It's a rough go for 'Coastal Elites' in HBO special

In the age of the pandemic, "Coastal Elites" have a lot to grapple with in a special upcoming on HBO.

Premiering Saturday, Sept. 12, the comic satire from director Jay Roach ("Bombshell," "Game Change") and screenwriter Paul Rudnick ("Addams Family Values," "Sister Act") tells the stories of individuals from New York to Los Angeles coping with politics and the pandemic in the summer of 2020.

Among them are Miriam (Bette Midler, "Beaches"), a cultured New York City schoolteacher who finds herself in police custody; Clarissa (Sarah Paulson, "The People v. O.J. Simpson: American Crime Story"), a YouTube personality who produces a series called "Mindful Meditations"; Mark (Dan Levy, "Schitt's Creek"), a gay West Hollywood actor videoconferencing with his therapist during a moment of personal and professional stress; and Callie (Issa Rae, "Insecure"), a West African woman whose activism takes her all around the globe.

Rudnick conceived this as a stage production to be performed at The Public Theatre in New York, then rewrote it as a TV program when the lockdown hit. Each actor's monologue was filmed at their home and then edited together with other soliloquies. The turn-around time was fast as shooting ended in mid-July with editing and postproduction taking the last two months.

"I started writing this over a year ago, pre-pandemic, pre-protests, everything," Rudnick explains. "But the spark for it was that I had realized that for the past four years now, everyone I knew on every side of the political divide was spending 24 hours a day angry and heartbroken and totally addicted to discussing this country and its future and every aspect of politics and their personal lives. And I'd never seen that level of emotion and engagement ...

"And it became so urgent that it was something that I became desperate to write about. So when these characters kind of came to me, it was the best way to write and it's very rare that there were these people who just wanted to be heard. So I let them."

Paulson initially turned down her part down because it conflicted with shooting FX's upcoming "American Crime Story: Impeachment," in which she is slated to play Linda Tripp. When the pandemic shuttered production there, she was free to do this project, which she shot in a tent in her backyard with the help of a camera crew and green screen.

It tells the story of a woman who has a moment of vulnerability at the worst possible

"She's sort of explaining something that's happened to her recently (that) had an enormous impact on her," the actress explains. "And because she's sort of live on the air, she's having a kind of - not a Paddy Chayefsky sort of 'Network' breakdown, but almost something to that extent where she is finding herself exposed and having a big sort of emotional internal upheaval that many people watching can unfortunately or fortunately be part of."

Checking in with celebrity scoop

For her big break, Madison Reyes has a veteran director-choreographer - and several ghosts - to thank.

The young actress stars in the very tuneful 'Julie and the Phantoms," an adaptation of a Brazilian series that Netflix debuts Thursday, Sept. 10. Mourning her mother's death, highschooler Julie finds her lost love of music renewed by three spectres from the 1980s (played by Charlie Gillespie, Owen Patrick Joyner and Jeremy Shada) that prompt her to form a new band with them.

Newcomer Reyes was handpicked to play Julie by Kenny Ortega of "Dirty Dancing," "High School Musical" and "Descendants" fame. She says his past work "was what encouraged me to even want to get into acting, and just be a performer in general. Kenny definitely influenced a lot of my creativity. If it wasn't for 'High School Musical,' I probably would have never even wanted to pursue this career as much as I want to.

Reyes had a yen for music previously, but she admits, "(It) was just really just me messing around. I didn't have any structure. I've always enjoyed expressing myself through music and singing. I definitely push myself to follow my dream, more just for my family."

The Monkees also were a band created for series purposes, and 50-plus years later, Reyes likes being part of another one. "It was like a chain reaction when we all started being put together," she maintains. "First, (it was) me and Charlie, and then Jeremy ... then when we got Owen, it was like the band finally all clicked. It was this overwhelming feeling of joy, and I just wanted to keep on doing it."

Birthdate: June 25, 2004 Birthplace: Brooklyn, N.Y.

Current residence: Allentown, Pa.

Marital status: Single

On her last time performing with her "Julie and the Phantoms" bandmates before they knew they'd gotten the roles: "I was like, 'Let's just give it our all and have fun with it, and whatever happens, happens. And I hope I get to work with you guys, and if not ... oh, well.' It was so weird, because everybody was leaving. We were up on the stage getting ready to perform this last time, and people were coming inside the room, to say goodbye to Kenny (Ortega) and all the (Netflix) execs."

The feature-length "Human documentary Nature" examines scientific developments in gene therapy, culminating in the ability to make precise edits to DNA, even that of human beings. The discovery of something called CRISPR-Cas9 editing has shown early promise for holding a cure for several debilitating or even deadly genetic diseases, but it also has the capability of modifying healthy genes. The implications of the latter raise ethical questions as to whether scientists should be altering human DNA at all. 7 PM 7:30

tonight's picks

Saturday

7 p.m. on 29; 11:01 p.m. on 29

Movie: Deranged Granny Barbara always has yearned to have grandchildren, and it looks as if she may get her wish when her son, Ethan, falls for Kendall, a divorcée with kids. Unfortunately, Barbara pulls out all the stops to forge a close relationship with Kendall's children and it's soon clear that Barbara won't tolerate anything that threatens her bond with the "grandkids." It's not long before Kendall gets the unmistakable impression Barbara sees her as an undesirable obstacle, which could have fatal consequences.

Coastal Elites

Screenwriter Paul Rudnick ("Addams Family Values," "In & Out") penned this satirical new collection of monologues from contemporary characters who are approaching the end of their ropes because of the dual pressures of toxic politics and the coronavirus pandemic.

8 p.m. on 44; 11 p.m. on 44

Pit Bulls and Parolees

Mariah looks for a homeless woman whose dire living situation means she'll have to give up her beloved pit-bull companion in the new episode "Everything for Emma." Meanwhile, Lizzy prepares her favorite rescue pooch for a home after dealing with his multiple medical issues.

7:30

8 p.m. on 74; 11 p.m. on 74

Black Love

"Mental Illness," the first of tonight's new back-to-back episodes, examines how mental health issues can surface suddenly and without warning, sometimes the result of childhood trauma but also possibly following a grave physical illness. The show's featured couples share how they have dealt with troubling themselves. Then, in "Finding a Rhythm," the couples discuss how they have learned to talk through their experiences with compromise and communication.

8:30

10 p.m. on 32; 2 a.m. on 32

Hotel Paranormal

A security guard runs into a spirit that is unusually well dressed at an upscale California hotel in a new episode called "Evil Residents." In other segments, a woman finds herself with visible scratches after being attacked by an unseen entity, and a young girl sits paralyzed by fear as she watches a "shadow man" slowly emerge from the walls of her hotel suite. Dan Aykroyd is the narrator.
