Smithton readies for next week's Town & Country Fair

By Chris Howell
chrish@sedaliademocrat.com

Starting next Thursday evening, the Smithton Town & Country Fair will entertain guests with small-town charm and wholesome family fun.

"The fair starts next Friday and Saturday, they are the two main days," fair board treasurer Alysia Gerke said. "Thursday is the Miss Pettis County competition."

The fair promises to bring the same relaxed atmosphere as the fairs of previous years, just at a different spot.

"We are at a new location," Gerke said. "We're at the Smithton schools complex this year, it's south of the main school."

There will be a concert by Cedar Creek at 9 p.m. Friday, July 7, and under an almost full moon Saturday, July 8, the band Full Moon will wrap up the Smithton Town & Country Fair by playing at 9 p.m.

"We have a concert both nights," Gerke said. "We're having a First Responder Dodgeball tournament and the winning team gets money donated to their charity of choice."

Favorite events, according to Gerke, should be the pig dressing and the popular pie auction that raises money for local student scholarships.

This year the tractor pull has been canceled due to a small turnout last year.

"The hooks were just really down last year," Gerke said. "With the price of fuel and things like that, we decided not to have the tractor pull this year."

The tractor racing will be handled by kids at the pedal pull contest Friday night. Pedal-powered vehicles will be provided for kids with strong leg muscles and competitive spirits. Registration for the pedal pull is on-site.

And those attending the fair will see new attractions and vendors, and they will be treated to some old favorites, like the pig dressing competition Saturday following the auction.

"We would love to have everybody come out to our event," Gerke said. "There's plenty of stuff for kids to do. There's bounce houses, kid's games, all those things, and for the older adults, there's plenty of things to do - backseat driving, skid-steer rodeo, things like that, so it's for all ages."

After the pies were judged at the Smithton Fair, they were auctioned off by Sam Trelow on Saturday, July 17, 2021. The 2023 Smithton Town & Country Fair will be hosted July 6-8, which includes the pie contest and auction on Saturday, July 8.

Netherlands foreign exchange student returns to Sedalia

By Faith Bemiss
fbemiss@sedaliademocrat.com

A foreign exchange student attending State Fair Community College in 2016 visited the U.S. recently and returned to Sedalia this week to reconnect with friends.

Julie Kleijweg, 26, a 2016 foreign exchange student from the Netherlands, stayed with Gary and Debbie Noland while attending SFCC. After her stay, she returned to the Netherlands and received an architectural and structural engineering degree.

Her four-week visit to the U.S. was prompted by her friend Joseline (González) Strouse's wedding last week in Columbia. The two met at SFCC and became fast friends. Returning to Sedalia with Kleijweg was her close friend Jack van Adrichen, 27, also from the Netherlands and who has a degree in architectural and structural engineering.

Independence Day Weekend anticipating gas prices lows and traffic highs

By Warrensburg Star-Journal Staff

Despite a predicted surge in travel, Independence Day weekend is expected gas prices to dip below last year's numbers.

According to a press release from GasBuddy, gas prices "are projected to be over $1.30 per gallon less than they were in 2022."

"Much of COVID's revenge travel is behind us, and thus far this summer, demand for gasoline has been softer than last year, helping to ease the pressure on gas prices," Patrick De Haan, head of petroleum analysis at GasBuddy, said in the release. "We may continue to see average prices moderate, especially closer to Labor Day, barring hurricanes or other unexpected refinery outages, with steeper price drops coming after summer. But for now, it's still not a bad time to get outside and hit the road this summer with far lower prices in every state compared to last year."

GasBuddy states that last year, the national average was more than $5 per gallon for the Fourth of July, with some states even seeing prices as high as $6 or $7.

On Thursday, June 29, gas prices in Sedalia ranged from $2.95 to $3.29 per gallon. The average price in Missouri on Thursday was $3.31, with the lowest price being reported at $2.80. GasBuddy states the national average is estimated to be $3.49 on the Fourth of July holiday this year.

Amidst these lower gas prices, travel is expected to hit a new record as well.

According to a news release from AAA, "50.7 million Americans will travel 50 miles or more from home this Independence Day weekend."

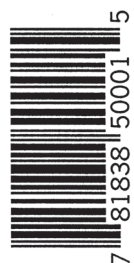

The release states that there will be an increase of 2.1 million people in comparison to 2022's holiday weekend. This projection surpasses the record set in 2019 of 49 million travelers.

Senior Vice President of AAA Travel said AAA has "never projected travel numbers this high for Independence Day weekend. What this tells us is that despite inventory being limited and some prices 50% higher, consumers are not cutting back on travel this summer."

The AAA release states that 43.2 million people will drive in order to reach their holiday destinations, resulting in an increase of 2.4% from last year and 4% higher than in 2019.

Air travel is also expected to increase to a record-breaking high. AAA projects 4.17 million Americans will fly to their Independence Day destinations, resulting in an 11.2% increase since 2022 and a 6.6% increase from 2019.

OBITUARIES

Frances Lorene Runge

Frances Lorene Runge, 85, of Sedalia, MO, passed away on Wednesday, June 28, 2023, at Primrose Retirement Community of Sedalia. She was born on May 20, 1938, in Houstonia, MO, the daughter of Frank Humphrey Norfleet and Myrtle Hannah (Ringen) Norfleet, who preceded her in death.

She is survived by three daughters: Lynn Reid and her husband, Harlan of Sweet Springs, Lisa Thompson of Hughesville, and Angela Pollitt and Frank Carasco of Hughesville; eight grandchildren: Lori (Jason), Leah, Sarah (Courtney), Charli Jo (Jamin), Taylor (Bo), Chase (Jessi), Haley (Brad), and Taggart; nine great-grandchildren: Carson, Joanna, Abigail, Keelee, Harper, Kentli Jo, Adeline, Tessa, and Hilton; a brother, Dale Norfleet and his wife, Dorothy of Houstonia; and a brother-in-law, Jon David Runge and his wife Wilma of Hughesville; along with several nieces and nephews.

On June 11, 1955, in Houstonia, MO, she was united in marriage to Harry Joe Runge, who preceded her in death on July 4, 2017.

Frances graduated from the University of Central Missouri with a B.S. in Education, along with a M.S. in Education. She began her teaching career in the Otterville School District. After two years there, she was given the opportunity to teach for the Sedalia School District 200, where she taught six years at the middle school and 25 years in the elementary schools: Parkview, Whittier, Washington, Horace Mann, and Jefferson. She would tell you that reading is the basis for everything, and she enjoyed helping and watching her students improve their reading skills. In 2002, she retired after 28 years as a Reading Specialist.

Frances was a member of the First United Methodist Church in Sedalia, United Methodist Women, Missouri State Teachers Association, Delta Kappa Gamma Society, Kappa Delta Phi Society in Education, Missouri Retired Teachers Association, and a member of Sedalia Moose Lodge Chapter 1242.

Frances loved reading, quilting, playing cards and bingo, having lunch with friends, and spending time with her children and grandchildren.

In addition to her parents and husband, she was preceded in death by a son, Brent Norfleet Runge, and grandson-in-law, Trenton Rhea.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. on Wednesday, July 5, 2023, at the First United Methodist Church Thompson location, with Pastor Candace Fowler officiating.

The family will receive friends one hour prior to the service at the church.

The burial will be at Mt. Herman Cemetery, Sedalia, MO.

Pallbearers will be Chase Pollitt, Taggart Pollitt, Benjamin Darbyshire, Robert (Bo) Maze, Jason Price, and Brad Ryan.

Honorary bearers will be Cliff and Cheryl McBride, Charlotte Harter, and Martha Briscoe.

Memorial contributions may be made to the First United Methodist Church or Mt. Herman Cemetery Association in the care of Rea Funeral Chapel.

Kathryn Clara Harvey Leftwich

Kathryn Clara Harvey Leftwich, 98, of Sedalia, formerly of Hughesville, passed away Wednesday, June 28, 2023, at Loving Arms Assisted Living in Sedalia.

She was born January 27, 1925, in Pettis County, daughter of James A. Harvey and Ethel (Chamberlin) Harvey.

On February 14, 1954, at Fifth Street Methodist Church, she was united in marriage to John C. "Jack" Leftwich, who preceded her in death on August 1, 2014.

Kathryn was a longtime member of Wesley United Methodist Church and was a member of the Ambassadors Sunday School class. She attended Sedalia Business College and worked as a secretary for Dr. Edwards and Dr. Stauffacher following WWII. Later in life, she returned to work in the business office at Bothwell Regional Health Center, retiring in 1990. She volunteered with several organizations in the community.

Kathryn was an extremely accomplished seamstress, having started sewing when she was 5 years old. She passed her passion on to many as sewing leader in the Longwood Neighbors 4-H Club.

Kathryn was a loving mother, grandmother and great-grandmother and loved getting together with friends and family. She was a very sociable person and a dear friend to many. She was an avid Bridge and Pinochle player and especially enjoyed working on jigsaw puzzles.

Surviving are two sons, James J. Leftwich of Palo Alto, CA, and Jeffrey L. Leftwich (Monica) of Centertown, MO; grandson, Derek Leftwich (Michelle) of Olathe, KS; granddaughter, Dr. Shawna Leftwich, DPT, of Iowa City, IA; great-grandson, Nolan Leftwich; great-granddaughter, Nora Leftwich; and brother, Jim Harvey of Oklahoma City, OK.

In addition to her husband and parents, she was preceded in death by an infant son, John Clay Leftwich Jr., and sisters, Mary Helen Anderson and Doris Harvey.

Visitation will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday, July 5, 2023, followed by funeral services at 11 a.m. at Wesley United Methodist Church, with Rev. Bruce Anderson and Rev. Dennis Harper officiating.

Burial will be in Crown Hill Cemetery.

Memorials are suggested to the Center for Human Services.

Arrangements are in the care of Heckart Funeral Home and Cremation Services.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Birthday Blessings collecting gift items

Birthday Blessings, a Missouri nonprofit that supports nearly 130 foster kids in Pettis and Cooper counties, has a goal to collect 1,000 needed items during July.

The organization can use any new and unopened gift items for ages 1-18, but is most in need of sports balls, Legos, baby toys, toddler toys, fishing poles and tackle, craft kits for teens, and character backpacks for children under age 10.

There are collection boxes in Sedalia at Life Pointe Church, Abundant Harvest Church, St. Vincent de Paul Parrish, 18th Circuit Children's Division, First Christian Church, Christ & Trinity Lutheran Church, Encounter Church, Broadway Presbyterian Church, First Baptist Church, Hopewell Baptist Church, First United Methodist Church, Bethlehem Baptist Church, and Rick Ball Ford.

To make a monetary donation, visit birthday-blessings.org. There is also an Amazon wish list pinned on the Birthday Blessings Facebook page. For more information, visit the website or call 417-372-5306.

SFCC to offer school bus driver recertification training

State Fair Community College's The LearningForce will offer School Bus Driver Recertification Training from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 18, and Wednesday, July 19, in Fielding Technical Center on the Sedalia campus. Drivers may choose which day they want to participate when registering.

The training session is for licensed school bus drivers who need to obtain the yearly state-mandated recertification required by the Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education. Presentations will provide relevant material for recertification and safe driving applications. Participants must attend the entire training.

The cost is $25 per person and includes a light breakfast. To register, visit <https://bit.ly/23schBUS>. Call 660-530-5822 or email thelearningforce@sfccmo.edu for assistance. Early enrollment is recommended because class size is limited.

3 charged in insider trading case related to taking Trump media firm public

By Larry Neumeister and Nebern Condon

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Three Florida men were charged Thursday with making more than $22 million through illegal insider trading before the public announcement that an acquisition firm was going to take former President Donald Trump's media company public.

The charges were outlined in an indictment unsealed in New York that did not in any way implicate Trump or Trump Media & Technology Group, which owns his Truth Social platform.

The charges make it less likely that Trump Media will be able to pocket the $1.3 billion promised upon completion of a merger with the acquisition firm. The merger is pending the approval of securities regulators.

According to the indictment, the men were invited to invest in the special purpose acquisition company, Digital World Acquisition Corp., and were provided confidential information that a potential target of DWAC and another acquisition company, Benessere Capital Acquisition Corp., was Trump Media.

Authorities said the defendants bought millions of dollars of DWAC securities on the open market before news of the Trump Media business was made public. After the public announcement, the men dumped their securities for a significant profit, according to the court papers.

The indictment said one of the defendants tipped off a neighbor to buy stock in DWAC, calling it a "good bet" without saying how he knew.

U.S. Attorney Damian Williams warned that insider trading "is not easy money," calling it "cheating."

"It's a bad bet," Williams said in a release. "Because my Office, the Southern District of New York, is watching. And we're working quickly to investigate and prosecute anyone who corrupts our financial markets. And we'll keep at it as long as it takes. You can bet on that."

The arrested men were identified as Michael Shvartsman, 52, of Sunny Isles Beach, Florida; his brother Gerald Shvartsman, 45, of Aventura, Florida; and Bruce Garelick, 53, of Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

All three made initial court appearances Thursday afternoon in Miami and were freed on bonds.

Two lawyers representing the Shvartsman brothers, Grant Smith and Robert Buschel, declined to comment. Garelick's lawyer, Michael Hursey, also declined to comment.

Michael Shvartsman owned Rocket One Capital LLC, a venture capital firm. Garelick was Rocket One's chief investment officer, according to court papers.

According to the indictment, Garelick was given a seat on DWAC's board of directors and had access to confidential information. It said he then shared that information with his co-conspirators.

The indictment said that between June 2021 and November 2021, the men shared the secrets with their friends and employees, who also bought tens of thousands of units of securities ahead of the merger announcement with Trump Media & Technology Group. Typically, a special purpose acquisition company, or SPAC, is formed with the intent to merge with a private company.

In early 2021, representatives of Trump Media, including Trump, began communicating with principles of Benessere about potentially merging to take Trump Media public, the indictment said.

Between March and June 2021, Trump Media and Benessere entered into nonbinding letters of intent to merge, it said.

The letters required confidentiality but did allow Benessere and its agents to share confidential information with investors in the special purpose acquisition companies, the indictment said.

Jay Ritter, a University of Florida expert on stock markets who has followed Trump's media venture, said the new charges make it unlikely securities regulators will approve the merger.

Ritter added, though, that Trump's company may be able to find alternative partners to help fund it.

"Trump Media's likelihood of being a profitable company is fairly good. This is not some pie-in-the-sky electric vehicle startup that needs to burn through millions of dollars and not come up with anything," he said. "Some other company will come through and invest."

The $1.3 billion that Trump Media would miss out on if the merger doesn't go through could have been used to pay salaries and office rent and expand its operation. As for DWAC, securities rules would require it to liquidate if the deal isn't completed.

The potential merger was once greeted as a near certainty by investors. Many were political supporters of Trump, a Republican, who were enraged he had been pushed off Twitter after the Jan. 6, 2021, insurrection at the U.S. Capitol. They saw Truth Social as a way to fight back against what they considered censorship on social media — and a sure moneymaker.

Fueling their enthusiasm was big talk about the new venture. Trump called his company a "big tent" social media rival that would allow all voices to be heard. Documents used to drum up interest in the company held out the prospect of taking on other media giants besides Twitter, including Netflix, Disney and CNN.

Shortly after the proposed merger deal was announced in late 2021, DWAC stock rocketed from about a $10 initial offering price to over $100, giving the combined company a potential market value in the billions of dollars.

But there were regulatory problems from the start. Besides possible insider trading, securities regulators were looking into news reports that there had been "substantive" talks between DWAC executives and Trump Media months before DWAC sold stock to the public for the first time, a possible violation of securities law.

Trump has called the investigations politically motivated "witch hunts" that had no substance in reality, a charge repeated by his many allies, including former congressman Devin Nunes, who is the CEO of Trump Media.

Stock in DWAC was trading at $12.70 in the early afternoon Thursday, down more than 50% over the past 12 months.

David Fischer contributed to this report from Miami.

Missouri ordered to pay $242K for open records law violations

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — The Missouri attorney general's office has been ordered to pay $242,000 in legal fees for violations of the state's open records law that occurred when U.S. Sen. Josh Hawley held the office.

Circuit Judge Jon Beetem ruled in November 2022 that the attorney general's office violated the open records law when documents were withheld from the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee during the Republican Hawley's successful Senate campaign in 2018.

Beetem ruled Wednesday that the office must pay $242,000 in legal fees, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch reported.

"A big win for transparency, election fairness, and the rule of law," Mark Pedroli, who represented the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, said on Twitter.

Pedroli suggested that Hawley should apologize and pay the bill with proceeds from his book, "Manhood: The Masculine Virtues America Needs."

Hawley's spokesman, Kyle Plotkin, responded that Democrats should return the money and apologize to Missourians for continuing the lawsuit after the requested documents were produced.

In 2017, the Democrats sought records of correspondence between Hawley's political consultants, OnMessage Inc., and employees of the attorney general's office.

The correspondence involved public business, Beetem said in his ruling. The judge said the then-records correspondent, Danie Hartman, has the records and knew his responsibilities under the law but told the Democrats the office had none of the requested records.

Beetem said the office also had documents corresponding to the Democrats' second request in March 2018.

Beetem noted that The Kansas City Star obtained records between the attorney general's office and OnMessage Inc. and reported in October 2018 that political consultants had helped to lead Hawley's office.

Supreme Court made big decisions this week and more are coming

By Jessica Gresko and Mark Sherman

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court is expected to announce major decisions Friday on President Joe Biden's student loan forgiveness program and a case that impacts gay rights. It's the court's final day before the justices go on their summer break.

Already this week the justices have released important decisions on other issues including affirmative action, voting rights and religious rights. The court's final opinions tend to be on some of the most contentious issues because writing those decisions often takes the longest.

Here's a look at the decisions the justices issued this week and those left to come: STUDENT LOANS

The justices have yet to decide the fate of President Joe Biden's plan to wipe away or reduce student loans held by millions of Americans. When the court heard arguments in the case in February, the plan didn't seem likely to survive, though it's possible the justices could decide the challengers lacked the right to sue and the plan can still go forward.

Biden had proposed erasing $10,000 in federal student loan debt for those with incomes below $125,000 a year, or households that earn less than $250,000. He also wanted to cancel an additional $10,000 for those who received federal Pell Grants to attend college. The administration has said millions of borrowers would benefit from the program.

Regardless of what happens at the high court, loan payments that have been on hold since the start of the coronavirus pandemic three years ago will resume this summer.

GAY RIGHTS

A clash of gay rights and religious rights is also still to be decided by the court. The case involves a Christian graphic artist from Colorado who wants to begin designing wedding websites but objects to making wedding websites for same-sex couples.

State law requires businesses that are open to the public to provide services to all customers, but the designer, Lorie Smith, says the law violates her free speech rights. She says ruling against her would force artists — from painters and photographers to writers and musicians — to do work that is against their beliefs. Her opponents, meanwhile, say that if she wins, a range of businesses will be able to discriminate, refusing to serve Black, Jewish or Muslim customers, interracial or interfaith couples or immigrants.

During arguments in the case in December, the court's conservative majority sounded sympathetic to Smith's arguments, and religious plaintiffs have in recent years won a series of victories at the high court.

AFFIRMATIVE ACTION

The justices on Thursday struck down affirmative action in college admissions, declaring race cannot be a factor and forcing institutions of higher education to look for new ways to achieve diverse student bodies.

Previously, the Supreme Court had allowed the use of race in admissions in decisions reaching back to 1978. And it had had twice upheld race-conscious college admissions programs in the past 20 years, including as recently as 2016.

Now, however, with a six-justice conservative majority, the justices overturned admissions plans at Harvard and the University of North Carolina, the nation's oldest private and public colleges, respectively.

Chief Justice John Roberts said that for too long universities have "concluded, wrongly, that the touchstone of an individual's identity is not challenges bested, skills built, or lessons learned but the color of their skin. Our constitutional history does not tolerate that choice."

RELIGIOUS RIGHTS

The Supreme Court on Thursday used the case of a Christian mail carrier who didn't want to work Sundays to solidify protections for workers who ask for religious accommodations.

In a unanimous decision the justices made clear that workers who ask for accommodations, such as taking the Sabbath off, should get them unless their employers show doing so would result in "substantial increased costs" to the business.

The court made clear that businesses must cite more than minor costs — so-called "de minimis" costs — to reject requests for religious accommodations at work. Unlike most cases before the court, both sides in the case had agreed businesses needed to show more.

The justices didn't say whether the mail carrier should win his case, however. Instead, they sent the case back to lower courts for further review based on their decision.

VOTING

Earlier this week, on Tuesday, the justices ruled that state courts can act as a check on their legislatures in redistricting and other issues affecting federal elections, rejecting arguments by North Carolina Republicans that could have transformed contests for Congress and president.

The justices by a 6-3 vote upheld a decision by North Carolina's top court that struck down a congressional districting plan as excessively partisan under state law.

Chief Justice John Roberts authored the majority opinion, stating that "state courts retain the authority to apply state constitutional restraints when legislatures act under the power conferred upon them by the Elections Clause. But federal courts must not abandon their own duty to exercise judicial review."

The high court did, though, suggest there could be limits on state court efforts to police elections for Congress and president.

The practical effect of the decision in North Carolina is minimal in that the North Carolina Supreme Court, under a new Republican majority, already has undone its redistricting ruling.

"can't get" loads to haul, then, strictly speaking, they're not actively "running" a "company." LOANS is apt.

19. TALE not tile. A "colorful" TALE can create "an appealing mood." But there are many ways that "colorful" tiles can be unappealing; for example, if they're mismatched or poorly laid.

DOWN

1. BOYS not boss. She'd likely consider whether it was worth it to put "on something special" such as food to entertain with or for herself to dress up in to impress his friends (i.e., BOYS), or she might decide the extra effort isn't worth it. But she would, no doubt, put "on something special" if her "husband" brings home his boss.

2. KISS not miss. KISS is apt. Miss is too vague since it's not explained how long the wife might be "away." If it's just an overnight stay or a day-long trip, the "friends" might not "expect" to be missed.

3. MEAL not meat. MEAL is all-inclusive since a serving of meat would be considered part of the MEAL.

4. DEFINE not refine. Not all substances can be refined, but they can be DEFINED to some degree, making DEFINE the better answer.

7. SEAT not heat. The "employee" might well grumble about an ineffectual "human resources department" ignoring a "complaint" about a very uncomfortable office SEAT. However, if the "employee" worked outdoors, it's likely the HR "department" couldn't do much to solve the problem of heat.

8. HUNT not hint. HUNT is best. A hint is defined as a faint or indirect suggestion and, therefore, it is likely it would be too insignificant and expensive to assign "many police officers" to pursue it.

11. LINES not linen. There might well be LINES strung up to dry clothes on, but it's unreasonable to assume it's just linen on the clotheslines.

13. HANDS not hangs. Since hanging an object usually means some height is involved, it's unlikely a kindergarten-aged child would be assigned to do that job. However, HANDING the "decorations" to other "students to admire" would be a reasonable expectation.

15. COST not cast. COST is best. It's not abnormal for a "director" to be at odds with an actor, but it is abnormal to fight about the entire cast.

16. ILL not all. If the "mayor" is already concerned about the length of the "meeting" by mentioning its "duration," it's a good indication that he doesn't expect it to be easy-going, making ILL "at ease" a better choice than all "at ease."

ACROSS

5. COMIC not colic. Colic is in itself considered a "serious" condition, making the inclusion of the word "serious" unnecessary. COMIC is a good answer.

6. DECIDE not decode. Not all "secret messages" that involve "transmitting" need to be decoded, so DECIDE makes a better answer.

10. BALLOT not ballet. Adding "two prominent" candidates to a BALLOT would probably get "lots of views" from voters and be classified as a "big news story." The ballet company could be quite small and those "added to" it might be administrators or investors, meaning the "story" appeals to only a specific readership.

12. BIRTH not mirth. BIRTH is apt. Mirth is superfluous since the definition of mirth is "happiness."

14. WEAR not bear. WEAR makes a straightforward answer because it's clear the "mother" was uncomfortable, as is indicated in the words "hot and heavy school uniforms." Therefore, "couldn't" bear is unnecessary.

17. LOANS not loads. If the "trucking company" owners

Kleijweg now has a job as a structural engineer for a firm in a suburb of The Hague and is enjoying it, and van Adrichen works as a project manager for a company there. The couple said they met attending the university and added it's amazing they found each other.

"It's fun because whenever he has a structural issue, he'll come to me and say, 'How do I do this?'" she noted.

On Wednesday, June 28, Kleijweg and van Adrichen visited Goody's Steakhouses and discussed their time in the U.S. and Sedalia. The trip was van Adrichen's first time visiting the States.

"It's great," Kleijweg said. "Of course, I've been back twice. I came back in 2017 and 2019; it's been four years. So, it's great to see everything."

The couple decided to take a road trip and began their journey to Missouri from San Francisco.

"It's amazing," van Adrichen said of the U.S. "I had this picture of how it would turn out, but it seemed to be way better. I got to see the difference from the city to the countryside and nature, national parks and state parks and the beaches."

Kleijweg and van Adrichen visited Yosemite National Park and Death Valley National Park and surfed at Venice Beach, California.

"We really loved Yosemite," Kleijweg. "After Yosemite, we went to LA, and we stayed in Venice Beach and went surfing — that was really nice."

"We loved to hike in the parks, so we hiked up to the top of Yosemite Falls, we hiked nine miles of the Angels Landing Trail in the Grand Canyon and in Rocky Mountain National Park we hiked up to Sky Pond," she continued. "We did plenty of other (shorter) hikes, but these have been our favorites."

While at Death Valley, they visited Bad Water Basin, the lowest point in the United States, with a depth of 282 feet below sea level. It also holds the record for the hottest air temperature in the world. They also stayed in Las Vegas, Nevada, for one night.

"When visiting Las Vegas from the National Parks, the contrast was huge," van Adrichen noted.

After eating at Goody's on Wednesday, the couple planned to visit the Noland farm near La Monte before leaving on Thursday for Kansas City. Kleijweg said while in KC, they plan to attend a Kansas City Royals game, something she had wanted to do as an exchange student but didn't have the opportunity to do. They will fly home on Friday.

They noted they are impressed with the expanse of the United States. In comparison, the Netherlands could fit inside Missouri eight times. They also stated Julie Kleijweg and her close friend Jack van Adrichen visit Big Sur in California as they worked their way to Sedalia. While on their road trip they stopped in San Francisco, Yosemite, Big Sur, Los Angeles, Death Valley (Badwater Basin), Las Vegas, Valley of Fire, Zion National Park, Bryce Canyon, Grand Canyon, Monument Valley, Mesa Verde, and Rocky Mountain National Park. that American people are friendlier.

"I grew up kind of in the countryside," van Adrichen said. "And that land is way different than it is here. The village I grew up in is a small-town vibe. So, most of the people know most of the people."

"Then I went to the city for the first time studying and living with Julie," he continued. "But coming back here is like sort of coming home. (There's) friendly people, and that's real nice."

Fermin's double in 10th lifts Royals over Guardians 4-3

By Marc Bowman
Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — José Ramirez daringly stole home for the go-ahead run in the 10th inning, but the Kansas City Royals rebounded to beat the Cleveland Guardians 4-3 Thursday on pinch-hitter Freddy Fermin's two-run double in the bottom half.

Even with the win, the Royals reached the season's midpoint at 23-58, the worst first-half record in team history.

Cleveland manager Terry Francona was in attendance but was not in uniform as an on-going precaution against health concerns. Bench coach DeMarlo Hale managed the Guardians.

Ramirez started the 10th on second base as the automatic runner and advanced on Josh Naylor's groundout. Josh Bell struck out and with an 0-2 count on Andrés Giménez and left-hander Aroldis Chapman (4-2) working from the stretch, Ramirez took five small steps toward the plate and burst home.

Ramirez noticed third baseman Maikel Garcia playing behind the base and told third base coach

Mike Sarbaugh "I'm going to try to steal home."

Sarbaugh told him to go for it.

"There were two outs, so I decided to take a chance," Ramirez said.

He slid headfirst and with his body to the infield side of the line, slapped his right hand on the plate as catcher Salvador Perez gloved the high sinker and lunged forward. Umpire Jeremy Riggs called Ramirez out, but the call was reversed in a video review.

"Just instincts. That's why he's a great player," Hale said. "He's not afraid to play the game with his instincts. He'd seen an advantage and he took it. He felt he could make it and he did. Great slide."

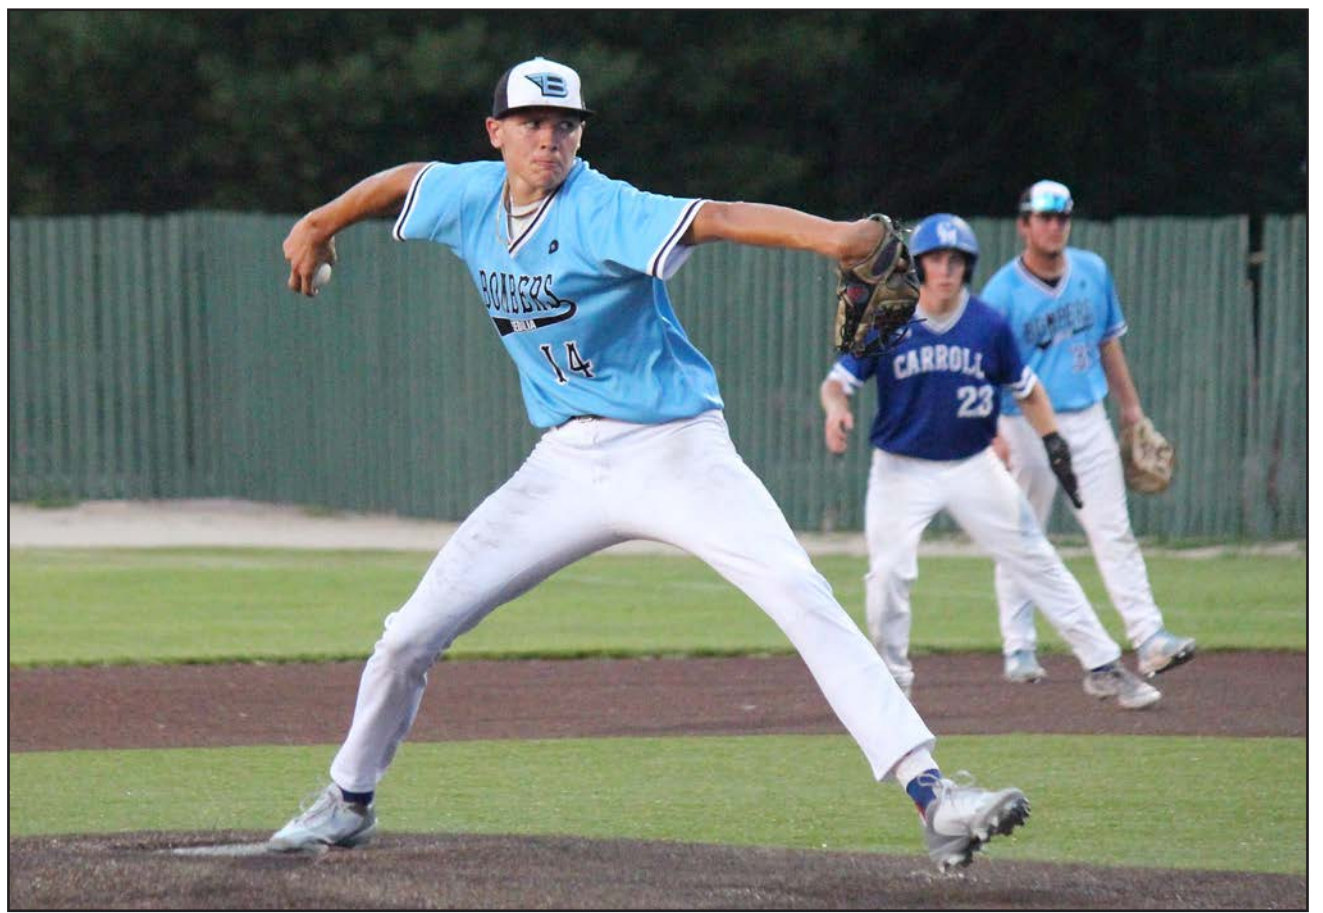

Cleveland had not stolen a homer since Leonys Martin on June 15, 2019.

"He's amazing," Guardians starter Shane Bieber said. "We rely upon him in so many different ways, for him to come up again in another different type of way to do it. It was too bad we couldn't end up on top after that, because we'd like that to be the marquee play of the game, but he provides those all the time."

Bombers squeeze out win, no-hit in DH split

By Bryan Everson
bryane@sedaliademocrat.com

As the temperature cooled with sundown Wednesday night at Liberty Park Stadium, so did the Sedalia Bombers' bats.

The Bombers mustered two runs, but were no-hit by three Carroll Merchants pitchers in an 11-2 defeat suffered after Sedalia picked up a 7-2 victory earlier in the evening.

"I mean, I told them to just keep battling," said Bombers head coach Logan Bexton when asked what he told players following the no-no. "I think our guys were just tired from the heat, being out here all day. I know that's not necessarily the best excuse to have, but I think we played two really good games back-to-back and that was one of those accumulation types of things."

Cullen McBride went five frames in the start for Carroll (13-10), his only run deemed unearned as Caleb Roofe only scored on a sacrifice after he reached on an error in the second. Austin Nowel worked briskly through the sixth, then Isaiah Byrkeland struggled with command in the seventh, walking the first three Bombers (10-16) he faced — and another later in the inning — but Sedalia could only take advantage for one run.

When asked whether he was pleased with the quality of the takes at the plate, Bexton said, "I thought some at-bats were good, some not so great. I think it was just the complete opposite of the first game where we did a good job picking it on defense, threw well on the mound and at-bats were great. [In the second game], we gave away too many free passes on the mound and defensively we had three errors with not the greatest at-bats."

To the Bombers' credit, Bexton's leniency in regards to fatigue has merit: Sedalia's doubleheader marked seven games in a six-day span. "These guys just need a break, honestly," he said. "[They need to] get away from the field and use [Thursday] as a day to rest, recover and have a mental reset, as much as it can be. I'm looking, and I think we're all looking forward to the off-day as a whole."

A big fifth inning powered the Bombers in the first game of the doubleheader. Trailing 3-2 at the time, Zach Rennard and Zach Dillman each had RBI doubles, then catcher Jack Perwett hit a two-run shot to take a three-run lead. Caleb Briggs provided another run-scoring double in the sixth that proved to be necessary as a wild pitch and an error pulled two back for Carroll in the seventh before Dillman entered to get the final out and preserve the win.

Dayne Wimberly, Briggs and Rennard all had multi-hit performances in the win, which saw every batter in the lineup get a base knock.

Sedalia finished the four-game homestand .500. Following a 4-3 defeat to Chillicothe on Monday, Dillman homered and had five RBIs while Carter DeGondea kept rolling with a complete-game shutout in Tuesday's 10-0 defeat of Clarinda.

"Our guys, when [Carter's] on the mound, they just kind of show up," Bexton said. "He had three HBPs — so those were mishaps — but he gets the ball in play and lets our defense work so our bats can keep the momentum going. I think they feed off what he brings."

Following the desired day off, the Bombers play four consecutive contests on the road, beginning with a trek to Nevada on Friday, then a journey to Joplin to face the Outlaws on Saturday evening.

With small markets, payrolls, the AL and NL Central's are lagging again

By Steve Megaree
Associated Press

The AL Central-leading Cleveland Guardians have been below .500 since late April. The Cincinnati Reds top the NL Central standings while on an 86-win pace.

Welcome to life in baseball's two weakest divisions, where even the best teams struggle to win more games than they lose.

Cleveland (39-40) overtook the Minnesota Twins (40-42) in the AL Central standings on Wednesday, but the Guardians would be dead last if they played in the AL East. This is the first time in 15 years that an entire division has been below .500 this late in a season.

"You know, I've been in a lot of different scenarios," said Detroit Tigers manager A.J. Hinch, whose team is 34-45 but only five games off the AL Central lead. "This is a little bit unique to the Central right now. But a lot of baseball left to play for a lot of teams, but certainly weird."

It's not much better in St. Louis Cardinals relief pitcher Giovanny Gallegos (65) looks on as Houston Astros second baseman Jose Altuve (27) rounds third base after hitting a three run home run during the eighth inning of a baseball game against the St. Louis Cardinals on Wednesday, June 28, 2023, in St. Louis. the NL Central, though Cincinnati (43-38) has come on strong lately thanks to an exciting rookie class headed by sensational shortstop Elly De La Cruz. The Reds were in last place just over a month ago but now lead the division by a half-game over the Milwaukee Brewers (42-38) after winning 14 of their last 17.

These aren't new struggles either — neither Central division has produced a pennant winner since the Chicago Cubs beat Cleveland in the 2016 World Series.

The way Central division clubs have managed their budgets, it's no surprise they've lagged behind their East and West counterparts.

No team from either group ranked among the top 12 major league payrolls on opening day this season, but five of them fell in the bottom 10 — Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Kansas City and Milwaukee. No Central team has cracked the top 5 since the Cubs during the pandemic-shortened 2020 season.

Royals owner Sherman envisions new stadium by 2027 or 2028 season

By Dave Skretta
Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The Kansas City Royals hope to settle on the location for a new ballpark by the end of the summer, and owner John Sherman said Thursday that he envisions the club playing in a new stadium by the 2027 or 2028 season.

The long-preferred site is near downtown Kansas City, where the park would be the centerpiece of a redevelopment project that links the eastern part of the metro to the vibrant area near T-Mobile Center. The location would keep the club in Jackson County, though far from the current Kauffman Stadium, and continue a trend of using sports to spearhead urban renewal.

But complicating matters has been a competing bid from Clay County, which sits across the Missouri River from downtown Kansas City. There is more space available for a ballpark village, much like the entertainment district that has sprung up around Truist

Park in Atlanta, and that could help the small-market organization generate much-needed long-term revenue.

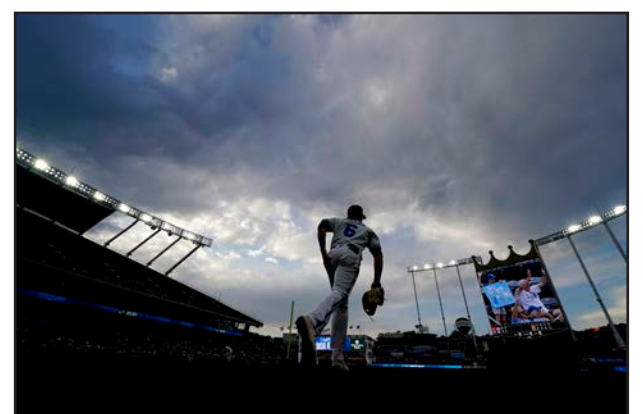

"We've always said 'downtown or near downtown,'" said Sherman, who purchased the club in November 2019 from the late David Glass. "It's a highly motivated and creative bunch (in Clay County), but we've been partners with Jackson County and in Kansas City for 52 years. We value that relationship. We want them to give us their best shot, and we're going to give them our best shot to do it there. But I think we should be clear that there is certainly an alternative to that area."

The decision, like most when it comes to building stadiums, could come down to finances.

The Royals have shared the Truman Sports Complex with the Kansas City Chiefs dating to the construction of both Kauffman Stadium and Arrowhead Stadium. Part of the current lease agreement calls for a 3/8-cent sales tax that goes toward the upkeep of both facilities, and that in turn has allowed each to far outlive other stadiums built during the same era.

Already hectic NBA offseason now poised for free agency movement

By Tim Reynolds
AP Basketball Writer

Chris Paul has already been traded twice this offseason, ending up with Golden State. Bradley Beal is now with Phoenix, John Collins was sent to Utah, and Kristaps Porzingis is about to start anew with Boston in a deal that sent Marcus Smart to Memphis. They have new places to call home. It's time to see if Kyrie Irving, Draymond Green, Khris Middleton and dozens more will be on the move in the next few days.

As proven by the run of trades in recent weeks, and big news from James Harden on Thursday, NBA teams aren't waiting for free agency to make moves. The window of offseason player movement begins Friday at 6 p.m. EDT, when teams are permitted to start talking to free agents — with the caveat that most deals cannot become official until July 6.

"Obviously, money's a thing. I mean, that's just for anybody," said Miami guard Max Strus, a free agent who's in line for a big payday, going from $1.8 million last season to potentially $12 million a year or more. "These are moments that you work for, and these are opportunities that could be life-changing — so you can't ever take that out of it. But I love playing basketball and that's always going to be the first thing for me."

Money and fit. That's what players like Strus will be seeking, and that's what teams will be weighing over the next few days — especially with a new Collective Bargaining Agreement, and new rules designed to at least slightly curb spending by the deeper-pocketed teams, set to go into effect on Saturday.

That's part of the reason some trades have been made in recent days and more are almost certainly coming. The Warriors gave up Jordan Poole to get Paul from Washington in part because Paul's contract expires in a year and Poole is on the books for four years (at more than $30 million annually on average), and Atlanta sent Collins to Utah for Rudy Gay for similar reasons.

Harden could be the next big name on the move. He decided not to enter free agency and exercised his $35.6 million option for the coming season Thursday, with Philadelphia now likely to trade the 10-time All-Star and three-time scoring champion, a person familiar with the decision told The Associated Press.

"I think a lot can be made of all the challenges that are coming our way, whether it be aging roster, the new CBA with some of the limitations there, anything else you can bring up," Warriors general manager Mike Dunleavy Jr. said. "We're aware of all those things. But we also feel like we're in a great, great place, because we've got a competitive owner willing to spend ... so we feel confident we can navigate it."

Another potential trade: Plenty of eyes remain on Portland and whether Damian Lillard will ask to be dealt elsewhere — to Miami or Brooklyn, specifically — or remain with the Trail Blazers for a 12th season.

In the interim, there will be some massive deals struck — some possibly reaching $200 million.

Green turned down a $27.5 million option with Golden State to seek a longer deal. Milwaukee has decisions to make with both Middleton and Brook Lopez, two key members of their championship in 2021.

"Both of those guys specifically are core to who we have been," Bucks general manager Jon Horst said. "Ultimately, what matters is we're hopeful to have them back. We've been really good and they're a big part of that and we want to try to keep them."

There's also intrigue in Dallas with regard to Irving's future.

Irving's talent is unquestioned. He averaged 27 points in 20 games with the Mavericks after getting traded there for the stretch run last season. For his career, he's averaged 23.4 points, is an eight-time All-Star and won a title alongside LeBron James in Cleveland in 2016.

He and Luka Doncic could form one of the league's most powerful 1-2 punches. Irving also is coming off a season where he was suspended by Brooklyn for eight games after the team said it was dismayed by his repeated failure to "unequivocally say he has no antisemitic beliefs." And that saga came after many others involving Irving, who has raised eyebrows for things ranging from saying the Earth is flat to not getting vaccinated against COVID-19.

Still unclear: How many years, and how much money, Dallas will commit to keep him.

"Obviously, he's someone that we've already told everybody that we want to re-sign and we're excited about," Mavericks general manager Nico Harrison said.

The new champions have a big decision looming as well.

Denver's biggest free agency issue is versatile guard Bruce Brown, who was tremendous off the bench for the Nuggets during their run to the NBA title. All the Nuggets can offer Brown is one year at $7.8 million; other teams, such as the Los Angeles Lakers, may be prepared to offer more. Denver can give Brown a longer, richer deal next summer — so it's up to Brown to decide whether to bet on himself or get more money now.

At the team's championship parade, Nuggets coach Michael Malone made clear that Denver intends to keep Brown.

"Is Brucie B going anywhere? Hell no," Malone shouted, as the crowd roared in approval. "Hell no. Hell no. We're running this ... back."

The next few days will tell if Malone is right.

Moon Alert: Avoid shopping or important decisions from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. EDT today (7 a.m. to 8 a.m. PDT). After that, the Moon moves from Scorpio into Sagittarius.

Happy Birthday for Friday, June 30, 2023:

You have a quirky sense of humor. Relationships are important to you, even though you sometimes hide your feelings. This is a year of learning and exploring new ideas. Be open to philosophies and belief systems that will help you get closer to the true meaning of your life.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★ Today you want to shake things up a bit. You want some adventure and stimulation! You will be adamant about what you want done at home or in your family, and you won't hesitate to state your views, especially about home repairs. Tonight: Explore!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★★ This is a fast-paced, energetic day! You might take a short trip. In discussions with others, you'll be strong and very much to the point. People will be convinced by you because you will put a lot of yourself into what you say. Tonight: Check your finances.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★ Today the Moon is opposite your sign, which means you have to go along to get along. Meanwhile, you have strong ideas about financial matters and cash flow issues. You also might be determined to buy something. "I have to have it!" Tonight: Cooperate.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★ Today you're aware of the needs of others. You might perform a service for someone. Nevertheless, the Sun and Mercury are lined up in your sign, which means you won't take a backseat to anyone. In discussions with others, you will say what you mean and mean what you say! Tonight: Work.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★★ There are two strong influences for you today. One of them will encourage you to research and discover solutions to old problems and find hidden answers. The other influence wants you to play, socialize, enjoy sports and fun activities with kids. A choice. Tonight: Play!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★ You might want to settle down at home today and relax among familiar surroundings. Certainly, conversations with others will be lively! You also might talk to someone younger — perhaps a member of a group who has strong opinions. (But then, so do you!) Tonight: Cocoon.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★ Discussions with anyone in authority will be direct and to the point today. Fortunately, you're in an excellent position to make a great impression, which is why others will listen to you. If you are someone in authority, you've got this, hands-down. Tonight: Conversations!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★ Because you are curious and focused, this is an excellent day to study and learn anything. It's also a wonderful day to finish an important paper or manuscript. You have strong opinions about legal or medical matters, plus the itch to make travel plans. "I'm outta here!" Tonight: Maintain your belongings.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★★ You might feel more emotional than usual today because the Moon is in your sign. However, when this happens (for two and a half days every month), it also boosts your good luck a tiny bit. This means you have an advantage. Why not test it? Ask the universe for a favor. Tonight: You win!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★★ Lively discussions with a close friend or partner might take place today. Very likely, the other person will be doing all the talking, because you want to lie low. Good luck. Today is the classic illustration of that saying "You can run but you can't hide." Tonight: Solitude.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★★ This is a productive day for you at work, on the job or with whatever task that you set for yourself. You'll be a busy bee! You will also be opinionated about how things should be done, and you won't hesitate to share your ideas. Meanwhile, a female companion might have helpful feedback. Tonight: Friendships.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★★ People are aware of personal details about your private life today. You should know this in case you have to do some damage control. This could be because you're in the mood to party and have fun! (Enthusiasm is contagious!) Tonight: You're noticed.

Indianapolis Colts cornerback Isaiah Rodgers (34) looks on during an NFL football game, Sunday, Nov. 6, 2022, in Foxborough, Mass. The NFL suspended three players indefinitely Thursday, June 29, 2023, for violating the league's gambling policy and a fourth was sidelined for six games. Isaiah Rodgers and Rashod Berry of the Indianapolis Colts along with free agent Demetrius Taylor received indefinite suspensions through at least this season for betting on NFL games in 2022.

NFL suspends 3 players indefinitely for violating gambling policy

By Michael Marot

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS — Cornerback Isaiah Rodgers Sr. lost the biggest bet of his life Thursday.

He was waived by the Indianapolis Colts shortly after the NFL suspended Rodgers and two other players indefinitely for gambling on NFL games last season.

The Colts also cut backup defensive end Rashod Berry after Berry and free agent defensive tackle Demetrius Taylor received the same punishment for the same infraction. None of the three can seek reinstatement until after next season.

Tennessee Titans right tackle Nicholas Petit-Frere received a six-game suspension for betting on non-NFL sports at the team's facility, though he can participate in all of the team's offseason and pre-season activities including preseason games.

For the Colts, the decision came swiftly and decisively — even for a potential starter like Rodgers.

"We have made the following roster moves as a consequence of the determination that these players violated the league's gambling policy," Colts general manager Chris Ballard said in a statement. "The integrity of the game is of the utmost importance. As an organization we will continue to educate our players, coaches, and staff on the policies in place and the significant consequences that may occur with violations."

Those rules bar players, coaches, team officials and all league personnel from betting on NFL games, placing bets at team facilities or team hotels or having someone else place a bet for them.

NFL executive vice president of communications, public affairs and policy Jeff Miller said last week only players are permitted to bet on non-NFL games following consultation with the NFL Players Association.

Still gambling policy violations are becoming increasingly common with the expansion of states legalizing sports wagering and other forms of betting and the ease with which bets can be placed on mobile devices.

And it seems remarkably prevalent in a league that imposed no gambling suspensions between those involving Paul Hornung and Alex Karras in 1963 until Art Schlichter in 1983.

At least 10 players have been suspended in the past year, beginning with the 2022 season-long suspension of former Atlanta Falcons receiver Calvin Ridley. He was reinstated in March and now plays for the Jacksonville Jaguars.

Five players were suspended for gambling infractions in April, four from Detroit.

The Lions have since released receivers Quintez Cephus and Stanley Berryhill and safety C.J. Moore after Cephus and Moore received indefinite suspensions. Lions general manager Brad Holmes said at the time Cephus and Moore "exhibited decision-making that is not consistent with our organizational values and violates league rules."

Berryhill and receiver Jameson Williams were given six-game suspensions. Taylor also played for the Lions last season and was released in May.

The other player, Washington Commanders defensive end Shaka Toney, also received an indefinite suspension. Toney, a seventh-round pick in 2021; Williams, the No. 12 overall draft pick in 2022; and Petit-Frere still have jobs.

While the league already has reinforced its gambling policy to the more than 17,000 NFL employees, it's also making the rounds for annual presentations at team facilities.

"The league just comes in, they give their piece on it with what they talk about and how they handle it and what the players need to know and going forward in that matter," new Colts coach Shane Steichen said after the investigation into Rodgers' actions went public earlier this month.

It's not just that there's more gambling.

A website that covers sports wagering, sportshandle.com, reported an unidentified Colts player placed "hundreds" of bets, some on Colts games. Rodgers later responded to the report with a Twitter post in which he acknowledged making "mistakes" while hoping to "repair" the damage.

Rodgers, a fourth-year player from UMass, won't get that chance in Indy. But Tennessee is taking a different approach with its starting right tackle.

"We believe in Nick and know that he has deep respect for the integrity of the game and our organization," the Titans said in a statement. "We will continue to emphasize to our players the importance of understanding and adhering to league rules and policies."

Losing key players to suspensions is taking a toll.

New Titans general manager Ran Carthon made Petit-Frere the centerpiece of a revamped offensive line. He's the only returning starter expected to play the same spot as last season and can't return until after Tennessee's bye week, Oct. 29 against Atlanta.

In a statement he posted on social media, Petit-Frere apologized to the Titans and his family while making clear his bets were legal under Tennessee law.

"It is only being sanctioned because it occurred at the Titans facility" Petit-Frere said in the statement. "I have always strived in every stage of my life to follow the rules. Even after attending a league presentation, I was unaware about the specifics around placing bets from a team facility."

Former NFL quarterback Boomer Esiason and current broadcaster believes not knowing the rules is simply an excuse. He also called on the NFL to provide support for those in the league who have gambling addictions.

"I know for a fact that the Jets and Giants, in OTAs and minicamps, went over these policies with their teams incessantly so they know what they can and cannot do," said Esiason, the NFL's 1988 MVP. "So, any player that comes out and says, 'Well, they didn't tell me,' that's a pile of crap. It's on the player to be the professional that you're supposed to be and earn the money that you're earning and play in a league that you're privileged to play in and protect that league's integrity by not betting on the league."

Berry and Petit-Frere were teammates at Ohio State before Berry was signed by New England as an undrafted rookie in 2020. Berry spent most of last season on the Jags practice squad before joining Indy's active roster Jan. 4.

The bigger blow in Indy is losing Rodgers in a secondary already under reconstruction. He was expected to provide a veteran's voice in a young position room that includes four draft picks. Now, he's out of a job as the Colts move forward.

"I think any time something like this comes up, you've got to push it aside and move on," Steichen said. "But the players have been good so far in the building."

AP Pro Football Writers Teresa M. Walker in Nashville, Tennessee and Rob Maaddi and AP Sports Writer Kyle Hightower in Boston also contributed to this report.

Six of baseball's 10 smallest markets come from the Centrals, according to Nielsen, and only Chicago cracks the top 10. Not that small-market clubs can't spend big — San Diego's TV market is comparable to Kansas City, yet the Padres ranked third among opening day payrolls as they try to keep pace with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

No such behemoth in the Midwest has been forcing Central teams to invest and keep pace.

It's shown in the results. No team from either Central division has even reached the League Championship Series since the 2019 St. Louis Cardinals.

But the gap separating the Central from the East and West is even larger than usual this year.

Part of the reason is a change by MLB to balance the schedule, forcing Central teams to play East and West foes more often. The 2023 schedule includes 52 games against division opponents, down from 76 in previous seasons.

It's also noteworthy that the defending AL Central and NL Central champions got off to slow starts.

One year after going 93-69 to win the NL Central, the Cardinals are last in the division with a 33-46 mark. St. Louis' team ERA has soared from 3.79 in 2022 to 4.46 this year.

"We do believe we have a chance at this," Cardinals manager Oliver Marmol said. "But in reality, if we're talking about (making it) sustainable, we're going to have to pitch better and we're going to have to continue to do what we do offensively."

Cleveland fell below .500 on April 29 and has had a losing record since, though it hasn't stopped the Guardians from grabbing the AL Central lead. The .423 combined winning percentage for AL Central teams is on pace to be the worst ever for any major league division, surpassing the AL Central's .436 mark in 2018.

According to Sportradar, the last time an entire division was below .500 this late in the season was the NL West on July 24, 2008. The Los Angeles Dodgers won the NL West that year with an 84-78 record.

The Guardians' issues have centered on a light-hitting offense and injuries in its rotation. The Guardians are leaning on three rookies — including top prospect Gavin Williams — as starters.

Both the Cardinals and Guardians will try to repeat the late surges they made a year ago.

The Cardinals trailed the Brewers by four games on July 30 before going 40-21 down the stretch. The Guardians were under .500 as late as July 13 but went 49-26 the rest of the way — including 16-4 in their last 20 games — to run away with the AL Central by 11 games.

Guardians general manager Mike Chernoff believes that experience can help this year's squad.

"This is a team that I think is dying to be in situations like this," Chernoff said, "and thankfully with where our division is, we've been able to put ourselves in a place where we can continue to compete."

If nobody makes a similar run this year, the AL

Central could make some unfortunate history.

The worst record ever owned by a division champion was 82-80 by the 2005 San Diego Padres.

The .423 combined win percentage for AL Central teams is on pace to be the worst ever for any major league division. The AL Central already holds that record with its .436 combined winning percentage in 2018.

If nothing else, the unsettled nature of the races gives just about every Central division team a reason to believe. Only 5 1/2 games separate the top four teams in the AL Central. The top four teams in the NL Central are within five games of one another, and the last-place Cardinals are only nine back.

Central division teams in both leagues can also take comfort in knowing regular-season records don't mean much as long as you make the playoffs.

The Atlanta Braves won the 2021 World Series and the Philadelphia Phillies captured the 2022 NL pennant after compiling fewer than 90 regular-season victories. Why couldn't a Central team follow a similar path?

"I think we've seen over the last four or five years, plenty of teams with deep runs and championships that weren't necessarily favorites heading into the playoffs or with the highest win total in the regular season," Cubs second baseman Nico Hoerner said.

AP Baseball Writer Stephen Hawkins, AP Sports Writers Josh Dubow, George Henry, Charles Odum and Tom Withers and AP freelance writers Seth Engle and Jeff Miller contributed to this report.

Sherman said the Royals want that sales tax to continue — it would likely be on the ballot in the spring — with the roughly $350 million that it produces in public funding shifted toward the construction of a new stadium.

"Ownership will take the rest," Sherman said. "It's a $2 billion project, probably more when you think of infrastructure."

The Royals also have been in constant communication with the Chiefs, who are going through their own rounds of feasibility studies for Arrowhead Stadium. Like the Royals, their lease expires in 2030-31, and the Chiefs are trying to decide whether the stadium can undergo additional renovations or whether an entirely new stadium should be built.

The Royals quickly dismissed more renovations to Kauffman Stadium, where the concrete is beginning to show irreparable. It remains widely regarded as one of the most picturesque in baseball, but it also has grown antiquated when it comes to premium offerings that generate the sort of revenue that is necessary for teams to compete these days.

"We knew when we bought this team we were approaching the end of a lease with Jackson County. We knew we were in an aging building," Sherman said. "This is the most important thing we'll have the opportunity to do while we have the privilege of being stewards of this franchise. This will be the largest private-public partnership in the history of Kansas City. It has a massive and immediate community impact, and economic impact. That's why we have a great sense of urgency of getting on with it."

Sherman did acknowledge the awkward timing of the project. The Royals are languishing in last place in the AL Central, and are having one of the worst seasons in franchise history, which makes asking for public money a difficult proposition.

But he also doesn't want the Royals to follow in the footsteps of the Athletics, who called Kansas City home before their move to Oakland. The A's tried for decades to get a new ballpark built in the Bay Area, but they are now going through the relocation application process with MLB that could result in the team building a new ballpark in Las Vegas.

"I have about 30 letters on my desk asking to vote 'no' on the transfer of the A's to Las Vegas. That's a process that drug on a long time, and people waited," Sherman said. "We're at warp speed compared to how long these complicated projects usually take. We are down to two sites. We're going to be ready to have that down to one by the end of the summer."

Double

Nicky Lopez singled off Emmanuel Clase (1-5) leading off the bottom of the 10th, moving automatic runner Kyle Isbel to third.

"Whenever I get in the box it's 'how can I get on first base,'" Lopez said. "I take a lot of pride in getting on base, so I was trying to do something."

Drew Waters took a called third strike, bringing up the pitcher's spot in the order created when designated Bobby Witt Jr. replaced Garcia at shortstop on the ninth inning. Fermin lined a pitch into the left-field corner, easily scoring Isbel and allowing Lopez to score standing up.

"I've faced him before," Fermin said. "Just ready for the cutter and the slider, looking for something up and made a good swing."

Clase blew a save for the sixth time in 30 chances.

Cleveland built a 2-0 lead in the fifth on Ramirez's sacrifice fly and Bell's two-out RBI single. Kansas City tied the score in the eighth on Edward Olivares' sacrifice fly and Nick Pratto's two-out, run-scoring single against Trevor Stephan.

Bieber faced two batters over the minimum, working around leadoff doubles in the second and third innings. He allowed just the two hits in six shutout innings and struck out eight, one on Waters' pitch-clock violation that ended the fifth.

"It was a grind," Bieber said. "To be honest, it was one of those games that I look forward to, dealing with adversity."

Royals starter Zack Greinke surrendered 11 hits and two walks, but limited the Guardians to two runs over six innings while stranding eight baserunners. He is 0-4 in 10 starts since beating Baltimore on May 3.

"Mainly just three extra outs on the bases, which helped," Greinke said. "They win a lot of games doing that. It just kind of worked out good for us today."

Naylor had two of the Guardian's 13 hits and is hitting .398 (43 for 108) in his last 26 games.

WHAT'S NEW ON NETFLIX

"The Out-Laws" (2023)

Saddle up for a gunslinging urban adventure with the new Netflix action comedy "The Out-Laws," premiering Friday, July 7. The film stars Adam Devine ("Workaholics") as Owen Browning, a straight-laced bank manager about to marry the love of his life, Parker (Nina Dobrev, "The Vampire Diaries"). But when his bank is held up by the infamous Ghost Bandits during his wedding week, he suspects that his future in-laws, Billy (Pierce Brosnan, "Tomorrow Never Dies," 1997) and Lilly (Ellen Barkin, "Animal Kingdom"), who just arrived in town, are the outlaws in question. From director Tyler Spindel ("The Wrong Missy," 2020) and writers Evan Turner ("Journey to the Center of the Earth," 2008) and Ben Zazove ("Sherlock Gnomes," 2018), "The Out-Laws" is produced by Devine, Allen Covert ("Hustle," 2022) and Adam Sandler ("Murder Mystery 2," 2023). Lauren Lapkus ("Good Girls"), Michael Rooker ("Guardians of the Galaxy," 2014), Poorna Jagannathan ("Never Have I Ever"), Richard Kind ("Argo," 2012), Julie Hagerty ("Airplane!," 1980), Lil Rel Howery ("Get Out," 2017) and Blake Anderson ("Workaholics") also star.

WHAT'S NEW ON PRIME VIDEO

"The Horror of Dolores Roach" - Season 1

Prime Video's newest horror-comedy series, "The Horror of Dolores Roach," premieres on the streaming platform Friday, July 7. Based on the hit Spotify podcast series of the same name, this series is "a contemporary, Sweeney Todd-inspired urban legend of love, betrayal, weed, cannibalism and survival of the fittest in New York City" (per Prime Video). It follows Dolores Roach (Justina Machado, "Six Feet Under") as she is released from an unjust prison sentence after 16 years and returns to a gentrified Washington Heights, where she reunites with her old friend Luis (Alejandro Hernandez, "New Amsterdam"), who lets her live and work as a masseuse in the basement under his empanada shop. But, when the promise of her newfound stability is quickly threatened, Dolores finds herself going to shocking extremes to survive. From creator, writer and executive producer Aaron Mark ("Commentary," 2012), who originally developed the story as a one-woman play called perspectives" (per Disney+). Executive produced by Academy Award-winning director Peter Ramsey ("Spider-Man: Into the Spider-Verse," 2018), "Generation Fire" features films from creators Shofela Coker ("Moremi"), Tafadzwa Hove and Pious Nyenyewa ("Mukudzei"), Raymond Malinga ("Herderboy"), Terrence Maluleke and Isaac Mogajane ("Hatima"), Spoek Mathambo and Terence Neale ("Surf Sangoma"), Tshepo Moche ("First Totem Problems"), Ng'endo Mukii ("Enkai"), Simangaliso 'Panda' Sibaya and Malcolm Wope ("Mkhuzi: The Masked Racer"), Ahmed Teilab ("Stardust") and Lesego Vorster ("You Give Me Heart").

WHAT'S NEW ON MAX

"My Adventures With Superman" - Season 1

The Man of Steel is soaring onto Max Friday, July 7, in the first two episodes of the newest animated series from Warner Bros. Animation and DC, "My Adventures with Superman." Episodes air weekly on Thursdays on Adult Swim, before joining the Max streamer on Fridays. A serialized coming-of-age-story, the show catches up with Clark Kent (voiced by Jack Quaid, "The Boys") in his twenties, as he, Lois Lane (Alice Lee, "Zoey's Extraordinary Playlist") and their best friend, Jimmy Olsen (Ishmel Sahid, "Jury Duty"), discover who they are and everything they can accomplish together as an investigative reporting team at the Daily Planet. As Clark builds his secret identity as Superman, Lois is on her way to becoming an all-star reporter with Jimmy by her side, photographing breaking stories. As they come into their own, the "trio share adventures, take down bad guys, stumble over secrets and discover what it means to be heroes in their own right" (per Warner Bros. Discovery). The series also voice stars Jeannie Tirado ("Soul," 2020), Kiana Madeira ("Fear Street Part 1: 1994," 2021), Azuri Hardy-Jones ("Water Helps the Blood Run") and Michael Yurchak ("Club Dread," 2004).

WHAT'S NEW ON DISNEY+

Myth Infection rates in the U.S. are so low, we don't need to vaccinate.

Fact. Infection rates are so low because vaccination rates are high. When more people are vaccinated, it makes it harder for a disease to spread.

Help build immunity in your community. Keep up to date on COVID, flu, and pneumonia vaccines. Look for vaccine clinics this fall at your senior center.
