Mother-son facing charges

Drug trafficking and money laundering

Two people are facing criminal charges of drug trafficking and money laundering.

Late last week Acting U.S. Attorney Robert J. Troester announced a Superseding Indictment was unsealed charging Chance Alan Wilson, 36, of McAlester, and Deanna Danett

Wilson, 55, of Wayne, with conspiracy to possess methamphetamine with intent to distribute and conspiracy to launder drug proceeds.

Early in June, a federal grand jury returned a 12-count Superseding Indictment against Chance and his mother Deanna.

According to the Superseding Indictment, Mr. Wilson was the head of the Universal Aryan Brotherhood, a prison gang that operates largely within prison facilities throughout Oklahoma. It is

An Interesting Neighbor

Everyone has a story

Jeanne Grimes

It's funny how life works at times. Like bringing you back where you started.

For Erica Keen, that starting point and where she now finds herself is the vocational agriculture program at Purcell High School.

Up until her graduation in 2007, Erica's familiarization with the program was a student's perspective.

Now she's settling in on the other side of that classroom divide as agriculture teacher and FFA advisor.

After high school, Erica attended Eastern Oklahoma State College on a softball scholarship.

Her major was animal science, but it was her adviser who steered her to pursue a career in agriculture education.

"He was very genuine," she said, "and made sure we were where we needed to be."

After junior college, Erica attended Oklahoma State University, graduating in 2011.

She taught agriculture at Lindsay for seven years, half of a two-teacher program that ranged from 106 to 147 students.

Here she will be on her own with 50 to 60 students.

After leaving Lindsay, she took a year off from teaching to try her hand at sales for P&K Equipment in Norman. "P&K was actually a lot of fun," she said. "I enjoyed it."

Then in 2019 she returned to Purcell High School, teaching math and coaching softball.

As time permitted, she helped then-ag teacher Jason Baker, who had run the Purcell program since 2011.

When Baker resigned earlier this year, Erica was the natural choice for his replacement.

Gutted

This house, located at 1723 Pybas in Purcell was gutted by fire early last Friday morning. It was one of two structure fires in the past week battled by Purcell Firefighters.

Pair of structures damaged

Two separate house fires

Purcell Firefighters extinguished a pair of house fires recently, one last Friday at 1723 Pybas and one Monday at 714 W. Apache.

Firemen were dispatched to the Pybas fire at 5:29 a.m. Friday. They were at the scene for just under two hours before knocking down the fire and completely extinguishing the blaze.

The call Monday came in at 5:53 a.m.

When firefighters arrived they noted heavy smoke coming from the front of the house. A burning couch was snuffed out and fire in the attic was doused.

Crews cleared the Apache address by 7:18 a.m.

Both structures sustained damage.

Summer Safety: Steps you should take to help stay out of harm's way

The American Red Cross wants everyone to have a safe summer and offers tips and resources for the entire family.

Water safety

Before going in, on or around the water, every family member should become "water smart." This starts with learning to be safe, making good choices, and learning to swim to at least achieve the skills of water competency.

Everyone should be able to enter the water, get a breath, stay afloat, change position, swim a distance and then get out of the water safely.

A variety of water safety courses and resources are available to help. To help keep your family safe, the Red Cross offers these tips:

- Prevent unsupervised access to water. Fence pools and spas with adequate barriers and keep a constant eye for any water dangers such as portable splash pools/slides, buckets and

Unseasonably cool temps stay

Unseasonably cool temperatures will stay longer. After several days of heat relief, there is more on the way as we sit away from the heat dome, which is very rare for us here in the beginning of July. Highs over the next week should remain in the eighties. The remaining rain from this system that has been battering Oklahoma with rainfall over the last several days is set to move out of the state by the early part of this weekend. Rain chances Thursday are the highest for the next seven days, and as Saturday approaches, these will diminish. The Fourth of July forecast deserves five stars, because it will be in the low 80s with partly cloudy skies. The beginning of next week will be much of the same, with some of that cloud cover varying throughout the week.

Fireworks fun requires caution

Brian Brus Agriculture Communications

More than a year of COVID-19 precautions and vaccinations has Oklahomans looking to Independence Day as a fireworks-punctuated opportunity to reconnect with friends and neighbors.

However, that enthusiasm could leave the community open to other risks: accidental injuries and fires.

"Fireworks are exciting and fun to watch, but they're also dangerous. A little forethought will help ensure the holiday isn't ruined by preventable accidents," said, Jim Rhodes, Oklahoma State University Extension 4-H youth safety educator.

According to the federal Consumer Product Safety Commission, fireworks were involved with an estimated 10,000 injuries treated in U.S. hospital emergency departments during calendar year 2019 - not all fireworks are consumed on the holiday itself. The estimated rate of fireworks-related injuries nationwide is 3.1 per 100,000 people.

John Weir, OSU Extension associate specialist in the Department of Natural Resource Ecology and Management, said recent wet weather will help keep grassland fires under control. Hay and forage shielded from rain could be a little drier, but overall high humidity will help keep those materials from sparking also.

"Think about the areas where you're going to light fireworks, what's nearby and wind direction. Be aware of materials that may be flammable," Weir said. "Fireworks should only be used outside in clear areas away from structures and vehicles."

Weir suggested having a handy source of water nearby, such as a garden hose or bucket. A handheld fire extinguisher should always be available in the home.

Before purchasing celebratory products, check local ordinances to ensure they can be used legally in the area.

Fireworks safety begins ahead of the holiday, Rhodes said. Parents should have conversations with their children about which fireworks products they can operate and precaution expectations.

For example, impact-snappers seem safe because they don't require lighting, but those products should not be thrown at or near other people or animals. Likewise with handheld sparklers: Children need to be reminded to be careful of anyone within arm's reach and that the leftover sticks are still hot.

"When you visit a fireworks stand, try to direct your kids to the products that are appropriate to their age," Rhodes said. "Of course, they'll want the bigger items. That opens the conversation about who lights the fuses and how far away to stand."

When finished, douse spent fireworks with water and put them in a metal trash can away from structures or combustible materials until the next day, when they can be disposed of safely.

Should we fear COVID variants?

A COVID-19 variant that appears more contagious than the earliest strain of the virus is increasingly circulating in the U.S. But is the mutation something to fear?

Only if you're unvaccinated, say experts at the Oklahoma Medical Research Foundation.

"Viruses mutate to survive," said OMRF immunologist Eliza Chakravarty, M.D. "Becoming more transmissible is helpful from an evolutionary perspective. But with vaccines, we can mount a defense we didn't have last year."

The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention has classified the delta variant, first identified in India, as a "variant of concern." The CDC gave the mutation that now accounts for more than 20 percent of new infections in the U.S. the designation based on growing evidence that the variant spreads more easily and causes more severe cases of COVID-19 when compared to other variants.

The variant's prevalence has more than doubled in recent weeks. What started as a seemingly small percentage of cases doesn't mean small danger for a virus that has claimed more than 600,000 lives in the U.S., said OMRF physician-scientist

Know how horses respond to hot summertime temperatures

Donald Stotts
Agricultural Communications

Equine owners would find life easier this summer if their horses could communicate as well as Mr. Ed from the popular 1960s television sitcom. The talking equine always had something to say; real horses require closer attention to understand their signals.

During the hot summer, for example, it is the responsibility of the equine manager to ensure horses are drinking enough water to maintain good health and performance, and to know when to back off an animal's level of activity, said Kris Hiney, Oklahoma State University Extension equine specialist.

"Add the values of the temperature and humidity to get the heat index when determining whether to reduce animal activity," she said. "Depending on the environmental temperature and the animal's workload, it is possible for a horse to become dehydrated in as little as two to three hours."

Complicating matters, horses may not drink enough even when provided water, Hiney said.

Like humans, horses dissipate most of their excess body heat through sweating. When a person sweats, the electrolyte concentration goes up in the blood, resulting in thirst. A horse's blood does not increase in electrolyte concentration with sweat loss so the animal may experience a reduced stimulus for thirst.

Studies show horses will cool themselves normally – unless dehydrated or fatigued – if the heat index is less than 130. A heat index that exceeds 150 will require more assistance in cooling. If the heat index exceeds 170, consider a different activity, Hiney said.

To enhance evaporate cooling, apply cool – not cold – water to areas that have large blood vessels near the surface such as the inside of the legs and the neck, said Dr. Rosslyn Biggs, OSU Extension veterinarian and director of continuing education for the university's College of Veterinary Medicine.

"Water temperature is key," Biggs said. "Cold water can result in vasoconstriction which can limit blood flow to the horse's skin. Continuous running water also has been shown to cool the horse faster. If a hose is available, keep applying water to the horse."

Convection – heat that is lost due to air movement – is another major way that an animal loses heat. Supplying fans or keeping the horse in an area with wind flow is ideal. Fans with higher velocities provide more effective cooling.

Also, take advantage of conductive cooling, wherein a horse will transfer heat through space to any object cooler than it. For example, standing under trees allows a horse to radiate some heat to leaves, which are continually cooled by their own evaporation.

Long trips may require schedule changes to avoid the hottest time of day, Hiney said, and the muscle work of balancing in a trailer during a road trip can put an additional heat load on a horse.

Criswell wore a white hat

The Purcell community lost one of the really great guys with the recent death of Jimmy Criswell.

When he died suddenly while on vacation in Alaska wife, Larrie, and the rest of the family had a major problem on their hands just getting him back for a funeral service.

Word spread like wildfire that it was going to cost $3,000 to fly him back home, not to mention Larrie with a change of flight plans.

Mayor Ted Cox put the word out that a fund-raiser was needed.

As a testament to Jimmy and to the credit of Purcell and the Heart of Oklahoma that $3,000 was raised in about 30 minutes.

Ted told me he had numerous callers say just tell me how much more you need to meet the $3,000 total and I'll make up the difference.

Thing was the $3,000 goal had already been met and more. Meanwhile, donations continued to pour in more than making up for the cost of the funeral itself, Cox reported.

Jimmy was a dandy and everyone knew it. When a need arose to lend a helping hand, the community did just exactly what Jimmy would have done if he knew someone in need.

He'd take the shirt off his back and do it with that classic grin.

We miss that grin and his always pleasant demeanor but we are glad he didn't suffer.

Take care old friend and Godspeed.

Just in case there are still folks out there wanting to donate, Wilson-Little employees tell me the checks should be made out to Larrie and not Jimmy anymore.

Medical care, American dream or nightmare?

By Dr. Glenn Mollette

Until recently my wife and I paid over $2,000 a month for medical insurance. We each had a $6,000 deductible. One year we both had procedure's which meant we had $12,000 in out of pocket expenses.

There were also some other "uncovered" medical costs throughout the year which resulted in over $40,000 in medical insurance and out of pocket costs. The procedures themselves of course cost far and above what our out of pocket expenses were.

Most likely if we had not had health insurance the doctors and medical facilities would not have performed them.

In America, you have to have medical insurance or the means to cover the costs of your healthcare.

For the average American $40,000 in medical costs in one year means an eternity of debt.

The prospects of such makes average Americans shy away from medical care they need.

Unaffordable medical care is not an American dream. Honestly, for too many Americans it's a nightmare.

A business owner recently told me, "I pay for insurance for my employees but it's barely enough insurance to meet the legal requirements for our business. It's terrible insurance. It pays for almost nothing and no one with our insurance would ever want to go to the hospital."

This is tragic as all Americans need good medical care. However, the insurance companies in America are making billions in profit. The way they make profit is by denying to pay for something you need.

The health insurance industry had a "net" profit of 22 billion dollars in 2019. Businesses need to make profit, but Americans need medical care, not denial and medical debt that leads only to serious anxiety for Americans.

"If you are buying an ACA (Obamacare) plan as non-subsidized health insurance for a family of four, you can expect to pay about $25,000 for the year in premiums and deductibles. That breaks down to an average of $17,244 in annual premium cost for health insurance for families of four and $7,767 in deductible expenses.

If you qualify for a subsidy this will certainly help but just the out of pocket deductible can make healthcare daunting for most." (ehealthinsurance.com)

Healthcare is a major component of financial security. Financial devastation is lurking around the corner for any American who does not have a good medical care safety net.

NEWS FROM CAPITOL HILL

A national crime crisis

Congressman Tom Cole

For more than a year, dangerous crimes in cities across the country have spiked tremendously, and Americans have watched their communities become less and less safe.

Even more worrisome, crime is expected to get worse in the coming months as budgets for police departments are continuing to be cut and dangerous rhetoric against our brave men and women in blue is spread.

Last year, 63 of the 66 largest police jurisdictions saw increases in at least one category of violent crimes, according to a report from the Major Cities Chiefs Association.

This comes as the same big cities were cutting funding for and dismantling their police departments.

We also saw police recruiting suffer and many officers resigned due to anti-law enforcement activism across the country after the horrific death of George Floyd last May.

Just last month, Jack Rinchich, president of the National Association of Chiefs of Police, claimed that departments nationwide have struggled to retain and recruit police officers due to their demoralization. It is virtually impossible to keep communities safe when there are not enough law enforcement officers to do so.

The fact that the U.S. Justice Department has also taken a relaxed approach to crime and keeping bad actors off the streets does not help either. For months, dangerous criminals took over and destroyed cities like Portland and Seattle.

Today, we are seeing cases against these same people being dropped. The Biden Administration must show that they will be tough on crime.

Last week, President Biden addressed our nation's crime crisis in a press conference, where he blamed it on law-abiding firearm owners.

However, just this January, the FBI's National Instant Criminal Background Check System completed more than four million background checks, marking the start of 2021 with the highest number of checks conducted in a one-month period.

This shows that America's background check system works, and Americans are buying firearms from licensed dealers.

President Biden cannot blame this on lawful gun owners and must take responsibility for his party's destructive messaging and failed liberal policies such as "Defund the Police."

Furthermore, President Biden and Democrats are also supporting efforts, such as the George Floyd Justice in Policing Act, that would tie the hands of police officers nationwide and enforce one-size-fits-all solutions.

While Republicans and Democrats agree that police reform is necessary, federal legislation must ensure that good officers can do their jobs effectively, while protecting themselves and others.

After many conversations with police chiefs across the Fourth District, I know firsthand that they are in favor of reforms that will make policing more accountable.

However, we cannot limit the ability of police officers to protect themselves and the communities they serve.

The United States is a country of law and order and during the crime crisis our nation is facing, the president and leaders of these cities should not be turning a blind eye to crime and disorder.

Ensuring safe communities is not a right versus left issue and should be a top priority for all lawmakers at federal and local levels of government.

Different side of story

Dear John D. and Gracie:

Reference John's editorial of June 24th titled "You Won't Believe This."

On that point John D. is right. I don't believe it because it is not the full story about HR 1 the so-called For The People Act. In fairness he did list the many good things in the bill - getting dark money out of politics, reforming re-apportionment laws and expanding ethics punishments for federal office holders.

My long-time friend is hung up on new voting opportunities for citizens but what he is against is already in place in numerous states and there has been little to no voter fraud associated with them. Absentee ballots for all? Cool. There is a thorough check against the voter lists to weed out offenders.

Fifteen days of voting opportunity? Why not? It is the most valuable privilege any American has. Walk in voting on Election Day? Smooth as the fuzz on a peach in the many states that already authorize it.

The something new John D. doesn't like is letting former felons vote. But why not? That opportunity will hopefully inform them about candidates and issues on the ballots that they otherwise would know little to nothing about and remember, they have completed their court ordered punishment. Letting them vote again is a good thing, not a bad thing.

And as a reminder, over 70 percent of felons have been convicted of non-violent crimes. They are not axe murderers and if they are they are still in prison and would not be allowed to vote under the For The People Act.

In closing there probably wouldn't even be an HR 1 in the congressional hopper if Republican state legislatures hadn't passed hundreds of bills to restrict and narrow the chances for Americans to cast their ballots. And finally, if former President Donald Trump had won his re-elect race in 2020, which he didn't because he lost by over seven million votes, does anybody really think the Republicans would be so busy trying to stop Oklahomans and other citizens throughout the country from participating directly in democracy?

Of course not.

Not for the people

Democratic election bill

By Sen. James Lankford

Senate Democrats are once again trying to push through their massive federal election takeover bill, S. 1/H.R. 1, the "For the People Act." S. 1/H.R. 1 takes authority away from Oklahoma and gives Washington, DC, the power to manage and control our elections.

This DC power grab is a horrible idea, and I will vote against it. The Constitution is clear that states run elections.

It may surprise you to know that both the left-leaning American Civil Liberties Union and the conservative Heritage Foundation have come out in opposition to S. 1/H.R. 1. It's rare that those two groups are on the same page, but they both oppose this terrible bill.

S. 1/H.R. 1 guts voter ID laws, despite wide support for them across the country. The bill allows unlimited ballot harvesting, which makes it possible for political parties to collect ballots. S. 1/H.R. 1 mandates ballot drop boxes without any security protocols and restricts states' ability to maintain accurate voter rolls. Additionally, the bill lines the pockets of candidates with federal dollars by creating a six-to-one federal funding match for small donations of up to $200. This is welfare for politicians and millions of our hard-earned tax dollars for political candidates you do not support.

I remain firmly opposed to S. 1/H.R. 1 and any legislation that takes elections out of the hands of Oklahomans. Oklahoma does a great job administering free and fair elections, where it is easy to vote and hard to cheat.

Recently, Senator Inhofe and I received a letter from Oklahoma State Election Board Secretary Paul Zirriax. He shared his concerns with S.1/H.R. 1 and his support for Oklahoma continuing to run our own elections. Secretary Zirriax is a credible and trusted election security professional who continues to ensure voting in Oklahoma is easy, fair, and secure. His policy concerns with S.1/H.R. 1 should not be dismissed by anyone interested in free and fair elections.

Oklahoma's simple and straightforward election process uses paper ballot backups to ensure we can audit and have confidence in our election results. It's not complicated. Our election results are usually available in the early evening hours

Hello from District 43

• Senator Jessica Garvin •

Legislative session adjourned, but work far from being done

The legislative session has adjourned, but our work is far from done. The four-month session is a culmination of all the work done during the previous interim.

While we just passed the Fiscal Year 2022 budget, work is already underway on the FY'23 budget. Leaders and staffers are studying economic trends and agency budgets to see what will be needed next year. The FY'22 budget starts July 1 with the new fiscal year.

Besides budget work, the Senate and House are also getting ready to start interim studies. Since session adjourned a month ago, we've been meeting with constituents and advocacy groups about what issues they'd like to see addressed next session as well as to hear their concerns about legislation passed this session.

With only four months to consider thousands of pieces of legislation, we simply don't have time to take deep dives into more complex issues that may require legislative solutions to resolve. Therefore, we have interim studies, which are in-depth meetings that can last a few hours up to several days if necessary.

They include expert testimony as well as input from citizens on how they've been impacted either negatively or positively by those issues. Having all these different perspectives helps members have a well-rounded understanding of these areas and how any changes might impact citizens, businesses, and the state.

This year, I've requested 10 studies that are currently under review by the Senate President Pro Tem. He'll be announcing the approved list of studies in the next couple of weeks.

If approved, it is then up to the chairperson of the assigned committee whether a hearing will be granted.

My requests include a wide range of policy issues. I'd like to look into Oklahoma's Advantage Waiver Program to ensure it is appropriately caring for recipients as well as mental health and criminal sentencing to see if mental health diagnoses are being considered during sentencing hearings.

Foster care reform is another area I'd like to look into. I want to research if our state has an appropriate number of foster care homes and if they're equally distributed throughout the state, and if bonding assessments should be used in child welfare cases.

In this same arena, I've requested a study to determine if our state has enough child welfare workers to properly meet the needs of Oklahomans. Another study request would examine if jury trials or non-jury trials are the most effective in handling child welfare cases.

As for healthcare reforms, I want to look at insurance payment disparities between urban and rural providers and see if this creates gaps in services.

I'd also like the legislature to study various provider settings in the state and nationwide to determine why Oklahoma's healthcare facilities are inadequately staffed.

My last two requests deal with education and liability and property insurance. I'd like to review where state scholarship dollars are being sent for private school funding and help parents be able to compare/contrast school achievement as well as graduation and attendance rates at public, charter, online and private schools.

Finally, I've asked for a study to compare industry insurance options, such as healthcare, schools, etc. and determine if adequate resources are available.

Interim studies are public meetings, so citizens are welcome to attend in-person or watch live on the Senate website at www.oksenate.gov. I'll let you know what studies are approved.

They must be completed by November, so we have plenty of time to decide whether to file legislation based on our study findings. We then must submit our bill requests in early December, and Senate staffers will begin further researching and drafting those bills. A lot of work goes into the thousands of bills filed each session.

As always, I look forward to hearing your ideas and concerns on legislative issues. Please don't hesitate to contact me.

To reach me at the Capitol, write to Senator Jessica Garvin, State Capitol, 2300 N. Lincoln Blvd. Room 237, Oklahoma City, OK, 73105, email me at Jessica.Garvin@oksenate.gov or call (405) 521-5522.

Lankford:

of Election Day — not days or weeks later, and we can easily recount when needed. We require verified identification to vote or a notarized or witnessed signature for absentee ballots. A decentralized system where states run their elections as they deem best is actually a good thing. It's what makes our election system strong and secure. People forget sometimes that the Russians tried to hack into Oklahoma's election system in 2016, but they were unable to get in.

Don't let the feel-good name of this bill fool you. We all should want to make legal voting easy, but this bill does the opposite. S. 1/H.R. 1 make it easy to vote, easy to cheat and impossible to verify any election.

Bill:

two will be funded at the full requested amount.

Cole requested $72 million, the largest of the Oklahoma delegation's requests, for the I-35 widening project in Love County. Love County includes I-35 from the Red River to the Lake Murray exit in Ardmore. The Oklahoma Department of Transportation is partnering with the Texas Department of Transportation on widening the corridor between the states.

"So, our understanding is that the earmark funding can be put toward any one of those projects," said a spokeswoman for the Oklahoma Department of Transportation.

This area includes Winstar World Casino, located on the Chickasaw reservation. Cole is a member of the Chickasaw Nation, which sits two miles north of the state line.

The congressman only received $17.12 million for I-35 widening of the $72 million that he requested.

Both Reps. Kevin Hern of Tulsa and Markwayne Mullin of Westville declined to submit projects for the bill. Hern has been outspoken about his opposition to earmarks in the past, and stated that he wanted to read the transportation bill in its entirety before deciding how he wanted to vote.

Republicans have objected to this bill because they believe that the bill would be used to advance the Biden agenda.

"Despite a narrower margin of power and the President's call for bipartisanship, the Majority never seriously considered incorporating Republican priorities and reaching a compromise," said Rep. Sam Graves (R, Missouri), the ranking Republican on the committee.

"So we are left with another bill that lets lengthy road and bridge project delays continue eating up precious resources, handcuffs our state and local partners, leaves rural communities behind, and prioritizes the Green New Deal to an extent that cripples the real infrastructure improvements communities across the country need."

The legislation differs from an appropriations bill now making its way through the House committee that contains more than $95 million in district projects proposed by Bice, Cole and Lucas.

The purpose of this bill is to replace the Surface Transportation Bill, a five-year project plan signed into law back in 2015 by President Barack Obama, and extended by one year due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The 2015 law will have to be extended again if Congress cannot come up with a new bill for President Biden to sign.

Bice's approved projects are:

- Edmond — Bridges on I-35 at Interchanges between Memorial and 2nd Street, $10 million.
- Oklahoma City, I-35/I-240

Interchange, $10 million.

Cole's approved projects are:

- Love County — I-35 Widening in Love County, $17.12 million.
- Midwest City — S.E. 29th Street Bridge Replacement and Repair Project, $2.88 million.

Lucas's approved projects are:

- Boise City — US-287 Road Improvements from Boise City north to Colorado (Ports-to-Plains Corridor), $3.25 million.
- Clinton — I-40 and Exit 65 Road Improvements in Clinton and Custer County, $3.25 million.
- Kingfisher — SH-33 from Blaine County line east to SH-74, $3.25 million.
- Watonga — US-270 Road Improvements between Watonga and Seiling, $3.25 million.
- Durham — SH30 from SH33 N. 2 miles in Roger Mills County, $2 million.

Tips:

bathtubs.

- Adults should actively supervise children and stay within arm's reach of young children and new swimmers. Kids should follow the rules. Designate a "water watcher" to keep a close eye and constant attention on children and weaker swimmers in and around the water until the next water watcher takes over.
- Always wear a properly fitted U.S. Coast Guard-approved life jacket when on a boat and if in a situation beyond someone's skill level.
- Swim as a pair near a lifeguard's chair — everyone, including experienced swimmers, should swim with a buddy even in areas supervised by lifeguards. Always maintain constant attention and actively supervise children even when lifeguards are present.
- Download the Red Cross Swim app, sponsored by The ZAC Foundation, for safety tips, kid-friendly videos and activities, and take the free Water Safety for Parents and Caregivers online course.

Grilling safety
Grilling food is so popular that more than three-quarters of U.S. adults have used a grill — yet, grilling sparks more than 10,000 home fires on average each year. To avoid this, the Red Cross offers these grilling safety tips:

- Always supervise a barbecue grill when in use. Don't add charcoal starter fluid when coals have already been ignited.
- Never grill indoors — not in the house, camper, tent or any enclosed area.
- Make sure everyone, including pets, stays away from the grill.
- Keep the grill out in the open, away from the house, deck, tree branches or anything that could catch fire.
- Use the long-handled tools especially made for cooking on the grill to help keep the chef safe.

Accidents and Emergencies Happen

The Red Cross has several resources to help people learn how to treat bee stings, burns and heat emergencies including online and in-person training courses, a free First Aid app and a First Aid Skill for Amazon Alexa-enabled devices.

TSET research investment yields additional funding

In addition to funding innovative science that will save lives in Oklahoma and across the world, research investment by the Tobacco Settlement Endowment Trust (TSET) has brought more than $450 million in additional research funding to the state over the last decade.

"Funding research to prevent and combat cancer and other tobacco-related diseases is a key part of TSET's constitutional mandate," said TSET Executive Director Julie Bisbee. "This vital work is saving lives in Oklahoma and elsewhere, as well as attracting top-tier researchers and outside grant dollars to our state."

TSET funds research through grants that support the Phase 1 Clinical Trials Program at Stephenson Cancer Center, the TSET Health Promotion Research Center, and the Oklahoma Center for Adult Stem Cell Research.

With TSET support, Stephenson Cancer Center (SCC) has developed into one of the nation's leading cancer clinical trials centers. Since 2012, more than 1,700 patients from Oklahoma and 17 other states have participated in early-phase clinical trials open through the TSET Phase I Center. Those clinical trials give Oklahomans access to cutting-edge treatments close to home.

Major pharmaceutical companies – including Amgen, Astrazeneca, Bayer Health, Eli Lilly, GlaxoSmithKline, Merck, Novartis, Roche and Pfizer – now choose Oklahoma and the SCC as a site for conducting their clinical trials. Since 2012, that work has brought more than $78 million pharmaceutical research dollars to Oklahoma.

In addition, with TSET support, the SCC has recruited 64 new faculty researchers to Oklahoma since 2012. These 64 new investigators brought more than $34 million in out-of-state grant funding to Oklahoma. Since arriving, they have received additional grant funding of more than $110 million.

With all funding sources combined, TSET support has directly contributed to leveraging over $223 million in additional research grant and industry contract dollars between 2012 and 2020.

In addition, SCC is affiliated with the TSET Health Promotion Research Center (HPRC), which has a mission to reduce the burden of disease in Oklahoma by addressing health risk factors such as tobacco use, sedentary lifestyle, poor nutrition, and risky alcohol and other substance use through research and development of new intervention tools and techniques.

For every TSET dollar awarded to HPRC since 2016, researchers have obtained an additional $2.56 in grant funding from other sources. TSET support has led to an additional $56 million in grant funding to HPRC investigators since 2016.

The Oklahoma Center for Adult Stem Cell Research was founded in 2010 to promote research in the field of adult stem cell biology and regenerative medicine. Since then, OCASCR has helped recruit 30 scientists to Oklahoma with expertise in diabetes and obesity, heart disease, lung disease, cancer, premature births and autoimmune diseases.

In 10 years, OCASCR has leveraged around $25 million in TSET funding for more than $175 million in additional grants from other sources. "TSET researchers are exploring new ways to improve health and combat addiction," said Michelle Stephens, chair of the TSET Board of Directors. "At the same time, TSET support is bringing new investment to Oklahoma and creating a nationally recognized research hub that benefits institutions statewide."

Skunks can cause more than smelly problems

Trisha Gedon
Extension Educator

The nose knows. Even the slightest hint of a skunk's presence can send pet owners scrambling to find a way to get rid of the scent.

But it isn't just the odor that is cause for concern. Skunks are the primary reservoirs of rabies in Oklahoma, followed by bats, said Dr. Barry Whitworth, Oklahoma State University Extension veterinarian.

When it comes to rabies, Whitworth said, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

"Economically, it's much cheaper to prevent disease than to treat it, and disease prevention is better for the animal. Some diseases, including rabies and canine distemper, usually are fatal," he said.

Oklahoma recognizes one- or three-year vaccines; however, local governments may have ordinances that require yearly vaccines. Small pet owners need to consult a veterinarian about which rabies prevention vaccine is best for their location. In addition, pets should be seen at least once per year for a general checkup.

Rabies clinics often take place in the spring or early summer because that's when skunks are more active.

However, Whitworth said dogs and cats should be vaccinated for rabies based on the age of the animal, not necessarily the time of year. In small animals, that is usually at three months of age with a booster for 1-year-olds.

"Rabies can present in a couple of ways. First is the aggressive form most people recognize, the typical 'mad dog.' Animals with this form will be aggressive, hypersalivate, vocalize and wander," Whitworth said. "The second form is the paralytic or dumb form, which often isn't recognized by pet owners. These animals appear to be in a stupor, and the infection is seen in wild animals that people encounter."

In such cases, the rabid

OSDH adds 'Will Call' to vital records services

The Oklahoma State Department of Health (OSDH) announced that beginning on Tuesday, July 6, Vital Records lobbies in the state will offer a Will Call service, giving people the option to pick-up orders placed online for birth and death records in-person.

According to Oklahoma Vital Records Director Kelly Baker, this new service offering will result in quicker turnaround times for records requests.

"We closed our lobbies to the public last year due to the pandemic, but have learned from that experience that we can serve Oklahomans faster and more efficiently with an online approach," Baker said. "Complete online orders can typically be processed in two days and then either placed in the mail or made available for pick-up at Will Call."

Will Call applicants will receive two emails – one to confirm the order was placed and a second to confirm the record is ready for pickup.

OSDH offers three Vital Records Will Call-only locations where people can pick-up their online and phone orders for birth and death certificates: Oklahoma City, 375 N. Broadway Ave., Plaza 321; Tulsa, James O. Goodwin Health Center, 5051 S. 129th E. Ave.; and McAlester, Pittsburg County Health Department, 1400 E. College Ave.

People can order online or by phone (877-817-7364) with our partner VitalChek, and choose between receiving records by mail or pick-up at Will Call within two business days. Records which require amendment or other action will take longer to process.

Please see OSDH, page 9A

Variants:

Hal Scofield, M.D.

"The delta variant appears prime to become the dominant coronavirus strain in the U.S., as it is now in the United Kingdom and India," said Scofield, noting that the variant is striking teens and young adults with increasing speed. "For communities with low levels of vaccination in Oklahoma, this could mean serious trouble come fall."

There is good news for the fully vaccinated, Scofield said. In a study published in May, researchers in the U.K. found that a two-dose regimen of the Pfizer vaccine was 88 percent effective against symptomatic Covid-19 from the delta variant.

CDC officials anticipate similar results for Moderna's vaccine. And the effectiveness of Johnson & Johnson's one-dose shot appears only slightly lowered — 60 percent, vs. the 66 percent seen in clinical trials — against the variant.

Despite this, in the same U.K. study, scientists found that one dose of the Pfizer vaccine is just 33 percent effective against the virus.

"It's a reminder of how critical full vaccination is," said Chakravarty. "If you are unvaccinated and waiting to see whether there will be a spike in cases before getting your shot, or if you've delayed in getting your second dose, the time to act is now."

Although infections of COVID-19 are rare in fully vaccinated people, Scofield said that testing should remain top of mind to track the progression of the delta variant in the state.

"If you're vaccinated, we're on the cusp of returning to regular life," said Scofield. "But if you're sick with symptoms such as coughing, fever and difficulty breathing, you still need a COVID test."

Dibble Senior Citizens

By Eddie Cantrell

What a week last week was! We had our steak dinner and elections on June 18 for a three year term on the Dibble Senior Citizens Board.

We were very pleased to see our activity director Linda Bourne back among us. She has overcome some major medical issues and a broken leg from the last big ice storm we had. She says she is roaring back and almost ready to go.

Our building was pretty well packed last week. We appreciate Irma, Mary and Tonya for their hard work in cleaning the grill before we cook the steaks. We gave them the honor of being first in line to choose their choice of steak.

New member Clayton Lee commented that he thought "things were going to go better in the future with the new slate of officers."

Purcell and Wayne Senior Citizens

By John Webb

Hello everybody. We are open!

That's right. Today is our first day open since mid-March 2020. Seems like forever ago that we were all together. We are thrilled to welcome all of you back to your Wayne and Purcell Senior Centers.

Now that we are open again, there will no longer be drive-up, to-go meals. Can't have that option any more, but being able to provide that kept us full funded and able to continue providing meals to you all.

Now, it is more important to call the kitchen to either make, or cancel a meal reservation. You can reserve by the day or by the week. The phone number for the kitchen is 405-527-9462 and it is best to call by 8:30 a.m. and speak to Sherrie, Evelyn or John.

We have a new senior center coordinator. Her name is Val and she is anxious to get going with bingo and other activities as soon as possible. There won't be bingo today, but it will resume very soon.

The centers will be closed on Monday, July 5, to observe Independence Day. Other than that, here is the rest of the menu for the first week in July.

Here is the menu for July 5-9:
Monday—Closed with no meal service of any kind.

Tuesday—Barbecue ribette on a bun, hominy casserole, green beans, fruit.

Wednesday—Egg and sausage bake, hash browns, pineapple chunks, biscuit with gravy, orange juice, coffee cake.

Thursday—Pinto beans with ham and onions, oven fried potatoes, spinach, cornbread, fruit crisp.

Friday—Chicken fried steak, mashed potatoes and cream gravy, mixed vegetables, sliced bread or hot roll, pudding swirl.

Milk is available with every meal.

The senior garage sale is open every Thursday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Louise is doing a great job and everything is so well organized that it is easy to shop for whatever you need. We are still in need of some volunteers to help with the garage sale and with meal deliveries to our homebound participants. Please call 405-527-9462 or 405-527-5070 if you have an interest in volunteering.

We are so grateful for the patience and understanding you all have shown during the pandemic. We are happy to be able to reopen your senior centers without any restrictions. Masks will not be required, but if you feel more comfortable wearing one, please feel free to do so.

Can't wait to see you all together again. The cards have been dusted off and the dominoes have been polished. (Just kidding.) But we are ready to go. Hope you all are too.

Skunks:

animal isn't afraid of people; nocturnal creatures will be seen more often during daytime; and in some cases, the infected animal will approach humans or try to get into their homes. Unfortunately, this is when people most often get exposed because they don't realize the animal is sick.

"It's important for pet owners to realize rabies is almost always fatal and that's why vaccines are so important. Experimentally, animals have survived the disease, but treatment isn't practical in clinical settings," he said. "The dangers to veterinarians and staff don't warrant treating animals."

Rabies aside, what should pet owners do if a furry friend has a skunk encounter and comes out on the smelly end of things? Although getting a dog inside the house and into a bathtub might seem like the obvious solution, it's best to keep the pet outside, said Dr. Rosslyn Biggs, OSU Extension veterinarian and director of continuing education for the university's College of Veterinary Medicine. Scent molecules spread from surface to surface and stick around.

"Skunk spray is produced by the anal glands of the skunk to defend against predators and contains sulfurous chemicals called thiols," Biggs said. "The best recipe for getting rid of that smell is a mixture of food-grade hydrogen peroxide, baking soda and liquid soap."

In a bucket, mix four cups peroxide, one-quarter cup of baking soda and two teaspoons of liquid soap. While the mixture is still bubbling, apply it to the dog's dry coat, taking care not to get it into the pet's eyes or mouth. Lather and rub the mixture into the coat and skin for about five minutes or until the smell starts to dissipate.

To de-skunk the face and ears, apply the mixture with a sponge, making sure to cover the dog's chin, cheeks, forehead and ears. Rinse thoroughly, making sure to tilt the dog's head upward to avoid getting the solution into its eyes and mouth. This process may need to be repeated.

Biggs stressed that a horrible odor is still not as problematic as rabies, however.

"If you suspect your pet has been bitten by a rabid animal, contact your veterinarian immediately," Biggs said.

Q: Do you have a "servant's heart"?

A: Yes. Very much, I guess.

Q: What is the biggest challenge you face?

A: Before COVID and during COVID, staffing is probably the biggest challenge of the business, especially now.

Q: If you weren't at Sunset

Estates, what would you be doing?

A: I'm not sure. If I ever retire, I will probably do more volunteering with my church (First Baptist). And spend more time with my grand kids.

Q: What is the best part of the work you do?

A: The rewards to me from the residents. Getting them to smile or tell about their lives. The happiness they bring.

Drugs:

alleged that he, using contraband cell phones from his prison cell, organized and led a conspiracy to distribute methamphetamine throughout Oklahoma and surrounding states.

Officials said he allegedly relied on a network of individuals outside of prison to distribute methamphetamine, collect proceeds from that distribution and launder those proceeds.

The Superseding Indictment alleges that one of those individuals assisting Mr. Wilson's activity was Deanna Wilson. It is alleged that she accepted large sums of drug proceeds from him and used those funds to purchase various assets, including a $138,000 manufactured home, purchased with cashier's checks and cash.

If convicted on the drug trafficking charges, Chance Wilson faces a potential penalty of at least 10 years and up to life in prison and a fine up to $10,000,000. If convicted on the money laundering conspiracy charge, they each face a period of imprisonment of up to 20 years' and a fine of up to $500,000.

If convicted of engaging in a monetary transaction using drug proceeds, Deanna Wilson faces a period of imprisonment of up to 10 years, a fine of not more than $250,000 or a fine of twice the value of the property involved in the transaction whichever is greater.

The case is a result of an investigation conducted by Homeland Security Investigations, the Internal Revenue Service – Criminal Investigations and the Oklahoma City Police Department.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Tom Snyder is prosecuting the case.

Ramp:

with the speed of the bridge replacement between Purcell and Lexington, however. That work was fast tracked.

Rather, actual construction is still four years out – sometime in 2025.

In the meantime, there are the preliminaries that precede the actual plans.

In fact, the Oklahoma Department of Transportation is just three months into an environmental impact study – a study that can take up to a year to complete.

If an environmental concern is found, it could scuttle the whole project, according to city manager Dale Bunn.

Bunn said the study will take into account anything historic or buried, as well as endangered species.

None is anticipated, but the possibility exists.

One concern now is OGE lines to the west of where SH 74 passes beneath the interstate.

The options are moving the lines or design ramps beneath them.

At present, it's still up in the air where the ramps will be located and how many there will be.

In an online survey, residents preferred a total of four ramps.

Neighbor:

She's already immersed in her new role.

Her main focus, she explained, is "getting kids involved more in career development and leadership events."

Erica grew up showing pigs – Durocs, Hampshires, Yorkshires and crossbreeds.

She will teach five classes when the 2021-22 school year begins in August.

Those include an exploration class for eighth graders.

There's an introduction to agriculture science for freshmen and Erica said there are contests specifically for the novices, including a Greenhand quiz and creed speaking.

Other basic classes are ag mechanics, animal science and ag communications.

Erica plans to rotate the latter two.

Additional class options are horticulture, plant and soil science, equine science and livestock production.

Mid-America Technology Center also offers horticulture and equine programs, as well as a "very good welding program."

With so much to choose from, Erica wants all of her students to know the opportunities that come with vocational agriculture.

Erica married Josh Keen 11 years ago. He is the Oklahoma Electric Cooperative district lineman over the Lexington area. They just bought 40 acres on which they hope to build a home at some point.

They have two children – Carli and Carter – both of whom show Hereford cattle. Carli, who will be in the eighth grade, showed sheep last year and earlier this month competed in her first cattle show, bringing home a second and a third.

Carter missed the cattle show after making the all-star team in his baseball league. He will be in seventh grade.

Last week Erica met with Purcell FFA officers, some of whom left Sunday for a leadership camp.

"They are kind of excited to get back out," she said.

The chapter currently has six officers, but there are openings for new posts.

Interviews for officer candidates will be in August.

It may be summer break, but for Erica the preparations for a new school year continue.

Always with a central goal: "investing in my students to help prepare them for life."

We appreciate your business!

Sunray Baptist Church

Many gospel singing fans came to Sunray this past Saturday night to enjoy the talents and ministry of The Williamsons and Mark Bishop at our annual SummerSing. Those in attendance were blessed with this special evening of worship, praise and song. Brother Mark stayed the night in Purcell and sang at our Sunday morning service. Our pastor used 1 John 3:16 as his sermon text. He spoke of God's love and the reason that Jesus came into the world. God demanded our sins be paid for and paid the price for us. Jesus was our sin bearer and paid our debt at Calvary. Our sins put Him on the cross. Our youth served a pasta lunch following worship. There was no evening service. This coming Sunday we will celebrate our country's 245th birthday. You are invited to Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. and morning worship at 10:50 a.m. We will not have an evening service. On July 11 we will have our quarterly business meeting at our evening service following by a snack fellowship. Pastor David Pickard and the church family at Sunray Baptist Church invite you to be a part of all our services and activities. We are a small, traditional church with a lot of friendly people. We are located at 2223 North 9th Street in Purcell. For more information call 405-527-6808.

July 4, 2021 is the fourteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time. During Ordinary Time, the Gospel focuses on the teachings and miracles of Christ during his time on earth. The Gospel reading is from Mark, Chapter 6, verses 1-6. In this reading, Jesus is preaching and teaching in his hometown of Nazareth. The people did not accept Jesus' teachings leading Jesus to say, 'A prophet is despised only in his own country, among his own relations and in his own house.'

It is easy for us to criticize their reaction. However, let's consider human nature for a minute. The townspeople said, "who does this guy think he is? He is the son of a carpenter and we know all his relatives. He goes off and now shows back up like he is a somebody!" "We've known him since before he could walk! Did you ever notice how big his feet were? He was always a bit weird, reading all the scriptures and all. But now he thinks he ranks up there with Moses, Isaiah, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. What arrogance!" How could anybody from Nazareth amount to a whole lot? Part of this reaction fits the old saying "familiarity breeds contempt." It really is hard to believe that someone you have known all his life could actually be a big deal. Sometimes we can be jealous because "if he could do it, why couldn't/didn't I?" We know what happened to

If you want faith, do this!
(Pep talk for the seniors of '21)

Now that June is here, we have a new group of seniors who are about to set out to make their way in the world. I thought, some of them may be the children or grandchildren of some of my own classmates from way back in 1974. But whoever you are, and wherever the stage may be that you walked across, here's a little pep talk for you high school seniors of 2021. I was thinking, what is it that a young man and young lady's mom and dad most want of them? The first thing that came to mind is that they would want them to go into the world with a strong, organic faith. Perhaps this question will help you stop and think about where you're headed in that regard: Will you choose faith, or will you not? A person could figure he'd get to that question down the road when he has time to think; but, truth is, it's not a question you can put off for later. With faith, no decision is a decision in itself. You understand. You begin answering the question the minute you take ahold of that diploma and the principal's hand and step down off of that stage. You may have lived on your parents' faith for the first eighteen years of your life. That's a good start, but that will only take you so far. As you travel a sometimes bumpy, curvy road, your faith is going to come up against some formidable roadblocks. It will only stand up if it's your faith, if you own it! It recently dawned on me why some people choose to follow the Lord and some don't. There

The Wednesday evening Adult Bible class continued a study of the third chapter of Philippians looking at the second through eleventh verses of the chapter where the apostle Paul affirms his qualifications as a Jew.

The Sunday morning adult Bible class continued a study of various aspects of persecution including some of the positives that can come from persecution, and examples of those who did not allow persecution to discourage them.

During the the Sunday morning assembly Keith Shackl-eford presented a sermon on the subject of temptation beginning with the reading of the 40th and 46th verses of Luke 22.

The lesson examined internal temptation to sin as well as adversity, affliction sent by God to test the character and the faith and holiness of men. It was also noted that It is God who provides escape from temptation (1 Cor. 10:13). The message concluded with an admonition to "Stay awake and pray so that you won't enter into temptation (Mark 14:23)."

The evening lesson contrasted the two covenants. It explained how the first, law of Moses, was fulfilled (Matthew 5:17) then taken away (Colossians 2:14) but not destroyed (Matthew 5:17).

The message went on to show how it is a necessary conclusion that we are not bound by the law of Moses today and concluded with several scriptures from the book of Hebrews showing how the new covenant is superior to the old.

Our next Food Bank Give Away will be Saturday, July 17, from 12 p.m. to 4 p.m. We are still asking everyone to continue to be cautious because not everyone has been vaccinated. Masks can be provided if you do not have one and wish to wear one. Hand sanitizer will also be available.

Currently, the dominant strain of the COVID-19 virus seems to be the Delta variant. Please be aware that not having had one of the vaccines may increase the possibility of catching this new, more deadly virus. Please get vaccinated if you have not done so yet.

All of the sera protect against the virus, and it doesn't cost anything except time. Even if you don't do it to protect yourself, consider getting the shot for others, especially those who are immunocompromised or have other health issues. If you are going to be in a larger (more than ten or so?) group of people inside a facility, especially if they are outside your usual "bubble" of associations, please go back to wearing a mask and social distance from others to protect all of us.

There used to be a set of riddles that we would ask each other as a joke. Who is buried in Grant's tomb? How many months have 28 days? Is there a fourth of July in England? [Answers: Grant (and his wife); 12 of them; yes there is a 4th of July, but it is not celebrated as a holiday.]

This coming weekend, we Americans will be honoring our country on the 4th of July. On this day we remember it as Independence Day (July 4, 1776) when a group of men in our country signed a proclamation, a Declaration of Independence, that the 13 original colonies no longer recognized themselves as being governed by England. [I hope this is an adequate description!]

As a part of that celebration, we recognize those who died in the Revolutionary War (and other conflicts in our history) who fought for our freedom as a "stand alone" country. We take a lot of pride in this freedom and think of ourselves as especially chosen by God.

Yet, in all disagreements, all factions feel that God is on their side, no matter what religion, color, or nationality they may be. If we're honest about it, most wars are fought not for ideals or principles but for political stances, national economics, or religion. Examples include whether the Christians or Muslims or Jews are the only "right" religion and that God chooses to support only one of the groups.

We need to remind ourselves that all humans are God's children and that God loves us all the same. God loves Iraqis the same as any other nationality, whether it be the Syrians or us Americans. God loves Jews the same as Christians, God loves Republicans the same as Democrats, and God loves Methodists the same as Baptists! grin

One of my favorite hymns is "This is My Song" (page 437 in the The United Methodist Hymnal published in 1989). It usually brings tears to my eyes when I read or sing it. The words were written around the mid-1930s.

This is my song, O God of all the nations, a song of peace for lands afar and mine. This is my home, the country where my heart is, here are my hopes, my dreams, my holy shrine; but other hearts in other lands are beating with hopes and dreams as true and high as mine.

Bowman Methodist Church

Good day folks! Our first Sunday to reopen Bowman Methodist Church was last Sunday. It was a new restart for our church with a new pastor which our church is blessed to have.

Pastor Ashley Green-Young's message was from the passage in the Bible where Jesus is walking on the water. The disciples were frightened because they thought it was a ghost or spirit that they could not identify with. But Jesus told them who it was and not to be afraid.

So Peter wanted to walk on the water and Jesus told him to come on. Peter stepped out on the water and was walking toward Jesus. His faith in Jesus kept him on the surface but the

My country's skies are bluer than the ocean, and sunlight beams on clover-leaf and pine, but other lands have sunlight too, and clover, and skies are everywhere as blue as mine. O hear my song, thou God of all the nations, a song of peace for their land and for mine.

This is my prayer, O Lord of all earth's kingdoms: Thy kingdom come; on earth Thy will be done. Let Christ be lifted up till all shall serve Him, and hearts united learn to live as one. O hear my prayer, thou God of all the nations; myself I give Thee; let Thy will be done.

Agape is a Greek word meaning love. An explanation of this love: we want the exact same things for others that we want for ourselves. We want others to have food, clothing, and shelter just as we want. We want them to have people who care about them just as we want to have those who care about us. We want other countries to have democracy and peace just as we want those things for ourselves.

So remember on July 4th, we have been blessed with all the freedoms we enjoy here in the United States. They were not won easily, sometimes at great cost. But I can't help but think God wants those same freedoms for all the others on Earth and that God wants us to help them get those same gifts. Let us pray together for guidance on how to work toward that end.

Again, we welcome everyone to worship and pray with us at 9:30 a.m. on Sunday, followed by Sunday school at 11 a.m. Our address is 631 East Ash, just west of Lexington High School. For more information, please call the church at (405) 527-3506 to leave a message, or contact Pastor David directly at (405) 406-6174.

is within all of us either a will to believe, or there's a will not to believe. Some choose not to because they can't seem to be able to wrap their minds around the Bible's teachings. As young people step into the classrooms of what we call higher education, they are about to hear many skeptics stand in front of them with world views that are a mile and a half from the Bible.

So, I'll be the first to say in regard to biblical reliability: There's plenty of biblical, historical, literary, scientific, and archeological evidence to support faith in the Bible. But, as is attested by some of those intellectuals who will stand before you, if a man doesn't want to believe he can find enough "evidence" otherwise to talk himself out of it. (If you need some shoring up in that area, pick up any book by Lee Stroebel or Josh McDowell. Even better, roll your sleeves up and spend some serious time in the Bible. That'll do.)

By the way, in case someone decides to just remain neutral, I'll tell you that, unfortunately, you can't accept the lovely Rose of Sharon and reject the validity of the Bible. The two will have to go together.

But what we're talking about here is not just a decision to believe or not to believe in the Bible and Jesus of Nazareth. It's more of a decision to live or not to live it. That's what it comes down to. To live it is going to make you choose not to go to certain places and hang out with certain people, and it's going to demand that you 'be' a certain kind of person.

It won't take you long to figure out that it isn't just something hidden away in the back roads of your mind, something that you don't really have to use. People sometimes try that; but your faith sits right there on your front porch for everybody to see. It's not just something up in your head. It's in your arms and legs, too.

Faith really is a funny thing. Sometimes it feels strong, and sometimes it needs life support. The good news is that even the great men and women of the Bible experience doubts, and they have their share of failures. So why are they considered men of faith? I think it's because in all their lives, they never lose their will to follow the Lord. They choose faith even when they realize they had just failed in faith.

They skid off of the road from time to time; but they find some way to pull themselves out of that ditch (with Providential help, of course) and to plod on down the road of faith again. That's what faith looks like, I think.

One of the best pieces of advice I've heard comes from an old Canadian preacher named Lynn Anderson, a preacher Lee Stroebel interviews in his classic book, The Case for Faith. Stroebel asks Anderson for a good starting place to developing faith. Mr. Anderson replies that a person needs to surround himself with the right things: the right people, the right reading materials, the right influences, and he needs to go to the right places.

Then he makes it real: "After all," he says, "if you want to grow roses, you don't buy an acre at the North Pole. You go to where roses grow."

"Ah, that's the key!" I could not help but think when I read that. If you want to walk by faith, you'll have to go where faith is.

Right now, then, before you take another step out into the world, and before you make the next of the 10,000 decisions you are going to be make in your life, tuck that one point safely down into the corridor of your mind:

If you want to grow faith, you have to go where faith grows. That'll do.

P.S. And as you go, friends, will you carry the apostle's lovely benediction with you? "The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Spirit be with you all. Amen." coachbowen1984@gmail.com

Dale K. Graham Veterans Foundation

Our first new client day will be on July 12 from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. at the Moore-Norman Technology Center. All new clients should bring an Intent to File, their DD214, their VA Disability Rating Breakdown Letter, and any pertinent medical records. We're excited to help out new faces!

As we draw closer to celebrating our Independence Day, all of us at Dale K. Graham Veterans Foundation want you to know that we appreciate your military service to the United States of America.

We would also like to remind those who have not served to take a moment to show their appreciation to someone who has worn the uniform and to remember that this country was founded by men and women who answered the call to duty.

Many of you have answered our call to help us to assist every veteran and surviving spouse with their applications for VA benefits. We are continuing to ask for more volunteers that will help us to accommodate the hundreds of veterans and their families that contact us every day.

We would like to have enough volunteers to help veterans five days each week with each volunteer working a four-hour shift each day keeping us open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Last week we tracked the number of phone calls that went to our 405-550-8806 phone number and the average was 150 each day. On my personal cell phone and e-mail, I average 50 calls and about the same number of e-mails each day. Several of our other volunteers have that amount or more. I guess what I'm trying to say is the veterans and their families who contact us are in need of assistance, especially as we work towards our Intake Day for new clients on July 12 from 9 a.m. to noon at the South Penn Campus at the Moore-Norman Technology Center. We are not going to leave a veteran or surviving spouse behind. For those of you who would like to be a part of this mission please contact us at info@dalekgraham.org.

If you are not available to volunteer right now, but still want to push our mission forward, you can help by donating at <https://careasy.org/nonprofit/dalekgrahamveteransfoundation> to donate any vehicle that you do not need or want. It does not have to be a car, it could be a motorcycle, ATV, farm equipment, anything that you are willing to donate would be much appreciated and would help us help more veterans.

For those of you who would like to be a part of what we do, please consider filling out our volunteer application available at <https://dalekgrahamveteransfoundation.org/volunteerapplication>.

To donate to our Foundation, you can do so online at dalekgrahamveteransfoundation.org or mail a check to Dale K. Graham Veterans Foundation, 1268 N. Interstate Drive, Norman, OK, 73072.
