SENIOR CONTESTANTS: Kyleigh O'Daniel, age 17

Q: Why do you think Snow Queen and similar scholarship competitions have a negative image? What is your stance on this topic? What are some things organizations, like Snow Queen, could do to help improve this negative stereotype?

I think Snow queen and similar scholarship competitions have a negative image because some people may think that you have to be the perfect image such as popular, skinny, and pretty. I don't agree when people say this because I think everyone is equal it doesn't matter race or beauty everyone gets a fair chance when competing in events like these. One thing I think could change was when advertising these types of competitions you can put pictures of people that win that aren't "picture perfect" so more people can realize that they will be able to compete and not feel like they won't fit in.

Tori Weinreis, age 17

Q: Why do you think Snow Queen and similar scholarship competitions have a negative image? What is your stance on this topic? What are some things organizations, like Snow Queen, could do to help improve this negative stereotype?

I think Snow Queen and similar scholarship competitions have a negative image because many people may feel that women must live up to a certain standard. Snow Queen and another competitions are not all about how you look like many people think it is. Snow queen is all about being your true self and having fun. Many people that look at competitions negatively do not know the true benefits competitions like these can have on women. They boast your self-confidence and encourage you to do things outside of your comfort zone, which I think is very important.

SENIOR CONTESTANTS: Justice Baloun, age 17

Q: Why do you think Snow Queen and similar scholarship competitions have a negative image? What is your stance on this topic? What are some things organizations, like Snow Queen, could do to help improve this negative stereotype?

I think Snow Queen and similar scholarship competitions have a negative image on girls because often times girls and many people think that it is based on beauty. Which can lead to many girls not wanting to do this because they don't feel as if they are pretty enough or not better than the other girls competing. I think that doing Snow Queen can boost your self confidence and build you to be able to do things that are out of your comfort zone. Some things that organizations could do I think would be that they could promote mentor or leadership programs for younger girls. Which would also then boost their self-confidence.

JUNIOR CONTESTANTS: Brooklyn Frankenstein, age 14

Q: Tell us about your favorite activities. If you were to win this title, how would you balance school work, your social life, and your extracurricular activities while being the Local Contest winner and/or the South Dakota Junior Snow Queen?

I plan to prioritize and manage my time when balancing my schoolwork, social life, and extracurricular activities. I will utilize the rest of my time in class to finish my work and get it done. If I have to miss school for traveling on state level, I'll convert to online learning. So, I can maintain my good grades. I can balance my social life and extra curricular activities by completing them on the weekends I have open.

Q. If you were judging this contest, which characteristics would you look for in young women when choosing a winner? And why?

If I was judging this contest, the characteristics I would look for in a young woman would be radiant, authentic, and ambitious. I chose these three because I think they reflect on the person who I want to become. I would like to see a woman that is radiant because a radiant woman isn't afraid to shine off her joy and happiness. She can still find happiness even when going through many difficulties. An authentic woman shows her morals and beliefs. Which proves how honest she can be to others. She yearns to have a loving and pure heart. A woman with ambition is motivated and determined. She is eager to obtain success and to achieve many specific goals. With all of these characteristics, this young woman can have a very successful and fulfilling life.

Jaysie Weinreis, age 15

Q: Tell us about your favorite activities. If you were to win this title, how would you balance school work, your social life, and your extracurricular activities while being the Local Contest winner and/or the South Dakota Junior Snow Queen?

My favorite activities include doing sports, hanging out with my friends and family, swimming, painting, drawing, coloring, and running. If I were to win this title, I would balance everything by staying on top of all the things I need to accomplish and making sure I have everything done on time. I will follow my daily schedule and have everything planned out for my day so I know I will not be rushing on things. I will put schoolwork, school activities, family, church, and this title before everything else. I will not procrastinate on my tasks and I will take my time to make sure I get everything done right.

Q. If you were judging this contest, which characteristics would you look for in young women when choosing a winner? And why?

If I were judging this contest to choose the winner, in the contestants I would look for the woman that has the best personality and is most outgoing. I would also look for the woman that really seems to care about what she is doing, and the woman that truly wants to have younger future Snow Queens look up to her.

I would look for these things when choosing the winner because I feel that most women have a feeling that you only win by looks. But I believe that every girl is beautiful in every way. I also would look for these things because I feel like you have to have a good, outgoing personality to win this title because when you get this title, you get so many great opportunities to go do and experience new things, and to have fun and enjoy doing this you have to meet new people and not be nervous, shy and scared about everything.

Chloe Zens, age 14

Q: Tell us about your favorite activities. If you were to win this title, how would you balance school work, your social life, and your extracurricular activities while being the Local Contest winner and/or the South Dakota Junior Snow Queen?

My favorite activities consist of participating in sports, babysitting, and going on walks. I play softball, basketball, volleyball, and run track. Softball has been my favorite since I was a little kid and track makes my adrenalin skyrocket and I love that!

I think kids are the funniest things ever, so babysitting is fun for me. I enjoy going on walks or just being outside in general, because it is very peaceful. I feel very calm, relaxed and undisturbed! If I were to win this title, I would be so thrilled! I would give 110% into schoolwork and try my best in every extracurricular activity! If I win this title, I would be more well-known so I would always keep a positive attitude around everyone and show devotion!

Q. If you were judging this contest, which characteristics would you look for in young women when choosing a winner? And why?

If I was judging this contest, I would judge personality and responsibility. I would judge the young women on personality because that's what most matters in a person. They should be a great role-model for the younger generation. When choosing a winner, I would judge being responsible because it makes a person reliable. Being responsible is being a leader and having good self-esteem. It's a great character trait!

Riddle Time:

I am rich, but I cannot be poor. I can be dark and I can be white. I can be hot, or I can be cold. But one thing is for sure, having too much of me can make you a little jittery. What am I?

Q: Tell us about your favorite activities. If you were to win this title, how would you balance school work, your social life, and your extracurricular activities while being the Local Contest winner and/or the South Dakota Junior Snow Queen?

I am involved in several activities. Currently, volleyball, student council, FCCLA, and NJHS. Volleyball being my favorite. I am also in basketball in the winter and softball in the summer. I don't have a job, so balancing social life and extra activities will be a lot easier. School hands down comes first, as its very important. I can also socialize with my friends while there. All other activities are school related, so I will work those in there too. I will have time for my Queen duties after that.

Q. If you were judging this contest, which characteristics would you look for in young women when choosing a winner? And why?

I would look for the involvement of school and life. To me, involvement in school is very important. I also would look for great attitude about all. I would also look for girls that I would know would take the duties responsibly and do them with a great attitude.

Lilly Blume, age 14

Q: Tell us about your favorite activities. If you were to win this title, how would you balance school work, your social life, and your extracurricular activities while being the Local Contest winner and/or the South Dakota Junior Snow Queen?

My favorite activities are showing cattle, competing in FCCLA events and crafting. I enjoy these activities because they involve leadership. Being a leader allows me to be my best self and help others. If I were to win the contest, I would balance my life by being organized and using a planner to coordinate events, schoolwork, and my social life. I would also be organized by keeping myself on track and not procrastinating.

Q. If you were judging this contest, which characteristics would you look for in young women when choosing a winner? And why?

If I were judging this contest, I would look for a young lady with confidence, honesty, and leadership qualities. I would look for these qualities so I can pick a young lady to set a good example and help others succeed.

THE SD SNOW QUEEN STORY...

The South Dakota Snow Queen Festival is the largest Winter Festival in South Dakota!

It began in November 1946, when the Aberdeen Jaycees accepted a request from the St. Paul Winter Carnival to bring a "Queen of Snow's" to our Winter Festival. The Festival at that time was very local with contestants coming from towns only a few miles away from the Hub City. Our Festival is no longer a local event. It has grown to 38 locations across the state, and involves hundreds of contestants from all over the State of South Dakota.

Once the Festival is completed, the newly crowned Sr and Jr Snow Queens are quickly fitted for gowns and prepared for their first appearance at the St Paul Winter Carnival held toward the end of each January. The queens also will travel to several other Festivals including: Minneapolis Aquatennial, Montevideo Fiesta Days, Willmar Fest, Anoka Halloween Festival, and Festival du Voyageur in Winnipeg, Canada among other opportunities across the state as our schedule allows.

These girls are representing their peers, local communities, Aberdeen, and the State of South Dakota. They experience how to build their network, enhance their speaking abilities, learn about new cultures, and are educated on the vast array of opportunities the State of South Dakota can offer.

Congratulations
Snow Queen Candidates,
Good Luck from all of us!
