On June 8, McClain County Treasurer Teresa Jones will stand up to complete what is likely her least favorite task as treasurer.

It falls to Jones every year to serve as auctioneer, selling real estate on which four years of unpaid taxes and penalties have accrued.

Masks will be required for visitors

McClain County Commissioner Wilson Lyles has announced the courthouse, that has been closed since March 24, will reopen to the public starting Tuesday. Visitors will be required to wear face masks and their temperature will be taken at the front door upon arrival.

“We are making it a requirement that no more than four visitors can be in any office at one time,” Lyles said.

The number of visitors in any one office will vary due to the square feet of space, county clerk Pam Beller said.

Conrad Moffat named Cleveland County 4-H's Top Youth Volunteer of the Year

Ruth Allard
4-H Youth Development Educator

Cleveland County 4-H named Conrad Moffat of Lexington its Top Youth Volunteer of the Year.

The honor was granted as part of the Prudential Spirit of Community Awards, a nationwide youth volunteer recognition program sponsored by Prudential Financial in partnership with the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

By selecting Moffat, 17, as its Top Youth Volunteer, Cleveland County 4-H has advanced his application for state-level judging in the 2020 Prudential Spirit of Community Awards program.

Moffat has been a 4-H member for 10 years. Throughout his career, 4-H has reached thousands of people and taught many workshops, all the while doing what they loved.

Moffat has come out of his shell and grown as a leader. He teaches about beef cattle whenever he can, especially at Ag Day. When a need arises, he is not far behind, always ready to lend a helping hand.

He was made aware of the need for fresh fruits and vegetables in his community, so he secured a piece of land, some plants, volunteers and began a community garden.

He works on the family farm alongside his family, which includes his older brother, mom, dad and grandfather.

Moffat loves showing cattle, livestock judging, and agriculture. He won the Agriculture project award in 2018, the same award his older brother won just eight years before. He has been a delegate to Denver Western Round-up, National Congress, is an active member of the livestock judging team, and active in his local FFA. He is the current Cleveland County President.

As a local honoree, Moffat is now in the running to be named one of two Prudential Spirit of Community State Honorees for Oklahoma. State Honorees receive a $1,000 scholarship and an all-expense-paid trip with a parent or guardian to Washington, D.C., for several days of special recognition events. Other state-level honorees will receive bronze medallions or Certificates

Blood drive May 26 in Purcell

Blood donors are needed to keep supply strong amid COVID-19.

In times of need, people come together to support one another. The American Red Cross is asking for healthy individuals to step up to help patients experiencing health crises by donating blood or platelets.

A blood donation opportunity will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday, May 26, at First United Bank, 324 W. Main, in Purcell.

As COVID-19 continues to affect everyday life, people may not be thinking about blood donation. But blood and platelets are needed daily to help patients battling disease and facing the unexpected. Donating blood is an easy way to care for each other and ensure hospitals have the blood products patients rely on.

All who come to give blood or platelets will receive a special Red Cross "We're all in this together" T-shirt, by mail, while supplies last. Donors must have a valid email address on file to claim their T-shirt.

Healthy individuals who are feeling well are asked to make an appointment to donate this May by downloading the free Red Cross Blood Donor App, visiting RedCrossBlood.org, calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767) or enabling the Blood Donor Skill on any Alexa Echo device.

Donors are asked to schedule an appointment prior to arriving and are required to wear a face covering or mask while at the drive, in alignment with Centers for Disease Control and Prevention public guidance.

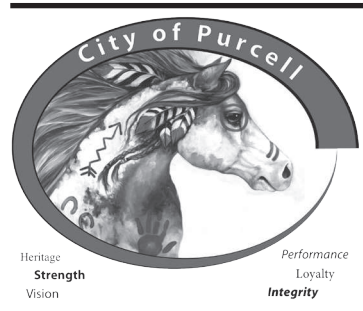

The Red Cross is also looking for blood drive hosts to help ensure a stable blood supply. Learn more and sign up to sponsor a drive by visiting RedCrossBlood.org/HostADrive.

Simply download the American Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit RedCrossBlood.org, call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767) or enable the Blood Donor Skill on any Alexa Echo device to make an appointment or for more information.

All blood types are needed to ensure a reliable supply for patients. A blood donor card or driver's license or two other forms of identification are required at check-in.

Individuals who are 17 years of age in most states (16 with parental consent where allowed by state law), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also have to meet certain height and weight requirements.

Blood and platelet donors can save time at their next donation by using RapidPass® to complete their pre-donation reading and health history questionnaire online, on the day of their donation, before arriving at the blood drive. Follow the instructions at RedCrossBlood.org/RapidPass or use the Blood Donor App.

We appreciate the hard work you do in keeping your property mowed. This is just a reminder that you are not allowed to deposit the clippings in the street or sidewalk.

Please sweep them up or blow them back in your yard, not your neighbors or across the street. This not only makes the street and property look bad, the clippings wash into the storm drains, clogging them.

This is a code ordinance 90-34. The fine is $249.

Again thank you for maintaining your property. If you have any questions please feel free to call us at 527-6561 or 527-4656.

Mailbox Improvement Week May 17-23

The U.S. Postal Service is asking all Purcell homeowners to inspect and repair their mailboxes during Mailbox Improvement Week, May 17-23, Postmaster Mike Riddle said.

"Repairing suburban and rural mailboxes improves the appearance of our community and makes delivering and receiving mail safer for our carriers and customers," Riddle says.

The Postal Service makes this annual request because of the wear and tear that occurs to mailboxes every year.

"This is especially important after the effects of last winter," he added.

Some of the typical activities homeowners may need to do include:

- Replacing loose hinges on a mailbox door.
- Repainting a mailbox that may have rusted or has started to peel.
- Remounting a loosened mailbox post.
- Replacing or adding house numbers.
- Clearing in and around the mailbox to minimize insects.
- "If a homeowner plans to install a new mailbox or replace a worn one, he or she must use only Postal Service-approved traditional, contemporary or locking full/limited service mailboxes," Riddle said.

"Customers must be careful when purchasing curbside mail receptacles because the use of unapproved boxes is prohibited. Customers may use a custom-built mailbox, but they must consult with my office to ensure it conforms to guidelines applying to flag, size, strength and quality of construction," he concluded.

For more information on the use of names or numbers on mailboxes, or answers to any other questions, contact Purcell MPO at 527-7744.

The Postal Service receives no tax dollars for operating expenses and relies on the sale of postage, products and services to fund its operations.

Happy retirement

In the category of you know you are getting older, I just took another hit this week when I learned my kid sister is retiring.

Wow, congratulations to Missy Clark after putting in 40 years of elementary education teaching in the Mid-Del School District.

She's three years my junior and has already hung up the chalk and erasers.

I wish her all the best in her retirement.

Love ya, Sis!

You've got to get your priorities straight.

No NBA. No Masters. No Kentucky Derby. So far no MLB.

But don't worry sports fans. We do have little league baseball.

Editor's Notebook

John D. Montgomery

That's right. You have to have your temperature taken to enter a restaurant or board a plane.

But if you're at a little league baseball game, come right on in.

We can't even have school or commencement exercises. But we can have little League.

little league.

NCAA football is very iffy right now.

Major League, did you get that, Major League Baseball will be played without fans in the stands.

But don't fret baseball fans, you can go sit in the stands at any little league game.

Sounds unbelievable but it's true.

College football teams are not able to workout but the word I've heard is some little league baseball teams have been practicing this entire spring.

Try and let some pandemic stand between me and my little league team.

At least, we as a society know what's important.

One person's trash

Quarterly pick up provides an exercise in human nature

If you want a quick exercise in human nature, set out items you don't want for collection on big trash day.

My town only offers big trash day once every three months and I usually forget it until after the fact.

Last week, I was determined to start the task of cleaning out my garage.

The city picks up my trash on Tuesdays so I called city hall to make sure there wouldn't be an issue with me setting items out the weekend prior.

Then I texted my handyman, Tony, and told him I needed him to come over and bring his trailer.

At the top of my list of items I wanted out of my garage were a full-size mattress and box springs.

So those were the first items out. We added several bags of trash; a kerosene heater, three electric baseboard heaters and vacuum cleaner (all non-working); a carpet-covered cat tree and several odds and ends of clutter.

As we stacked it beside the highway, Tony told me it would be gone inside 24 hours. I thought he was crazy.

MUCH ADO

Jeanne Grimes

Within an hour I noticed the first vehicle stop and a man got out.

When he noticed me watching and waving, he got back in his car and sped off.

I was just trying to let him know to take whatever he wanted.

The next morning, the pile at the highway was noticeably smaller.

As I pulled out to go to work, I saw someone had taken the cat tree, kerosene heater and baseboard heaters.

I was a little worried whoever took them would bring them back once they realized the heaters didn't work.

The biggest surprise, though, was yet to come.

It rained enough that night that everything outside was saturated.

And the wet fog started rolling in well before dusk.

We'd gone to the grocery store after work and then stopped to get something to eat before heading home.

Bill saw it first.

"Your mattress is gone," he said.

And not just the mattress, the box springs too. The box springs with one corner shredded by one of the cats. The set spent months uncovered in the garage and then 48 hours in rain at the side of the road. Gone.

I'm glad it is out of my life, but I shudder a little at anyone picking up a soggy mattress and box springs from the side of the road and taking it home.

To each their own, I suppose. But I surely don't understand human nature..

NEWS FROM CAPITOL HILL

Dear Graduates

Congressman Tom Cole

As the school year comes to a close and graduation season begins, I am thinking of the many high school and college seniors who will be celebrating their achievements differently than they expected.

Although the coronavirus crisis has canceled and postponed many traditional commencement ceremonies, that should not lessen the sense of great pride and joy felt by this year's graduates. And I want to extend my deepest congratulations and best wishes.

Graduating means that you have successfully scaled and overcome a series of challenges, and you have proven you are ready and prepared to advance beyond.

Every graduate deserves to be honored, and I hope you will take the time to relish all that you have worked toward and accomplished, celebrating with your family and loved ones who are just as proud of all that you've achieved and who will continue to cheer you on as the next chapters of your life are written.

Though we are living through unusual times that caused senior year to take some unexpected turns, I want to challenge you to look on this moment in time as a weigh station—not the final destination—in the tremendous and unique journey of your life.

In the days to come, I also want to challenge you to walk boldly ahead with your eyes and mind wide open to the endless opportunities and possibilities that await you.

Indeed, when I think back on the years since I graduated high school and college, I realize that most of my regrets are related to opportunities I didn't seize, chances I didn't take and service I didn't render.

Nearly all those mistakes happened because I was either afraid to take the risk, or I chose not to take the time to complete some worthwhile task.

So, I urge the graduates, when you confront something, be willing to run the risk and be willing to take the time to see it through all the way to the end.

Finally, whether you plan to pursue more formal education or not, I challenge you to become a lifelong learner.

No matter what stage or season in which life finds you, I encourage you to always leave room for personal growth.

With that, I wish you good luck and Godspeed. May your journey be interesting as I am sure it shall.

But more importantly, may you find the peace and happiness that each and every one of you deserve.

Congratulations, Graduating Class of 2020!

MOVIES WITH DAVE

By David Stull

The new movies just keep on coming.

With theaters continuing to be closed due to the ongoing pandemic, I'm frankly shocked at how many new, high profile releases are still coming out each week.

Both of the movies I watched this week were originally set to receive theatrical releases, but instead were released early to video-on-demand streaming services.

The first of which is an animated reimagining featuring everyone's favorite mystery solving pooch, the second a film following the last days of the world's most famous gangster, Al Capone.

Let's get to the reviews.

First up is "Scoob!"

Since childhood, Shaggy (Will Forte), Fred (Will Forte), Velma (Will Forte), and Daphne

(Will Forte) have been solving mysteries across the globe accompanied by Shaggy's pet dog, Scooby-Doo (Frank Welker).

But their greatest mystery together comes in a turn of events when they run into the Blue Falcon (Mark Wahlberg) and his robotic dog sidekick Dynamutt (Ken Jeong), who is trying to stop his arch-rival, Dick Dastardly (Jason Isaacs), from causing a global "dog-pocalypse" by unleashing the great Cerberus upon the world.

What do you get when you take some of Hanna-Barbera's most popular cartoon characters, shove them all in a blender, and toss the resulting animated slush on the big screen?

Why, you get this film of course.

Minus the "big screen" aspect since "Scoob!" was one of the many movies originally scheduled to be open in theaters, but was instead released straight to video-on-demand.

Either way we have our Hanna-Barbera slush in hand, and it really is interesting to see which of the old cast of characters Warner Bros. decided to throw in here.

Plight America faces

Dear Editor:

I would like to commend Dr. Jack Devere Minzey on his portrayal of the plight we are facing in America in last week's Purcell Register.

Now let's assume that we are unhappy with the two political parties we have now and want to organize a new one.

Our platform will be as follows.

1. We will allow abortion on demand, even after the birth of a child if the mother decides that she doesn't want it.
2. We will promote open borders. We will allow anyone, no matter who they are, to enter our country at will. We will provide them with free government assistance, housing, education and health care.
3. We will organize a one world government and require everyone to be under one set of laws.
4. We will provide free health care for everyone. You will be required to purchase health insurance whether you want it or not and if you don't purchase it, you will be fined.
5. We will form a socialist form of government. Everyone with a job will be required to 'donate' most of their salary to those who refuse to work. What is yours will become the property of the government to disseminate as they see fit.
6. We will confiscate all firearms. Anyone who does not freely give up their guns will be jailed. The government will provide protection for you from now on.
7. We will abolish the constitution as it is outdated and no longer applies to life in the United States.
8. We will require that everyone be micro-chipped, supposedly to help monitor your medical records.
9. We will euthanize those who are too old to be useful anymore and whose existence will put a burden on society.
10. We will demonize Christianity and promote Sharia Law. Millions have already joined. Will you be next?

Legislature overrides Governor's budget veto

The Oklahoma Legislature in early May passed a $7.7 billion state budget for Fiscal Year 2021. The amount was about 3 percent less than FY20, which was the state's largest budget.

That the cut was this low was the result of a Herculean effort by our legislative budget leaders after they were given estimates from the governor and the state Board of Equalization that we would have $1.4 million, or 17 percent, less to appropriate this year.

By utilizing measures such as tapping into state reserves, cutting some one-time expenses, allowing transportation bonds, redirecting some apportionments made off the top of the state budget and other approaches, we were able to keep cuts to core state services to about 4 percent and only 2.5 percent to public schools.

The governor vetoed three measures that supported the state budget and then the budget itself. The Legislature, by a large majority, was swift in overriding the vetoes.

Several of the measures redirect additional apportionments sent to several of the state pension plans. To be clear, the Legislature is not taking money from the plans. These measures do not touch the corpus of the plans, and benefits will not be reduced.

In fact, the House and Senate passed a cost-of-living-adjustment that will increase benefits to retirees if the governor signs it into law.

More than a decade ago, the pension plans were in terrible shape, with funding ratios low and several facing fiscal insolvency.

The Legislature decided to send additional money each year to these plans to ensure the future of our pension system is strong. This year, we will send about $200 million in additional money to these plans and redirect a portion of what would normally go into pensions to education.

When our economy improves, we will resume normal apportionments to the pension funds with a bit of an increase.

The governor also vetoed a transportation bill that redirects money from transportation to education. Curiously, the governor approved the bill that will allow transportation bonds.

So, had we let his veto stand, transportation would have received a disproportionate increase and education would have been further decimated with a 12.5 percent cut.

All of the momentum gained through teacher pay raises and additional money sent to schools and classrooms would have been erased. We could not let this happen.

The governor intimidated in his veto message of the budget that the process was not transparent. We've held public meetings beginning last fall and in January and since returning to the Capitol after the COVID-19 shutdown to give details of the state budget.

The governor also dismissed the work that was done to keep cuts to core services low as being irresponsible. I respect the governor and much of the work he's done since coming into office.

Look forward to a better working relationship with him in the

Dave:

Of course there's Shaggy, Scooby, and the gang. But, in an odd twist, Fred, Velma, and Daphne practically end up playing second fiddle to a couple lesser known Hanna-Barbera characters, Dynamutt and Blue Falcon.

Heck, Dee Dee Skyes (Kiersey Clemons), a character originally from "Captain Caveman and the Teen Angels," is just as, if not more prominent here than Shaggy and Scooby's friends.

I guess if you're already going that far out of your way to add more characters from the Hanna-Barbera canon, you might as well throw in one of their most prominent villains. Especially if they have a name as fun as Dick Dastardly.

Frankly, I'm surprised the filmmakers had the restraint not to throw in Yogi Bear, Fred Flintstone, or the entire Jetson family, just for kicks. Though I'm sure future film reimaginings featuring all those characters are currently in the works.

You might be wondering why I keep talking about which characters they ended up cramming in this movie, instead of actually talking about the movie itself. And well, it's because the movie isn't all that interesting beyond who's in it.

It's not bad. It's just not all that great either.

To the film's credit, it looks nice. Warner Bros. contracted the animation work out to Reel FX Animation Studios, the studio which helped make "The Book of Life" back in 2014 and more recently "UglyDolls."

Regardless of my thoughts on the overall quality of any of these films, Reel FX is definitely putting some quality work into their productions. Especially when you compare their films to blights on the animated world like last year's "Addams Family" movie. For me, the look of "Scoob!" was easily the biggest highlight "Scoob!" is cartoony looking, and I mean that in the best possible way.

The film reminds me of an old fashioned cartoon. It's all very colorful, and the characters are incredibly lively and very expressive. This is all heightened by all the goofy sound effects they added in for when someone falls, gets hit, or even when someone's wiggling their fingers right before they're about to grab something they shouldn't.

I like the aesthetic as a whole. If Warner Bros. decides to make more films featuring dozens of Hanna-Barbera characters, I hope they bring back Reel FX. Just as long as they don't bring back the writers for "Scoob!"

The story here is so lazy.

It all seems like a half-baked excuse to stitch all these Hanna-Barbera properties together. One after the other, after the other, after the other.

Of course there has to be some kind of internal conflict, so the movie briefly pits Scooby and Shaggy against each other, even though the setup leading up to their conflict is sloppy at best.

Blue Falcon decides to make Scooby a superhero because Dick Dastardly wants to kidnap him. Why? Because Falcon is a moron and takes his cues on who to make a hero from the bad guy? I guess?

This makes Shaggy a little jealous, but worse makes him feel like he's losing a friend.

I could see this story element working. Heck, I've seen it work okay in dozens of other movies and TV shows. But setup behind is just so forced, not to mention plain stupid.

This leads into the film's biggest problem of all. One involving setup and payoff.

In most good movies, and stories in general, you have lots of moments setting up things early on. Things which will eventually come into play later.

This film's issue is that it's all payoff, with very little setup.

There's a lot of jokes and references that the movie expects the audience to be in on, but which are never actually set up in the film.

Maybe some would make more sense to those well versed in the Hanna-Barbera cartoons, but not all of them. Many are pop culture references that practically already feel dated.

The movie may have gotten a half-hearted chuckle out of me every once in a long while, but the large majority of the jokes fell completely flat.

I don't know.

I kind of wish Warner Bros. would have taken the simpler route and made a movie just about Scooby and the gang. Add in your other Hanna-Barbera references if you want, but don't make them the main focal point.

And certainly don't throw them in a plot to save the world. This is Scooby-Doo, not "The Avengers." Not every movie needs to have planet ending stakes for crying out loud.

"Scoob!" is far from an unwatchable animated feature. In fact, I expect many kids and parents alike to enjoy it just fine.

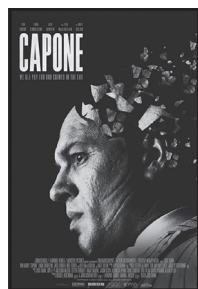

As for me though, all I see is a lost opportunity. A movie that could have been the small start of a series of films that could have grown into something grand, but just isn't.

It seems Warner Bros. still hasn't learned its lesson from entries in their other cinematic universes like "Batman v Superman" in the DC Extended Universe.

They're impatient. They want their expanded, fully realized multi-movie spanning franchises up and running in the span of a single film. But despite their best efforts, this strategy of building a cinematic universe hasn't worked. Not for Warner Bros., not for any Hollywood studio.

With the success of Marvel's cinematic universe, all these studios are keen on manufacturing their own. Sadly, they lack the care and creative talent necessary to make a single high quality movie right out of the gate.

"Scoob!" is rated PG.

The other movie this week is "Capone."

Once a ruthless businessman and bootlegger who ruled Chicago with an iron fist, Alphonse Capone (Tom Hardy) was the most infamous and feared gangster of American lore. But at the age of 47, following nearly a decade of imprisonment, dementia begins to rot Alphonse's mind and his past becomes present.

As harrowing memories of his violent and brutal origins melt into his waking life, he spends his final year surrounded by family with the FBI lying in wait, all while this ailing patriarch struggles to place the memory of the location of millions of dollars he hid away on his property.

Oh Josh Trank. What are you doing man?

Back in 2012 you seemed like such an interesting up and coming director after the release of your first film, "Chronicle."

I was a pretty big fan of "Chronicle" when it came out. At the time the "found footage" gimmick still seemed fairly fresh, and Trank's film made for an interesting twist on the genre just by being a superhero/villain story.

Trank's success with "Chronicle" quickly hoisted him into the spotlight, and not long after its release the young director had talks with Warner Bros., Sony, and 20th Century Fox to helm new projects from each studio.

But for better or worse, both the Sony and WB productions never made it off the ground with Trank attached. The young filmmaker did go on to direct a film for Fox though. And what a movie it turned out to be.

If you've never seen the 2015 version of "Fantastic Four" made by Josh Trank, then count yourself fortunate.

The film is a trainwreck. Strong disagreements from Trank and the studio completely marred the production, with Trank wanting to take the film in a darker direction.

Ultimately the studio got their way, though it took a number of reshoots. All of which stand out like a sore thumb in the final film.

Plus the movie felt like it was missing an entire 45 minutes of runtime, which didn't help the story much either.

Trank then did the unthinkable and trashed "Fantastic Four" on opening weekend saying "A year ago I had a fantastic version of this. And it would've received [sic] great reviews. You'll probably never see it. That's reality though."

To the surprise of no one, Trank had a tough time finding work in Hollywood after that comment, and has been on hiatus as a filmmaker ever since.

That is, until recently.

Enter "Capone."

Through all of Trank's issues with "Fantastic Four," I had always hoped that it was the studio's fault that the film ended up being such a disaster.

But after watching "Capone," a film which Trank had complete control over the writing, directing, and editing, I'm not convinced "Fantastic Four" would have ended up any better under his singular vision.

"Capone" is a bizarre, deeply unpleasant film to watch. One with very little payoff for sitting through all its various oddities and outright disturbing scenes.

The whole thing feels like a prank pulled on the audience. Most of the time I was completely baffled, wondering why the things on screen were happening.

Why does Al Capone sound like the lovechild of a chain smoking toad and Baby Herman from "Who Framed Roger Rabbit?"

Why did Tom Hardy think making Capone sound like a cartoon character in a serious role was a good idea? Seriously. Hardy based his performance for Al Capone, the infamous gangster, on Bugs Bunny.

Also, Tom, what the heck are all the noises you're making with your mouth. Those aren't words Tom. Mumble grunts aren't words.

Why is Al Capone constantly pooping his pants or peeing on himself? There's other ways of showing that the man is incontinent. And we don't need to see the messes he makes for goodness sake.

Why does Al Capone randomly dress in drag to sneak past the FBI's watch? Why does he need to dress as a woman to go unnoticed? I know Bugs Bunny did it too, but that's not a good excuse Tom.

Why does he need to sing The Cowardly Lion's song "If I Were King of the Forest" from "The Wizard of Oz" at the top of his lungs during a screening of the film? Why do you hate me movie? Why?

Then there's all the fever dream sequences where Capone relives dramatic moments during the heights of his reign. None of which seem to have much of a point, beyond being ridiculously violent. Nor do they tie into a greater overall narrative. Mostly because there isn't an overall narrative.

Oh sure, there is a subplot about Capone's estranged son, though the movie doesn't do a very good job of showing why they're alienated from each other in the first place.

They do eventually have a moment towards the end of the film, but it didn't matter to me because the movie hadn't bothered making me care about Capone or his illegitimate son.

There's another subplot about Capone, his family, and the FBI searching for Capone's lost money, which he squirreled away in the past. Naturally, that narrative thread goes absolutely nowhere and is left unresolved by the end of the film.

Why did you make this film Josh Trank? You went on a five year hiatus from making movies only to come back with this? I don't understand.

I'm sorry Trank. After "Chronicle" I really wanted to be a fan of yours. I wanted to see you get another chance after "Fantastic Four."

I just knew given the opportunity, and full creative control, you would come out with something fresh and captivating.

Something that would show that "Fantastic Four" was just a fluke. A case of studio interference gone amuck, through no fault of your own.

That sure does seem foolish now, doesn't it?

Don't watch "Capone." It's not worth the time nor the money to rent it. Even the biggest fans of Tom Hardy will find this strange dumpster fire of a film difficult to sit through.

"Capone" is rated R.

MULREADY SAYS GET READY

Remembering May 2019

Where it can rain, it can flood

By Oklahoma Insurance Commissioner Glen Mulready

One year ago, during the late hours of April 30 and the morning of May 1, 17 tornadoes struck Oklahoma. These storms carried five to six inches of rainfall and thousands of Oklahomans were devastated by flooding that resulted in more than $31 million in estimated losses and almost 6,000 flood claims reported.

In the aftermath of mother nature, Oklahomans did what they do best - we pulled together, volunteered to clean up endless piles of debris and helped the state recover. We came together as one to help our neighbors and demonstrated our state's resilience.

Since this time, we have seen an increase in the purchase of flood insurance as a result of this devastating storm. Unfortunately, over time, people start to forget about this disastrous event and drop their coverage.

As another May begins, I'm encouraging Oklahomans to Get Ready now and reminding you of the importance of preparedness. With the spread of the global COVID-19 pandemic, we must take extra precautions and be extra prepared this year.

Here are three important reasons to consider flood insurance:

You Live in Oklahoma

Flooding is the number one natural disaster in the United States and is one of the top four disaster risks in Oklahoma.

While most standard hom-owners' policies cover tornadoes, hail and wildfires, they do not cover flood. In high-risk areas, there is at least a one in four chance of flooding during a 30-year mortgage.

30-Day Waiting Period

It typically takes up to 30 days for a policy to go into effect so the time to buy is well before a disaster. That is why you need to purchase or renew flood insurance well in advance.

Waiting until you see water levels rise is too late. Get flood coverage under the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP) today.

Cost of Flooding

Flooding can be an emotionally and financially devastating event. According to the Federal Emergency Management Agency, an inch of water in a home could cause more than $27,000 in damages, and about 33 percent of all flood claims come from outside of high-risk areas.

The cost of having flood insurance is a drop in the bucket, compared to the cost of flood damage. In 2019 nationally, the average flood insurance claim payment was $53,301 and the annual average flood insurance premium payment was $674.

People tend to be optimistic and think they're not going to be the victims of a disaster. And no one could have predicted the

Container garden is a great place to start for novice gardeners

Trisha Gedon
Agriculture Communications Svc.

For some folks, gardening is a mystery – perhaps even intimidating. Some want-to-be gardeners may believe they don't know enough about it to try, or are simply convinced they don't have a green thumb.

For those who don't know a rose bush from a tomato plant, there is still hope. David Hillock, Oklahoma State University Extension consumer horticulturist, said anyone can garden, no matter their skill level or the size of the landscape.

“Obviously, big, elaborate gardens and landscapes take time and talent. But, if you start slowly, maybe with just a tomato plant, a pot of herbs or even a few colorful annuals, you're bound to have success,” Hillock said. “Starting small and slow also is a great way to get kids interested in horticulture. It's easy to get started gardening by planting a dish garden, container garden or a succulent garden.”

A dish garden is a type of container garden, typically made with shallow dishes or bowls and with multiple plants in one container. The great thing about a dish garden is that different species of plants can be mixed and matched. However, Hillock said to make sure the plants have similar water and light requirements.

Hillock also said the dish must have enough room and proper growth medium to support the plants. In addition, keep drainage in mind.

“Don't use a layer of gravel in the bottom of the dish. This actually will hinder water movement away from the roots,” he said. “The media used for a dish garden will vary, depending on the type of plants. Choose something that drains well, but holds adequate moisture. The soil also shouldn't be very fertile, as this encourages rapid growth.”

The great thing is the plants generally stay small or grow slowly. A popular plant is succulents, for example.

Succulents don't need as much depth because they can tolerate shallow rooting and longer dry spells. Don't plant a succulent with a plant that likes moist soil and high humidity.

Container gardening is another option for beginners, and it opens up even more possibilities than dish gardens.

“Some people may think container gardens are just for flowers or small shrubs, but you actually can grow a wide variety of edibles, including vegetables and herbs. Herbs or a tomato plant are great choices for novice gardeners,” Hillock said.

“Although container gardening includes many of the same elements as traditional gardening, it isn't nearly as time consuming, which makes it perfect for those just getting interested in gardening. Basically, once the flowers, herbs or vegetables are planted, all you have to do is keep it fertilized

“Imagine Your Story” with library's Summer Learning Challenge

In a year so affected by the continuing coronavirus pandemic, the library has had to adapt its way of presenting services, which includes the Pioneer Library System's annual Summer Learning Challenge.

But rest assured, the Summer Learning Challenge still will go strong, even if it looks a little different for readers to “Imagine Your Story” through 2020's summer theme.

And, it's getting an earlier start than usual. Summer Learning began in May and runs through August 15, with a variety of ways to participate both virtually and from home.

This year's Summer Learning Challenge - accessible online at pioneer.beanstack.org-rewards readers for time spent reading either a physical book or through the library's downloadable collection at pioneer-librariansystem.org/download.

But as with last year's Challenge, taking part in a variety of activities also will count toward a person's summer goal. The current circumstances bring a chance for great creativity in terms of ways to participate in the Summer Learning Challenge.

Some things families can do include:

- Create and share a book cover of your life.
- Play a board game of construct a puzzle.
- Learn a family recipe.
- Imagine, create, and act out a fairy tale.
- Have a family dance party.
- Write a letter. Send it to a friend or relative.
- Build using items around your house.
- Create art based on a favorite book.
- Explore your neighborhood in an outdoor “scavenger hunt.”

The popular array of programs traditionally offered during the summer will happen as well but in a virtual way.

Plans are in progress with multiple presenters who were scheduled to appear inside libraries during June and July for performances to be given through an online platform.

Out of an abundance of caution, programs inside the library have been suspended through at least the end of August to avoid large gatherings even after state and local regulations allow for libraries to safely reopen.

While individual libraries will not be able to present kickoff events at their locations, each library will be represented with a special Summer Learning Challenge Kickoff Week, scheduled from May 26 through May 31. Each day, two libraries will be represented with virtual kickoff programs offered through the PLS Facebook page.

Participants in this year's challenge are working together to spend six million minutes reading and learning this summer. If the goal is reached, PLS will donate books to the McClain and Cleveland County Health Departments and to the Citizen Potawatomi Nation for young readers ages five and under.

Last summer's challenge efforts helped PLS donate hundreds of books to multiple organizations thanks to the Pioneer Library System Foundation, Oklahoma Electric Cooperative Foundation and Cynthia Cooper.

Individuals who complete various stages of the challenge earn incentive rewards for themselves, and multiple prize drawings are scheduled for the end of summer for teen and adult participants.

Learning rewards will be available at physical libraries as buildings are able to hopefully be open later in the summer.

The 2020 Summer Learning Program is sponsored by: Anne and Henry Zarrow Foundation; Friends of the Library groups; Hitachi Computer Products of America (Inc.); Institute of Museum and Library Services; Oklahoma College Savings Plan; Pioneer Library System Foundation; Sonic: America's Drive-In Corp.; the Oklahoma Department of Libraries; and the Oklahoman Newspapers in Education.

Legislative update

We completed all essential work for session on Friday. However, because of all the uncertainty with the health crisis and to make sure we don't have to come back into special session to address any possible actions by the governor, we have adjourned to a time certain on Friday, May 29, by 5 p.m.

This gives us the ability to come back to the Capitol and finish up any necessary work that might come up in the next two weeks, if necessary.

It's disappointing that so many good bills had to be left on the table, but we had to protect the health of our staff and ourselves while following the state social distancing guidelines. Several of my Senate bills were awaiting a final hearing in the House. These will have to be reintroduced next session.

This past week, we voted on over 100 bills and confirmed more than 130 executive nominations. In all, we confirmed nearly 200 of Gov. Stitt's executive nominations to state boards and commissions. While there are more than 500 of these around the state, the governor only has constitutional authority to appoint members to around 260 of them.

I was honored to carry the executive nomination of Jeanine Watkins of Lindsay to the Oklahoma Liquefied Petroleum Gas Board before both the Senate Energy Committee and the full Senate. She will serve a four-year term ending June 30, 2024, succeeding David Root.

I also had the privilege of carrying the nomination of Jan Gaddis, an attorney in Duncan, to the Forensic Review Board. She was confirmed by both the Senate Public Safety Committee and the full Senate. She will serve a five-year term ending Dec. 31, 2024, succeeding Yukon attorney, Michael Segler.

One bill that I was glad to see get through this session is HB 4018, also known as the Rural Broadband Expansion Act. I am a co-author on this bill. Perhaps you or someone you know has experienced lack of internet or poorly performing service.

This is an especially common occurrence in rural Oklahoma. Sadly, our state is ranked 47th nationally for rural broadband access, which is unacceptable and has to be addressed and changed immediately.

HB 4018 will create a council to study broadband access throughout the state and figure out what it will cost to expand it statewide.

Internet is something that is used by our students, employees and businesses, as well as private citizens to keep up to date on news and weather. If you're applying for a job, like thousands of Oklahomans are doing right now, more than likely you'll only be able to do so online.

If you don't have access to internet, you'll have to find a public location where you have access to it in order to search and apply for jobs. It's also no coincidence that the communities and areas of the state with the lowest census participation don't have broadband access.

I'm anxious for this council to be created and begin their research so we can get this basic service to all Oklahomans.

When not working on legislative business, I'm typi-

The Potawatomi Trail of Death

Loren Rhoades
Gaylord News

American history textbooks commonly reference the relocation of Native American tribes or the Trail of Tears. But most omit the Potawatomi Trail of Death.

The Trail of Death was the 660-mile journey to Kansas by 860 members of the Potawatomi Nation from their homes in the Great Lakes region in 1838.

"Our Trail of Death got its moniker because over the 660 miles that we were forced to walk from northern Indiana toward the new reservation in Kansas, around 40 tribal members died," said Kelli Mosteller, director of the Citizen Potawatomi Nation Cultural Heritage Center. "We were forced out at the end of a gun. They did not want to negotiate with us to stay, so it was a forced removal."

The Potawatomi are of the Neshnabe people and have seven federally recognized tribes in the United States and two Canadian first nations. Before their journey to Kansas, they lived along the shores of Lake Michigan in Michigan, Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin.

"Following the Indian Removal Act, we started to get pressure to sign removal treaties from the federal government," Mosteller said.

Individual Potawatomi villages and communities signed treaties, which caused more than a dozen removals from one part of the Great Lakes area to another and eventually the west.

In 1833, larger removal treaties were signed, which moved much of the tribe from Chicago to Iowa.

"They lived there for a few years, where they were promised that would be their land forever and always, and of course that didn't work out," Mosteller said.

After those promises were broken, some members of the Potawatomi Tribe were pushed onto the Trail of Death. The federal government had the Potawatomi leaders shackled in the back of a prison wagon. There was a shortage of food, water and horses. Young children and the elderly were forced to walk the entire way.

"We were a woodland people who were leaving behind the place that our stories told us the Creator made for us," Mosteller said. "Where our medicines grew, where the food that we knew how to prepare and grow grew, where our ancestors were buried. We were leaving behind the place that made us who we were, and being forced to walk ... to a climate we did not know how to live in."

The federal government looked at the two Potawatomi communities in Iowa and Kansas and decided to move them to a common reservation in northeastern Kansas.

"We lived on that reservation for about 15 to 20 years, when we were pressured once again to get ready to sell that land, to the railroad this time," Mosteller said.

In 1867, the tribe signed another removal treaty and about 2,000 Potawatomi started making their way toward Indian Territory in what is now Shawnee, where they had purchased a reservation from the U.S. government.

They didn't know the Absentee Shawnee were already living on that land, which led to tension and violence between the tribes. Federal legislation in 1872 helped determine where each tribe would end up. Then, in 1891, the Potawatomi land was opened up to a land run. "So, we had not only the tribal communities to contend with, but also non-native settlers who came in and took over half our reservation in one afternoon," Mosteller said.

Enrollment in the Shawnee-based Citizen Potawatomi Nation is now about 34,000. Mosteller and other tribal members want future generations to know that it is their right and their obligation to learn their people's history. This includes learning the native language, participating in cultural activities and taking pride in who they are.

"Our ancestors survived a lot for us," Mosteller said, "It is now on us to pick up that torch and carry it on to the next several generations, because we didn't fight to let these things die."

A balanced budget

It was another busy week at the Oklahoma Legislature.

After passing a balanced budget through both chambers last week, the Legislature received notification on Wednesday afternoon that the Governor had vetoed several budget bills, including our general appropriations bill, which is the overall budget bill for state agencies.

Sadly, it appears that the Governor was misinformed regarding the impact of these vetoes on the budget and Oklahoma's financial security.

These budget bills were specifically written to prevent cuts to education, which has seen much-needed historic investments in recent years. If the four vetoes had stood, public school funding could have been cut by 12 percent, or $292 million.

The middle of a pandemic is not the time to cut state agencies who are providing services many Oklahomans are depending on. Due to the economic impact of COVID-19, we were facing an unexpected budget deficit.

Initial projections estimated a cut in the double digits to the entire budget, but our leadership team created a balanced budget that preserves education funding. The final budget makes cuts of less than 4 percent.

On Wednesday evening, the Legislature overwhelmingly voted to override the Governor's vetoes on all four budget bills. The four bills have now become law and will guide our state budget for Fiscal Year 2021.

The rest of the week was spent focused on advancing numerous policy bills, including several of my own that I authored.

On Monday, I presented Senate Bill 1823, which creates Shepherd's Law. This legislation was authored by Sen. Brenda Stanley and is named after the newborn son of a former student, Leyce Doolen, who lost her baby the day after a planned home delivery went terribly wrong due to negligent care by the midwife.

Shepherd's Law creates a path for licensure for lay midwives in Oklahoma. Currently, non-nurse midwives can deliver babies outside the hospital without a license or oversight. After Shepherd's passing, Leyce's midwife simply removed the word "nurse" from her title and continued practicing.

Unfortunately, several more babies have since died in her care. Many women are choosing home birth over hospital birth and that is their constitutional right, and we need to help give them assurance their midwife has documented education and training that licensure would provide.

On Wednesday, I passed a second bill through the House. Senate Bill 1290 creates the Medical Care Provider Protection Act. Unfortunately, violence against health care workers is a very common problem that far too many employees have been a victim

Purcell and Wayne Senior Citizens

By John Webb

Hello again friends and neighbors. Well, you can certainly tell springtime is upon us. Sunshine, rain, wind, hail and sunshine again, sometimes all in the same day. Nothing like Oklahoma in May!

There is still no date set for reopening our centers to the public again, so we will continue to bring your lunches to your vehicle, as we have been doing for over two months.

Remember, it is still imperative to make and keep your meal reservations so we don't run long or short on meals. The phone number for the kitchen is 527-9462 and ask for Sherrie, Evelyn or John.

We will be closed on Monday, May 25, for Memorial Day. Menu for May 26-29:

Tuesday — Steak fingers, mashed potatoes and gravy, carrots, hot roll, fruit salad.

Wednesday — Chicken pot pie, pickled beets, gelatin.

Thursday — Butter beans with ham, fried okra, tomato spoon relish, cornbread, simply super cake.

Friday — Cheeseburger with lettuce, tomato, onion and pickles, potato salad, rosy applesauce, sugar cookies.

Hester is planning to open our garage sale this Thursday and Friday. Come check out what's new, but please wear a mask for everyone's safety. There is a gas dryer available if your someone you know needs one.

Our young volunteers are doing a great job as kitchen help and carhops. They have grown very fond of our seniors as you all have gotten used to their smiles and positive attitudes they bring to us.

I wish everyone a safe and happy holiday weekend and appreciate you for continuing to support our seniors in Purcell and Wayne.

Preserve spring broccoli and cauliflower

Brenda Hill
Extension Educator

Broccoli and cauliflower are usually ready for harvest in May or June. Broccoli and cauliflower are high in vitamin C, fiber and many other nutrients. Both are popular raw, but are best preserved for later use by freezing.

Neither broccoli nor cauliflower are recommended for home canning, except with the use of a pickled cauliflower recipe.

Freezing: Choose broccoli with firm heads and tender stalks. Remove all its leaves and woody portions. Prepare a brine solution by combining four teaspoons of salt with one gallon of water.

Separate broccoli heads into small sections, spanning less than 1 1/2 inches, and put them into a brine solution for 30 minutes to remove any insects on the vegetable.

After brining, blanch the broccoli in water for three minutes or steam blanch it for five minutes; cool the broccoli and drain it well before packaging it in airtight container, leaving no headspace. Seal and freeze the container.

Select cauliflower with a compact head and remove all of its leaves. Cut the cauliflower into 1-inch pieces, and soak it in a brine solution for 30 minutes to remove insects. Drain the cauliflower, then blanch it for three minutes in boiling water. Cool it immediately, then drain the cauliflower well and package it in an airtight container without any headspace. Seal and freeze the container.

We do not recommend drying broccoli. Broccoli and cauliflower belong to a Cruciferae or mustard family of vegetables referred to as "Cole" crops, which include Brussels sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, collards, kale, kohlrabi, mustard, broccoli, turnips and watercress. Cole groups grow best at a monthly average temperature of 60-70 degrees F°.

Blanching. Blanching, the word for scalding vegetables in boiling water or steam for a short time, is a must for freezing nearly all vegetables. It stops enzyme actions that can cause loss of flavor, color and texture.

Blanching cleanses the surface of dirt and organisms, brightens the color and helps retard loss of vitamins. It also wilts or softens vegetables and makes them easier to pack.

Blanching time is crucial and varies with the vegetable and its size.

Underblanching stimulates the activity of enzymes and is worse than no blanching; overblanching causes loss of flavor, color, vitamins and minerals. Follow recommended blanching times.

For your canning questions, please email your OSU Extension office at oces.okstate.edu/Cleveland or call at 321-4774. We will be happy to answer your questions.

Margaret Thompson Pierce Roberts

Funeral services for Margaret Thompson Pierce Roberts, 90, of Purcell were held Wednesday, May 20, 2020 at the Lexington Cemetery. Services were under the direction of the Wilson-Little Funeral Home in Purcell.

Mrs. Roberts went home to be with the Lord and her first husband, Otto, on May 16, 2020.

She was born to Roy and Bertha Thompson on June 20, 1929 near Lexington, Okla., where she attended school for 12 years and was actively involved in the rural lifestyle of a hardworking church-going 'farm family' during the difficult years of the Great Depression that preceded World War II.

She married James "Otto" Pierce, a World War II veteran, on June 22, 1947. Along with being a housewife for many years while helping rear the five children she and Otto were blessed with, she also worked several years for, and later retired from, the state of Oklahoma as a clerical worker at Joseph Harp Correctional Center.

She loved life, her family, living for the Lord – and always claimed to have "never been tired a day in my life," despite living it busily and vigorously in many different ways. She loved to cook, was an excellent seamstress, loved gardening/canning, enjoyed travelling, had many hobbies down through the years – including crocheting, painting, quilting – and she was an active participant in various church activities, including teaching Sunday School classes for many years for people of different age ranges.

She also had a knack for writing plays and inspirational poetry, and the appreciation she had for quality instrumental music and anointed church singing was also passed on to her children and grandchildren. The winter season was something she also embraced because she loved the 'hunkering down' aspect of winter and she could further enjoy, in the cozy/warm atmosphere, a good cup of coffee with indoor activities that included various board games, card games and dominoes – along with watching videos of old movies, and reading inspirational books, magazines, and her EVER-present Bible that was FULL of her many notes and underlined scripture passages.

Genealogy was another passion of hers and she knew a lot of family history that took place in her own Thompson/Steele family bloodlines – as well as the bloodlines of the families of EACH of her husbands. She also LOVED the Christmas season and always made it memorable for her family and loved ones, especially in the giving of items that were handmade or baked by her.

She was preceded in death by her first husband, James "Otto" Pierce; sisters, Wanetta Thompson, Evelyn Thompson McCaslin, Delores Thompson Shobert and Inez Thompson Simmons; brother, Doyle "Sonny" Thompson and granddaughter Hailey Beth Pierce.

She is survived by her present husband, Lloyd Roberts; sons, Jim (Jackie) Pierce, Joel (Sheila) Pierce and Jeff (Jo Lynn) Pierce; daughters, Kochetia Morman, and Karen (David) Cagley; brothers, Dean (Pat) Thompson and Chris (Patti) Thompson; grandchildren, Travis (Denise) Perry, Kristy Perry, Nicole (Michael) Shinn, Marty (Marie) Pierce, James Pierce, C.J. (Amy) Pierce, Re'my Pierce, Jeffrey (Anjanette) Pierce, Jason (Latisha) Pierce, Jodi (Andrew) Dozier and Cori (Seth) Davis; great-grandchildren, Breanna Perry, James Lukas Perry-John, Titus Pierce, Jack Pierce, Shay Pierce, Tyler Pierce, Ethan Pierce, Shamane (Clint) Glover, Michaela (Kyle) Powers, Gabriel Pierce, Ezekiel Pierce, Madison Shinn, Luke Shinn, Emily Dozier and Olivia Dozier and many nieces, nephews and friends.

The family would like to give special thanks to all of her caregivers for their kindness at the Westbrook Gardens Senior Living Facility and Sunset Estates Nursing Home in Purcell, Okla.

Auction:

Before the 9 a.m. start of the auction, the owners have an opportunity to pay what's owed themselves.

That is the best case scenario, in Jones' view.

Or the owners can take advantage of a law passed by the Oklahoma Legislature to pay the taxes for the most delinquent year.

For this year's sale, that would mean paying taxes, interest and penalty for 2016.

It effectively saves the property from being auctioned this year, but in effect creates more work for the treasurer's office by giving the property owner a revolving door option for delaying tax payments.

The law is disliked by county treasurers across the state, Jones said.

Jones tells would-be bidders the sale of property for back taxes is strictly a buyer beware auction.

All sales are cash.

She strongly advises anyone who is interested in a property to do their research before bidding.

First, check the courthouse records to find if there are any liens on the property.

A mortgage company loses its lien if the property sells for back taxes. That's because the mortgage company is notified by certified mail before the sale.

Most often to protect its investment, the mortgage company will pay the unpaid taxes to continue their lien.

State and federal liens remain on the property, even with a new owner.

Some years, Jones may have no properties to auction. The average she has to sell each year is five or six.

Bids for each property start at the outstanding tax balance.

To sell, each parcel must have a bid the lesser of two-thirds of the assessed fiscal year 2019-20 valuation or the total amount of taxes, interest and costs.

Winning bidders receive a treasurer's deed, but the property isn't truly theirs just yet.

The owner has a year to take the buyer to court in an attempt to regain the sold property.

If there are no bidders for a property, the outstanding taxes are zeroed out and it goes to the county.

It can then be sold at a commissioners sale.

A list of properties up for resale is in a legal notice in this week's Purcell Register. The notice will also be published in the paper's May 28 and June 4 issues.

First four sport DRAGON ALL-STAT

Purcell's Haylee Swayze moves to the head of the class

John D. Montgomery
The Purcell Register

Until recently Purcell had two three-sport All-Staters.

The legendary Lester Lane was All-State in football, basketball and track. Current Dragon Haylee Swayze had earned All-State status in softball, cross country and track.

But now Purcell has its first four-sport All-Stater with Swayze recently tabbed as All-State in basketball.

She will be attending college and playing basketball for the Rice Owls.

As a senior she averaged 21.8 points per game for coach David Sikes, averaged 31.7 percent from three point land and averaged 6.4 rebounds per game.

She is also a member of the 1,000 point club, scoring 1,339 total career points.

"Haylee is an exceptional athlete but more importantly she is an amazing person and a role model for future Dragons," Sikes said.

"It's pretty cool," Swayze said of being the first and only four-sport All-Stater from Purcell. "It's an honor. I've worked hard for it but it has been really fun doing all of it."

Swayze told The Purcell Register that basketball is her favorite sport.

"In high school summer ball I did both softball and basketball last summer. I found a love for the game of basketball. It being a team sport, I just love the game."

Swayze is just coming off winning the 200 meter and anchoring all three winning relay teams for the Dragons in last week's Purcell Invitational track meet.

She is looking forward to Regionals and State as well.

She is a three time State Champion having won the 100 meter hurdles once, runner-up once, and two time State Champion in the 300 meter hurdles.

She has elected not to run the hurdles this track season focusing on the 200 and the relays.

"I enjoyed running the hurdles but this year I wanted something different. I just wanted to run," she said.

Track coach Greg Dillard put it this way.

"If we had another sport she'd be All-State in that as well," he said.

"All you have to do is show her the competition and let her loose. She takes care of the rest," Dillard said.

The one sport she made All-State in by just running two races was cross country.

Pretty amazing.

"That might be the one I'm most proud of," Swayze said. "It was hard juggling cross country and fast-pitch."

In fast pitch she had a .351 batting average on the 24-12 State Champion Dragons team.

Softball coach Sarah Jones said, "to say I'm proud of her is an understatement."

"Her pride, character and determination is what any coach wants in their players, but more important she puts her entire heart into everything she does and puts God first."

"Haylee will always hold a special place in my heart. I can't wait to see what she does at the next level," Jones said.

She didn't have a lot of time to train and her first cross country meet was the Regional where she finished third. She backed that up the following Saturday with a sixth place finish in 12:47 to earn All-State honors.

"The last time I ran a cross country race was in junior high," she said.

That is until the Regional and State Meets last fall.

Cross country coach Randy Belicek called Swayze, "a once in a lifetime athlete."

"She's fun to watch," Belicek said. "To make All-State in four sports confirms that she is a phenomenal athlete."

"To be All-State in one sport is very good. Two is great. Three is amazing and four is unheard of."

"Not only is she a gifted athlete, she has the best attitude and such a good work ethic," Belicek concluded.

Washington graduation dates set

Angie Steele
Washington Correspondent

Washington Public Schools has received information from the State of Oklahoma Governor Kevin Stitt and the Oklahoma Department of Education, providing initial guidance for the resumption of school activities.

We appreciate our students, parents, and community for demonstrating patience as we diligently consider the guidance provided and make the best decision.

Please remember the safety of our students and staff is of the utmost importance as we work to provide a graduation ceremony for our graduating class of 2020.

The WPS Board of Education approved the revised 2020 Graduation plan during a special board meeting on May 12. Our revised plan attempts to take into consideration current conditions while planning for the unknown.

An in-person, public 2020 Graduation ceremony is scheduled for Saturday, June 20, at 9:30 a.m. Graduation will be held outdoors on Reed Field.

Attendees will be asked to abide by health guidelines that meet the current conditions on the date of the ceremony. Washington Schools will follow the Governor's Open Up & Recover Safely three-phase plan.

Graduation procedures and health precautions will be adjusted to meet the conditions on the date of graduation. Washington Schools will communicate expectations in advance of the commencement.

Students, staff, parents and the community should be prepared to adjust graduation procedures and health precautions to meet the existing public health conditions on the date of graduation.

If health conditions prevent public graduation on June 20, an alternate date of July 25 has been scheduled.

Should all in-person graduation options be canceled, Washington Public Schools shall host a virtual 2020 Graduation ceremony on Saturday, July 25, at 9:30 a.m. This ceremony will be streamed online. The district will post a link to the virtual ceremony on our website and send out communication through media outlets.

The purpose of the virtual ceremony is to ensure that our graduates have some form of graduation regardless of future COVID-19 conditions.

Washington Summer Meal Program

Washington School will offer a grab and go weekly meals on Tuesdays weekly from 9:30- 11:30 a.m. now through June 29. Each student will receive five breakfasts and

The Washington School Board Election has been changed to June 30 due to the COVID-19 outbreak.

Dale K. Graham Veterans Foundation

It seems like the longer our Veterans Foundation is closed the more we miss seeing all our friends and the veterans and their families who visit us each week for help with their VA claims and questions. We have been helping the men and women who served our country in the military for so many years that this last two months of not doing so is kind of like a bad dream for many of us.

We are planning to reopen our facility at 1268 North Interstate Drive the first week of June to start assisting veterans again. With the new CDC safety rules being in place I am sure we are all going to have difficulty adjusting to the new procedures will be required for both volunteers and the veterans and their families who we serve.

For your convenience we will post all the new sign in and appointment procedures to both our website and to our Facebook page. One of the changes that will be made is the number of people who are in our building at any given time.

As most people know most businesses are limiting the number of people who can be in their facility at any one time. Before this pandemic we were able to assist over 150 people each day we were open. Today with the new CDC guidelines it is going to be difficult to serve that many people. We are doing the best we can to ensure we help as many as possible while following the new guidelines and procedures.

We would like to introduce you to Board Member, David Poarch. David A. Poarch is an active member of the Oklahoma Bar Association (OBA) where he served as the state-wide organization's elected president in 2015. Prior to his service as its president he twice served as a member of the Oklahoma Bar Association Board of Governors, 2001-2003 and 2010-2012.

Mr. Poarch earned his undergraduate degree from the University of Central Oklahoma in 1973 and graduated from the University of Oklahoma College of Law in 1977. He attended college and law school following service in Vietnam as a combat medic with the United States Army, 1st Cavalry Division (1967-1968).

He began his legal career as an Assistant United States Attorney in Oklahoma City. He currently practices with the firm of Bailey and Poarch in Norman where he is engaged primarily in the areas of estate planning, probate, and real estate. Following service as in-house general counsel and chief operating officer for a private financial services business later acquired by a Fortune 500 company, he accepted an appointment as the Assistant Dean for External Affairs at the University of Oklahoma's College of Law, where he served from 1997 until his retirement in 2011.

In that capacity he also taught paralegals and law students. He is a member of the Oklahoma and American Bar Associations, as well as a past and present member of several local bar associations, including the Cleveland County Bar.

He is a former elected member of the American Law Institute of the ABA (ALI-ABA), and fellow of both the American Bar Foundation and the Oklahoma Bar Foundation.

Mr. Poarch is also serving as the Presiding Judge of the Municipal Court of the City of Norman. We are extremely fortunate to have him as a member of our Board.

We have been assisting veterans from every state in this United States of America along with countries in Europe and Asia. Today I received a call from a veteran who we started helping last year who lives and works in Australia. He called to tell us he was recently awarded a 100 percent rating for the disabilities we helped him to file.

As the VA uses contract medical providers to evaluate veterans disabilities he was able to receive an evaluation in Australia on the disabilities and was then rated by VA based on the medical evaluations done by the contractors and by the DBQ evidence he supplied when applying for benefits.

For those of you who may need food items or other types of assistance during these times please call us at (405) 550-8806 with your questions. We have a couple of hospital beds and other types of handicap items available to any veteran or their family who need them.

Last week 23 veterans received a disability rating of 100 percent for their service-connected disabilities. This group will receive a combined annual $845,368. They will also be eligible for the state benefits of sales tax exemptions, property tax exemptions, and other benefits our state provides for disabled veterans.

Thirty-eight veterans were awarded disability ratings from 10-90 percent and will receive a combined annual $714,633. This group of men and women will be eligible for VA Health Care, and some of them may also be eligible for other state benefits.

If you would like to help us make a difference, we welcome your support. We spend over $30,000 each month in direct support of the veterans and family members we serve. We are transporting many homeless veterans to our Norman location each week to begin the process of making a difference in the lives of the men and women who have served in the military. We are a 501(C)(3) non-profit and are wholly dependent on donations from the people we serve and local grants.

We accept donations of vehicles that can be given to veterans in need or sold to raise funds to continue our mission.

You can shop items from our Amazon charity list to stock our food pantry and shop Amazon-Smile with us as the charity - we will receive .5% of your eligible purchases. If you are interested in including us in a gift, please contact Lora at 405-550-8806, ext. 101. Monetary donations can be made online or mailed to PO Box 592, Washington, OK, 73093.

Swayze:

Green and Chris Willis are reported to be the only other multiple sport All-Staters for the Dragons. McCurdy was All-State in football and basketball and reportedly just missed out being All-State in track.

Both Willis and Green were All-State in football and track.

Always the humble one, Swayze was quick to praise teammates and family.

"I want to thank my coaches, my teammates and my family. They have been very supportive," Swayze said.

Now she has a closet full of All-State jackets.

Senior Spotlight: Hope Madden

Todd Newville
The Purcell Register

Hope Madden could very well be considered the Babe Ruth of the Washington softball program.

Madden hit for a monstrous .595 batting average during her slow-pitch career with the Warriors. The graduated senior also slammed 72 home runs and gathered 210 runs batted in.

All of those figures are Madden's career statistics and all-time records for the Warriors. You can also add: 213 career hits, a 0.632 on-base percentage, and a slugging percentage of 1.450.

Yes, Madden is certainly the "Sultan of Swat" when it comes to the Washington Warriors softball program.

"It is pretty crazy to think I hit that well," Madden said. "I'm just thankful I was able to play in a program like Washington. I was able to do the things I did with great teammates and great coaches supporting me. It was a blessing playing in that program."

Madden's head coach was Jace Brewer, a former Baylor University alum who also played nine years of minor league baseball.

Brewer's tutelage and mentorship for Madden was instrumental in her progress.

"He had such a big impact on my career in high school," Madden said. "He was always so supportive of me and my career—both on the field and off the field. He was always one of those coaches you could count on to tell you the truth and lend a hand when you needed one. He really cared about players and made sure we were playing at our best potential. He was just an awesome coach to play for."

Madden's parents (mom Larecia and dad Daniel) are a big boost to her, too. She is going to attend Seminole State University, where she will major in elementary education with a focus on special education for the mentally challenged and handicapped.

"I'm planning on being a special education teacher for junior high," Madden said. "I am also hoping to be able to coach. I was around several kids in high school who I admired for their attitude and their work ethic. I would like to help kids like them when I'm able to teach."

Madden will be a teammate of Maebree Robertson, a 2020 Newcastle graduate. Madden thinks highly of Robertson, who helped Newcastle win a Class 4A State Championship last fall.

"I don't know Maebree that well but I do know her," Madden said Robertson. "Whenever I have been around her, she's super nice and cool to be around. She's a really great ballplayer! I can tell you that! I really like her and she's going to be a really good teammate."

Washington came close to winning a state championship during Madden's years. The Warriors are seven-time fast-pitch champions (the last one in 2015) and 12-time slow-pitch champions (also in 2015).

The Warriors lost to Tishomingo, 1-0, in the fast-pitch Class 3A State title game last fall. Washington fell to Sequoyah-Tahlequah, 11-1, in 2018. Washington lost to Purcell, 6-5, in extra innings for in the 2017 slow-pitch state tourney.

"We never did win a state championship," Madden said. "We were runner-up in slow pitch my freshman year. We were runner-up in fast pitch my junior and senior years. If we could have won a state championship, that would have been icing on the cake for me."

Madden hit .390 with five home runs and 45 RBIs during her senior year in fast-pitch softball. She said her prowess at the plate is due to discipline — not chasing bad pitches.

"I needed to be selective at the plate," Madden said. "Not helping the pitchers out was a big part of it. I needed to not stray from my pitch so I could do something every at-bat. I'm sure I got pitched around a lot this past year because I was the clean-up hitter."

Jennie Finch from Arizona? Cat Osterman of Texas? Who is Madden's player she looks up to?

"I really look up to Sydney Romero," said Madden, who carried a 3.92 grade point average and was a member of NHS, FCA, STUCO, and the science club while at Washington.

Romero played for the Oklahoma Sooners, where she set numerous program records and led the Sooners to four consecutive Women's College World Series appearances from 2016 to 2019. Romero and OU won the national championship in 2016 and 2017. She's a two-time All-American.

"I love the way she carries herself," Madden said of Romero. "She always played her hardest and she was always having a good time on the field. I think she is a great person off the field as well as one on the field. For me, that says a lot to me about someone. She's a great player and a great athlete."

Madden is happy yet sad to leave behind her successful days at Washington.

"It's wild to think I had such success," Madden added about her high school career. "It was just a lot of hard work and effort. I loved my time in high school and it's crazy to think it's over with. But, good things are hopefully in store."

Say no to dry canning

Brenda Hill-Alta
Extension Educator

Simply put, so-called "dry canning" is not canning. True canning is defined by the heat processing of moist foods in closed containers to make them "commercially sterile" and vacuum sealed for safe room temperature storage.

Canning kills spoilage and pathogenic microorganisms that can survive at room temperature.

Still, the deceptively named dry canning method has been circulating online for a few years, calling for putting dried foods, such as grains, beans and nuts, into canning jars.

Lids may or may not be applied to the jars before they are heated in a 200 degree Fahrenheit oven.

Don't be misled. Dry canning is not "canning" just because it uses the word and canning jars. There are several issues with this dry oven concept, including:

1. This method may not sterilize your food, though the jar lid may seal. A sealed jar does not necessarily mean the food is safe! You can't know whether bacterial spores or mold spores have been killed using this method.

2. This method does not remove all the oxygen from the jar and could trap moisture from condensation.

3. The dry oven process has never been a recommended canning method or a way to make food shelf stable.

4. The quality of food may decline due to trapped moisture, rancidity from fat in the food or increased enzyme activity.

5. The primary U.S. manufacturer of canning jars and lids does not recommend putting them in the oven.

6. In the end, the method can be a waste of energy, time, food and equipment.

For more information on this method, see <https://preserving-foodathome.com/2020/04/16/dry-canning-isnt-canning-to-me/>.

Hays receives J.W. Baker Memorial Scholarship

Presley Hays recently received the J.W. Baker Memorial Scholarship. Hays is a 2020 graduate of Wynnewood high school and Mid-America Technology Center's Automotive Service Technician program.

J.W. Baker, of Wayne, was an adjunct teacher and a great supporter of Mid-America Technology Center for many years. Because of his service and dedication to MATC, money was donated in Mr. Baker's honor to be given in the form of the J.W. Baker Memorial Scholarship.

Keith Barnett, MATC Automotive Service Teacher, said, "Presley was great to have in class. She came in everyday willing and ready to work."

Hays plans to further her education by pursuing an Associate's Degree in Automotive Technology at Oklahoma City Community College this fall.

Just another week in the life of the Church and as we move through the month of May, I would like to take a moment to reinforce the notion that as followers of Jesus our pursuit of Spiritual development continues moment by moment.

Hosea 4:6 is an accusation against the people because as God sees his people they have given themselves over to the dark side. I think part of the human condition is all too often we have given ourselves to that dark side of humanity.

Let me just say that for the followers of Jesus, giving ourselves over to the dark side is no longer a part of our DNA. My brother-in-law, Tom Choquette, reminds us "we all have a spark of Spirit accessible within waiting for you to ask for and accept guidance."

In our world, as Christians and followers of Jesus, we often call that one who guides us the Holy Spirit. In those opening statements from the prophet, he states "there is no faithfulness, no love." Basically the people have forgotten who they are and whose they are. Perhaps they have lost the ability to love and be loved.

1 John 4:8 brings to light the need for understanding and knowledge and Brother Tom reminds us "to grow in love is the challenge and destination of Life. Our freewill choice to love is our doorway to life eternal." For some, the world seems dark and scary these days, but for those who follow Jesus, our world is full of illuminating light even if we stand in the shadow of night.

The light we see is a connection with the Spirit of God and through that connection, we continue to produce the kind of ministry that touches lives and reinforces God's love toward creation. In other words, we are the light of this world even when it seems to be its darkest.

You can hide in the darkness of hatred, or prejudice or greed "hoarding that TP I think falls under the terms of at least one of those commandments" or you can be what God instilled in Jesus and now each of us as described in Galatians 5:22-23.

At this very moment, I feel the world and our community and our churches need that light to shine brighter and since we profess to be the very light the world needs perhaps it is up to various church communities to demonstrate our knowledge is not lacking and our light is shared in Hope and Love.

Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church

By Fr. Jim Chamberlain

In the book of Acts, we hear about the travels and work of St. Paul. At one point, he is staying in Corinth with a married couple - Priscilla and Aquila (Acts 18:1-8). These two people are important in Paul's life as missionary.

Their names are mentioned six times in the New Testament. Almost every time, the name of Priscilla is given first. They are catechists and Priscilla is one of the first woman leaders in the church.

Paul works as a maker of tents. He works during the week and preaches on the weekends at the synagogue. Paul is not always successful in his preaching. The Jews do not want to believe him. He is frustrated at the Jews, and chooses to focus on the Gentiles, the Greeks, in his preaching, because they are more receptive (Acts 18).

During this time, Paul was learning how to live the Gospel not only as a preacher but also as a worker, as a maker of tents. He preached the Gospel by living a life of hard work and honesty and charity and kindness towards others. This is how he preached the Gospel - with his very life.

One night in a vision the Lord said to Paul, "Do not be afraid. Go on speaking, and do not be silent, for I am with you." (Acts 18:9-10). God wants to reassure Paul. God is with him. God will not leave him alone in his time of need.

This reassurance is very like what we read in Isaiah 43:1-3: "Do not fear, for I have redeemed you; I have called you by name: you are mine."

When you pass through waters, I will be with you; through rivers, you shall not be swept away.

When you walk through fire, you shall not be burned, nor will flames consume you. For I, the LORD, am your God, the Holy One of Israel, your savior."

These words are not only for Paul. These words are also for us. During this time of pandemic, let us not forget who we are called to be. We are called to be bearers of Christ.

We are called to be faithful to our work and to our vocation, as mother, as father, as son or daughter. We are called to work hard and to live in charity, honesty and kindness towards others. If we are faithful to God, God will be faithful to us. God will be with us and we will not be left alone.

We will be offering public Masses once again this weekend, up to 33 percent capacity. Please wear face masks to protect others around you. Saturday at 5 p.m. (English), Sunday at 11 a.m. (English) and 1 p.m. (Spanish).

For more information, like us on Facebook, or call the church office at 527-3077.

Ah, Here's Something this Pandemic has Taught Us!

So, what is it that we're learning today in this pandemic period? That type of question probably sounds a great deal like one of the questions you've had to ask your children as you have become their teacher in recent weeks.

Ah, the answers are legion! But we know we've learned that we can be together 24/7 and still survive; and we've learned that we can do without football, basketball, and baseball; and we've learned that we can work from home as well as from the office (well, almost as well, maybe); and we've learned that we actually can swing a hammer and can do work around the house.

I've reverted to my brick-laying days this past week, bricking a brick patio outside my back door, with the help of an amazing blonde!

And we cannot forget one of the biggest lessons, and that is that we've learned that parents are not teachers - never have been, never wanted to be, and never want to try doing it again.

We smile at that, because it is so true. I heard of a father who took his children camping, and he sent word back home 30 minutes into his trip that teachers are crazy! Why in the world, he said, would a teacher take 30 children on a field trip all day! He took two of them on a trip for an hour and developed a serious twitching problem. And they were his own kids.

Unable to sleep late one night this week, I began thinking about all of this, and - in addition to some of the funny thoughts -- remembered something on a serious note. I got to thinking on something I had written years ago, based on the gospel of John.

I am reminded that in all of the hustle and bustle - even lack thereof in this time - that we are beginning to learn what it is that is most important. We've been able to stack up our priorities up a little better than maybe ever before.

In the sixth chapter of the gospel of John, John takes us to a scene where the disciples come face to face with one of the Lord's most piercing questions, kind of the way we have come face to face with a key question today. How the disciples answer the Lord's question will be a defining moment in their lives. On a grassy hillside in Capernaum, the Lord asks, "Will you also go away?"

In other words: What are you going to do? It's time for you to make a decision!

The reason the Lord turns to His disciples with that question is because hundreds of followers had just turned their backs on the Master and began their sad plights back down that grassy hillside. The crowd had followed for a while and were so enthusiastic and excited about the Lord and His teaching. But things change.

The Lord's demands are too great, and, when times get hard, they turn and go away. Where they go, we do not know

Monday, May 25, is Memorial Day. This will be another special day on our calendar when we pay tribute to family members and friends that have transferred their home on earth to their celestial home in heaven.

Every marker in the cemetery records a love story. It is not the size of the marker that brings back memories. It is the name, date of birth and departure from this world that brings precious memories alive in our past.

Some of the good news in our church family is that Michael and Paula Cagle are the proud grandparents of a grandson, Rowdy James Ward. Rowdy James is the son of Dylan and Shelba Ward. The baby was born May 13 at Ada. He weighed four pounds 15 ounces.

Katie Cagle's record now includes four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

There are signs that the spread of the coronavirus is being reduced by the protective measures practiced by our citizens. We look forward to being able to visit with our friends on Sunday mornings at Westbrook Gardens. We practice caution when venturing out into public places.

Special music was provided by Gynean Gentry.

Sermon text for Sunday morning sermon was taken from the 20th chapter of the Gospel of John. During the final days before and after the death of Jesus, the disciples met together behind the closed door to the Upper Room.

Jesus and his disciples ate their last Passover together in the Upper Room. Having witnessed the cruel and unjust crucifixion of their Master, the disciples gathered together in the Upper Room for fear of the Jews.

After his resurrection, Jesus met with His disciples in the Upper Room on two successive Sundays to bring peace, proof of His bodily resurrection, love, security and the promise of Pentecostal power seven weeks later. The fear in the Upper Room was replaced with boldness and joy in sharing the Gospel of Salvation.

Have you ever been afraid? While a student in the seminary I rode the bus from New Orleans to Shreveport, La., Upon arrival at the bus station in Shreveport, I called my brother and walked outside the bus station to await his arrival.

While standing outside, a strange man came up and stood beside me. The stranger said several times, "You better come and go with me."

At 23 years of age, I was frightened. It was a wonderful relief when my big brother arrived and gave me a ride to his home.

Whether or not we admit it, all of us need security and a hiding place, fellowship with our brothers and sisters in the risen Christ and above all the presence and power of Jesus.

We hope to see you in church this Sunday. The sermon for this Sunday is "Memories."

Our pastoral services will still be available 24 hours daily.

Green Avenue Church of Christ

In the absence of the regular teacher, the Wednesday evening auditorium Bible class studied the life of John the Baptist, beginning with a reading of Luke 7:17-30. Information was also drawn from Matthew and the first and third chapters of John.

Sunday morning the adult Bible class study of authority considered the importance of putting aside personal desires and opinions when considering God's plan for how we are to live and serve Him.

During the morning assembly Keith Shackelford looked at the prophet Isaiah's inspired view of the kingdom of which he prophesied, in the 11th and 12th chapters of the book which bears his name.

The Sunday evening sermon was a word study of the Greek word pathema usually translated suffering or affliction in the New Testament. Some attention was also given to a related word pathos and a few other Greek words with similar meanings.

The church meets at 407 Jackson and Green Avenue. Worship assemblies are at 10:45 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. every Sunday and Bible classes at 9:45 a.m. Sunday and 7 p.m. Wednesday.

You can call the office at 527-4052 or email cofc_purcell@hotmail.com for correspondence courses or other information.

Westside:

exactly. We do know all that "going away" almost always leads to many long, winding worldly roads that have no particular purpose.

As that crowd turns their backs on the Lord, Jesus - disappointment written on His face - asks that great question: "Will you also go away?"

Such a piercing question demands an answer, a response. It leaves no choice! Often it is answered not with the tongue but with the life a man lives. Too often the answer is that of the multitude: They turn away in search of something else.

The outspoken and sometimes rash apostle Peter must have fidgeted at the Lord's question until he digs a hole in the ground with his foot. The question bothers him. It rings in his ears and his conscience, and he has no choice but to make a decision, right then. And he does!

"Lord, to whom shall we go?" he says with all the resoluteness he can muster, "You have the words of eternal life."

Ah, there's our pandemic-time answer! What a response! Peter has learned that even if he should search every crook and valley of the world, in the end he would not find anything as fulfilling, precious, meaningful, and saving as that which stands in front of him at that moment - the Lord Jesus!

Yes, friends, truly we have learned a great deal in the past two months, maybe more than we have ever learned before. We have learned some funny things, and some things serious. But of all the things that a pandemic can teach, I don't expect anything could be more timely or paramount than this.

It has taught us that we need to set things in order. When we start rearranging, cleaning out, straightening, and re-evaluating, we might want to make sure we have put the Lord where He belongs - first.

That's a greater lesson for us than learning that we hope school starts back for real soon, even though that's pretty important, too.

Headed back to work?

Prepare your pets

Sarah Peakheart, DVM
Veterinary Clinical Services, OSU

As the state re-opens, Dr. Sarah Peakheart, an assistant clinical professor at Oklahoma State University's College of Veterinary Medicine, has some advice for pet owners on easing into the routine of returning to work.

Remember that our pets are in this pandemic storm with us. They have been our companions and support during social isolation. While pets have benefited from the extra attention (after they got used to us being in the house ALL.THE.TIME.), they now have yet another schedule disruption to adjust to as we head back to work.

Change can be more stressful for some pets than for others. Puppies, kittens and newly adopted pets may be more prone to experience anxiety-related behavioral issues and illnesses.

These pets don't know there is a different "normal" than you being home all day to talk to them, go for walks, play games, have snacks (lots of snacks) and show them off at Zoom meetings.

Senior pets and those with pre-existing anxiety disorders (e.g. separation anxiety, feline idiopathic cystitis) will also be less flexible with yet another disruption to their days.

Some signs of stress to watch for include changes in sleeping and/or eating patterns, increased activity or attention seeking, increased irritability, destructive behavior, house soiling or a new or recurring illness.

As we prepare to change back to a new normal, prepare your pets for your sudden absence to alleviate their stress:

- Create their own special safe place: a crate, a room or a gated area. Cats will need a raised hiding/sleeping area, scratching posts and appropriate size (and number) of litter boxes.

- Rotate toys daily (puzzle treat toys are a great attention-getter for your pet).

- Use pheromones to create a calming atmosphere: Adaptil® for dogs and Feliway® for cats.

- Leave pets alone for short periods, slowly increasing the amount of time they spend alone.

- Set and stick to a routine for feeding, walking and bedtime. Set a schedule you can keep when you return to work.

- Spend time with them in the evenings as you would after returning to work.

- Leave the TV or radio on if they have become accustomed to background noise. Try iCalm-Pet™, Spotify or YouTube for pet-specific music.

- Talk to your veterinarian about nutritional and possibly pharmaceutical support.

As always, if you see any symptoms that worry you, call your veterinarian. During the COVID-19 pandemic, the OSU Veterinary Medical Hospital remains open to treat emergency cases. The hospital utilizes curbside admission and discharge procedures to protect clients and the college community.

 TO AMEND EXISTING PERMIT
 TO USE GROUNDWATER
 PERMIT NUMBER 2011-607A

Notice is hereby given that Goldsby Water Authority ATTN: Ben Wallace, 100 East Center Road, Goldsby, OK 73093, under the authority given in Oklahoma State Law, Title 82 § 1020.7, has filed an application with the Oklahoma Water Resources Board, pursuant to Board rules, to amend groundwater permit #2011-607A. Currently the permit authorizes the withdraw and use of 2,190.8 acre-feet of groundwater from five existing well located in Section 13, T8N, R3WIM, McClain County. The amendment requests the deletion of 326.7 acres of lands currently dedicated to this permit and also requests the addition of 135 acres of new dedicated lands located as follows: 40 acs. in Section 12, 92 acs. in Section 13 and three acs. in Section 24, T8N, R3WIM, McClain County. This will bring the total land dedicated to the permit to 1,050.7 acres and will therefore adjust the amount of groundwater requested to 1,948.78 acre-feet per calendar year for the purpose of municipal use. Further, the application request includes adding six (6) wells located as follows: SW NE NW, SE NE NW, NE SE NW, NW SW NE, SW SW NE, and NW NWSE of Section 13, T8N, R3WIM, McClain County. This will bring the total number of wells for this permit to eleven (11). All other aspects of the permit remain the same. Use of groundwater is governed by Sections 1020.1 and following of Title 82 of the Oklahoma Statutes and rules of the Board, Oklahoma Administrative Code (OAC), Title 785, Chapter 30.

Protests to the application must be in writing and received by the Board at the address listed below and by the applicant at the address listed above no later than June 15, 2020, and contain the following: (1) name, address, and telephone number of the interested person; (2) the particular application number to which the protest relates; (3) specific information to show how approval of the application proposed may directly and adversely affect legally protected interests of the person filing the protest; and (4) a statement of the relief sought by the interested person. A person who sends a letter containing only a general objection or comment will not be deemed to be a party, but the letter will be made part of the permanent record.

A hearing on this application will be scheduled and the applicant and protestant(s) shall be advised of the hearing date upon receipt of a proper protest. Protesting parties or their representatives must appear at the hearing and present the protest in order that it may be considered. Hearings are governed by Section 309 of Title 75 and Section 1020.8 of the Title 82 of the Oklahoma Statutes, and the rules of the Board, OAC Title 785, Chapters 4 and 30. If you have any questions, please contact Mary Nell Brueggen at (405) 530-8800. Board mailing address: Oklahoma Water Resources Board, Planning and Management Division, 3800 N. Classen Blvd., Oklahoma City, OK 73118-2881. Board fax number: (405) 530-8900.

Staging area

The Johnson Road exit on I-35 was utilized this week as a staging area for mowing crews working along the interstate.

“Don’t Fry Day” kicks off Memorial Day Weekend

The American Cancer Society and the National Council on Skin Cancer Prevention have designated the Friday prior to Memorial Day weekend as “Don’t Fry Day” to encourage sun safety awareness.

“Don’t Fry Day” is a good reminder to protect your skin from harmful ultraviolet (UV) rays while enjoying the outdoors by using a broad-spectrum sunscreen (SPF 30 or higher), wearing protective clothing, a wide-brimmed hat and sunglasses.

UV rays from the sun and other sources like tanning beds are the primary causes of skin cancer, the most common type of cancer in the United States.

The American Cancer Society estimates more than 5.4 million cases of non-melanoma skin cancer will be diagnosed in 3.3 million people, as many have more than one diagnosis, in the U.S. this year.

Additionally, an estimated 100,350 cases of melanoma will be diagnosed.

“The risk of skin cancer, especially melanoma, is very real,” explains Len Lichtenfeld, MD, MACP, interim chief medical and scientific officer for the American Cancer Society. “And not being safe in the sun is avoiding the reality that skin cancer can be a deadly disease.”

In order to reduce the risk of skin cancer and to protect from harmful UV radiation, the American Cancer Society recommends “Slip! Slop! Slap! and Wrap!”

- Slip on a shirt

- Slop on broad spectrum sunscreen of SPF 30 or higher
- Slap on a hat
- Wrap on sunglasses to protect the eyes and sensitive skin around them from ultraviolet light.

Detecting skin cancer early, when it is in its most treatable stages is imperative. While any change in appearance on your skin should be checked out by a medical professional, use the ABCDE rule to look for any suspicious or unusual moles:

Asymmetry—one half of the mole does not match the other.

Border—edges of the mole are irregular (blurred, ragged).

Color—color is not uniform and may have patches of pink, red, white or black.

Diameter—melanoma moles are usually larger than 1/4 inch, but this is not always the case.

Evolving—the mole is changing in size, shape, or color.

Early detection increases cancer survival rates, and prevention lowers the risk of developing skin cancer.

While the FDA currently is conducting further research on the safety of sunscreens and their absorption into the body, Dr. Lichtenfeld cautioned recently in his blog, “We really don’t know as much as we need to know about the basic safety of most sunscreens, however, these findings do not indicate that individuals should refrain from the use of sunscreen.”

For more information on skin cancer detection or prevention, contact the American Cancer Society at 1-800-227-2345 or visit cancer.org.

Cocaine seized

Traffic stop led to arrest

A bail reduction hearing for a 20-year-old drug trafficking defendant will be at 3 p.m. today (Thursday) in McClain County District Court.

Luis Diaz of Fort Hancock, Texas, is being held in the McClain County Detention Center in lieu of a $50,000 bond.

He was charged May 14 in McClain County District Court with trafficking in illegal drugs.

According to an affidavit, Diaz was arrested during a May 7 traffic stop by an investigator with the District Attorney’s Drug Task Force.

Diaz was driving a black BMW and was northbound on I-35 near mile marker 90.

The speed limit through a one-lane construction zone was posted at 60 mph. However, the investigator paced the BMW traveling at 73 mph through the construction zone.

When stopped for the speeding violation, Diaz told the investigator he was on his way to Wichita to work as an electrician’s apprentice.

He also gave consent for the vehicle to be searched.

The investigator used a handheld xray to scan the interior of the vehicle and located packages of suspected narcotics in hidden compartments inside the rear seats, according to the affidavit.

A drill was used to withdraw a white powder from the packages. The powder field tested positive for cocaine.

Authorities later removed three kilo-size packages in each seat back.
