After a Sedalia Area Chamber of Commerce ribbon cutting on Thursday, the new VA community-based outpatient clinic (CBOC) will open its doors to veterans at 7:30 a.m. Monday.

Columbia Veterans Affairs officials along with Chamber members and city dignitaries assembled Thursday morning at the new facility for the official ribbon cutting. Ground was broken for the new facility in October 2020, and it has increased in size from 6,223 square feet at the original location on West 10th Street to 10,961 square feet at the new Winchester Drive location. It now has 18 exam rooms versus 12. And in addition to primary care, behavioral health, and telemedicine services, the new clinic also will offer physical therapy and podiatry services.

Speaking to a limited crowd due to COVID were Truman VA Medical Director Patricia Hall, Ph.D., Chief of Staff Dr. Lana Zerrer, Chief of Primary Care Dr. Richard Nguyen, Sedalia Mayor John Kehde, Chamber President Will Weibert and Dianne Simon with Thompson Investments, the owner of the building. Truman VA Public Affairs Officer Jeff Hoelscher introduced the speakers.

Hall thanked everyone for attending the event and noted the importance of rural, community-based VA clinics. She said the Truman VA Hospital in Columbia is responsible for more than 40,000 veterans in 44 counties.

"Except for where Columbia is proper, we want to be noted for our ability to deliver that same high-quality medical service ... to our rural areas,"

Physical therapists and other workers assemble equipment Thursday for the new VA community-based outpatient clinic's 1,500 physical therapy gym. The new CBOC will open at 7:30 a.m. Monday, Dec. 6.

she noted. "... It really is a unique specialty that we want to be known for because our rural veterans deserve the same opportunities and high-class health care that you can get in the urban settings.

"So, this is what it's about," she continued. "This is one of our eight clinics that we have in those 44 counties. And we put them in locations where lots of veteran populations are."

She added by placing the clinics in those locations, the VA can extend its services.

"This new facility is a shining example of veterans' love living here in the Sedalia area," she said.

Dr. Zerrer told those present that 37% of Missouri's population lives in rural areas.

Sacred Heart begins 2021 Hall of Fame search

By Skye Melcher
skyem@sedaliademocrat.com

Sacred Heart School has begun promoting its 2021 Hall of Fame nominations application.

The SHS Hall of Fame is a way for Sacred Heart to honor individuals and groups who have been a part of Sacred Heart's success.

The first time inductees were nominated into the Hall of Fame was in the spring of 2017 after the SHS Foundation, the alumni association, and school leaders came together to build the criteria and the application process.

Sacred Heart accepts nominations all through the year but the school begins promoting the nomination process from October to December. So, the school is still looking for 2021 nominations.

"We collect those and then there is a group or committee that typically includes our school administrator, a member from the alumni association and then even hall of famers who have already been inducted," said Liz Suter-Van Leer, the Development Director for SHS and the SHS Foundation.

Suter-Van Leer said they will go through the applications and choose eight inductees for that year. Then they let the inductees know they have been nominated for the next Hall of Fame class.

The nominees are someone who is a mentor or role model for Sacred Heart School, a group who has done something remarkable during their time there, an alumnus or alumna who have either been dedicated to Sacred Heart or have done something great in their profession, a parent who has been dedicated to Catholic education, someone who has put in decades to help maintain or help grow the school, or a parishioner.

The only age requirement is that nominees need to be out of school for at least 20 years; the only exception might be a group.

"We announce during Catholic Schools Week, it is always the last week of January," Suter-Van Leer said. "We have an all-school mass, we announce our teacher of the year and then we announce our hall of fame inductees."

A ceremony will be hosted April 23.

"We have about 200 something people who show up, we have dinner and a program, we bring family and alumni and so this a chance for them to be recognized," Suter-Van Leer added.

Suter-Van Leer said that personally, it makes her feel good to be able to thank all the individuals who have helped Sacred Heart and say they are appreciated.

"Everybody loves a thank you. It's nice to know that we see you, we value you, we appreciate you and we thank you," Suter-Van Leer said.

People can submit an application on gogrem-lins.com on the alumni page. There is a hall of fame tab with an online application and a printable application that can be submitted to the school.

Rock Bridge State Park invites adventurous hikers Park hosting December scavenger hunt

By Chris Howell
chrish@sedaliademocrat.com

COLUMBIA — The Friends of Rock Bridge Association and staff at Rock Bridge Memorial State Park have created a self-guided tour of the park's many trails as a way of getting nature-lovers to visit the scenic area during December.

"This is part of our First Day Hikes initiative," said Miranda Frederick, Division Information Officer with Missouri State Parks. "It's just encouragement to get people outside to experience the outdoors and explore State parks and historic sites. From Dec. 7 to Jan. 3, anyone who participates can register online to receive an email with 12 scavenger hunt questions to answer as they hike throughout the park."

With such a beautiful and unique park, one hardly needs encouragement to explore the hilly terrain, wonderous rock bridge and wooden walkways throughout the park. But by downloading and answering questions, people can learn about the woodsy destination while reading markers placed along the many trails.

"During the 1.5 miles of the Sinkhole Trail people can see historic ruins, woodlands, sinkholes, the pit-cave entrance and the rock bridge," Frederick said. "Since it is self-guided, people can do it on their own any point during that time. There are historic signs, so the information is provided along the way."

Those who answer the questions correctly are entered to win $30 gift cards and free memberships in the Friends of Rock Bridge Association. Win or not, participants get to see the secluded, fascinating, and naturally beautiful area.

Dean Heidke, of Fulton, had never been to Rock Bridge and took advantage of the unseasonably warm weather to take in the sights.

"Even though all the leaves are gone off the trees it's still beautiful out here," Heidke said.

Rock Bridge Memorial State Park features 12 caves and 15 miles of trails, seen Thursday.

"They've got what they call the Devil's Icebox down here, which is pretty neat, just a little cave, just a little opening with some water running through it and the sinkhole's right over there which is something to see."

The uncrowded trails range from easy to mildly challenging, and there are marvelous wooden walkways and staircases winding along cliff-faces leading to secluded promontories overlooking caves and streams.

Kevin and Janet Schull, of Illinois, were staying in Camdenton and came up for the trails.

EXPLAINER: Must employers follow Biden's vaccine mandates?

By David A. Lieb and Geoff Mulvihill

Associated Press

Millions of health care workers across the U.S. were supposed to have their first dose of a COVID-19 vaccine by this coming Monday under a mandate issued by President Joe Biden's administration. Thanks to legal challenges, they won't have to worry about it, at least for now.

Same goes for a Jan. 4 deadline set by the administration for businesses with at least 100 employees to ensure their workers are vaccinated or tested weekly for the virus.

Judges responding to lawsuits brought by Republican-led states, businesses and other opponents have blocked some of Biden's most sweeping initiatives intended to drive up vaccination rates. Numerous other legal challenges are pending, contesting the Democratic president's vaccine requirements for federal employees and contractors and members of the military, as well as mask requirements for people using public transportation.

More than four-fifths of adults nationwide already have received at least one dose of a COVID-19 vaccine. But Biden contends his various workforce vaccine mandates are an important step in curtailing the virus, which has killed more than 780,000 people in the U.S.

Opponents have taken a three-tiered approach to challenging Biden's requirements. In lawsuits, they contend the vaccine mandates were imposed without proper public comment, were not authorized by Congress and infringe on states' rights to regulate public health matters.

"The reasoning across the cases is basically the same, which is that these statutes don't give the president or the agency in question the authority to issue the mandates," said Gregory Magarian, a constitutional law professor at Washington University in St. Louis.

The Biden administration contends its rule-making authority is firm and supersedes any state policies prohibiting vaccine requirements. Recent experience shows that such mandates generally prompt people to get vaccinated. By the time a Biden requirement for federal workers to be vaccinated took effect last month, 92% had received at least their first dose of the shot.

Following is a rundown of some of Biden's most sweeping vaccine requirements and the status of the legal fights over them.

LARGE BUSINESS MANDATE

What it would do: Under a rule published by the U.S. Occupational Safety and Health Administration on Nov. 5, businesses with 100 or more workers are to require employees to be vaccinated. If they are not, they would need to be tested weekly and wear masks while working, with exceptions for those who work alone or mostly outdoors. The rule was to go into effect Jan. 4. The requirement would affect businesses with a cumulative 84 million employees, and OSHA projected it could save 6,500 lives and prevent 250,000 hospitalizations over six months.

Who's challenging it: The requirement is being challenged by 27 Republican-led state governments plus conservative and business groups and some individual businesses. The states mostly filed lawsuits in groups, though Indiana challenged it alone. Their arguments include that it's the job of states, not the federal government, to deal with public health measures. The Biden administration maintains that the measure is legal. Some labor unions also contested the rule, though not for the same reasons as the Republicans and business group. They say it doesn't go far enough to protect workers.

Where it stands: The rule is on hold. A day after states challenged the rule, a panel of three judges in the New Orleans-based 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals blocked it. At first, it was a temporary suspension, then a more permanent one. The legal challenges originally were filed in various U.S. appeals courts. The cases subsequently were consolidated into a court that was selected at random, the Cincinnati-based 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

What's next: The Biden administration is asking the 6th Circuit to set aside the order from the 5th Circuit and allow the vaccine requirement. In the meantime, OSHA has suspended implementation of the rule. Groups that are suing want the questions decided by all the judges on the 6th Circuit rather than a panel of just some of them.

HEALTH WORKER MANDATE

What it would do: Under a rule published by the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid on Nov. 5, a wide range of health care providers that receive federal Medicare or Medicaid funding were to require workers to receive the first dose of a COVID-19 vaccine by Dec. 6 and be fully vaccinated by Jan. 4. The rule would affect more than 17 million workers in about 76,000 health care facilities and home health care providers.

Who's challenging it: The rule was challenged in four separate lawsuits filed by Republican-led states, mostly in groups. Florida and Texas mounted their own challenges. The states argued that there were no grounds for an emergency rule, that CMS had no clear legal authority to issue the mandate and that the rule infringes on states' responsibilities.

Where it stands: The rule is on hold. A Missouri-based federal judge issued a preliminary injunction Monday barring its enforcement in 10 states that had originally sued. The next day, a Louisiana-based federal judge also issued a preliminary injunction barring enforcement in the rest of the states.

What's next: Both court rulings are being appealed by the Biden administration. The case filed in Missouri is being considered by the St. Louis-based 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The case filed in Louisiana, which was brought by a coalition of 14 states, is being considered by the 5th Circuit. So far, there's been no move to consolidate the challenges in a single court.

FEDERAL CONTRACTOR MANDATE

What would it do: Under an executive order issued by Biden on Sept. 9, contractors and subcontractors for the federal government are required to comply with workplace safety guidelines developed by a federal task force. That task force on Sept. 24 issued guidelines requiring that federal contractors ensure their employees are fully vaccinated by Dec. 8. There are limited exceptions for medical or religious reasons. The requirements could apply to millions of employees.

Who's challenging it: The guidelines have been challenged through more than a dozen lawsuits, including seven brought by Republican-led states or coalitions of states. The arguments are similar to those against other vaccine mandates, asserting the Biden administration exceeded the procurement rule-making powers granted by Congress, infringed on states' responsibilities and didn't properly gather public comment.

Where it stands: A federal judge in Kentucky issued a preliminary injunction Tuesday barring enforcement of the vaccine requirement for contractors in three states that collectively sued — Kentucky, Ohio and Tennessee. Judges in Mississippi and Washington state have declined to block the requirements; the question is pending before other courts.

What's next: Legal challenges pending in several other states could lead to additional court rulings this month on requests for injunctions. The Kentucky ruling also could be appealed. Barring a nationwide court order, there could be a patchwork of requirements for contractors depending on the states where they work.

A quick consolidation of the federal contractor lawsuits appears unlikely.

STATE BRIEFS

Longtime political consultant gets probation in tax case

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A longtime Missouri Republican political consultant and lobbyist was sentenced Thursday to three years of probation for a federal tax crime. David Barklage was indicted in April for failing to report $443,633 in income from 2012 through 2014. The indictment said that as a result, he failed to pay nearly $152,000 in taxes. Barklage’s attorneys said in a statement that Barklage "has taken this matter very seriously" and has paid restitution to the government. Barklage operates the Barklage Company and his clients have included several prominent Republicans in state government. He was a consultant last year to the Uniting Missouri political action committee, which provided financial backing for Gov. Mike Parsons’s successful election bid. Barklage also has worked with key players in the Missouri House and Senate, and his efforts in the 1990s helped Republicans take control of the Missouri General Assembly. He was a longtime consultant to former Lt. Gov. Peter Kinder.

Man pleads guilty to role in widespread romance scam

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A St. Louis County man has pleaded guilty to helping Nigerian romance scammers bilk women in 25 states out of hundreds of thousands of dollars in cash and electronics. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch reports that 43-year-old Bonmene Sibe of Jennings pleaded guilty Wednesday to a federal conspiracy charge. He was one of three people indicted last year. All three have now pleaded guilty. One of them, Ovuoke Frank Ofikoro, said in his July guilty plea that co-conspirators in Nigeria and the U.S. stole the identities of U.S. military officers or created fictitious officers’ identities before tricking women into sending cash or electronics. Ofikoro said Sibe’s role was to find people who would open post office boxes and send the cash and electronics. His plea says victims lost between $550,000 and $1,500,000.

Convicted Kansas City officer to be sentenced March 4

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A white Kansas City police detective who was convicted of shooting and killing a Black man will be sentenced on March 4, a judge ruled Thursday. Eric DeValkenaere, 43, was convicted last month of second-degree involuntary manslaughter and armed criminal action in the shooting death of 26-year-old Cameron Lamb. He faces up to four years on the manslaughter conviction and at least three years for the armed criminal action charge. Attorney Molly Hastings said Thursday that DeValkenaere’s defense team plans to appeal the conviction, The Kansas City

Auditions will consist of readings from the script. If you would like to audition but are unable to attend either of these dates, contact the director, Jan Bahner, via text at 660-281-3771 or email at jbahner@yahoo.com prior to Dec. 13.

Arrow Rock to host old-fashioned Christmas

Arrow Rock State Historic Site staff members invite the public to experience an old-fashioned Christmas in the village from 6 to 8 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 11. The site buildings will be open and decorated for Christmas, and visitors can tour the buildings and visit with interpreters. Visitors may stumble upon the judge and lawyer as they get ready to end the year in the Old Courthouse, travelers from the trail in the taproom of the tavern, young ladies preparing for Christmas and the schoolmarm taking a break in the academy, a family preparing for Christmas in the George Caleb Bingham Home, or a cook preparing Christmas dinner in the kitchen. The pathway will be lit, but participants are encouraged to bring a flashlight. The public is strongly encouraged to follow social-distancing guidelines and be proactive in protecting themselves and others. Arrow Rock State Historic Site is located at 39521 Visitor Center Drive, Arrow Rock, west of Columbia. For more information, contact Arrow Rock State Historic Site at 660-837-3330.

Star reported. DeValkenaere remains free on bond. He has been suspended from the department pending termination. Lamb was shot on Dec. 3, 2019, as he was backing a pickup truck into a garage in his backyard. DeValkenaere testified that he fired after Lamb pointed a gun at another detective. Prosecutors argued the scene had been staged to make it appear that Lamb had a gun. When he pronounced sentence, Jackson County Judge J. Dale Youngs said the officers had no probable cause to believe any crime had been committed, had no warrant for Lamb’s arrest and had no search warrant or consent to be on the property. He did not address the allegations that the crime scene was staged.

Records: Missouri planned to thank glitch-finding journalist

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Just before Missouri Gov. Mike Parson condemned a St. Louis Post-Dispatch reporter for exposing a state database flaw, records show the state Department of Elementary and Secondary Education was instead preparing to thank him for finding the glitch. The Post-Dispatch reported Thursday that it obtained records through a Missouri Sunshine Law request, including an Oct. 12 email to Parson’s office from DESE spokeswoman Mallory McGowin containing proposed statements for a news release. “We are grateful to the member of the media who brought this to the state’s attention,” read a proposed quote from Education Commissioner Margie Vandeven. The quote ultimately was not used. Instead the Office of Administration issued a news release the next day calling the Post-Dispatch journalist a “hacker.” Parson, a Republican, said at a news conference on Oct. 14 that a criminal investigation was being launched. That investigation is ongoing. The reporter discovered a flaw on a DESE website that left more than 100,000 Social Security numbers of educators vulnerable to disclosure. The newspaper waited to publish the report until the state took action to protect the vulnerable information.

The newly obtained records show that on Oct. 13, Angie Robinson, the state’s cybersecurity specialist, emailed Department of Public Safety Director Sandra Karsten to inform her that she had forwarded emails from the Post-Dispatch to Kyle Storm with the FBI in St. Louis. “Kyle informed me that after reading the emails from the reporter that this incident is not an actual network intrusion,” she said. Instead, the FBI agent said the state’s database was “misconfigured,” Robinson wrote. “The misconfiguration allowed open source tools to be used to query data that should not be public,” she added. Parson’s spokeswoman, Kelli Jones, declined to comment on the records information obtained by the Post-Dispatch, citing the ongoing investigation.

PASTOR’S PULPIT

Some post-Thanksgiving thoughts

By Bob Wauchope
Lead Pastor, Maplewood Church

Thanksgiving is a time of the year where we pause and get together with family and friends. It is a time to eat turkey and other great food, play games, watch football, and get ready to shop on Black Friday. Many get a nap in after eating. My wife loves to watch the parade in the morning.

This is just one day to give thanks in the year. What can be done to thank the Lord all year long?

Psalms 100:1-5 in the New Living Translation says, “Shout with joy to the Lord, all the earth! Serve the Lord with gladness. Come before him, singing with joy. Acknowledge that the Lord is God! He made us, and we are his. We are his people, the sheep of his pasture. Enter his gates with thanksgiving; go into his courts with praise. Give thanks to him and praise his name. For the Lord is good. His unfailing love continues forever, and his faithfulness continues to each generation.” This Psalm reminds us of four ways we can be thankful throughout the year.

Shout with Joy to the Lord. Our lives can be marked with joy every single day. Part of this is based on whether we have put our faith in Jesus Christ as Savior. When we have done that we have a relationship with Christ every day. Good or bad, Christ is there for us. That gives us the first reason that we can express joy. Joy is not based on good or bad circumstances in life, but on the constant of our relationship. We can find joy in the simple parts of life. A warm day in the fall, doing something kind for someone, making a person laugh, the leaves turning in the fall, the first snow, or the first flowers in the spring. There is so much that we can be joyful with in the Lord.

Serve the Lord with Gladness. We are not just called to faith and joy. We are called to use our time, our abilities, and our finances to serve the Lord. There are lots of opportunities between Thanksgiving and Christmas to serve. With our time we could go down to Open Door and help in the kitchen, pantry, or thrift store. You can serve in your local church. There are lots of faith-based organizations that can use help this time of year. We can use our abilities, skills, and talents to help those around us. Find ways to be thankful to God for what He has done and in return serve a neighbor, friend, or stranger. Lastly, at the end of the year, we can give financially to organizations or individuals who need help. Find ways to bless other people. When we do all of this with a happy heart full of gladness, we glorify God.

We are God’s. Every person is created in the image of God. Genesis tells us. Whether you want to be or not, you are His creation. He loves you and desires a relationship. You must choose faith in Christ to have that relationship. Not everyone is going to heaven, only those with faith in Christ. When we have put our faith in Christ, we are adopted into the family of God, we are His. It is easy to think we are not worthy to be his child, but if we repent of our sin and confess that Jesus is our Savior we will be saved, Romans 10:9 reminds us.

Give thanks to God and praise His name. There are so many things and people that we can give thanks for. We can be thankful for a warm home. We can be thankful for food and clothing. We can be thankful for family and friends. We can be thankful to God for the Scriptures which reveal Him to us. We can be thankful for our churches and the way they share the gospel and make disciples. I encourage you to keep track of some of the things that you can be thankful for on your phone or in a journal. Then when you are having a hard day go back and look at it to remind you of all God is doing in your life. Then go tell someone else about all the things you are thankful for.

God bless and have a wonderful year thanking God!

Christmas tree buyers face reduced supplies, higher prices

By Terence Chea
Associated Press

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP) — Even Christmas trees aren’t immune to the pandemic-induced shortages and inflation plaguing the economy.

Extreme weather and supply chain disruptions have reduced supplies of both real and artificial trees this season. American shoppers should expect to have fewer choices and pay up to 30% more for both types this Christmas, industry officials said.

“It’s a double whammy — weather and supply chain problems are really hampering the industry,” said Jami Warner, executive director of the American Christmas Tree Association, an industry trade group. “Growers have been hard hit by floods, fires, smoke, drought, extreme weather conditions.”

Record-breaking heat and wildfires in late June took a heavy toll on Christmas tree farms in Oregon and Washington, two of the nation’s largest growers.

Warner could not provide an estimate of how many fewer trees there will be this year but because it takes up to 10 years to grow, the crop loss will be felt for many seasons to come.

The shortage of truck drivers is making it harder and more expensive to transport live trees from farms to stores and tree lots.

Warner’s advice: “Shop early. If you see something you like, buy it.”

At Crystal River Christmas Trees, owner Dale Pine and his nephew Stacy Valenzuela struggled to get enough trees to sell at their tree lot in Alameda. Many of its suppliers in Oregon lost trees in the triple-digit heat wave.

“It was looking pretty grim for a while,” Valenzuela said. “Every single day you’re on the phone checking, ‘Hey, you got anything? If you do, send it my way.’ So a lot of work to get these trees on the ground this year.”

Crystal River had to raise prices this year because the costs of trees, labor and truck delivery have all gone up, Valenzuela said.

Alameda resident Ian Steplowski came to Crystal River lot to buy a Silvertip tree with his wife and two young kids the day after Thanksgiving.

“We’re having shortages of everything and of course it had to take Christmas trees,” Steplowski said. “Definitely noticing everything’s a bit more expensive this year already.”

Teri Schaffert heard about the shortage of real trees this year, so she decided to buy an artificial tree for the first time. Almost a week before Thanksgiving, she went to shop at the Burlington showroom of Balsam Hill, which primarily sells its artificial trees online.

“I came in early because I heard in the news that there’s not going to be enough fresh Christmas trees,” said Schaffert, who lives in nearby San Mateo. Her husband isn’t happy about the change. “What else can we do? I have to get ready for the future because I love Christmas. I love to decorate.”

But the artificial tree industry is struggling with its own supply troubles as clogged ports and the lack of truckers delay shipments and raise costs, said Caroline Tuan, Balsam Hill’s chief operating officer. The company’s trees are about 20% more expensive this year and there is less variety.

“We have to bring our products over from our factories (in China), and that has been very challenging,” Tuan said. “All of that has impacted us, which means that we have fewer trees to sell as an industry.”

Worries about drought and drought led David Cruise and his wife to the Balsam Hill showroom to buy their first artificial tree this year.

“In the grand scheme of climate change here in California, this is really the way to go,” said Cruise, who lives in Brentwood. “The sooner everybody gets on board with the artificial tree, the sooner everybody’s going to enjoy it.”

New data suggests 1 in 44 US children affected by autism

By Lindsey Tanner
AP Medical Writer

New autism numbers released Thursday suggest more U.S. children are being diagnosed with the developmental condition and at younger ages.

In an analysis of 2018 data from nearly a dozen states, researchers at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention found that among 8-year-olds, 1 in 44 had been diagnosed with autism. That rate compares with 1 in 54 identified with autism in 2016.

U.S. autism numbers have been on the rise for several years, but experts believe that reflects more awareness and wider availability of services to treat the condition rather than a true increase in the number of affected children.

A separate CDC report released Thursday said that children were 50% more likely to be diagnosed with autism by age 4 in 2018 than in 2014.

“There is some progress being made and the earlier kids get identified, the earlier they can access services that they might need to improve their developmental outcome,” said CDC researcher and co-author Kelly Shaw.

Geraldine Dawson, director of Duke University’s Center for Autism and Brain Development, said the new estimate is similar to one found in research based on screening a large population of children rather than on those already diagnosed. As such, she said it may be closer to reflecting the true state of autism in U.S. children than earlier estimates.

The CDC reports are based on data from counties and other communities in 11 states — some with more urban neighborhoods, where autism rates tend to be higher. The rates are estimates and don’t necessarily reflect the entire U.S. situation, the authors said.

Autism rates varied widely — from 1 in 26 in California, where services are plentiful, to 1 in 60 in Missouri.

Overall, autism prevalence was similar across racial and ethnic lines, but rates were higher among Black children in two sites, Maryland and Minnesota. Until recently, U.S. data showed prevalence among white children was higher.

At a third site, Utah, rates were higher among children from lower-income families than those from wealthier families, reversing a longstanding trend, said report co-author Amanda Bakian, a University of Utah researcher who oversees the CDC’s autism surveillance in that state.

Bakian said that likely reflects more coverage for autism services by Medicaid and private health insurers.

“Here there’s a lot more areas of natural hiking,” Kevin added. “It’s farmland where we live. The trails are easy to walk on, and there are very pleasant views here. I’m sure when the leaves are on the trees it’s very dark back here, it’s really thick. We’re going to do at least another trail after this one. It’s our first time here, we just drove up because it’s only an hour and a half from our house.”

“I love it,” Janet said. “It’s very nice out here, we love hiking. We’ve done this in Illinois where we came from, but this is a lot different than what we’re used to.”

After Thursday’s ribbon-cutting, those in attendance mingle in the large lobby of the new VA community-based outpatient clinic, located at 981 Winchester Dr.

“There are 114 counties in Missouri and 101 of those are considered rural,” she added. “In our attachment, we only have two counties not considered rural, Boone and Cole.”

Ninety-nine Missouri counties have shortages in primary care and 97 have shortages in behavioral health care. Zerrer added Truman VA has a “whole health care approach” where they promote “well-care instead of sick-care,” which helps prevent diseases before they occur.

“And then to catch them early when they do occur, so we can get treatment started really early,” she noted. “We want our veterans to fully enjoy their life. We want them to be healthy mentally, physically and socially.”

She said the frontline CBOC staff at the Sedalia Clinic does all those things for veterans.

During the event, Ke-

hde, Weibert and Simon all thanked the Truman VA for building the larger facility in Sedalia.

After the ribbon-cutting, Truman VA Deputy Chief of Primary Care Richard Burns and Nguyen spoke with the Democrat.

“It’s definitely exciting anytime we can expand our services,” Burns noted. “Physical therapy is one of our most sought-after community consultations, where we will have to send veterans out ...

“To build a new facility and incorporate services like podiatry and physical therapy, makes me super excited we can keep our veterans in-house,” he continued. “Because we really do believe we provide the best care to our veterans.”

Nguyen added it’s nice to have a larger facility with updated and modernized equipment. He noted the facility has a private practice feel to it, which will make veterans feel comfortable.

“This is such an improvement,” he said. “The staff is excited about that.”

Blues' Binnington, Faulk enter NHL COVID-19 protocol

By Stephen Whyno

AP Hockey Writer

Justin Faulk was scratched minutes before the St. Louis Blues' game at the Tampa Bay Lightning on Thursday night, and the team confirmed the defenseman had entered the NHL's COVID-19 protocol.

Faulk's absence came hours after goaltender Jordan Binnington went into protocol and put the Blues in a tough spot because of salary cap constraints. General manager Doug Armstrong said Binnington tested positive for the coronavirus.

McFail retires as Smith-Cotton football head coach

By Bryan Everson

bryane@sedaliademocrat.com

Charlie McFail has retired as Smith-Cotton football head coach, per a Sedalia School District 200 release Thursday afternoon.

The move will become official when the Board of Education accepts his resignation at Monday's meeting.

An alumnus of the program, McFail was added to Mark Johnson's staff in 2008, and became Tigers defensive coordinator in 2009, a position he held until succeeding Ryan Boyer, who left to become athletic director and head football coach at Warsaw, in 2017.

In the release, McFail said, "Football has been great to my family and myself. Spectating, playing, coaching – it has all offered countless opportunities and produced some great memories that will last a lifetime. My closest friends are all connections that were made on a football field, either as a player or coach. Building relationships as I help kids grow personally and achieve goals athletically is what I will miss most as I have decided to retire from coaching football."

In his handful of seasons as head coach, the Tigers went 18-32. The highlight of his tenure came that first season when Smith-Cotton ran the table in the regular season and won a West Central Conference title.

The Tigers fell, however, fell on hard times in McFail's last three seasons, winning just four games combined while posting a 1-10 home record.

Regardless, Smith-Cotton Athletic Director Rob Davis made clear that this was a retirement, and any rumors that the move was not of McFail's own volition were just that.

"We have conversations with every coach every season about what they're doing well and what they can improve upon, and we had them with [Coach McFail] like we did every fall coach," Davis said. "The rest of that's just noise. Whenever your football team has a couple rough seasons, there's going to be people talking."

Davis added, "I just want to stress how much I appreciate Coach McFail and everything he did for the program."

McFail will continue to teach physical education at the high school and begins his first season as the Tigers' track and field head coach this spring.

Dallas Cowboys wide receiver Michael Gallup (13) catches a pass as Kansas City Chiefs cornerback Rashad Fenton (27) defends during the first half of an NFL football game Sunday, Nov. 21, 2021, in Kansas City, Mo.

Chiefs leaning on unsung heroes in their Super Bowl pursuit

By Dave Skretta

AP Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The top-ranked cornerback in the NFL, at least according to some advanced metrics, is not Jalen Ramsey or some other high-profile player that was a first-round pick and developed into a Pro Bowl-caliber talent.

The top center isn't Jason Kelce or some other longtime stalwart in the middle of the offensive line.

Rather they are Rashad Fenton and Creed Humphrey of the AFC champion Chiefs who, along with cornerback L'Jarius Sneed and a few others, have emerged as the unsung heroes of a club seeking a third consecutive Super Bowl appearance.

"Our staff does such a great job of turning over every stone," Chiefs general manager Brett Veach said earlier this season. "If we can make ourselves better or do anything, we won't be afraid to do that."

Now, the grading services such as Pro Football Focus that have elevated Fenton and Humphrey to the top of the heap are inherently subjective. They break down every play from every game, assign a grade for each player, and then run the results through various filters and computations to spit out a number that is more easily digestible.

Yet where Fenton and Humphrey are concerned, several grading services are coming up with basically the same result.

They're as good as anybody in the league.

Fenton has been targeted 29 times and allowed 19 receptions the entire season, a big reason why the Chiefs (7-4) have turned things around on defense and won four straight games.

And while he doesn't have an interception and has relatively few tackles, that's mostly because opposing quarterbacks have learned it's foolish to challenge him.

Jennies volleyball earns sweep in regional quarterfinal

By Joe Andrews

joea@warrensburgstarjournal.com

WARRENSBURG — By the time No. 1 seed Central Missouri's time to play in its first NCAA Division II Central Regional Championships contest arrived on Thursday, the region's No. 2 and No. 3 seeds had already lost.

The Jennies had no interest in joining the statistic of top-seeded teams losing, sweeping No. 8 Arkansas Tech on Dr. Peggy Martin Court at the UCM Multipurpose Building.

"It's hard when you don't play in a team in your conference season to get a feel by looking at film to get a feel of particularly the last two matches of how they played," Central Missouri head coach Flip Piontek said. "When you win 22 matches on the year, your team is good and I don't care what conference you're in... I liked them. They helped us prepare for future matches."

The quarterfinal wasn't as separated as it seems when looking at the 3-0 final. The final score broke down to 25-13, 25-22, 25-18.

The first set's final marked the largest differential to exist in the contest. It wasn't until the end of the third set that it expanded to more than five.

"We knew this team, they weren't even supposed to win their conference tournament," redshirt junior middle blocker Hannah Engelken said. "They weren't even supposed to be in this tournament. We knew they were going to come back with some fire, this could be their last game of the season. We figured they'd come back swinging and they definitely dug more balls, hit a little harder, hit some new shots that we weren't ready for. We responded and did pretty well."

A part of Arkansas Tech's benefit arrived through improvement from Tymber Riley. She had seven attack errors within the first set, but recorded just one within the next two sets.

The Golden Suns had 21 attack errors in total, 12 arriving within the first frame.

"Tymber, she really struggled in that first set," Piontek said. "Lots of younger coaches sometimes would just say 'they, get out of there, get out of there.' I give Kera (Dukic) credit for just that's her player. That's her key player. She left her out there and she found her foot. She found her comfort level and then began to really help them."

Central Missouri's dominance came with 16 total blocks, led by Engelken's four solo and one assisted. She also led the Jennies with 12 kills on 16 attempts.

Engelken's .750 hitting percentage led the Jennies' .438 team performance on the day. Moving forward to the regional semifinals, there's a few area's Piontek would like to improve on — especially within the area of net errors.

"We will not practice tomorrow, but we will work at the beginning of the warmups with touching the ball with a little more confidence and a little bit more platform and angle control. Those are things we can work on any time. For us, keeping on track for some of the goals we've had over the course of the season. This allows us to keep doing that."

The Jennies will play in the regional semifinals at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Central Missouri was the only higher seed to win a match on Thursday, with No. 3 Northwest Missouri falling to No. 6 Nebraska Kearney 3-2, No. 2 St. Cloud State falling to No. 7 Concordia-St. Paul 3-1 and No. 4 Winona State falling to No. 5 Washburn 3-1.

Central Missouri will meet Washburn in the regional semifinal round at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Nebraska Kearney and Concordia-St. Paul prior at 5 p.m.

Manfred, Clark divergent views point to lengthy lockout

By Stephen Hawkins and Ronald Blum
AP Baseball Writer

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Hours into Major League Baseball's first work stoppage in 26 years, Commissioner Rob Manfred and union head Tony Clark presented diametrically opposed views of each side's negotiating positions that point to a lengthy lockout.

In separate news conferences less than a day into baseball's ninth work stoppage, Manfred said the union's proposal for greater free agency and wider salary arbitration would damage small-market teams.

Clark, the first former player to head the union, accused Manfred of "misrepresentations" in his letter to fans explaining the lockout, and said "it would have been beneficial to the process to have spent as much time negotiating in the room as it appeared it was spent on the letter."

"It's unnecessary to continue the dialogue," Clark said of the lockout. "At the first instance in some time of a bumpy water, the recourse was a strategic decision to lock players out."

The dispute threatens the start of spring training on Feb. 16 and opening day on March 31.

In many ways, after 26 1/2 years of labor peace the sides have reverted to the bitter squabbling that marked eight work stoppages from 1972-95, including a 7 1/2-month strike that wiped out the 1994 World Series.

Owners locked out players at 12:01 a.m. Thursday following the expiration of the sport's five-year collective bargaining agreement.

"If you play without an agreement, you are vulnerable to a strike at any point in time," Manfred said. "What happened in 1994 is the MLBPA picked August, when we were most vulnerable because of the proximity of the large revenue dollars associated with the postseason. We wanted to take that option away and try to force the parties to deal with the issues and get an agreement now."

Players gained salary arbitration in 1974 and free agency two years later, and most of the previous disputes centered on the rise of big salaries caused by both, along with demands, mostly by small- and middle-market owners, to control costs and increase their competitive ability.

Management gained an ever-increasing series of restraints over the last two decades, such as a luxury tax on high payrolls, leading to a decrease in average salary during the latter years of the most recent labor deal.

Now players want more liberalized free agency and arbitration, leading to a confrontation.

"It's a whole list of topics that they've told us they will not negotiate," said Bruce Meyer, the players' chief lawyer. "They will not agree, for example, to expand salary arb eligibility. They will not agree to any path for any player to achieve free agency earlier. They will not agree to anything that would allow players to have additional ways to get service time to combat service-time manipulation. They told us on all of those things they will not agree."

Since 1976, players can become free agents after six seasons of major league service. The players' association proposed starting with the 2023-24 offseason that it changes to six years or five years and age 30.5, with the age in the second option dropping to 29.5 starting in 2025-26.

Players want arbitration eligibility to decrease to two years of service, its level until the mid-1980s.

Central to the strife is the union's anger over a larger number of teams in recent seasons jettisoning veterans in favor of rebuilding while accumulating prospects. Teams sometimes conclude rebuilding — the players call it tanking — is a preferred strategy for long-term success, even though it can rankle their fans.

"We feel our proposals would positively affect competitive balance, competitive integrity," Meyer said. "We've all seen in recent years the problem with teams that don't seem to be trying their hardest to win games or put the best teams on the field."

In the signing scramble ahead of the lockout, teams committed $1 billion to contracts on Wednesday, including six nine-figure agreements that raised the total to nine in the last month and total spending to $2.5 billion since Oct. 1.

"The fact that this year there seems to be more activity sooner by clubs in free agency than a normal year raises more questions than it answers about all the other years," Meyer said. "One good week of free agency doesn't address all the negative trends that we've seen."

MLB would keep existing free-agency provision or change eligibility to age 29.5.

"We already have teams in smaller markets that struggle to compete," Manfred said. "Shortening the period of time that they control players makes it even harder for them to compete. It's also bad for fans in those markets. The most negative reaction we have is when a player leaves via free agency. We don't see that, making it earlier, available earlier, we don't see that as a positive."

Clark spoke at the hotel where negotiations broke off and Manfred about 14 miles away at Globe Life Field, home of the Texas Rangers.

"The players' association, as is their right, made an aggressive set of proposals in May, and they have refused to budge from the core of those proposals," Manfred said. "Things like a shortened reserve period, a $100 million reduction in revenue sharing and salary arbitration for the whole two-year class are bad for the sport, bad for the fans and bad for competitive balance."

An agreement by early-to-mid-March is needed for a full season.

"Speculating about drop dead deadlines at this point, not productive," Manfred said. "So I'm not going to do it."

Negotiations have made little to no progress since they began last spring. Manfred said a lockout was management's only tool to speed the process.

"People need pressure sometimes to get to an agreement," Manfred said. "Candidly, we didn't feel that sense of pressure from the other side during the course of this week."

Antonio Brown, 2 others suspended for violating COVID rules

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — Antonio Brown and two other NFL players have been suspended immediately for three games by the league for violating COVID-19 protocols.

The Tampa Bay wide receiver and teammate Mike Edwards were suspended Thursday. Free agent John Franklin III, if signed by a team, is also ineligible to play in the next three games.

All three players have accepted the discipline and waived their right of appeal. The suspensions are effective immediately.

The NFL Players Association, which developed the protocols along with the league, represented the three players during a review of the recent allegations that players misrepresented their vaccination status. Brown, Edwards, a cornerback, and Franklin, a defensive back who last played for the Bucs in 2019, were found in violation of the protocols.

"The health and safety of players and personnel is our top priority," the NFL and NFLPA said in a joint statement. "The protocols were jointly developed working with our respective experts to ensure that we are practicing and playing football as safely as possible during the ongoing pandemic. The NFL-NFLPA jointly reinforce their commitment and further emphasize the importance of strict adherence to the protocols to protect the well-being of everyone associated with the NFL."

The Buccaneers issued a brief statement in response to the league action.

"We appreciate the league's timely handling of this matter and recognize the importance of the health and safety protocols that have been established," the statement read. "We will continue to implement all league COVID-19 protocols."

Brown joined Tampa Bay midway through last season after serving an eight-game suspension for violating the NFL's personal conduct policy. He helped the Bucs win the Super Bowl for the second time in franchise history.

The 33-year-old receiver, who has 29 catches for 418 yards and four touchdowns this season, has missed the past five games with an ankle injury. He also sat out the team's Week 3 loss to the Los Angeles Rams after testing positive for COVID-19.

The Bucs (8-3) are 5-0 when he plays this season, 3-3 without him.

Rory McIlroy part of 3-way tie for lead in the Bahamas

By Doug Ferguson
AP Golf Writer

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — Rory McIlroy has gone from tears at the Ryder Cup to some of his best golf of the year, and right now his only complaint is the calendar.

"I wish it was the end of March," McIlroy said Thursday after a 6-under 66 to share the lead with Daniel Berger and Abraham Ancer in the Hero World Challenge.

McIlroy was referring to the Masters, the only major keeping him from the career Grand Slam, and there is plenty of golf to be played between now and the first full week of April. But he's been on a roll since spilling his emotions about how much the Ryder Cup means after a rough week at Whistling Straits.

He won the CJ Cup in Las Vegas. He was leading the DP World Tour Championship in Dubai after 68 holes until a bad break led to a sloppy finish and Collin Morikawa passed him by.

And then on a warm and blustery day in the Bahamas, he had six birdies and chipped in for eagle on the reachable par-4 14th for another good start.

It was far from perfect, and he only has to point at a double bogey on the par-5 ninth when he hit his second shot into the water. He failed to birdie two other par 5s, so this wasn't exactly a round where he got the most out of it.

But it was enough to make him slightly wistful the year was coming to an end.

"I wish it was a different time of the year the way I'm playing," McIlroy said. "But there's no reason why I can't pick up again in January and keep playing the way I'm playing. I'm still going to keep myself ticking over these next few weeks. I'm not going to completely shut the clubs away. ... My game's in good shape and I want to keep it there."

On the opposite end of the spectrum is Berger, who hasn't even played since the Ryder Cup. He showed up on the practice range at Albany on Monday, cell phone resting on his bag to play music, striped one drive and proudly announced, "Still got it!"

He was kidding on Monday, not so much on Thursday.

Berger birdied his opening four holes, made an eagle on the par-5 11th and stayed ahead of the 20-man field most of the day until the end. From the 18th fairway, into the wind with water guarding the left side of the green, he missed well to the right, his chip didn't reach the green and he had to make a 5-footer to escape with bogey.

It was the first time every shot counted on his card since Sept. 4 when he closed with 64 at the Tour Championship. There's been a lot of pool time, and more time on the tennis court than the golf course. He played with his father, former Davis Cup player Jay Berger.

"It's probably the longest break I've had in my professional career," he said. "It was a little scary taking over a month off because I haven't done that in a while, wondering if you're going to come back and still have it. But mentally and physically, I needed the break."

Jennies soccer set for Central Region Championship match

By Joe Andrews

joea@warrensburgstarjournal.com

Come Friday, Jennies soccer will be playing Bemidji State for the NCAA Division II Central Regional Championship at the Grand Valley State Soccer Field in Allendale, Michigan.

UCM earned a spot in the championship after topping Minnesota State 4-3 on Sunday, Nov. 21, in Warrensburg. The Beavers, on the other hand, beat Emporia State 1-0 on Nov. 21, in Emporia.

The Jennies enter the match with a 19-3-1 record while Bemidji State is 19-1-3. This is the second time the two have met for a regional championship, the last occurring in 2018. UCM won 2-0.

The 2021 running of the matchup features two of Division II's top-10 scorers in UCM junior Kassie Newsom and Beavers senior Sara Wendt.

Wendt is tied for fifth in total goals with 19, while Newsom sits in eighth with 18. Newsom is also tied for third in assists with 15, which helps her tie for fourth in points per game with 2.32.

Newsom's presence, plus No. 13 scorer Sydnie Leslie, makes the Jennies the No. 7 team in goals scored with 62.

Bemidji has put the ball into the net 50 times this season. Its lone loss of the year occurred against Minnesota State in the NSIC Championship Nov. 14, falling 4-2.

Eight of the Beavers' 2021 wins have occurred with a one-goal difference, compared to Central Missouri's nine. The Jennies have given up 29 goals compared to Bemidji's 15.

Ultimately, UCM has the better strength of schedule, as shown by their No. 1 seed in the region compared to Bemidji's No. 3. The MIAA had four teams make the regional compared to the NSIC's two.

The regional championship will be streamed for free viewing at team1sports.com/gvsn/, with the contest beginning at 10 a.m.

The Midwest Region Championship between Grand Valley State and Saginaw Valley will began at approximately 1 p.m.

The winner of the two games will meet in the NCAA Division II quarterfinal round at 1 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 5, in Allendale.

Central Missouri is looking for its fourth-straight quarterfinal appearance (2019, 2018, 2017). There was no DII postseason in 2020 due to COVID-19.

Grizzlies rout Thunder by 73 to set NBA mark for win margin

By The Associated Press

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The Memphis Grizzlies broke the NBA record for margin of victory Thursday night, beating the Oklahoma City Thunder 152-79.

The 73-point spread easily topped the previous mark, which was Cleveland's 68-point win over Miami. The Cavaliers beat the Heat 148-80 on Dec. 17, 1991.

Memphis used 12 players and nine of them reached double figures in scoring, with Jaren Jackson Jr.'s 27 points leading the way for the Grizzlies. Memphis was without its best player, injured guard Ja Morant.

It was 72-36 at halftime and the Grizzlies just kept adding to the lead, eventually pulling ahead by as many as 78 points.

The Grizzlies set a franchise record for shooting, making 62.5% of their shots. DeAnthony Melton scored 19 points, Santi Aldama had 18 and John Konchar added 17 for the Grizzlies — and none of those three players even started.

RAPTORS 97, BUCKS 93
TORONTO (AP) — Fred VanVleet scored 29 points, Pascal Siakam had 20 and Toronto took advantage of Giannis Antetokounmpo's absence to stop Milwaukee's eight-game winning streak.

Antetokounmpo was out because of soreness in his right calf, a day after he scored 40 points as the Bucks beat Charlotte 127-125. The two-time NBA MVP sat out for the first time since Nov. 12, when he missed an overtime loss at Boston because of a sprained right ankle.

Scottie Barnes scored 13 points as the Raptors won for the first time in four games and snapped a five-game home losing streak, their longest since January 2011.

Jrue Holiday scored 26 points and Khris Middleton had 22 for the Bucks, who lost for the first time since a Nov. 14 defeat at Atlanta.

BULLS 119, KNICKS 115
NEW YORK (AP) — DeMar DeRozan scored 34 points, Zach LaVine and Nikola Vucevic each added 27, and Chicago held off New York.

Those three were the only Bulls players to score in the fourth quarter, but it was just enough after the Knicks had erased a 21-point deficit to take the lead.

DeRozan scored 18 points in the fourth, including the Bulls' final six. LaVine had given Chicago the lead by making two free throws with 53 seconds left after the game was tied at 111.

Julius Randle had 30 points, 12 rebounds and six assists, but missed two free throws and had a turnover that led to LaVine's free throws. The Knicks (11-11) fell to .500 for the first time this season after starting 5-1.

New York was without starting forward RJ Barrett because of illness along with center Nerlens Noel because of a sore right knee. Then the Knicks lost another center when Taj Gibson was ejected in the first quarter.

Blues

“You don’t like to hear that news,” coach Craig Berube said on a video call. “We just move on, boys. That’s all we can do. ... It’s just another road block, we just got to get through it.”

It was not immediately clear if either Binnington or Faulk had any symptoms.

Binnington and Faulk join forward Tyler Bozak as Blues players in league virus protocol. They are also without injured forwards David Perron, James Neal and Klim Kostin.

St. Louis plans to recall goalie Charlie Lindgren on Friday, but could not do so in time for the game against Tampa Bay. League rules stipulate that because the Blues don’t have the cap room to add another player to the roster, they had to get through one game with an emergency backup.

Ville Husso started against the Lightning, with 23-year-old mask painter Kyle Konin serving as the backup. Konin most recently played club hockey at Grand Valley State University.

“He had a morning skate today with his beer league guys and he said he was on fire and ready to go, so we’re excited to have him in here,” Armstrong said. “Knock on wood that he’ll remain a 60-minute cheerleader.”

Binnington, who backstopped the Blues to their first Stanley Cup title in 2019, is 8-5-3 with a 2.80 goals-against average and .912 save percentage in 16 starts this season. The 28-year-old is also a leading candidate to be one of Canada’s goalies at the upcoming Olympics in Beijing, assuming the NHL does not withdraw.

Husso is expected to get the lion’s share of duties in net while Binnington is out. The 26-year-old Finn is 3-1-0 with a 1.76 GAA and .936 save percentage in limited action this season.

Berube saw a change in Husso’s approach last season and thinks he’s ready for the opportunity.

“I believe he’s in a better place,” Berube said. “It’s obviously new for him to handle the load. But I’m going off his play this year so far and he’s played extremely well.”

Faulk, 29, has 10 points in 22 games this season.

McFail

Davis said that discussions have already started in regards to the search for a replacement, though nothing can officially move forward until after Monday’s meeting.

“Tuesday morning we’ll get started,” Davis said.

“We’re not LSU or USC; I don’t have a bunch of money in a pile that I can go target certain people [with]. There are people we’ll reach out to, but it’ll come down to people where Smith-Cotton is where they want to be and they want to be part of this community.”

When asked whether any appealing candidates from within the district might be interested or especially considered, Davis added, “The best applicant for the varsity job will get it. If it happens to be someone on the staff already or at the junior high level, so be it. Our junior high program is extremely important, but if someone there is the right person, it couldn’t keep us from [hiring them]. It could be someone on the inside or outside. I’m excited to get the word out once we can officially and see what kind of applications we get.”

Chiefs

Humphrey has played 789 snaps and allowed one sack — yes, one — while committing just three penalties. And that’s a big reason why Chiefs fans have embarked on a grassroots effort to get Humphrey voted Offensive Rookie of the Year.

Asked whether he pays attention to such things, Humphrey replied: “No, not really.”

“I just kind of focus on tape and things like that. Don’t really pay attention to anything outside the building,” he added. “It really just shows how good of a unit we’ve been so far with having guys like Joe (Thuney) and Trey (Smith) by me, things like that. Everybody is working together well, and that’s the biggest thing for us.”

To say that Fenton and Humphrey have exceeded expectations would be a gross understatement.

Fenton was a sixth-round pick in the 2019 draft out of South Carolina, meaning there were 24 other cornerbacks that teams liked more than him. The first of them, DeAndre Baker, was chosen in the first round by the Giants and subsequently cut; he now plays for the Chiefs, where he’s buried behind Fenton on the depth chart.

“Fenton is one of my favorite guys,” Chiefs coach Andy Reid said, “because he’s so mellow and yet he plays so aggressive. If you watch him during practice, he just kind of cruises along and all of a sudden there’s that burst once he gets out there, but if you saw him just walking out onto the field, you go, “Man, this guy needs to get some sleep.”

When you combine him with Sneed, a fourth-round pick in last year’s draft whose physicality has made him a menace for wide receivers, the Chiefs suddenly have one of the best young cornerback tandems in the NFL.

Humphrey was the top center chosen in April’s draft, but that merely meant he went No. 63 overall.

He’s not the only rookie to earn a starting job right away, either. The Chiefs used a sixth-round pick on Trey Smith, whose stock dropped because of some medical concerns, and he’s been a stalwart at right guard since training camp.

“That position, you’re never quite sure how that’s going to transition with the big guys, especially at the center spot,” Reid said. “You come in and you’ve got all this stuff dumped on you, the mental part of the game, and Creed has handled that.

“Then, Trey has brought a different style in there,” Reid continued. “He’s going to maul you and try to beat you up and that whole deal, so he does a nice job with that. There’s a physical presence to his game. Both of them have a ton of room to grow, but they’re sure doing a nice job right now.”

NOTES: WRs Tyreek Hill and Mecole Hardman returned to practice Thursday. Both were excused the previous day for non-injury reasons. ... Fenton and OL Lucas Niang (ribs) missed Thursday’s workout. ... CB Mike Hughes will continue to be the primary punt returner after taking over for Hardman two weeks ago, special teams coordinator Dave Toub said Thursday.

Liberty tames Missouri in 66-45 beat down behind McGhee

By The Associated Press

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — No Southeastern Conference team had ever visited Liberty Arena until Missouri on Thursday night. There may be reluctance on the part of SEC members to return.

Darius McGhee scored 20 points and Shiloh Robinson scored a career-high 15 and Liberty beat the Tigers 66-45 in a game that was never close.

Liberty blitzed Missouri with a 20-5 start in the first 9:45 and pushed the lead to 33-7 on McGhee’s layup with 4:37 before halftime. Liberty lead 35-14 at the break as the Tigers shot 3 for 21.

Missouri never got within 15 points in the second half. Keegan McDowell added 12 points for the Flames (4-3).

Kobe Brown scored 14 points with 10 rebounds for Missouri (4-4) and Amari Davis scored 13.

Liberty moved its record to 5-5 against the SEC since the 2018-19 season. Missouri was the first Power Five school Liberty faced at home since 2009 when it hosted Clemson; a 79-39 loss.

Missouri beat Liberty 69-60 on Dec. 9, 2020 at Columbia, Missouri after the Flames beat South Carolina and Mississippi State of the SEC at neutral sites last season.

Liberty now has defeated eight Power Five opponents under coach Ritchie McKay, including Mississippi State in the NCAA Tournament in 2019.

WHAT'S NEW ON PRIME

"The Expanse" - Season 6
The mission continues with the Season 6 premiere of "The Expanse," available to stream on Prime beginning Friday, Dec. 10, with episodes airing weekly on Fridays thereafter. Based on the series of novels of the same name by James S.A. Corey (the joint pen name of authors Daniel Abraham and Ty Franck), this sci-fi epic follows the story of humanity hundreds of years into the future, when humans have colonized the solar system. With a fragile balance held between the colonies and war always too close for anyone's comfort, James Holden (Steven Strait, "The Covenant," 2006), Naomi Nagata (Dominique Tipper, "Fantastic Beasts and Where to Find Them," 2016), Amos Burton (Wes Chatham, "The Hunger Games: Mockingjay - Part 1," 2014) and their friends are ready to join the fight for the solar system against new and unexpected enemies. From series creators and writers Abraham, Franck and Mark Fergus ("Iron Man," 2008), this six-episode season is directed by Breck Eisner ("The Crazies," 2010). Shohreh Aghdashloo ("House of Sand and Fog," 2003), Frankie Adams ("Mortal Engines," 2018), Cara Gee ("Empire of Dirt," 2013), Nadine Nicole ("Casual"), Keon Alexander ("Tyrant"), Jasai Chase Owens ("Loserville,"

"Encounter" (2021)

One family is in it together in the new sci-fi thriller "Encounter," premiering on Prime on Friday, Dec. 10. Malik Khan (Riz Ahmed, "Sound of Metal," 2019) is a decorated marine and dedicated father to two young sons. Trained to see risk in everything, Khan is the only one to see the new, alien bugs around him for what they really are: a threat to humanity. While he can't convince the world to sound the alarm on the alien invader, he can protect those closest to him. Now on the run from the military, Khan and his sons fight for their

WHAT'S NEW ON HULU

"Crossing Swords" - Season 2

"Crossing Swords" returns to Hulu with its second season on Friday, Dec. 10, and this hilarious stop-motion animated sitcom is not one to miss. Set in a fantastical, medieval-esque kingdom, this comedy series for adults voice stars Nicholas Hoult ("Mad Max: Fury Road," 2015) as the good-natured peasant, Patrick. With big dreams of becoming a knight, Patrick lands a coveted job as a squire in the castle. His dream job quickly turns disappointing, however, when he discovers the kingdom is being run by greedy, promiscuous, self-serving charlatans. To make matters worse, Patrick's criminal siblings have come back to make his life as difficult as they can. Amid war, murder, double-crossing and romance, Season 2 sees Patrick off on another mighty adventure to do right in an often hilariously corrupt kingdom.
