Deerbrook Villas sees demand for expansion

By Chris Howell chrish@sedaliademocrat.com

Thursday, MBL Development announced it is applying for HUD funds to expand the Deerbrook Villas community on Mitchell Road in Sedalia.

The bright and tidy senior housing facility hopes to expand to meet the hot demand for lowcost housing in Sedalia.

"This is the fourth phase of Deerbrook," Sedalia Community Development Director John Simmons said. "Wildly successful Phase One, Two and Three and a nice waiting list. It just proves there's a huge demand for housing in Sedalia and there are opportunities for people who want to build on this and move more people into the city."

MBL Development President Kim Lingle

Affordable senior housing draws elderly to Sedalia said he did not foresee the demand for low-income senior housing when he started building the first units 10 years ago.

"I did not, I did not see it expanding that big because I was unaware of the unbelievable need for housing in Sedalia," Lingle said. "I did not believe we would even do a Phase Two or Three. Now we're trying to do Phase Four."

Lingle will be competing with developers from across the state for the limited federal dollars.

Page: ordinary subjects become polished paintings

issouri State Fair Artist-in-Residence Cody Page, of north Missouri, will demonstrate his unique painting style through Monday in the Fine Arts Building. Using ordinary subject matter along with narrative, Page paints human interaction with "polished" ease.

Missouri in Warrensburg with a bachelor's of fine art degree. He said he's always been interested in art, and when people told him he was good at it, he decided to follow a creative path. He noted his work illustrates simplicity and sincerity.

"Ordinary things, that's the heart of it all," he added.

He said he began working with his current painting style after graduating from college. The work, he noted, is inspired by the "golden age illustra-illustrators, such as Norman Rockwell.

"Through Rockwell, I found Jason Leyendecker," he said. "He's kind of a 'Saturday Evening Post' guy. All the stereotypical images started with him.

"And I just started copying him," Page continued. "Then I realized I had something to say. Leyendecker chose his covers, thinking of every person in America. People in 1910 Missouri didn't care about cutting-edge art. They just recognize, done in a masterful way. And that's my goal."

Page added he wants to "elevate ordinary subject matter" to a larger scale. He said he enjoys taking ordinary subjects and "regular people" and creating large-scale paintings of their actions. For example, Rockwell and Levendecker realized they could sit at their easels and "be a respected world-class painter while painting a grandmother baking a pie."

Kempton running for Pettis County Prosecuting Attorney

By Skye Melcher skyem@sedaliademocrat.com

Trial attorney Sam Kempton, of Kempton and Russell, announced in July that he would be running for the Pettis County Prosecuting Attorney seat. As of last week, he's officially on the November General Election ballot.

Kempton's announcement came after filing for the August primary election had closed, so he had to earn almost 300 signatures from registered voters in Pettis County to run in the November election.

Kempton also serves as the Vice President of the Sedalia School District 200 Board of Education. He explained that he was employed by the county as an assistant prosecutor in 2018 but also interned in the Prosecutor's Office under former Prosecuting Attorney Jeff Mittlehauser.

"The day I was hired, I hit the ground running and for a year and a half, I dedicated myself to answering the late-night phone calls for search warrants, making sure the office was caught up on filing decisions so cases didn't just linger, and made sure I was always in the courtroom when a prosecutor needed to be there, even if it wasn't my case," Kempton said.

In that role, Kempton successfully handled motions and trials and obtained favorable rulings and maximum sentences, results he said were necessary to protect the public.

Since I left that office, I have been approached with continuous encouragement and support from so many people in the courthouse and the community to run for prosecutor. It is clear to me that this is my calling, and I am answering that call by giving the voters in Pettis County a choice this November," Kempton said.

For his entire career, Kempton has practiced as a criminal litigator on behalf of the accused and the state.

"As a prosecutor, I never had a search warrant invalidated, never lost a Fourth Amendment suppression hearing, won both bench and jury trials and always obtained the desired disposition at every sentencing hearing I handled," Kempton said. See SEAT | 7A

Two new principals join Smithon School District

By Skye Melcher skyem@sedaliademocrat.com

Two new principals are joining the Smithton R-VI School District this school year.

Elementary Principal Becca Warren and High School Principal Patrick Treece, both from outside the district, will be stepping into their role as principals for the first time.

Warren taught as a kindergarten and first-grade teacher at Blackwater K-8 from 2009 to 2021 after she taught first-grade in Boonville for the 2021-22 school year. Once the year came to an end, she applied for the administration position in Smithton.

"I applied for the position after speaking with the former principal and hearing the direction that this district was headed, the support of the community, the role of the superintendent," Warren said. "It just felt like a really good fit. It felt like a district that was headed in the right direction."

Becca Warren

Warren added that for a new administrator, it felt like it would be walking into a culture and climate of success.

"I wasn't initially looking for this job, it kind of found me," Warren said. "When I realized what a good fit it was is when I decided to apply."

Warren said that at any age, as an educator, it is important to embrace new learning, so she has always tried to continue to learn and grow as an educator. This adds to the reasons she applied for an administration position.

"So through that, the more I've learned and the more I've grew, it felt like learning lent itself to wanting to do more, to broaden my reach and make a larger impact than what I was making in the four walls of my classroom," she said.

Warren said she is looking forward to getting to know her community members, staff and students in her new position.

"I'm looking forward to being part of a staff that is excited to grow together," Warren said. "We have a lot of new staff members this year, myself included. It's an opportunity for us to grow and learn together for the instructional benefit of our kids."

EXPLAINER: Why gas prices are falling

By The Associated Press

U.S. consumers are breathing a bit easier now that gasoline prices have come down from record levels, but pump prices are still high, and the two-month slide could be nearing an end.

The nationwide average price for a gallon of gas dropped to $3.99 on Thursday, according to AAA. That's down 20% from the mid-June high, and it's the first time the average has dipped below $4 since early March. Gasoline prices usually rise and fall with the cost of oil, and crude has also been dropping. The U.S. benchmark price is down nearly one-fourth since early June.

the world recovered from the shock of the pandemic, and reopened — slowly at first, then more rapidly. Demand for energy outstripped supply, pushing prices higher through all of 2021 and early this year. Then in late February, Russia's invasion of Ukraine caused oil prices to spike, and they remained high into June — although not as high as in July 2008 if

ARE THERE OTHER FACTORS?

It's unusual for gas prices to fall during the summer, because that's the peak driving time for American motorists. Some analysts think the high prices have led drivers to cut back, but the evidence is mostly anecdotal.

Some states suspended their gasoline taxes, shaving more off the final price at the pump,

Besides the hurricane threat, Kloza says refineries — which have been running nearly full-steam — will have to take a breather because they have delayed maintenance work and "that can't be delayed indefinitely."

WHAT ABOUT THE U.S. OIL SUPPLY?

U.S. oil production hasn't fully recovered to pre-pandemic levels; it's still down about 4.5%

According to a Missouri State Highway Patrol report, a 2017 Chrysler Pacifica driven by Miller pulled onto U.S. Highway 50 from West Young Street and struck a 2017 Chevrolet Spark driven by Ford.

Both drivers were wearing seat belts and were transported to Western Missouri Medical Center in Warrensburg.

17-year-old girl hurt in Morgan accident

A juvenile female occupant from Stover sustained minor injuries at 11:20 p.m. Aug. 2 in a Morgan County accident.

According to a Missouri State Highway Patrol report, a 2003 Kia Sorento driven by a 17-year-old female, also from Stover, was headed east on Cottonwood Road West of Bridge Lane. The 17-year-old girl riding on top of the vehicle fell off and was taken to Bothwell Regional Health Center by private vehicle.

Edwards woman hurt in Morgan accident

Sterling P. Vancamp, 30, of Edwards, sustained minor injuries at 4:45 p.m. Tuesday in a Morgan County accident.

Lake Regional Hospital in Osage Beach by EMS. Sedalia woman injured in Pettis accident

Shanna D. Johnson, 42, of Sedalia, sustained moderate injuries at 8:23 a.m. Saturday in a Pettis County accident.

According to a Missouri State Highway Patrol report, Johnson was driving a 2001 Chevrolet Malibu south on U.S. Highway 65 north of Turkey Creek when she traveled off the left side of the road, struck a guardrail, traveled off the right side of the road, struck a bridge wall, then traveled off the left side of the road and struck a bridge wall. She traveled off the right side of the road again and struck a guardrail. The vehicle then traveled off the left side of the roadway before coming to rest in the median.

Johnson was not wearing a seat belt and was transported by Pettis County Ambulance District to Bothwell Regional Health Center.

Information is taken from preliminary Missouri State Highway Patrol reports, which do not necessarily contain statements from all parties involved.

Compiled by Chris Howell.

Other factors are also behind this year's roller-coaster ride in energy prices.

WHAT IS HAPPENING?

Gasoline prices hit a record $5.02 on June 14. At the time, U.S. crude was about $120 a barrel and the benchmark international price was even a couple dollars above that. Since then, however, oil prices have tumbled.

Oil prices had been rising since April 2020, as economies around inflation is considered. WHY IS THIS HAPPENING?

High energy prices contributed to inflation, which led the Federal Reserve and other central banks to raise interest rates. Concern has increased in recent weeks about the direction of the global economy.

A recession — or even slower growth -hurts energy demand and usually pushes down oil prices. That is the scenario that oil investors now fear.

Even with prices coming down, OPEC on Thursday lowered its forecast of global oil demand for the rest of this year and next year. The cartel based those expectations on a belief that economic growth in the U.S., China and other key countries will be slower than it previously forecast.

at least temporarily. WHERE ARE GAS PRICES HEADED?

Most analysts don't think prices will spike in the short term unless something unexpected happens, such as a big storm that shuts down oil production in the Gulf of Mexico or floods refineries along the Gulf Coast. That has happened before, and we are still in hurricane season.

Patrick De Haan, an analyst for GasBuddy, said this week that absent something like a hurricane, gasoline prices should drop another 10 cents to 25 cents a gallon over the next couple weeks.

Tom Kloza, an analyst for the Oil Price Information Service, is a bit less sanguine. He says the 58-day streak of lower nationwide average gasoline prices "may stumble soon."

from 2019, according to the most recent government figures, for May.

President Joe Biden has ordered releases from U.S. oil reserves. Kloza said "even Biden bashers have to admit that the release of over 150 million barrels of (Strategic Petroleum Reserve) crude worked," but he said it's unclear what will happen when those releases end later this year.

WHAT'S ENERGY'S ROLE IN INFLATION?

Higher prices for energy and food have been key contributors to inflation. It works the other way too. When gasoline prices slid in July, it helped slow the overall rate of inflation.

But gasoline prices in July were still 28% higher than a year earlier, and that helped inflation roar along at 8.5%.

Missouri State Fair ready for

By Nicole Cooke ncooke@sedaliademocrat.com

he 120th Missouri State Fair kicked off on Thursday, and the morning included an opening ceremony featuring Gov. Mike Parson and other state officials.

This year's theme is "Buckets of Fun," and Missouri State Fair Director Mark Wolfe offered some suggestions from his own list.

"There are some things when the fair starts each year that I must do," Wolfe said. "And even though it's not on the list they put together for me, it's that foot-long corndog. I wait for that all year long for that thing with a lot of mustard on it; that's No. 1. But at the end of the day, my favorite part is an opportunity to go sit in the barns and see these kids exhibit. Because at the end of the day, that's basically what this is all about. We're here to promote Missouri agriculture, it's the No. 1 revenue-generator in the state, No. 1 business.

"What these kids in 4-H and FFA are doing ... they're the future. They're the next governor, the next fair director. ... What they learn in 4-H and FFA is so important to our state and we're proud to be the showcase for what they do and showcase for agriculture."

Wolfe noted a few milestone anniversaries that will be happening this year, including 100 years of the Swine Barn and 60 years of the Missouri State Fair Fire Department. He said the barn was built in 1922 for about $125,000 and it was expanded in 1960. Wolfe added that swine entries are the highest of the livestock entries, this is a continuing commitment," he continued. "This commitment is a year-round one with the culmination of the efforts of many individuals and our staff coming together each August to put on the fair for all of you."

Roberts spoke briefly about the recent purchase of 200 acres of land adjacent to the fairgrounds and State Fair Community College; funding came from the MSF, SFCC and the state. Not many specifics have been offered, but Roberts said a new covered arena will be built on the new land, and some of the funding from the state legislature will also help with repairs to the Grandstand. Roberts noted state Rep. Brad Pollitt, R-Sedalia, and state Sen. Sandy Crawford, R-Buffalo, helped make the funding and legislation happen.

along with seeing the projects in the 4-H and FFA buildings. She also encouraged people to go off the beaten path while on the fairgrounds to find something new this vear.

"Kids have been working year-round on those projects. Some of them have them in the livestock barns, but if you go into the 4-H and FFA buildings, you're going to see some really amazing projects that are in there as well, too," Chinn said. "It always amazes me every year when I walk into those buildings to see the talent we have in our Missouri youth, but more importantly, the hours of hard work and dedication that they put into each and every one of those projects." Chinn said agriculture is the No. 1 economic driver in the state and is a $93.7 billion industry for Missouri that employs more than 450,000 Missourians. She said 96% of the state's 95,000 farms and ranches are owned by families. Missouri is No. 2 in the nation when it comes to the number of farms, second only to Texas. Chinn noted Missouri farmers have been affected by many difficulties over the past few years. "It's been a struggle in agriculture. Our farmers have been faced with supply challenges, high feed costs, high fuel costs. It's been one punch after another when it comes to agriculture. And then when you think it couldn't get any worse, we have a drought in the southern part of our state and in the east-central part of our state, the very same week, we have a flood." During his speech, Parson said it's important to make sure the "future is bright for a kid that wants to be a farmer. It's going to take a lot of work on our part to make sure we stand up for agriculture."

Parson also recalled

the days in his childhood when his family would make the trip to the Missouri State Fair.

"It was one of the biggest days for my family to come here and I will tell you, for these kids, it's their biggest day, still today, to be able to do that," Parson said. "It's why we made the largest investment in our state fair in the history of the state of Missouri this year."

Parson mentioned the Nucor Pavilion, which was completed in 2020, and reiterated the 200acre purchase.

"We're going to build this state fair until it's the best in the United States of America. That's the whole goal," he added.

There are hundreds of seasonal employees at the Missouri State Fair each year. The temporary jobs are popular with people of all ages looking to make some extra money as summer comes to an end. On Thursday, I saw two teenage boys wearing bright orange MSF T-shirts and carrying trash bags as I made my way past the Grandstand. As they made their way down the street, one of them bent down to grab two small pieces of trash on the ground. I'm sure searching for trash in Missouri's mid-August heat isn't an exciting job, but it's an important one to keep the fairgrounds clean over the next 11 days. Thanks to a donation from McCarthy Toyota of Sedalia, 200 members and staff were able to attend opening day of the Missouri State Fair for free. Kids explored the exhibits, learned about Missouri agriculture, ate a delicious lunch at the Beef House and rode the carnival rides. PHOTO BY NICOLE COOKE | DEMOCRAT

Two young boys pass the time in the very long line to enter the Beef House by tossing a football Thursday afternoon. Shortly after noon on opening day, the line stretched in front of the Missouri Department of Conservation area.

"I think there's a connection there for me," he added. "That's kind of where I am."

Page said he began working in oil but soon started using acrylic for time's sake.

"The reason I changed was speed," he explained. "I was getting bogged down in oil — it just takes longer. So, acrylic is for speed.

"I can work fast ... but instead of using oil, I use water to thin it all down," he continued. "And that helps me get the energy and movement of a picture."

Page has a full-time job as a picture frame builder at Prairiebrooke gallery in downtown Overland Park, Kansas. He also sells his paintings at the gallery.

"This is a comfortable gallery where I trust the people," he noted. "And I think that's important for my subject matter and what I want to do.

"I don't paint New York pictures; I don't paint cosmopolitan pictures," he added. "I want people to go to the Missouri State Fair to care and understand what I'm doing."

Ideas for the people in his paintings come from his own experiences, things or people he's heard about, and things he's seen in a movie or heard in a song.

"It's stuff that I think would make a cool little vignette," he said. "And the narrative is important, ordinary subject matter, figurative and narrative, and human interaction."

Page noted his companion, Traci Read, is his muse, and they both want people who view the large paintings to have a good time. He added he enjoys Leyendecker's work because he uses precision, but it's done in an "elegant and effortless way."

"That's what I try to do," Page said. "I want my brush strokes to be visible, but I want it to look polished; that would be the goal — polished, energetic, natural.

"Viewing a canvas in person is also important to me," he continued. "Which is more difficult, but I would prefer they see it like this (at the MSF) or come to the gallery ... I want you to be able to see the brush strokes. It's intimate; it's human."

When he finishes a piece, Page often leaves drips of paint down the canvas and includes early elements of the art instead of perfecting it.

"The painting is an object," he noted. "Not only the subject matter. I want the physical canvas to be an object."

More information about Cody Page's artwork can be found at the Prairiebrooke gallery, 7900 Santa Fe Drive in Overland Park, Kansas, at 913-341-0333 and codypage.com.

ENTERTAINMENT BRIEFS

Musician Melick publishes new book

Randy Melick, of Sedalia, teaches three levels of guitar, beginning, intermediate, and advanced students. He recently published a book, "Therapeutic Strings Presents-A Supplemental I Edition for Guitar Chording and Theory."

The book helps students to learn about the instrument as well as how to play it. Many students know how to play, but the "why" question remains a mystery. This book is a first edition and will be followed by two more.

These books were designed to go alongside any teaching method students have. The book is available on Amazon on Kindle reading or paperback form.

Melick is available to teach lessons throughout the week and on Saturdays.

PASTOR'S PULPIT

Sharing experiences of God & the state fair

By Candace Fowler

Lead Pastor, First United Methodist Church

I have one sister. We were raised in Clinton. We went to the same church and schools and were raised by the same parents. Because she is nine years older, she tells stories that make me wonder if the same parents raised us?!

She tells stories of falling asleep on the floor while our parents were up all hours remodeling a house. I only remember a construction crew coming to remodel when I was a teenager. She tells stories of dad running and pulling her on a sled all around the yard after a big snow. I only remember dad pulling me behind a lawnmower. She tells stories of going to the Missouri State Fair every summer. I only remember thinking, there's a fair in Sedalia? I never knew this even existed!

My husband and I started dating in 1994. That was the golden year that I was finally going to the MSF! We went on a Sunday. I was serving at a church and had to take a vacation day, but it would be worth it! I imagined all the rides and the carnival food. Since I had never been, I had no idea the breadth of experiences that awaited me. At the end of the day, I still didn't know. You see, my husband's idea of going to the fair was to spend the day watching cattle shows. And that's what we did. All. Day. Long. (I took a vacation day for that! Imagine if you can — I'm sitting at my laptop rolling my eyes.) It wasn't until 1995 that I went to the fair and experienced all the fair has to offer. My husband and I walked the midway. We ate food. We walked through all the buildings and the machinery. We even took in some of the cattle shows. Since that day, I've gone to the fair with my children, church youth groups, with friends, just for lunch, and for the last few years, our church, First United Methodist, has sold water for the MSF Foundation. Each time I attend, someone wants to show me their favorite part of the fair. And seeing their favorite part has become my favorite part of each year's fair experience.

Although the fair has changed since its inception in 1901, the crux of the fair remains the same. It highlights the best of the best and applauds the accomplishments of the agricultural communities of Missouri. The aspect that varies is the experience each person has when they attend the fair.

That's sort of the story we could tell about our relationship with God.

Some have no idea who God is or that there is a God who created and cares for them. Some only know one aspect of God. They think God is angry, condemning, and filled with wrath because that is all they have ever seen. (Please don't draw an unintended parallel between a wrathful God and a day spent at the cattle show.) Some are in a relationship with God and know God's care and grace. They know God listens. They recognize God's hand of healing and have seen God's hand of care. Those who know God in this way will likely want to tell you their favorite story of how God has worked in their lives. They are akin to people who want to show you their favorite part of the MSF. They want to share their favorite experience with you. If you're reading this and you've never attended the MSF, I hope this is your year to go! If you're reading this and don't have a church home, we'd love for you to give us a try. But if you're reading this and thinking, God isn't real, remember, I didn't know there was a Missouri State Fair, but that didn't mean there wasn't one.

US unemployment claims rise by 14,000 to 262,000

By Paul Wiseman AP Economics Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The number of Americans who signed up for unemployment benefits rose last week to the highest level since November, though the U.S. job market continues to show signs of strength.

Applications for jobless aid climbed by 14,000 to 262,000 and now have risen five out of the last six weeks, the Labor Department reported Thursday.

The four-week average for claims, which smooths out weekly ups and downs, rose by 4,500 to 252,000, also the highest since November.

The number of Americans collecting traditional unemployment benefits increased by 8,000 the week that ended July 30 to 1.43 million, highest since early April.

Unemployment applications are a proxy for layoffs and are often seen as an early indicator of where the job market is headed.

So far this year, hiring in the United States has been remarkably strong and resilient in the face of rising interest rates and weak economic growth.

The Labor Department reported last week that U.S. employers added 528,000 jobs last month, more than double what forecasters had expected. The unemployment rate dipped to 3.5% in July, tying a 50-year low reached just before coronavirus pandemic slammed the U.S. economy in early 2020.

The United States recovered with unexpected strength from 2020's COVID-19 recession, leaving businesses scrambling to find enough workers.

But the U.S. economy faces challenges. Consumer prices have been surging, rising 8.5% in July from a year earlier down slightly from June's 40-year high 9.1%. To combat inflation, the Federal Reserve has raised its benchmark short-term interest rate four times this year.

Higher borrowing costs have taken a toll. The economy contracted in the first half of the year — one rule of thumb for the onset of a recession. But the strength of the job market is inconsistent with an economic downturn.

"Demand for labor remains quite strong," economists Thomas Simons and Aneta Markowska of Jefferies wrote Thursday. "The modest pickup in claims suggests that turnover may be increasing in weaker firms that are struggling with slowing growth."

CDC drops quarantine, distancing recommendations for COVID

By Mike Stobbe and Collin Binkley Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's top public health agency relaxed its COVID-19 guidelines Thursday, dropping the recommendation that Americans quarantine themselves if they come into close contact with an infected person.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention also said people no longer need to stay at least 6 feet away from others.

The changes, which come more than 2 1/2 years after the start of the pandemic, are driven by a recognition that an estimated 95% of Americans 16 and older have acquired some level of immunity, either from being vaccinated or infected, agency officials said.

"The current conditions of this pandemic are very different from those of the last two years," said the CDC's Greta Massetti, an author of the guidelines.

Many places around the country long ago abandoned social distancing and other once-common precautions, but some of the changes could be particularly important for schools, which resume classes this month in many parts of the country.

Perhaps the biggest education-related change is the end of the recommendation that schools do routine daily testing, although that practice can be reinstated in certain situations during a surge in infections, officials said.

The CDC also dropped a "test-to-stay" recommendation, which said students exposed to COVID-19 could regularly test — instead of quarantining at home — to keep attending school. With no quarantine recommendation anymore, the testing option disappeared too.

Masks continue to be recommended only in areas where community transmission is deemed high, or if a person is considered at high risk of severe illness.

School districts across the U.S. have scaled back their COVID-19 precautions in recent weeks even before the latest guidance was issued. Some have promised a return to pre-pandemic schooling.

Masks will be optional in most districts when classes resume this fall, and some of the nation's largest districts have dialed back or eliminated COVID-19 testing requirements.

Public schools in Los Angeles are ending weekly COVID-19 tests, instead making at-home tests available to families, the district announced last week. Schools in North Carolina's Wake County also dropped weekly testing.

Some others have moved away from test-to-stay programs that became unmanageable during surges of the omicron variant last school year.

The American Federation of Teachers, one of the nation's largest teachers unions, said it welcomes the guidance.

"Every educator and every parent starts every school year with great hope, and this year even more so," President Randi Weingarten said. "After two years of uncertainty and disruption, we need as normal a year as possible so we can focus like a laser on what kids need."

The new recommendations prioritize keeping children in school as much as possible, said Joseph Allen, director of Harvard University's healthy building program. Previous isolation policies forced millions of students to stay home from school, he said, even though the virus poses a relatively low risk to young people.

"Entire classrooms of kids had to miss school if they were deemed a close contact," he said. "The closed schools and learning disruption have been devastating."

Others say the CDC is going too far in relaxing its guidelines.

Allowing students to return to school five days after infection, without proof of a negative COVID-19 test, could lead to outbreaks in schools, said Anne Sosin, a public health researcher at Dartmouth College. That could force entire schools to close temporarily if teachers get sick in large numbers, a dilemma that some schools faced last year.

"All of us want a stable school year, but wishful thinking is not the strategy for getting there," she said. "If we want a return to normal in our schools, we have to invest in the conditions for that, not just drop everything haphazardly like we're seeing across the country."

The average numbers of reported COVID-19 cases and deaths have been relatively flat this summer, at around 100,000 cases a day and 300 to 400 deaths.

The CDC previously said that if people who are not up to date on their COVID-19 vaccinations come into close contact with a person who tests positive, they should stay home for at least five days. Now the agency says quarantining at home is not necessary, but it urges those people to wear a high-quality mask for 10 days and get tested after five.

The agency continues to say that people who test positive should isolate from others for at least five days, regardless of whether they were vaccinated. CDC officials advise that people can end isolation if they are fever-free for 24 hours without the use of medication and they are without symptoms or the symptoms are improving.

SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

Also on Thursday, the Food and Drug Administration updated its recommendations for how many times people exposed to COVID-19 should test.

Previously, the FDA had advised taking two rapid antigen tests over two or three days to rule out infection. Now the agency recommends three tests.

FDA officials said the change was based on new studies that suggest the old protocol can miss too many infections and result in people spreading the coronavirus, especially if they don't develop symptoms.

Over $2B announced for roads, bridges, bike lanes across US

By Terry Tang and David A. Lieb Associated Press

PHOENIX (AP) — U.S. transportation officials announced $2.2 billion for local infrastructure projects on Thursday, paving the way for new bridges, roads, bike lanes, railways and ports in scores of communities across the country.

The competitive grants are more than double the amount awarded the previous year under the same program. The influx comes from a $1 trillion infrastructure law backed by President Joe Biden, which provided an additional $7.5 billion over five years for the grants.

Transportation Secretary Pete Buttigieg said the projects would help modernize America's transportation systems.

"This is a program that recognizes many of the most interesting and compelling ideas and designs and plans aren't going to come from Washington, but more of the funding should," Buttigieg said. "That's what we're delivering here."

Buttigieg traveled to Arizona to highlight projects in Phoenix and Tucson, each of which are receiving the maximum $25 million. In Phoenix, the money will help build a new bike and pedestrian bridge over the Rio Salado, connecting the city's southern area with downtown.

In Tucson, the money will revamp a prominent street and replace a 1960s-era vehicle bridge that's in poor condition. It also will add a separate bicycle and pedestrian bridge as part of what Mayor Regina Romero called "a transformative investment in Tucson's infrastructure."

While the Tucson project will expand the number lanes for motorists, some projects elsewhere will reduce them. For example, a $17 million grant will help narrow a five-lane road to three lanes in the Chicago suburb of Munster, Indiana, in an effort to decrease traffic crashes. The money also will fund a 10-foot-wide multi-purpose path along the street and plant more than 250 trees.

For many road improvement grants, "we're doing it in mind of also benefitting the bike and pedestrian side," Buttigieg said.

Other newly announced projects in the Rebuilding American Infrastructure with Sustainability and Equity program also provide Alabama, is getting $20 million to improve a pedestrian corridor linking downtown to isolated neighborhoods. Another $20 million is helping finance a new bike and pedestrian bridge over the Potomac River between Arlington, Virginia, and Washington, D.C.

Buttigieg said the U.S. Department of Transportation received about $13 billion in grant applications.

A total of 166 projects across the country are getting a slice of the $2.2 billion. The funding marks a significant increase from the $983 million distributed among 90 projects in 2021. The allotment is the largest dating to 2009 for a program that has undergone multiple name and emphasis changes during the presidential administrations of Barack passed Congress last year. That's because inflation has driven up the cost of key transportation construction materials, such as steel plates for bridges and asphalt for paving roads.

This year's projects range from a new seawall and port improvements in Sitka, Alaska, to the construction of a four-lane parkway in the Virgin Islands.

Among other projects, New Jersey is getting $20 million to elevate a roadway that serves as a main evacuation route for Atlantic City and its casino industry. In Louisiana, $20 million will go toward the design and construction of two train stations along a planned route between Baton Rouge and New Orleans. Whatcom County, Washington, will get $25 million to replace a 60-year-old ferry serving rural Lummi Island with an electric hybrid model.

Breyer, Gorsuch join to promote education about Constitution

By Mark Sherman Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Recently retired Supreme Court Justice Stephen Breyer has become the honorary co-chairman of a nonpartisan group devoted to education about the Constitution, joining Justice Neil Gorsuch at a time of intense political polarization and rising skepticism about the court's independence.

The National Constitution Center in Philadelphia said Thursday that Breyer and Gorsuch, who has served since 2019, will be spokesmen for civics education and civility in politics.

The justices' decision to work together "is especially meaningful in this polarized time," Jeffrey Rosen, the center's president and CEO, said.

The 84-year-old Breyer retired at the end of June after nearly 28 years as a justice. His seat was taken by Justice Ketanji Brown Jackson, the high court's first Black woman.

Breyer has been a constant voice for seeing the court as something other than "politicians in robes" even as the court has issued a string of conservative-driven decisions topped by eliminating the constitutional right to abortion and overturning Roe v. Wade.

In recent months, the court with six Republican-appointed conservatives and three liberals appointed by Democrats also has expanded gun rights, weakened the separation of church and state and constrained the Biden administration's efforts to combat climate change and the coronavirus pandemic.

Gorsuch was in the majority of all those cases and Breyer, in dissent.

Challenges to affirmative action in education and key election-related cases highlight the term that begins in October and seem likely to produce more sharp splits along ideological lines.

"Despite the strong disagreements on the court, Justices Breyer and Gorsuch, like all their colleagues, unite around a shared belief that civics are necessary for the future of the republic," Rosen said.

Recent public opinions surveys have shown a sharp drop in approval of the court and its role as an institution that is above the political fray.

Still, Breyer said last week at a lawyers' convention in Chicago that he remains optimistic about the American legal system.

In a statement, he said, "The nonpartisan work of the National Constitution Center is essential, and I look forward to working with Justice Gorsuch to promote civil dialogue and debate."

Breyer also will return to teaching at Harvard Law School.

Past center chairmen have included President Joe Biden, who resigned when he launched his presidential campaign in 2019, and former Presidents Bill Clinton and George H.W. Bush.

The center's home in Philadelphia is near the Liberty Bell and Independence Hall, where the Constitution was drafted.

Missouri's health department on Thursday announced findings of a lengthy examination of the troubled Bridgeton Landfill in suburban St. Louis, determining that the foul odor emitting from the landfill created health problems but did not increase the risk of cancer.

The finding of the yearslong investigation by the Missouri Department of Health and Senior Services was validation for people who live near the landfill in northwestern St. Louis County, said Dawn Chapman, co-founder of the activist group Just Moms STL.

"We knew we were facing physical symptoms on a day-to-day basis from exposure to the odors," Chapman said. "We knew it could exacerbate illnesses because that's what we were seeing."

The landfill has been a source of concern for well over a decade for multiple reasons. Weapons-grade uranium refined in St. Louis as part of the Manhattan Project, the World War II-era program that produced the first nuclear weapons, was illegally dumped at the adjacent West Lake Landfill in 1973.

Meanwhile, a smolder was discovered underground in 2010 at Bridgeton Landfill, just a few hundred yards away, creating worry about what could happen if the smoldering reaches the nuclear waste. The cause of the smolder remains unknown, but the resulting odor was so pungent that many nearby residents complained of illness and were often forced to stay inside.

Bridgeton Landfill has spent millions of dollars to mitigate the odor, which has decreased significantly in recent years.

The state health depart-stated.

Chapman recalled a day in the summer of 2013 when she took her kids to a nearby Target store.

"The odor was so strong it came inside the building," she said. "As we were checking out everybody was gagging. People were puking in the parking lot and moms were trying to put their groceries away with their noses bleeding."

The odor was so bad that then-Attorney General Chris Koster filed a lawsuit in 2013. The suit was settled in 2018 when the current and former landfill owners agreed to pay $16 million. Environmental Protection Agency declined comment on the Missouri report.

The EPA's Superfund project to address the nuclear waste was announced in 2018, but has been delayed while the agency refines its cleanup plan, initially estimated to cost $205 million. The agency has not issued a new timeline.

The landfill's owner will shoulder the cost along with other "responsible parties," which include the U.S. Department of Energy and Exelon Corp. of Chicago, whose subsidiary once owned uranium processor Cotter Corp.

Garland asks court to unseal warrant for Mar-a-Lago search

By Eric Tucker and Michael Balsamo Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is asking a federal court to unseal the warrant the FBI used to search the Mar-a-Lago estate of former President Donald Trump, Attorney General Merrick Garland said Thursday, acknowledging extraordinary public interest in the case about classified records.

The request is striking because such documents traditionally remain sealed during a pending investigation. But the Justice Department appeared to recognize that its silence since the search had created a vacuum for bitter verbal attacks by Trump and his allies, and that the public was entitled to the FBI's side about what prompted Monday's action at the former president's home.

"The public's clear and powerful interest in understanding what ject — it could disclose unflattering information about the former president and about FBI scrutiny of his handling of sensitive government documents right as he prepares for another run for the White House. During his successful 2016 campaign, he pointed frequently to an FBI investigation into his Democratic opponent, Hillary Clinton, over whether she mishandled classified information.

It's unclear at this point how much information would be included in the documents, if made public, or if they would encompass an FBI affidavit that would presumably lay out a detailed factual basis for the search. The department specifically requested the unsealing of the warrant as well as a property receipt listing the items that were seized, along with two unspecified attachments.

To obtain a search warrant, federal authorities must prove to lect less intrusive tactics than a search of one's home.

Neither Trump nor the FBI has said anything about what documents the FBI might have recovered, or what precisely agents were looking for. But the former president complained anew Thursday about the search.

Trump, who for years has lambasted the FBI and sought to sow distrust among his supporters in its decisions, said the warrant was served and the search conducted despite his cooperation with the Justice Department over the search.

In a post to his Truth Social platform, Trump said that his "attorneys and representatives were cooperating fully" prior to the search, and that government officials "could have had whatever they wanted, whenever they wanted, if we had it."

The Justice Department has until Friday afternoon to alert the judge about whether Trump will object to the release. FBI and Justice Department policy cautions against discussing ongoing investigations, both to protect the integrity of probes and to avoid unfairly maligning someone who is being scrutinized but winds up ultimately not being charged. That's especially true in the case of search warrants, where supporting court papers are routinely kept secret as the investigation proceeds.

In this case, though, Garland cited the fact that Trump himself had provided the first public confirmation of the FBI search, "as is his right." The Justice Department, in its new filing, also said that disclosing information about it now would not harm the court's functions.

Even so, Garland, in a hastily scheduled public statement delivered from the Justice Department podium, appeared to acknowledge the unusual nature of the department's request as he declined to take questions or provide any substantive details about the FBI's investigation.

"Much of our work is by necessity conducted out of the public eye. We do that to protect the constitutional rights of all Americans and to ment under Garland has been leery of public statements about politically charged investigations, or of confirming to what extent it might be investigating Trump as part of a broader probe into the Jan. 6 riot at the U.S. Capitol and efforts to overturn the results of the 2020 election.

The department has tried to avoid being seen as injecting itself into presidential politics, as happened in 2016 when then-FBI Director James Comey made an unusual public statement announcing that the FBI would not be recommending criminal charges against Clinton regarding her handling of email — and when he spoke up again just over a week before the election to notify Congress that the probe was being effectively reopened because of the discovery of new emails.

The Mar-a-Lago search warrant was served Monday was part of an ongoing Justice Department investigation into the discovery of classified White House records recovered from Trump's home in Palm Beach, Florida, earlier this year. The National Archives had asked the department to investigate after saying that classified records

Jury can't reach verdict in engineers' Flint water trial

By Ed White

Associated Press

DETROIT (AP) — A judge declared a mistrial Thursday after jurors said they couldn't reach a unanimous verdict in a dispute over whether two engineering firms should bear some responsibility for Flint's lead-contaminated water.

Veolia North America and Lockwood, Andrews & Newman, known as LAN, were accused of not doing enough to get Flint to treat the highly corrosive water or to urge a return to a regional water supplier.

The eight-person jury met for roughly seven days after hearing evidence for months. The jury first signaled on July 28 that it couldn't reach a verdict before taking a planned 11-day break. The group returned to work Tuesday.

"Further deliberations will only result in stress and anxiety with no unanimous decision without someone having to surrender their honest convictions, solely for the purpose of returning a verdict," the jury said in a new note Thursday. U.S. Magistrate Judge David Grand declared a mistrial, rejecting a request by lawyers for four children to allow a verdict that's less than unanimous.

"This is not a focus group," Grand said.

The trial centered on the engineering firms and the effects of lead on the children, not all Flint residents. But the result was being closely watched because there are other cases pending against Veolia and LAN.

The firms were not part of a landmark $626 million deal involving property owners, thousands of residents of the majority-Black city, the state of Michigan and other parties.

"We don't see this as a defeat," Veolia attorney Dan Stein told The Associated Press. "The plaintiffs were the ones trying to prove their claims to the jury, and they were unable to do so."

Corey Stern, an attorney for the children, said he was only one juror shy from winning the case. The lack of a verdict means a trial can be held again with a different jury.

"I'm fired up for the next one," Stern said. "I wish the judge would schedule it for Monday. I hated leaving the courthouse. You're an inch from the goal line after toting the ball for 99 yards."

Flint's water became contaminated in 2014-15 because water pulled from the Flint River wasn't treated to reduce the corrosive effect on lead pipes. Citing cost, managers appointed by then-Gov. Rick Snyder stopped using water from a Detroit agency and switched to the river while awaiting a new pipeline to Lake Huron.

The Michigan Civil Rights Commission said the bad water was the result of systemic racism in the city, doubting that the water switch and the spurning of complaints would have occurred in a white, prosperous community.

During closing arguments, attorneys for the children argued that Veolia should be held 50% responsible for lead contamination and that LAN should be held 25% responsible, with public officials making up the balance.

But Veolia's lawyers noted the firm was briefly hired in the middle of the crisis, not before the spigot was turned on. LAN said an engineer repeatedly recommended that Flint test the river water for weeks to determine what treatments would be necessary.

LAN attorney Wayne Mason said outside engineers were getting lumped in with a "platoon of bad actors," namely state and local officials who controlled all major decisions about the water. The health effects on the four children were also challenged at trial.

Snyder was summoned as a witness but declined to answer questions, citing his right against self-incrimination.

He was indicted on misdemeanor charges in a separate Flint water investigation. The Michigan Supreme Court said the indictment was invalid, though state prosecutors are trying to reinstate the charges.

The jury instead watched a video of Snyder's 2020 interview with lawyers.

"I wish this never would have happened," he said of the water mess, acknowledging mistakes by government.

Chiefs' Mahomes to buck NFL trend, play preseason opener

SPORTS

By Dave Skretta AP Sports Writer

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Patrick Mahomes will start the Kansas City Chiefs' preseason opener in Chicago on Saturday, bucking a trend across the NFL of coaches sitting their starting quarterbacks for the first of their three exhibition games.

Chiefs coach Andy Reid said Thursday he would stick to his usual routine of having each of the four quarterbacks in camp play for a quarter of the preseason opener. And while he acknowledged the number of snaps could change based on the way the game is going, Reid thinks it's important for everybody — stars and backups alike — to get onto the field.

"I think it's good to get the juices going, get yourself out there, even if it's a limited amount of plays," Reid said after the Chiefs wrapped up Thursday's practice at Missouri Western State University.

"I'm not saying it's wrong what others are doing," Reid said. "That's just where I'm at."

The Raiders sat Derek Carr and the Jaguars played without Trevor Lawrence in last week's Hall of Fame Game, though that's typical given the game occurs a week earlier than the rest of the preseason openers. But plenty of teams are choosing to sit their starting quarterbacks this week, too, rather than risk an injury by subjecting them to unnecessary hits.

"It was cool seeing a group of kids who stuck together so long be successful as they were," Hutchinson said.

Hutchinson went short, though, of saying that this would be a rebuilding season. "We've lost six starters, and that definitely hurts us, but we still have a good core group," he said. "It wasn't like [of those six] they had been soccer players their whole [high school] career, so I think we can fill some of those positions up with athleticism."

Bringing more than just athleticism will be Braedon Cairer. The senior netted 48 goals and added 13 assists last fall. "He's a two-time All-State player who does a really good job of controlling the midfield. He's just a great leader with amazing ball skills."

Despite his ability to still get teammates involved, Cairer should easily surpass 100 career over as the program's alltime leading scorer.

Joining him in the midfield will be Hayden Grose, who played on the outskirts of the formation last season but will tuck now inside, and Tanner Eisenbarth.

"Tanner, ever since he's come out he's been a starter on the wing, but he's impressed me a lot, especially

Stidham relishing role with Raiders, playing for McDaniels

By W.G. Ramirez Associated Press

HENDERSON, Nev. (AP) — Jarrett Stidham knows who's the starting quarterback in Las Vegas.

That hasn't stopped him from performing like an incoming starter for the Raiders.

After all, when you might understand a new offensive system better than anybody coming into training camp, there's an edge that establishes confidence.

"I think my biggest focus right now is just to compete every single day with these guys, push all of them as much as I can and help them along the way and just compete and play ball," said Stidham, who spent the first three seasons of his career in New England.

"I mean that's all I can focus on right now, it's all I can control. I'm happy to finally be healthy and just be back out there on the field and just playing football, so it's a lot of fun."

Stidham had plenty of fun in his first outing with the Raiders, completing 8 of 15 attempts for 96 yards during Las Vegas' 27-11 win over Jacksonville in the Hall of Fame Game.

His highlight reel, however, came late in the second quarter when he scampered 12 yards for a touchdown, bringing an ear-to-ear grin to starting quarterback Derek Carr's face.

"It was great," Stidham said. "Basically all 21 other guys were running to my left, and I just ran right and it's just kind of how it worked out. So I was happy about it."

Now, happy to be in Las Vegas, Stidham joins a coach who molded his offensive game since the Patriots drafted him from Auburn in the 2019 draft, when Josh McDaniels was still the offensive coordinator in New England.

Broncos sport NFL's richest, most diverse ownership group

By Arnie Stapleton AP Pro Football Writer

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. (AP) — The Denver Broncos now sport the wealthiest owner in the NFL and the league's most diverse ownership group.

Four of the six members of the Walton-Penner ownership group, which was welcomed into the NFL this week, are either women or minorities.

Walmart heir Rob Walton, the oldest child of Walmart co-founder Sam Walton, bought the Broncos along with his daughter, Carrie Walton Penner, and her husband, for $4.65 billion, a global record for a professional sports franchise.

Walton said Wednesday that his son-in-law, Greg Penner, will serve as CEO of the team. Penner said he'll soon hire a team president. Those roles had been held by Joe Ellis, who is staying on this year as an advisor.

Penner said he'll be the point person "but this is an incredible group. We're going to draw on all of them."

a former U.S. Secretary of State and Hamilton is the winningest Formula One driver in history.

Walton thanked Ellis for his 27 years of service and paid tribute to the late Pat Bowlen. He purchased the team in 1984 for $78 million and died in 2019, a month shy of his induction into the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

"Pat Bowlen built a great legacy and a record of winning and championships," Walton said. "We plan to do everything we can to build on the championship tradition of this great organization. ... Simply put, it's an honor to steward this historic franchise. Our No. 1 priority is putting a winning team on the field to win Super Bowls."

Before Walton's group purchased the Broncos, the NFL's wealthiest owner was Carolina's David Tepper, whom Forbes estimates has a total net worth of $16.7 billion. Walton's estimated net worth is $60 billion.

"We wanted to add people that brought different perspectives and experiences and certainly we have that here," Penner said. "Lewis, being the G.O.A.T. Tagovailoa on Miami tampering with Brady: 'I'm still here'

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Tua Tagovailoa would rather chat with Tom Brady than answer questions about him taking his job.

Tagovailoa spent time talking with Brady while the Miami Dolphins and Tampa Bay Buccaneers held a joint practice Wednesday. He had a simple reply when asked about Miami being penalized for tampering with Brady.

"I'm still here. To me, that's all noise at this point," Tagovailoa said.

Last week, the NFL suspended Dolphins owner Stephen Ross through Oct. 17, fined him $1.5 million and docked the team a first-round pick in the 2023 draft and a third-round selection in the 2024 draft for talking to Brady while he was under contract with the Patriots in 2019 and Buccaneers in 2021.

The league's investigation determined the Dolphins had impermissible communications with both Brady and his agent, Don Yee, no later than early December 2021 and after the season, while he was under contract to the Buccaneers.

Those discussions focused on Brady becoming a limited partner in the Dolphins and possibly serving as a football executive, although at times they also included the possibility he would play for the Dolphins. The league says Ross and Dolphins vice chairman/limited partner Bruce Beal participated in the discussions.

Brady, who turned 45 last week, briefly retired after last season. He hasn't spoken to reporters since the league punished the Dolphins but the seven-time Super Bowl champion spoke to Tagovailoa on the field.

"We were talking on the side for a good bit," Tagovailoa said. "He was just asking how the offseason was. We were talking a little about golf at the same time. But for the most part, 23 years playing, that's a long time. That's a lot of knowledge, so I was asking him some things and he gave me some good insight on. I'm going to keep that between me and Tom. Then if you guys want to ask Tom, you can go ask him."

Tagovailoa said Brady's "composure in the pocket" impressed him the most. "Nothing really rattles him. When you have a guy in your face, he's just – subtle movements and throwing the ball," Tagovailoa said. "I would say those are top trait qualities in a really good quarterback with him, Russ (Russell Wilson), Aaron Rodgers, all of those big-time guys."

The Dolphins and Buccaneers will practice again Thursday ahead of their preseason opener Saturday night.

First-year Dolphins coach Mike McDaniel downplayed the Brady story.

"For me, nothing happened," he said. "Everyone else is the one making it awkward. It doesn't occupy a single iota of space with anybody. It's hard enough to be good in this league. As the Miami Dolphins, all of our energy is very coordinated and only has to do with us getting better and everything else would be an opportunity cost that we're not willing to expend."

Moon Alert: Avoid shopping or important decisions from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. EDT today (4 a.m. to noon PDT). After that, the Moon moves from Aquarius into Pisces.

Happy Birthday for Friday, Aug. 12, 2022:

You are a practical realist who is disciplined, hardworking and focused. You are clever and creative, and you have a wonderful sense of humor. This is a year where you finally get recognition for your efforts. Expect kudos, a promotion, an award and well-deserved acknowledgement.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★ It's hard to keep your shirt on when you want to get something off your chest, isn't it? This is how you might feel this morning because conversations with friends and groups might be challenging. Later in the day, you will enjoy your own privacy and seek some peace and quiet. Tonight: Socialize.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★ You might want to avoid disputes with parents, bosses, teachers and the police this morning, because they will be head-on and emotional. (Let's face it, you don't need this.) Therefore, give these people a wide berth this morning. Later in the day, enjoy warm contact with a friend. Tonight: Home and family.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★ Don't get suckered into volatile conversations about politics, religion or racial issues (anything controversial), because arguments will flare up. Instead, keep in mind that this afternoon, for some reason, people seem to know personal details about your private life. Tonight: Learn.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★★ This morning you might encounter disputes about shared property, taxes, debt or inheritances. These are always touchy subjects. Fortunately, in the afternoon, the Moon moves into your fellow Water sign, which promotes good times for you. Tonight: Check your assets.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★ Avoid disputes with authority figures, partners and close friends today, because you need this like a fish needs a bicycle. Instead, choose to have a happy Friday. Sometimes it's that simple -- it's a choice. After the Moon Alert, you might wrap up financial matters and banking details. Tonight: Happy with your image?

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★ Be patient with co-workers today. In the morning, during the Moon Alert, don't volunteer for anything. This afternoon, after the Moon changes signs, you will have to go more than halfway when dealing with others. Be cooperative and accommodating. Tonight: Solitude.

The Patriots planned to sit Mac Jones for their preseason opener against the Giants on Thursday night, when the Ravens were expected to have Lamar Jackson wearing a headset rather than a helmet for their game against the Titans.

Others sitting out include the Cowboys' Dak Prescott, Bills starter Josh Allen and the Buccaneers' Tom Brady, who is beginning an 11-day absence to deal with "personal things." Aaron Rodgers also is unlikely to play for the Packers given that the four-time and reigning league MVP has not played in a preseason game for Green Bay since 2018.

"I like to get in there and get hit like, on time," said Mahomes, who has played the preseason opener every season but 2020, when there wasn't any because of the pandemic. "Once you get hit

After appearing in a total of eight games, backing up Tom Brady and Cam Newton in his first two seasons, Stidham missed last year after back surgery kept him from competing with Mac Jones.

Then, one morning in May while working out, Patriots coach Bill Belichick told him they were shipping him "to Vegas to Sept. 1, the Smithton Classic Invitational (Sept. 6-9) will again include Iberia, La Monte and Knob Noster. A new addition to the slate will be a trip to Springfield for the Kickapoo Tournament, where the Tigers will take on New Covenant Academy and Greenwood.

one time, you see what it is. Then you're good to go."

Mahomes threw only two passes in last year's preseason opener against San Francisco before giving way to backup Chad Henne and the rest of the Kansas City quarterbacks. Mahomes had more extensive time in the second and third games.

When there was a fourgame preseason schedule, he usually played the first three before sitting out the finale.

"It'll be good this time to get in there with the new group of receivers we have, all the new running backs, and show how we do it in the game," Mahomes said. "We're doing it here in practice but we want to show how we do it in the game."

Reid said his quarterbacks will be accompanied by their respective line on the depth chart, meaning Mahomes will play with the starting offense before Henne takes over with the backups. Shane Buechele and Dustin Crum will finish

"I've tried to be as helpful as possible because I know when I was in Chase's shoes my rookie year, Brian Hoyer, Tom Brady, these guys really helped me in the offense and just learn how to be a pro," Stidham said. "That's what I've tried to help with Chase; and then obviously with Nick (Mullens) and Derek (Carr), those guys being vets, just trying to help them as much as I can with little things. "It's all classes, and it'll be nice to be in that and see some new teams that we don't typically see," Hutchinson said.

"It's definitely about getting into rhythm. It's getting into the game, seeing how the clock is running — everything in the game speeds up," Mahomes explained. "So the guys need to think, execute, show off their talent. It's going to be important to be in the game and see how all these guys do."

As much as Mahomes wants to see how new wide receivers JuJu Smith-Schuster, Marquez Valdes-Scantling and second-round pick Skyy Moore fare on Saturday, most of the attention will be on the revamped defense.

First-round pick Trent McDuffie is expected to start at cornerback along with Justin Reid, who arrived from Houston in free agency. The Chiefs also expect to give plenty of work to another firstround pick, defensive end George Karlaftis, along with rookie defensive backs Joshua Williams, Jaylen Watson and Bryan Cook.

"All these guys come in here and they had a practice in the morning, they have a heavy installation in the evening, they have a walk-through in the evening and the installations (aren't) the same as the ones he's had previously in New England," Raiders offensive coordinator Mick Lombardi said.

"It's something that he has to learn that evening and study that night to really get. Now, obviously, the operation stuff gives him some advantage, but how does he take advantage of that? Knowing that it is taking it to the next step of doing the actual things we talked about as a quarterback." third year in a row.

WR Omar Bayless left early when his lower back tightened up. ... TE Jody Fortson returned after hurting his quad earlier in camp. The plan is to slowly get him up to speed. ... Andy Reid said he's looking forward to getting DT Danny Shelton in camp after the Chiefs agreed to a contract with him this week. The 345-pound Shelton has not been added to the official roster yet. Or little things that are not only assignment-based, but also in understanding the bigger picture with the new personnel he's working with and understanding his role with a new set of receivers in the event he has to replace Carr.

Stidham's football IQ and eagerness to learn aren't being overlooked.

"Great kid, smart, works hard at the game," McDaniels said. "Understands what he's trying to do, ran the offense pretty efficiently the other night. Took care of the ball, made some plays with his legs. I see him as a young player who's continuing to develop and improve. We have not reached his peak yet. We have a lot of players on our team I'd say that about, but certainly, Jarrett is one of them."

this morning. Postpone shopping and important decisions during the Moon Alert. Squabbles about social outings or sports might occur. This is also a sticky time for romance. In the afternoon, your efficiency improves and everything is easier. Tonight: Be friendly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★★ Be patient with family this morning to avoid arguments and conflict. (Always a bummer for everyone.) This afternoon, after the Moon Alert, you'll be happy to explore social outings, entertaining diversions, sports events and fun times with kids. Romance will be favored as well. Tonight: You look good!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★★ Be patient with co-workers today. Likewise, be patient with issues regarding your health or your pet, because people are short-tempered this morning. (Note: See the Moon Alert.) This afternoon, focus on home and family. A discussion with a female relative might be significant. Tonight: Explore!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★★ Avoid money squabbles this morning, especially any related to kids, social outings or vacations. Don't volunteer for anything because of the Moon Alert. This afternoon, the pace of your day will pick up and you will be keen to meet new faces and see new places. Tonight: Check paperwork.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★ This morning begins with the Moon in your sign at odds with fiery Mars. In addition, there is a Moon Alert! Therefore, just coast. Avoid conflicts. This afternoon, after the Moon Alert is over, focus on finances, cash flow and your possessions. Tidy things up. Tonight: Cooperate.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★★ After the Moon Alert today, the Moon moves into your sign for two and a half days -- as it does every month. When this happens, it slightly improves your good luck! However, it will also heighten your emotions. Therefore, guard against overreacting or taking something too personally. Stay chill. Tonight: Get organized.

BORN TODAY

Tennis player Pete Sampras (1971), actress Maggie Lawson (1980), actor Peter Krause (1965) Josh and them."

Stidham, who turned 26 on Monday, now finds himself in competition with Nick Mullens and Chase Garbers for the backup role behind Carr but what has proved to be beneficial is knowing how McDaniels expects his offense to be run.

"We're big believers in bringing together different perspectives and experiences and backgrounds and that we think will make us more successful."

All but Hamilton, who is still in racing season, gathered at team headquarters a day after NFL owners unanimously approved the sale Tuesday in Minnesota. The Broncos new ownership group met with staff and players before practice, and star safety Justin Simmons said he was proud to see so many faces of color.

"To see some diversity and to see strong, Black women in the ownership group, I mean, what an inspiration for so many people," said Simmons, really, running backs, tight ends, receivers, O-line, I just try to help out as much as I can where I can."

That said, his familiarity with McDaniels' offense doesn't automatically give him an upper hand in the hunt for the backup spot, as there are certain intangibles that come with installing a system into a who is biracial. "There's little girls out here whose dads play on the team and they can look up at the ownership of the Broncos and they can see someone that looks just like them. I think that's really great.

"But I think the biggest thing on top of that is they didn't just do that to do that," Simmons said. "I mean, these are really powerful, qualified individuals that deserve this, earned this, worked for this. And that to me is inspiring."

Hobson called it "such an honor and a privilege to be an owner of this remarkable organization. ... The moment is humbling and it's historical, and yet, I feel at home."

Hobson said when she was first approached about joining the ownership group, she encouraged Walton to also bring aboard her friend HamSuch as communication with an offensive line that has plenty of question marks a month before the ilton.

"Lewis is my chosen little brother," she said. "As soon as this opportunity came up, I said, 'You have to have Lewis.' I met Lewis in his rookie season as an F1 driver. We bonded over time. As many of you know, he was knighted by Queen Elizabeth and I call him, 'Sir Little Brother.'

"He has this winning mentality not just on the track but in everything that he does. He cares deeply about people, about our planet and as the first and one (Black F1 driver) in his sport, about diversity, equity and inclusion."

Rice, who grew up in Denver, joked that her late father John Rice Jr., who was a minister, dean of students at Stillman College and big football fan, "has to be thinking, 'She finally got a really important job.""

Penner, who said he doesn't anticipate bringing aboard any more limited partners, demurred when asked if John Elway or Peyton Manning would be involved with the team going forward.

The new owners met with both on the field Wednesday. Elway told The Associated Press earlier this year that he'd like to advise the new owners to help them in their first year.

"We're just going to learn from both of them," Penner said. "I think it's going to be a really good relationship."

While saying he was thrilled that GM George Payton acquired quarterback Russell Wilson this spring, Penner gave no timeline for a contract extension that's expected to be worth about $260 million over five years.

Notice of Public Hearing

A public hearing will be held at 6:15 p.m. on August 23, 2022 at Boonslick Regional Library Meeting Room, 219 West Third St., Sedalia, Missouri, at which citizens may be heard on the property tax rate proposal to be set by Boonslick Regional Library, a political subdivision. The tax rate shall be set to produce the revenues, which the budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 2022 - June 30, 2023 shows to be required from the property tax. The tax rate is determined by dividing the amount of revenue required by the current assessed valuation. The result is multiplied by 100 so the tax will be expressed in cents per $100 assessed valuation. The final tax rate will be set at the rate listed below or at the rate allowed upon receipt of the certified verification of the allowable rate.

WHAT'S NEW ON DISNEY+ "She-Hulk:

Attorney at Law" Order in the court! The newest Phase Four Marvel Cinematic Universe series. "She-Hulk: Attorney at Law," premieres Wednesday, Aug. 17, on Disney+. Episodes air weekly on Wednesdays thereafter. Jennifer Walters (Tatiana Maslany, "Orphan Black"), an attorney specializing in superhumanoriented legal cases, is doing her best to navigate life as a single woman in her 30s — who also happens to be a super-powered hulk. Guided by her cousin Bruce (Mark Ruffalo, "The Avengers," 2012), aka Smart Hulk, Jennifer learns to harness her powers and do good within the chaotic and ever-expanding superhuman world. Directed by Kat Coiro ("Marry Me," 2022) and Anu Valia ("Lucia, Before and After," 2016) with series creator Jessica Gao ("Corporate") as head writer, "She-Hulk" stars MCU veterans Benedict Wong ("Doctor Strange," 2016) as Wong and Tim Roth ("The Hateful Eight," 2015) as Emil Blonsky/the Abomination. Jameela Jamil ("The Good Place"), Josh Segarra ("Arrow"), Ginger Gonzaga ("I'm Dying Up Here"), Griffin Matthews ("The Flight Attendant"), Renée Elise Goldsberry ("Hamilton," 2020), Jon

Bass ("Miracle Workers") and Nicholas Cirillo ("Outer Banks") also star. "She-Hulk: Attorney at Law" is executive produced by Gao, Coiro, Kevin Feige ("Black Panther," 2018), Victoria Alonso ("Avengers: End Game," 2019), Jennifer Booth ("Love Beats Rhymes," 2017), Louis D'Esposito ("Iron Man," 2008), Wendy Jacobson ("Skyscraper," 2018) and Brad Winderbaum ("Ant-Man," 2015).

WHAT'S NEW ON HULU

"Dragons: The Nine Realms" - Season 3 Saddle up for another adventure with Season 3 of "Dragons: The Nine Realms," streaming Thursday, Aug. 18, on Hulu and Peacock. Set 1,300 years after the events of DreamWorks' hit and learn where they've simply been in hiding all these years. With the dragons rediscovered, it's up to the newest generation of Dragon Riders to keep their secrets safe as they explore, discover new realms and bond with the massive creatures. Heading into Season 3, the Dragon Riders grapple with the discovery of the Fire Realm. Also, Tom (Jeremy Shada, "Adventure Time"), Jun (Ashley Liao, "Physical"), D'Angelo (Marcus Scribner, "Black-ish") and Alex (Aimee Garcia, "Dexter") face the most powerful dragon they've ever met. Directed by Robert Briggs ("Madagascar: A Little Wild"), Mandy Clotworthy ("She-Ra and the Princesses of Power") and Andrew Collins ("Archibald's Next Big Thing"), ("Miraculous: Tales of Ladybug & Cat Noir") and Haley Joel Osment ("Jurassic World: Camp Cretaceous").

WHAT'S NEW ON NETFLIX

"Deepa & Anoop" -Season 1

Get creative with the children's computer-animated series "Deepa & Anoop," premiering Tuesday, Aug. 16, on Netflix. Centered on 7-year-old Deepa (voiced by new talent Pavan Bharaj) and her best friend, Anoop, a colorchanging baby elephant, the series follows the inseparable best friends as they explore their town and create music, fun and mischief at her family's hotel, Mango Manor. A colorful, music-driven show, the series
