FRESH fruits and vegetables don't have to be expensive if you buy them in season and many are in season year round. To learn more, visit www.sdharvestofthemoth.com

FROZEN fruits and vegetables are packed and frozen within hours of harvest, so they don't lose their flavor or nutritional value. Try steaming vegetables in the microwave or stovetop rather than boiling to keep in more nutrients.

CANNED fruits and vegetables often get a bad rap but they are still nutritious. Choose 100% fruit juice with no added sugar and vegetables with no sale added. Remember to drain the water, juice, or syrup and rinse with water to help remove some of the extra sugar and salt.

Cortez Smith in "The Chi"

Passing of the crown: A new power rules the South Side in 'The Chi'

The winds have changed in Chi-town. Following a shocking death in last season's finale, the women of "The Chi" step up in the series' seventh season, premiering Sunday, May 18, on the linear Paramount+ With Showtime network, and is available to stream on Paramount+ with Showtime.

Season 6's finale episode opened with (spoilers) a bang — or rather the echo of a bang — and one of the city's most notorious gangsters lying dead on the floor of his own club. For years, Otis "Douda" Perry (Curtiss Cook, "Carry-On," 2024) ran Chicago, at times as a respected businessman and even as mayor for a short time, but always as a smooth operator conducting the city's underworld.

Douda had made his fair share of enemies throughout his five-season-long run at the top of his empire, but it was ultimately his own No. 2, Nuck (Cortez Smith, "Loyalty Over Trust," 2024), who pulled the trigger. Douda's fate was sealed as he stared down Alicia (Lynn Whitfield, "Greenleaf") as she asked for his final words and readied herself to take him out, only for Nuck, who'd recently survived a brutal beating at the hands of his boss, to step out of the shadows and make the shot.

Eliminating a common enemy did not, however, make friends of the two. This season, Alicia is decidedly on top, claiming her crown and bringing vital women up with her. While she initially speaks to the peaceful control of the city's new regime in the official trailer for the upcoming season, it is not long before trouble comes knocking. According to Paramount: "as loyalties are tested and new rivalries are stoked, it becomes clear that there's only one crown and it will come at a heavy cost."

If Alicia wasn't amenable to working with Nuck when they both had guns aimed at Douda, then the deal was done when Nuck killed Alicia's son Rob (Iman Shumpert, "Them") in the same episode. "It's time to go to work," Alicia says in the trailer. It all comes down on the shoulders of the women of "The Chi" to put an end to the terror that men have inflicted on the city for too long.

"To protect this city, we have to clean up these streets ourselves," Alicia demands of her circle. She is out for revenge for her son as much as she wants to rid the streets of Chicago of senseless violence, staking out targets in the cover of darkness.

Meanwhile, Nuck is building something of his own now that he's replaced Douda in his operation. He's not like his predecessor, Nuck declares in the trailer, putting his new underlings in their place threatening, "One of you disrespect me, I'll kill you."

Returning to "The Chi" this season are Jacob Latimore ("House Party," 2023) as Emmett Washington; Yolonda Ross ("American Gigo" as Jada Washington; Shamon Brown Jr. ("Tales of the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles") as Stanley "Papa" Jackson; Michael V. Epps ("Primary Position," 2023) as Jake Taylor; Birgundi Baker ("Black Lightning") as Kiesha Williams; and Luke James ("Star") as Victor "Trig" Taylor.

This new season introduces a few exciting guest stars to the Windy City. Phylicia Rashad ("The Beekeeper," 2024) is Rene, a woman who is able to connect with Pastor Zeke (Daniel J. Watts, "The Penguin"). Wendy Raquel Robinson ("Poppa's House") is the generous Riley Dalton and Karrueche Tran ("Bel-Air") is Zuri, a determined troublemaker.

On both bigger and smaller screens, Meghann Fahy is keeping her presence known.

Top billed in the current feature film "Drop," the alum of HBO's "The White Lotus," for which she was a Primetime Emmy nominee, as well as Freeform's "The Bold Type," is tackling series work again. In the Netflix comedy "Sirens" — which streams all five of its episodes starting Thursday, May 22 — Fahy plays the sister of the new assistant (Milly Alcock, "House of the Dragon") of a wealthy, high society-minded animal activist (Julianne Moore, "Magnolia," 1999), whose apparently huge influence over the new hire sets up a battle of wills among those around her.

Kevin Bacon ("Hollow Man," 2000) and Glenn Howerton ("It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia") are also among the stars of "Sirens," set over the course of one weekend and developed by Molly Smith Metzler ("Maid") from her play "Elemeno Pea." Metzler is among the executive producers of the show, as is actress Margot Robbie ("Barbie," 2023).

"Sirens" marks Fahy's return to Netflix after her fairly recent run opposite Nicole Kidman in last September's limited, wedding-and-murder-driven series "The Perfect Couple." That was her first TV job after the one that brought her massive attention and wide acclaim, playing Daphne Sullivan in Season 2 of "The White Lotus" — a series that she has said she would readily go back to, if series mentor Mike White ("School of Rock," 2003) invited her back, as he did with fellow stars Natasha Rothwell ("Insecure"), Jennifer Coolidge ("Legally Blonde," 2001) and Jon Gries ("The Pretender").

Fahy won't be absent for too long in any event, since she's been cast along with Rose Byrne ("Damages") in "The Good Daughter," a Peacock series based on a novel by Karin Slaughter ("Will Trent") that is currently filming. Also, "Drop" is likely to start streaming before long, so the visibility that Fahy has had lately is sure to continue shortly after "Sirens."
