Finally, Keith Urban hosts the 55th Academy of Country Music Awards

Keith Urban didn't envision his debut as host of the Academy of Country Music Awards going quite this way.

Calling himself the event's "longest single reigning entertainer of the year," he notes that's due to the coronavirus-pandemic-caused delay of the 55th edition of the ceremony to Wednesday, Sept. 16. That's when CBS and CBS All Access will present it from several legendary Nashville locations – the Grand Ole Opry, the Ryman Auditorium and the Bluebird Cafe – as the show originates for the first time from the country-music capital. (It had been slated for April in Las Vegas, where Urban had started a concert residency.)

"I'm glad we're able to have it go ahead at all," reasons the ever-friendly Urban, nominated this time for male artist of the year. "We have to make it work in this new rhythm that we're all figuring out now, doing things remotely without (on-site) audiences. The word that always comes to my mind is 'innovation,' and that's really what we're all in the midst of, doing what we do in this new context."

During the ACM Awards, Urban likely will make use of technology, as he notably did by "tripling himself" while performing "Higher Love" on last April's multiple-network "One World: Together at Home" special. (Entering his home studio toward the song's end, wife Nicole Kidman somehow knew which of the three was the "real" Urban to walk over to.)

Admitting that he felt he was in "artistic paralysis" in the pandemic's early weeks, Urban says he pulled himself out of it step by step, doing such things as a Tennessee drive-intheater concert for health-care workers. "Once I pointed myself toward the things I can do and not what I can't do, that really was the pivotal thing for me," he reflects. "I started to get back on the horse, as it were; then, a whole surge of creativity came."

As the international touring itinerary he'd planned for 2020 shifted to 2021, Urban completed his new album "The Speed of Now Part 1," which drops Friday, Sept. 18. Among its selections are the already released singles "God Whispered Your Name," "We Were," "Superman" and "Polaroid."

With the ACM Awards making their Nashville debut, Urban says, "It's much like the first time the CMA Awards went out of Nashville to New York in 2005, when I won both male vocalist of the year and entertainer of the year. I feel very fortunate that I've been able to be a part of a couple of really extraordinary moments in countrymusic history ... but it's amazing that the ACMs have never been in Nashville before. It's crazy that it took a pandemic to make it happen."

In the late 20th century, there was no greater accolade for a stand-up comic than the approval of Johnny Carson. If you made the then-"King of Late Night" laugh or got called over to the couch after your routine on "The Tonight Show," your future was bright

That was certainly the experience of Jeff Foxworthy, host of A&E Network's Tuesday unscripted series "What's It Worth?" His first performance on the iconic NBC show in 1990 turned out to be a career-making turn, though he admits there were nerves.

"It was totally surreal ...," the 62-year-old Atlanta native recalls. "You get to the end of your six minutes and you're scared to look because it was like Caesar deciding do I live or do I die. And I look over and he's waving me to the couch and I'm like, 'Oh my God! Oh my God! I'm going to the couch!' "

"And I remember laying in bed that night after doing it staring at the ceiling going, 'I don't have a plan.'"

He didn't need it. Carson's seal of approval had done its magic and Foxworthy was headlining in Las Vegas a week after his appearance.

Years later, Foxworthy guested on "The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon" and a producer handed him a photo of him and Carson on that night.

"He went back into the archives," Foxworthy explains, "and it's me sitting in the chair talking to Johnny and Johnny's got his head back and his mouth wide open laughing. And he said, 'I found this and I thought you might like to have it.' And I got tears in my eyes. I'm like, 'Oh my God! That's all I wanted to do. I made Johnny laugh.' "

Full name: Jeffrey Marshall Foxworthy

Birth date: Sept. 6, 1958 Birthplace: Atlanta

Family ties: He and wife Pamela have two daughters drawn from Nicolas Freeling's literary crime thrillers. In the first, "Love in Amsterdam," Piet's favorite Vermeer painting may hold a vital key to two murders and a suspected kidnapping. The case, which mingles art, politics and personal passion, puts Piet's eager new assistant, Job Cloovers (Elliot Barnes-Worrell), through a real baptism of fire. Maimie McCov and Luke Allen-Gale co-star; Emma Fielding and Darrell D'Silva appear in recurring roles. 8 p.m. on 401; 10 p.m. on

The Masked Singer

Season 4 doesn't kick off officially until Sept. 23, but Fox offers the show's legion of fans a sneak peek tonight in this new one-hour special. Ken Jeong,

Nicole Scherzinger, Robin

Thicke and Jenny McCarthy

all return as the show's panel of "celebrity detectives" tasked with unmasking the ornately costumed mystery performers.

This season's singing characters include The Gremlin, The Snow

Owl, The Crocodile, The Giraffe and The Broccoli, among others.

Animal Babies

This stunning nature miniseries continues with the new episode "Water Babies," which looks at some of the many animals that live in water but come on land to have their babies. Being born this way presents some major challenges for water babies to overcome. For some, simply getting to water in the first place while avoiding hungry predators can be the biggest trial of their young lives, while others have to face up to their first swimming lesson or master vital "adult"

Australian writer-director Leigh

Whannell earned widespread acclaim for his clever updating of H.G. Wells' 1897 literary thriller, casting Elisabeth Moss

("The Handmaid's Tale") as

Cecilia Kass, who flees an abusive relationship with tech entrepreneur Adrian Griffin

(Oliver Jackson-Cohen) after drugging him. While hiding out with a childhood friend (Aldis Hodge). Cecilia receives word that the troubled Adrian has killed himself. In the weeks

Movie: Love at Daisy Hills In this 2020 romance, small-town girl Jo is alarmed to discover that her family's general store in the quaint community of Daisy Hills has started to lose money. She urges her father to take action, so he calls in a personal favor to bring in the necessary help. That's good news for the family, although it leads to an awkward situation for Jo: Her father's white knight is none other than Blake, a Daisy Hills native who is also Jo's ex-boyfriend. Cindy

Movie: Ratatouille

Eat something before you watch this. Patton Oswalt provides the voice of Remy, a rat with a culinary bent who is nothing like his rat pack family. When he gets separated from them and winds up in a restaurant kitchen, he's in heaven. But can he save the restaurant from repetitive and boring food? With the help of a young man (voice of Lou Romano) who can't cook, Remy becomes a top chef. Additional voices include Ian Holm, Janeane Garofalo, Brad Garrett and Peter Sohn.
