabelle), a part-time escort who disappeared after a "date" on Long Island. Mari keeps pressing the local police for answers, pleading with them to take her worries seriously. The subsequent investigation turns up a horror that had gone undetected for a decade, as the bodies of 19

Broadway star Jeremy Jordan pulls double duty in this 2021 romantic comedy, playing a pair of twin brothers who both are blessed with culinary talent. While Julian is a celebrated bigcity chef, however, brother Josh cooks at his small family-run diner in Alaska. After Julian is injured just before appearing in a high-profile culinary competition, Josh agrees to take his place, where he instantly is smitten with another competitor, Meg (Jessica Lowndes).
