Seth Rogen is in 'An American Pickle' on HBO Max

For Seth Rogen, one role in his latest project wasn't enough.

The comedy star plays both humor and pathos as an immigrant preserved for 100 years in a barrel of pickle brine – really – plus his great-grandson in “An American Pickle,” which becomes HBO Max’s first original movie when it starts streaming Thursday, Aug. 6. The elder (like, way elder) man awakens in the present day to find everyone he knew is gone, so he seeks out his one remaining relative, who literally lives in a completely different world.

Adapted by Simon Rich from his series “Sell Out” published in The New Yorker, “An American Pickle” makes Rogen (also a producer of the film) his own co-star in many of its scenes, and he allows that challenge was considerable. “We were trying to make a movie that was highly technical but seemed effortless,” the friendly talent says, “and that if you didn’t know the same actor was playing the two roles, there would be nothing (unusual) about it. We went to extreme lengths to make sure the movie seemed seamless in that way.”

Rogen insisted on having a real beard as the 100-years-old-plus Herschel, though descendant Ben is clean-shaven. “I just don’t think they look good,” he says of fake beards. “You can always kind of tell, in how the actors are restricted in their facial movements.

That decision made it even more complicated, since we essentially had to shoot the movie twice ... once with me as one character, then as the other.”

Directed by Brandon Trost, the chief cinematographer on several of Rogen’s earlier films, “An American Pickle” originally was planned as a theatrical release. Rogen – whose controversial 2014 comedy “The Interview” largely bypassed a run in theaters to go straight to On Demand – says he’s more than satisfied Sony Pictures struck a deal with HBO Max (and Warner Max, its movie imprint) for the picture.

“To his credit, Tom (Sony Pictures chairman Rothman) was very supportive of us finding a home that could better serve the film,” reflects Rogen. “He was one of the creators of Fox Searchlight, so he knew more than anyone that Sony’s infrastructure was not the type that this movie needed. It needed a more boutique approach.”

Rogen’s acting career began with the much-lauded series “Freaks and Geeks,” and he’s often kept television or a form of it in his plans, as he’s also been proving lately as an executive producer of Amazon’s “The Boys” and Hulu’s “Future Man.” However, he admits, “I have a much better understanding of a film structure than the seasons of a television show. It’s hard for me to wrap my head around that.”

Checking in with ORLANDO SORIA

celebrity scoop
BY GEORGE DICKIE

As one who helps people get through a life transition through home renovation, Orlando Soria of “Build Me Up” views his role as part designer and part therapist.

Indeed, in the series that airs Wednesdays on HGTV, the Los Angeles-based designer, artist and writer helps people work through a significant event – be it the death of a spouse, a child going off to college, or a divorce – by making big changes to their home’s interior. This not only requires his impeccable design skills, but also an attentive ear and the occasional shoulder to cry on.

“Design and therapy are lightly linked,” Soria explains, “in that in order to be a good designer, you have to be a really good listener, because you have to be trying to decipher what people want and trying to figure out how to enact it in their space. So the interactions with the clients are kind of a combination of those two things, and I kind of pride myself on being a good listener so I can be there as sort of a design facilitator for them, but I’m also there to just allow them to tell the story that they want to tell.”

The idea for the show came out of a breakup Soria went through a few years ago, which resulted in his 2019 HGTV series “Unspouse My House,” in which he helped people rid their homes of memories of past mates. He found the process of remodeling to be therapeutic, so he wanted to open that up to others going through change.

“For me, my design philosophy is really that I want the home that I design for my clients to look like my clients designed it themselves, but they just did a really excellent job and had really sophisticated, great taste,” he says. “So that always starts with a lot of listening.”

Name: Orlando Soria
Birth date: July 5, 1982
Birthplace: California
Residence: West Hollywood, Calif.
Family ties: Single

Alma mater: Has degrees from Cornell University’s College of Architecture, Art and Planning and the University of Pennsylvania’s School of Design

Business interests: E-Design

Fridge Wars
 Each episode of this new Canadian cooking competition opens as host and comic Emma Hunter visits a family's home and performs a spontaneous "fridge raid" to check out the contents of their refrigerator, including any stored leftovers. Then she heads back to the production studio, where the family's fridge and its contents have been replicated for two chefs, who have 45 minutes to put dinner on the table using these ingredients they've never seen before.

8 p.m. on 13
Taskmaster
 This Award-nominated, Emmy Award International — but decidedly unconventional — gaming show is a British import starring U.K. actor and comic Greg Davies as the titular, all-powerful Taskmaster who doles out simple but bizarre tasks for five contestants, generally some of his other comedy colleagues. Those tasks usually are performed solo, but occasionally in teams. While simple, these chores are designed to encourage the players to think "laterally" and creatively.

8 p.m. on 48; 11:03 p.m. on 48

Hiroshima: 75 Years Later Marking the 75th anniversary of the first detonation of a nuclear weapon in wartime and the end of World War II, this new two-hour special explores the moral, scientific and military conundrums of the A-bomb as experienced by those closest to the experience. Told entirely from the first-person perspectives of leaders, physicists, soldiers and survivors, the documentary strives to provide a highly personal understanding of what arguably is the most devastating experiment in human history.

9 p.m. on 435; 11:30 p.m. on 435; 2 a.m. on 435

Odcutry
 In the docuseries' finale, former high school football star Greg Kelley has been stuck in legal limbo for nearly two years, waiting in frustration for the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals to decide on his case. At long last, a decision finally is handed down by the courts, and Greg's fate is determined.

Corporate

If the charm of working from home during quarantine is wearing thin, this critically acclaimed workplace sitcom may help by reminding just how soul-crushing and grim office life can be — all from a caustic comedy perspective, of course. Movie: Bad Boys for Life
 Will Smith and Martin Lawrence return to their familiar roles as Detective Lts. Mike Lowrey and Marcus Burnett, respectively, in this 2020 action comedy from the directing team of Adil & Bilal. This third installment in the "Bad Boys" trilogy follows the police duo as they pursue — and are pursued by — Armando Armas (Jacob Scipio), the vengeful son of a dead cartel kingpin. Vanessa Hudgens and Alexander Ludwig also star.

Movie: You and Me
 To a generation of moviegoers, Sylvia Sidney always will be the gravel-voiced caseworker in the afterlife in Tim Burton's

"Beetlejuice," but the actress had a long and very diversified career — including this 1938 film noir directed by German filmmaker Fritz Lang after he came to America. Sidney stars with screen veteran George Raft as a pair of paroled criminals working in a department store. The movie's score is by Kurt Weill, best known for composing "The Threepenny Opera." The film airs as part of an all-day salute to Sidney's films.

Movie: Long Shot
 Jonathan Levine's 2019 romantic comedy requires a hefty suspension of disbelief, but once you get there, it mostly works, thanks to — we're not making this up — some first-rate chemistry between stars Charlize Theron and Seth Rogen.

Many years ago, she was his character's babysitter, but now she's the current U.S. Secretary of State about to launch a presidential bid. She hires him as her speechwriter, and things develop from there. Andy Serkis, June Diane Rappach ("Grace and Frankie"), Bob Odenkirk and Alexander Skarsgard also star.

Great Performances
 As "Hamilton" smashes viewership records on the Disney Plus streaming service, this 2009 episode called "In the Heights: Chasing Broadway Dreams" features composer and lyricist Lin-Manuel Miranda — who started work on this musical while in college, well before "Hamilton" came along — as one of the artists (with director Thomas Kail) who conceive an intimately Tony Award-winning show infused with Latin and hip-hop elements. It focuses on one New York neighborhood and the first-generation Americans who help populate it.

Being Reuben
 This engaging new docuseries revolves around 14-year-old Welsh social-media celebrity Reuben de Maid as he tries to juggle that fame with the daily reality of sharing life with fractious siblings Coco and Sonny, who love taking their brother down a peg or two. It adds up to a handful for their mother, Vicky, to cope with as well. Ultimately, though, it's these same family dynamics that have given Reuben the strength to be himself. The series premiere finds Reuben joining an all-male ad campaign. Another episode follows.

Movie: Jexi
 The virtual assistant (voice of Rose Byrne) on a self-aware smartphone becomes emotionally attached to her socially awkward owner, Phil (Adam DeVine), in this quirky 2019 romantic comedy co-written and -directed by Jon Lucas and Scott Moore. Addicted to cellphones from an early age, Phil spends so much time staring at screens that he fails to connect with those around him. Things get really complicated when Jexi, his new phone's "voice," actively starts trying to break Phil of his bad habits. Alexandra Shipp, Wanda Sykes, Justin Hartley and Charlyne Yi co-star.

License to Kill
Plastic surgeon Terry Dubrow ("Botched") returns as host of this true-crime series, which opens a 12-episode sophomore season with more stories of crimes committed by medical professionals. This season, Dubrow uses his medical expertise to take viewers into the mind of each killer, while investigating why these villains committed their crimes and how authorities stopped them. Cases include a surgeon who performed invasive surgeries in highly unsanitary conditions, and a doctor who over-prescribed

Earthflight
The new episode "Africa" takes viewers arrow-diving with Cape gannets as they bob and weave above sharks, dolphins and whales that are joining the great sardine run. Soaring African fish eagles discover an S-shaped living island composed entirely of flamingos, while kelp gets an aerial view of the Great White shark's hunting behavior. Eagles fly through the mist-filled Victoria Falls, then dive for fish in the Zambezi River. David Tennant is the narrator.

Interior designer Lily Summers (Morgan Kohan) is generating a lot of buzz with her work in Seattle, but she drops everything and takes a leave of absence after her Aunt Maggie (Brenda Matthews) suffers a bad fall. Flying back to her rustic small-town island community, Lily takes over running her aunt's bed-and-breakfast while she recuperates. She also starts to grow close to Marcus (Marcus Rosner), a handsome seaplane pilot, who transports rescue dogs. Jeff Gonek co-stars in this 2020 romance.

A group of teenagers phone downloads a new mobile phone app called Countdown, which claims to advise the user how much time they have left before they die. One of them, Courtney (Anne Winters), is horrified to discover she only has a few hours remaining — and when she consciously avoids a dangerous situation, she receives a message from the app that she has "violated the user agreement," and she meets her end another way. That pattern repeats for her friends.
