FRESH fruits and vegetables don't have to be expensive if you buy them in season and many are in season year round. To learn more, visit www.sdharvestofthemonth.com

FROZEN fruits and vegetables are packed and frozen within hours of harvest, so they don't lose their flavor or nutritional value. Try steaming vegetables in the microwave or stovetop rather than boiling to keep in more nutrients.

CANNED fruits and vegetables often get a bad rap but they are still nutritious. Choose 100% fruit juice with no added sugar and vegetables with no sale added. Remember to drain the water, juice, or syrup and rinse with water to help remove some of the extra sugar and salt.

Checking in with JESSICA BIEL

Jessica Biel has experience in playing a sibling, but not like the one she embodies in a new project.

Initially famous as Mary Camden during the first six seasons of the WB/CW series "7th Heaven," Biel returns as both a star and an executive producer of "The Better Sister," a Prime Video drama series that starts streaming Thursday, May 29. Based on the bestselling novel by Alafair Burke, it casts Biel as Chloe, a seemingly successful businesswoman whose life is diametrically opposed to that of her troubled, estranged sister Nicky, played by Elizabeth Banks ("Press Your Luck"), who is also an executive producer of the tale.

When a fate befalls Chloe's husband, Adam ("House of Cards" and "Billions" alum Corey Stoll), the sisters come back together to determine what — and who — caused it. Matthew Modine ("Zero Day"), Gloria Reuben ("Mr. Robot") and Lorraine Tossaint ("Orange is the New Black") also appear.

The actress, who has been married to singer and actor Justin Timberlake ("Sexy Back") since 2012, has tackled a good amount of serious material in her television work on both sides of the camera. While "7th Heaven" often had topical scripts, Biel brought the Petra Hammesfahr novel "The Sinner" to USA Network in 2017 as one of the producers and also the star of the first of the show's four seasons, as a woman who committed a fatal stabbing.

Biel filled both jobs again on the podcast-inspired drama "Limetown," which debuted on what then was called Facebook Watch in 2019. She played a journalist probing the disappearances of more than 300 people at a Tennessee research facility. Biel then opted to stay off-camera by being an executive producer of "Cruel Summer," the Freeform series about mystery-infused friendships between women in the 1990s.

Troubles with adulting: FX explores growing pains in ensemble comedy 'Adults'

There is something about a ragtag group of friends that the television industry just loves to latch on to. From "Three's Company" in 1977 to "Seinfeld" in '89, "Friends" in '94 and "How I Met Your Mother" in 2005, proof that the ensemble comedy is alive and well rests in the DNA of shows such as HBO's "Girls" and Netflix's new Tina Fey ("Saturday Night Live") dramedy, "The Four Seasons," which premiered May 1.

Joining the ranks of these predecessors and various other contemporaries is FX's series "Adults," premiering with two episodes Wednesday, May 28, on the broadcast network and the next day on Hulu.

Created by Ben Kronengold and Rebecca Shaw, both of whom got their start as writers for "The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon," "Adults" follows a group of 20-somethings in New York City who get a real taste of adulthood while staying at a friend's childhood home while his parents are away on an RV trip across the United States.

The friend in question, Samir (Malik Ellassal, "Joe Pickett"), has taken on the role of "de facto man of the house," per the FX-released press materials, and is responsible for taking care of the home in his parents' absence despite the fact that he can barely take care of himself. Described as "struggling to launch," Samir is growing into a fine young man but still struggles to understand the complexities of his parents' boiler and the importance of separating laundry.

Growing up, Samir had his parents to rely on, but he also had Billie (Lucy Freyer, "Paint," 2023). His childhood best friend, Billie was quick to mature and often found herself in control of matters, regardless of the situation. But after a poor choice at work that ended with her "vaguely threaten[ing] her boss," says FX, Billie is back at square one: questioning her choices and mulling over her previously decided-upon path in life.

Joining Samir and Billie in their quests to be kind and functioning members of society are fellow burgeoning adults Issa (Amita Rao, "Deli Boys"), Anton (Owen Thiele, "Dollface") and the always full-named Paul Baker (Jack Inmanen, "The Office Movers").

Issa, who has been prone to collecting odd jobs as she learns which passion she wants to channel her energy into, is currently teaching a children's dance class. Ever the driven activist type, Issa is described by FX as someone who "loves her friends hard but struggles to feel heard."

Paul Baker is known by both names despite the fact that he is the only Paul in their immediate friend group. Why? Well, some people just suit their full name better — like "Colin Robinson" of FX's vampire series "What We Do in the Shadows," for instance). A kind Canadian who moved to New York City to leave his imprint on the city — or maybe to have the city leave its imprint on him — Paul Baker is happy to have finally found a friend group that suits his personality and his lifestyle.

Last but not least in the group is Anton, "the only member of the friend group with a real job, even though he doesn't quite understand what it is" (per FX). Despite initially only having ties to Samir, his college roommate, Anton has developed a close, fairly boundaryless relationship with all four of the others. Although the connection is genuine, intense friendships are par for the course with Anton and his oozing charisma.

The series comes from Kronengold and Shaw, who have worked as a duo ever since their viral 2018 joint Yale graduation speech in front of public figure and honored guest Hillary Clinton. Their unbeatable chemistry, impeccable comedic timing and their own recent lived experiences with "adulting" show through the fiber of the new FX series.

"We're so grateful to be telling this story about a group of friends navigating the hardest, horniest time of life together," Kronengold and Shaw said in a joint statement after "Adults" was picked up by FX.

Most recently, Biel executive-produced and starred in Hulu's 2022 limited series "Candy," the true story of a Texas resident suspected of the axe murder of her neighbor, played by Melanie Lynskey, who's been having her own problems with homicidal matters lately in Showtime's "Yellowjackets." Both actresses' husbands, Timberlake and Jason Ritter ("Matlock"), respectively, were also in the cast.

Fare that's lighter or more escapist has come Biel's way through her movie work, but she evidently sees the home screen as an appropriate venue for her to handle heavier stories. Now with "The Better Sister," she's continuing that trend.
