Zoe Kazan

Division and fascism strike America when 'Lucky Lindy' becomes president in HBO's 'The Plot Against America'

It's November 1940 and aviation hero Charles Lindbergh has just defeated Franklin Delano Roosevelt in the presidential election. What lay ahead for the people of the United States are deep divisions and rampant anti-semitism as the xenophobic populist turns the country toward fascism.

That's the alternate history premise of "The Plot Against America," a six-part miniseries premiering Monday, March 16, on HBO. Written and executive produced by David Simon ("The Wire") and Ed Burns ("The Brothers McMullen"), the series views the storyline through the eyes of a working-class Jewish family in Newark, N.J.

Herman Levin (Morgan Spector, "Homeland") is a family man and insurance agent with ambition and many opinions and he isn't enthralled with the new chief executive. Neither is his homemaker wife Bess (Zoe Kazan, "Ruby Sparks"), especially when they both notice anti-Jewish sentiment roiling in their community during a house-hunting excursion with their sons Philip and Sandy (Azhy Robertson, Caleb Malis).

Bess's sister Evelyn (Winona Ryder, "Stranger Things") also isn't particularly crazy about the new president but she is very fond of one of his key supporters, Rabbi Lionel Bengelsdorf (John Turturro, "The Night Of"), so in the interest of perhaps snagging a husband, the middle-aged woman starts attending pro-Lindbergh rallies, unbeknownst to her family.

The story is based on the 2004 Philip Roth novel of the same name, which Simon feels has particular resonance today.

"I think it's fairly apparent that the political paradigm that's now – not only in America, but internationally you're seeing it, in terms of populism and nationalism and the rise of xenophobia and fear of the other, that's the reason this got made," Simon explains. "... Somebody came to me with the book about five years ago ... and said, 'I think this would make a great miniseries.' And I said to him, 'I enjoyed the novel. It's a nice little artifact. It was fascinating in its moment, but ... that doesn't seem to be our political moment.'

"So, you know, how wrong was I?" he continues. "The reason to do this is that ... because of the forces that are now in play politically, the piece is incredibly relevant."

Comparisons have been made to the Amazon series "The Man in the High Castle," which imagines life in an America had Axis powers won World War II, but Kazan insists this is a completely different beast.

"It isn't about the Nazis conquering America," she argues. "It's about American ideology being turned into a nationalistic, edging on fascist ideology. It's about how our thinking can be turned so easily and it's really about in some ways the history of our country, those ideologies coming to the fore and that it could happen again."

"It will," Simon agrees. "There will always be a moment at which there is some political advantage to saying, 'Somebody is less American.' And you should be worried about that."

Checking in with
CAPTAIN BOB COOK

Step onto a "Wicked Tuna" boat and one is almost immediately impressed by how inobtrusive the video equipment is.

There are tiny GoPro cameras positioned all around the vessel, including in the cabin and on the transom, and there also is a cameraman with another GoPro on an extension arm to provide the underwater shots. He or she, too, is good at staying out of the way, generally speaking.

But in the case of the video person aboard the Fat Tuna, owned and operated by Captain Bob Cook, a newcomer to the Sunday National Geographic series ... well, he couldn't help but get tangled in the harpoon line during a fight with a bluefin.

"He stepped on the line and it stopped short of the fish and I didn't get upset," Cook explains. "But then he did it again on the same fish. And we were lucky to get a second opportunity at throwing the dart at the fish, but to get a third opportunity is almost unheard of and we got a third opportunity.

"And I'll tell you," he admits, "I lost my mind on him, and that's just what you do in the moment. You know, you've got that money on the line and he stepped on it. I was apologetic after, yeah."

As for his first season on the Gloucester, Mass.-based series, the 47-year-old native of nearby Beverly says the competition took him and his crew out of the humdrum of just making a paycheck and into the excitement of vying with holdovers Dave Marciano, Tyler McLaughlin, Sam Law and defending champion Dave Carraro of the FV-Tuna.com for first place.

Cook considers Carraro, the five-time series winner, his chief rival.

"I would honestly say that Dave is one of the, if not the, best out there," Cook says. "... I like the way that he runs his operation – most of the time. When we're on land, we're friends. When we're out there, we're not friends, and that's because we're out there to both be the best and be No. 1 and be on the top of our game and catch more than anybody else. And that's not always friendly."

 The hit action drama returns with its spring premiere, "Seize the Day," which finds the 118 team rushing to the scene of a skydiving trip that has gone wrong quite badly. Movie: This Is Personal

Two years removed from the event it chronicles — the 2017 Women's March protesting policies of the Donald Trump administration — Amy Berg's ambitious 2019 social-justice documentary almost inevitably felt a mite dated even when it first hit theaters, largely because the political landscape has only grown more polarizing and confrontational. The film

The Plot Against America

David Simon ("The Wire") is co-creator and executive producer of this new six-part limited-series adaptation of Philip Roth's acclaimed novel, set in a fictional alternate America where aviator Charles Lindbergh (Ben Cole, is still of interest, however, as a fascinating snapshot of one of the more seismic events in contemporary American history.

Breeders

The kids adore Michael (Michael McKean) as he thrives in his new role as both father and grandfather after such a long estrangement in the new episode "No Lies." Unfortunately, Paul and Ally (Martin Freeman, Daisy Haggard) are having a harder time adjusting to the new domestic arrangement. Elsewhere, Paul's insistence on being rigorously honest with his kids is tested when Luke (George Wakeman) starts seeking proof that Santa Claus doesn't exist.

The Resident

Conrad (Matt Czuchy) feels painfully torn between his professional constraints and his sense of personal loyalty to Kit (Jane Leeves) after he discovers that her son-in-law may have a serious disease in "So Long, Dawn Lane." While they're moonlighting at a long-term care facility, Nic and Devon (Emily VanCamp, Manish Dayal) are shocked to encounter a former patient who became a victim of Cain's (Morris Chestnut) manipulations.

Niall Ferguson's Network

In this new three-part series inspired by his book "The Square and the Tower: Networks and Power, From the Freemasons to Facebook," historian and author Niall Ferguson explores the century-old phenomenon of social networking, explaining how understanding the past can enhance insight into current and future events. The opening hour, "Disruption," focuses on a major network revolution that occurred 500 years ago: the Protestant Reformation. Topics include why social media networks are polarizing and why some ideas go viral. The other two parts immediately follow.

8 p.m. on 57; 9:36 p.m. on 57

Vanderpump Rules

In the new episode "Introducing Mr. and Mrs. Cauchi," Jax and Brittany tie the knot in a lavish Kentucky wedding, which leaves Beau wondering whether Steau is planning ever to pop the question to her. Later, Lisa takes Schwartz and Katie to task for not making their own union official, and Kristen has a heated exchange with Carter over their future together. Back at the restaurant, Danica tries desperately to dissuade Dayna from giving Max yet another chance.

9 p.m. on 31; 12 a.m. on 31

Supermarket Stakeout

Host Alex Guarnaschelli returns for another season of this culinary competition wherein four chefs square off in a reinvented pop-up kitchen outside a grocery store. Assigned a theme for each round, the chefs must size up shoppers as they exit the store and attempt to negotiate for their grocery bags. This year's rotating panel of judges who evaluate the chefs' efforts include Scott Conant, Giada

De Laurentiis, Bobby Flay and Molly Yeh.

9 p.m. on 63;
11:05 p.m. on 64

Tosh.0

Comedy Central's favorite bad boy, Daniel Tosh, returns for his 12th season of parodying current viral videos, blogs, websites and internet fads and phenomena — as well as magnanimously extending "web redemption" to the many hapless idiots who already have humiliated themselves online sufficiently. Obviously, his network sees no reason to tampo with success: Comedy Central recently renewed "Tosh.0" for four more seasons. The deal also includes talks about such new projects as an unscripted series Tosh would host and executive-produce.

tonight's picks

Connor Kalopsis and Ashley Boettcher

Thursday
11 a.m. on 3 ③
2020 NCAA Basketball Tournament
 With the "First Four" in the rearview mirror, it's time for first-round action in the 2020 NCAA Basketball Tournament, which tips off tonight in St. Louis, Albany, N.Y., Tampa, Fla., and Spokane, Wash. — and tomorrow in Cleveland, Omaha, Greensboro, N.C., and Sacramento, Calif. The winners of these eight games move on to the second round beginning Saturday.

7 p.m. on 12 ⑦
Last Man Standing
 Mike and Chuck (Tim Allen, Jonathan Adams) vie to see who will be the last cook standing in Outdoorman's Annual Chili Cook-Off in the new episode "Chili Chili Bang Bang." Elsewhere, Kyle and Ryan (Christopher Sanders, Jordan Masterson) fill in for Mandy and Kristin (Molly McCook, Amanda Fuller) at Vanessa's (Nancy Travis) weekly mother-daughter luncheon. Hector Elizondo also stars.

7:30 p.m. on 12 ⑦
Outmatched
 The kids' safe place is put in jeopardy when the basement seriously needs to be repaired and renovated, so they hatch a scheme to persuade Mike and Kay (Jason Biggs, Maggie Lawson) to depart for a night in the new episode "Black Mold." That leaves Nicole and Brian (Ashley Boettcher, Banner Kalopsis) entrusted with babysitting the younger kids, a responsibility they quickly learn is not nearly as easy as their parents make it look. Jack Stanton and Oakley Bull also star.

8 p.m. on 15
The Bold Type
 In the new episode "5, 6, 7, 8," Sutton (Meghann Fahy) can't quite bring herself to enjoy the truly epic bachelorette party Jane (Katie Stevens) throws for her. Meanwhile, Kat (Aisha Dee) learns something surprising about RJ (Aidan Devine) that leads her to start questioning the moral values of the company at large. Later, Jane gets important career news while she is struggling with some devastating personal issues.

8 p.m. on 401
Movie: After Truth: Disinformation and the Cost of Fake News
 Filmmaker Andrew Rossi looks at how social media has helped disseminate "fake news" widely into the American mainstream, and examines the corrosive effect that disinformation, conspiracy theories and stories reflecting "alternative facts" can have on the average citizen. The documentary makes its points largely by looking at multiple high-profile fake-news stories that led to some regrettable real-world results, such as the "Pizzagate" case, organized disinformation campaigns aimed at disrupting the 2016 presidential election and the Jade Helm conspiracy.

9 p.m. on 57;
10:45 p.m. on 57
Top Chef
 After coming heartbreakingly close to claiming the title, 15 finalists, frontrunners and fan favorites from past seasons return to finish what they started and battle it out for victory — however belated — in Season 17 of this Emmy-winning reality competition. Host Padma Lakshmi and head judge Tom Colicchio return for this all-star edition, along with judge Gail Simmons. Returning chefs include: Lee Anne Wong (Season 1, San Francisco); Miami Malarkey (Season 3, Miami); Kevin Gillespie and Bryan Voltaggio (both Season 6, Las Vegas); and Angelo Sosa (Season 7, Washington, D.C.).

tonight's picks

Katrina Weidman and Jack Osbourne

Friday
6:50 p.m. on (420)
Movie: Widows
 British Director Steve McQueen ("12 Years a Slave") directed and co-wrote this crackling 2018 British-American heist drama about four Chicago women who try to rob $5 million from a local politician to repay a crime boss from whom their late husbands stole before being killed in a failed getaway. The exceptional cast is led by Viola Davis, joined by Michelle Rodriguez, Elizabeth Debicki, Cynthia Erivo, Colin Farrell and Robert Duvall. Among several other accolades, Davis was nominated for a BAFTA Award (the British Oscar) as best actress.

7 p.m. on (43) (5)
The Blacklist
 The hit drama returns from hiatus with a midseason premiere consisting of two new back-to-back episodes. First, in "Victoria Feinberg," the Task Force helps Red (James Spader) track a gifted art forger who has complicated Red's scheme to sell some stolen art pieces. Elsewhere, Liz and Ressler (Megan Boone, Diego Klattenhoff) share confidences, while Aram's (Amir Arison) love life becomes increasingly complicated.

7 p.m. on (56)
Movie: A Big Hand for the Little Lady
 A superior cast headed by Joanne Woodward, Henry

Fonda and Jason Robards transforms this 1966 Western comedy-drama into something very special — at least for audiences with attention spans longer than a text message. Sidney Carroll's shrewdly constructed screenplay builds to a taut climax in which an inexperienced woman (Woodward) must fill in for her stricken husband (Fonda) in a winner-take-all round of poker.

9 p.m. on (32); 1 a.m. on (32)

Portals to Hell
 A new episode takes paranormal investigators Katrina Weidman and Jack Osbourne to scenic Lake George, N.Y., where the region's breathtaking natural beauty is wildly at odds with their destination: Fort William Henry, the site of one of the bloodiest massacres in Colonial America. The pair have received several reports of eerie activity at this venue, so their mission is to find out if this seemingly paranormal activity echoes dead soldiers or is something even more sinister.

9 p.m. on (420); 9:50 p.m. on (420); 12:55 a.m. on (420)

Strike Back
 In a new episode, Wyatt and Novin (Daniel MacPherson, Alin Sumarwata) have a reunion with Mac (Warren Brown) long after the dust has cleared from the incident in Munich. Later, while he's enjoying what seems to be an idyllic existence with his wife and daughter, Mac is haunted by nightmares of his violent past that make him worry his service was somehow inadequate and left some unfinished business.

Great Performances at the Met
 Soprano Christine Goerke takes the vocally demanding title role in "Turandot," Giacomo Puccini's final opera, in an eye-popping lavish Met staging by Franco Zeffirelli. Set in a mythic ancient China, the production also stars tenor Yusif Eyvazov as Prince Calaf, who tries to answer three fiendish riddles to win the hand of the icy princess Turandot. The lush score includes the tenor aria "Nessun Dorma," which became one of superstar Luciano Pavarotti's vocal calling cards. Metropolitan Opera music director Yannick Nézet-Séguin conducts.

Ostracized by most of the vampires and the Lycans, death dealer Selene (Kate Beckinsale) teams up with two of her few remaining allies on a quest to stop once and for all this endless cycle of violence between the two factions in this fifth installment of the action-horror franchise. Movie: Hampstead

Diane Keaton and Irish actor Brendan Gleeson make something of an odd couple in this sweet-natured 2017 romantic comedy loosely based on a true story. Gleeson stars as Donald Horner, an eccentric who has spent the past 17 years illegally living in London's vast Hampstead Heath park — and who ultimately decides to fight to assert ownership of his small patch of land, based on squatting laws. Keaton portrays a widow who befriends him.

Movie: X-Men: Dark Phoenix Ultimately something of a box-office disappointment, this 2019 superhero film — which concluded 20th Century Fox's "X-Men" movie series — still earned generally warm reviews for its large ensemble cast, much of which returned to familiar characters. The story follows the team of mutants as they struggle to deal with the Phoenix, a dark entity that is unleashed after Jean Grey (Sophie Turner) is struck by a
