City Council passes two fire station models

Central station on Hancock Avenue to be expanded

By Chris Howell
chrish@sedaliademocrat.com

At the Sedalia City Council meeting Monday, June 3, Public Safety Committee Chairman Jack Robinson made the announcement of the committee’s recommendation for fire station placement.

“The Public Safety Committee and city staff have spent considerable time considering both the site and numbers of new fire stations,” Robinson told his fellow council members. “Trying to balance community safety and the reality of what the community can support financially. The conversation has been complicated further by the temporary closure of the Washington Street viaduct.”

Getting emergency services north of the tracks in a timely manner has been a great concern and topic of much discussion by city officials and the Sedalia Fire Department.

US Quality Construction breaks ground on new headquarters

Lt. Gov. Kehoe, Mayor Dawson praise entrepreneurs

By Chris Howell
chrish@sedaliademocrat.com

Monday, June 3, guests assembled under tents erected in a newly mown field off Menefee Road in western Pettis County for the groundbreaking of the US Quality Construction headquarters.

“Today we not only celebrate the groundbreaking of our new headquarters,” host Denis Grigoryev said, “but also the growth and the potential of our community. US Quality was founded with a vision and a desire to make home renovation a great experience. An experience with great attention to detail.”

Grigoryev then welcomed special guests Lt. Gov. Mike Kehoe and Sedalia Mayor Andrew Dawson to the event.

“It’s great to see this many folks come out to celebrate a business expansion and opening in Pettis County and we’re excited to be here today,” Kehoe said. “I understand what it means to say I’m going to invest everything my family’s got and sign on the dotted line to be able to provide more jobs in this case for Missourians and beyond. What this expansion means with this industrial park and what it will do for the company is an incredible step.”

Kehoe recounted his successes as an automobile dealer and passed along some valued advice his own mother had once given.

“She said if you believe in the Lord, and you work hard, you can get what you want in this world,” Kehoe recalled, “and that’s what Vladimir and

Tim have demonstrated over the past several years building this company, and now you see their commitment to go to the next level.”

Kehoe thanked the assembled politicians, state Rep. Brad Pollitt, R-Sedalia, Dawson and Pettis County commissioners Jim Marcum and Bill Taylor, with a small caveat.

“I love the elected officials that are here, but it’s not elected officials that make Missouri great, it’s the people standing here outside and under the tent,” Kehoe said, “and the people that are investing in expanding these jobs that make this state a great place to live, work and raise a family.”

Dawson then took the microphone and addressed the crowd from atop the trailer used as a speaking platform.

“This symbolizes growth, resilience, and the potential of our community,” Dawson said. “US Quality Construction has been a leader in home renovation and exterior remodeling. Their commitment to quality and customer satisfaction has transformed countless homes and improved the lives of many residents. Their expansion into our community is a testament of their belief in our potential, and their commitment to contributing to our shared future.”

Police seeking murder charges after April shooting victim dies

By Chris Howell
chrish@sedaliademocrat.com

An April shooting in Sedalia has turned into a homicide case after the victim died late last month.

At 12:41 a.m. Tuesday, April 9, Sedalia Police Department officers were called to a home in the 400 block of North Prospect Avenue for a reported shooting. They found a woman suffering from a gunshot wound to the neck, and she was flown to a Columbia hospital with serious injuries.

According to a news release issued this week, the victim died in late May due to her injuries.

The release states that updated charges of first-degree murder are being forwarded to the Pettis County Prosecutor’s Office for both Sedalia suspects, 23-year-old Bear Hagston and 29-year-old Kyle P. Henley. Formal charges had not been filed at press time.

“She died from complications from the shooting, and so the charges we are requesting from the Pettis County Prosecutor are for first-degree murder,” Sedalia Police Chief David Woolery told the Democrat on Wednesday, June 5. “It did take a while – we knew right away that Bear Hagston was involved, and Detective Ty Barrett was assigned the investigation and worked extensively and developed charges on Kyle Henley.

“Although we did not know where Mr. Henley was, the Columbia Police Department was also working a case on Mr. Henley and through their investigation, they were able to figure out an address in Sedalia he was staying, and we got a search warrant. With the help of the Mid-Missouri Drug Task Force, both agencies served that search warrant Tuesday morning (June 4) to arrest Mr. Henley.”

Woolery told the Democrat in April that the shooting was “a domestic situation that escalated.”

Law enforcement identified Hagston as a suspect, and detectives were able to get a warrant for his arrest.

Baeza kicks off commissioner reelection campaign

Lt. Gov. Kehoe, Rep. Pollitt endorse candidate

By Chris Howell
chrish@sedaliademocrat.com

A small crowd gathered Monday afternoon, June 3 at the Heckart Community Center for the kick-off of Eastern Commissioner Israel Baeza’s reelection campaign.

Special guests Lt. Gov. Mike Kehoe and state Rep. Brad Pollitt, R-Sedalia, both also campaigning for the 2024 elections, were on hand to praise Baeza and show their support.

“I am running for reelection. It’ll be my last term,” Pollitt told the gathering. “I’ll be terming out of the House of Representatives, and I’ll serve eight years if I win this next election; I do have an opponent. After that, then we may have an announcement later maybe on what our next step is after that.”

Pollitt praised Missouri and the United States, but dropped an ominous warning about the current condition of politics and how he deals with his own growing frustration.

David (Dave) Lee Williams

David (Dave) Lee Williams, of Sedalia, MO, passed away on June 5, 2024. Dave was born on March 10, 1943, in Elkhart, IN, the son of Richard and Rubye (Stump) Williams, who both preceded him in death.

He is the eldest of three children born to Richard and Rubye: his brother Richard Paul Williams of Granger, IN, who survives, and Sue Ellen (Wiser) Williams of Lexington, KY, who passed away on March 10, 1998, were his younger siblings.

Dave was a son, a brother, a husband, a soldier, a father, a step-grandfather, a friend, and a devoted Christian. Dave graduated from Goshen High School in 1961, where he participated in football, basketball, and track. His favorite "subject" was shop class, and all his life, he enjoyed mechanics, building cars, and tinkering in the garage.

After high school, Dave joined the United States Air Force and served his country honorably from 1961 to 1965. His active duty service stationed him at both Whiteman Air Force Base in Knob Noster and Anderson Air Force Base in Guam. While stationed at Whiteman, he met his first wife, Linda (Callis), and married her on December 26, 1965, in Sedalia, MO. From that union, two sons, Darren Lee Williams (Gastonia, NC) and Chad Alan Williams (Kansas City, MO), were born.

In August 1992, Dave married his second wife, Joyce Kathleen Smith, and he was married to her until her death on August 29, 2019. From that marriage, Dave had three stepchildren: Debbie Stotlemeyer (Upham), who preceded him in death, Michael Stotlemeyer (Chilicothe, OH), and Gary Smith (St. Peters, MO). Additionally, Dave is survived by one daughter-in-law, Heather (Rowell) Williams (Gastonia, NC), three nephews, one niece, and seven step-grandchildren. Over 40-plus years, Dave worked at Mike O'Conner Chevrolet, Olin Conductors/Alcan Cable, Parkhurst Mfg., Ditzfeld Transfer, and Caterpillar. His lifelong love affair with cars was most evident by his being a 48-year and charter member of the West Central Missouri Vintage Auto Club and by owning more than 45 cars, including a 1966 Impala Super Sport 427, a custom-built 1929 Model A Ford, a 1955 F-100 Ford Pickup, and two different corvettes. He also enjoyed building 14 Chevrolet high-performance engines in his later years.

In addition to cars, his other passions and joys were derived from his family at First Methodist Church, fishing, golfing, line-dancing, the Moose Lodge, playing cards, and traveling.

One of the greatest things in his last four years has been the companionship and love of Kathy Baker. She reignited his zeal for life, and the last four years of his life have been a joy-filled adventure full of laughter, travel, dancing, swimming, new adventures, and love.

Pallbearers include Gaylon Alfrey, Charles (Bill) Chevalier, Keith Daleen, Mike Green, Mike Hart, and Floyd Hatfield, with honorary pallbearers Phil Brown, Bob Hiller, Mike McDermott, and Charles Roberts. Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Tuesday, June 11, 2024, at the Celebration Center, 1701 W. 32nd St., Sedalia, with the Rev. Candace Fowler officiating. The family will receive friends and loved ones for a visitation from 10 to 11 a.m. prior to the service. The body will be cremated and laid to rest at the Veterans Memorial Cemetery in Higginsville, MO, with full military honors on Thursday, June 13, at noon.

The family asks that donations be made to establish an annual memorial car show in Dave's name in the care of Rea Funeral Home.

Whiteman's Col. Butler speaks at military breakfast

By Faith Bemiss-McKinney

faithb@sedaliademocrat.com

The Sedalia Area Chamber of Commerce's Military Affairs Committee hosted its second annual breakfast on Tuesday, June 4, with special guest speaker Col. Keith Butler, the Whiteman Air Force Base 509th Bomb Wing commander.

Daniel Avegalio, a U.S. Marine veteran and the chair of Military Affairs, spoke to the Democrat before the event began at the First United Methodist Church. He noted the breakfast gathering was an opportunity to unite the community to support the base while at the event hosted at the First United Methodist Church.

"The reason why we do it is to bring our Sedalia community here and to get updates from Whiteman," he added. "Then we will also have updates from other sister squadrons that we support in Sedalia."

Members from the 509th Security Forces, the 509th Maintenance Support Group Staff, the 131st Bomb Wing, and the 442nd Fighter Wing also spoke at the event.

"It's for our Sedalia community to get information," Avegalio explained. "A lot of the group here today will be Sedalia — community leaders and Chamber board."

Butler spoke about Whiteman AFB updates and what is happening globally regarding Global Strike and the B-2 mission. Toward the end of his talk, Butler opened the event for questions, and he gave in-depth information on each.

Sedalia City Administrator Kelvin Shaw asked Butler about Mission Ready Communities.

"A Mission Ready Community is a community that is ready to help support the mission," Butler noted. "Today's fight is different. The next war we're going to fight is going to start in our homes."

He explained the idea of Fencing In, where once one gets to the fence-in point, they write their checklist and execute the mission in hostile territory.

"Today's environment and tomorrow's war, we're going to fence in at home," he explained. "And it's going to start on your phone. It's going to start on your Wi-Fi. You can read story after story after story about what China, North Korea, Russia, and Iran are doing to mess up stuff in a cyber world."

He added that the military needs community support for those deployed and those who have families in the area, including some who may have children in schools. If cell phones go down, they need the community to have support resources ready for their families who are left behind. He cautioned everyone about other cyber intrusions.

"By the way, every one of your phones right now, if you have Siri, Google, or Alexa activated on your phones — your phones are listening and recording my voice right now," Butler said. "Trust me, my voice is not being stored on those phones. It's going somewhere else, and that somewhere else is not in this country."

He added that the microphone is always listening: "That's mission-ready communities." Like the microphone constantly listening, the Sedalia community must always listen and be prepared to support its military families.

Ryan Wiedeman with RE/MAX Realty asked how the military faces the challenges of combat AI — is it helpful or hurtful?

"I can promise you our adversaries are doing it, as are we," Butler said. "From the days when Cain and Abel went at it, it's always been a spy versus spy."

“There’s never been a technology that has been created to facilitate war fighting in the history of mankind that, once created, ever got put away, and (they) said that’s too dangerous,” he continued. “We still have nuclear, biological, chemical, and radiological weapons. You name it, we found ways to kill people and break their stuff. And AI is no different; it’s machine learning, deep understanding, neural processing, and (a) quantum computer.”

He added that AI is absolutely a challenge, which is why he hopes that more young people will work toward STEM degrees.

"It's a vague answer to the question, but the U.S. military and the Air Force have an Innovation Shop on the base," Butler noted. "And they are working on some of those issues as well."

He was also asked about the future of the B-21 coming to Whiteman and if the influx of people associated with it would arrive as a trickle or a rapid influx.

"I think it's probably going to start off as a trickle," he said. "I think it's going to ramp up as we get into the heart of the military construction and then the remodeling and maintenance of the existing infrastructures that we've got

"Ellsworth (AFB) in South Dakota is very neck deep in it right now," he continued. "There's a whole lot of construction to make sure they're ready. We're not going to have quite the impact they are having there, but we will see that impact."

Dave Wiedeman, also with RE/MAX, asked if Whiteman was getting the military budget it needed.

"No," Butler said. "A simple answer to a simple question. But those are decisions that our nation is making, with both discretionary and non-discretionary funds."

"And the answer to the question is, no, we don't have everything that we need," he continued. "And our squadron commanders deal with this every single day."

Butler also issued an advisory to those who support the military and Whiteman AFB. He said to be aware because they are a "target."

“Don’t be surprised if you become a target of information or other issues or influence operations,” he noted. “And that applies to your kids as well. My kids are 19 years old; trust me, our adversaries want access to my kids — they want what’s inside their phones, they want what’s inside their minds. If they get access to my kids, they get access to me.

"Make no mistake, we're in a war today," he continued. "It's not a hot war; we're not trading bullets and missiles ... right now, it's a war for our minds. It's a war for our cognitive abilities. It's a war for how we view the world. Our kids are part of that."

Teaching children that death is a part of life

The baby chick died while I was in the shower.

It waited to be alone, as animals often do, then slipped away quietly while I was washing up. I folded its soft little body into an old cloth and set it aside in the laundry room. The kids were already asleep. The news would have to wait until morning.

Liz Schleicher

with any animal that has died of sickness. And then they turned their attention to the three remaining balls of fluff that thrived and followed their mother all over the yard.

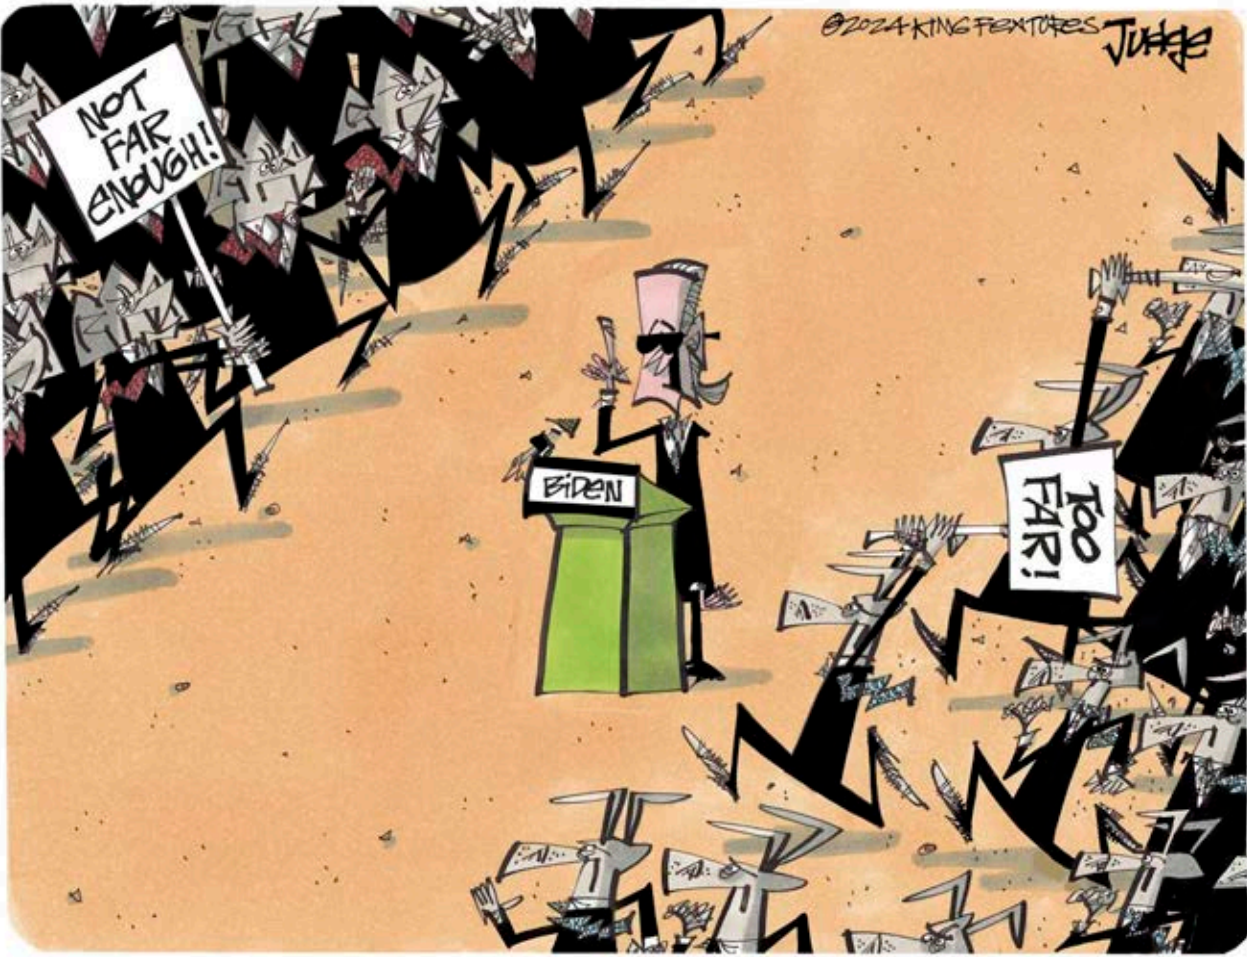

We talk about death and dying a lot at our house. Not just the deaths of baby chicks, but of human beings, too. Daddy's friend who had a heart attack. Mama's loved one with cancer. We take the kids with us to funerals and burials. We pray together for the dead. We talk frankly with them about loss and grief and eternity, and about how death is sad, but without it, suffering would have no end.

You never really know, but it seems like we're doing the right things. Because far from making our household a morbid place to be, we are instead chock full of joyful life: hens and chicks, dogs and cats, bugs and birds and plants, crazy laughing kids.

It is every parent's job to prepare their children to be able to live life without them. For most of us, this means getting them ready to leave the nest and go out into the world to find their own dreams and their own families. As a cancer survivor, for me, there is another, more solemn dimension. It's hopeful, but still tinged with uncertainty. Will I be here in five years? Ten? Will I get to see the graduations and marriages and babies born? I take nothing for granted.

The best I can do now is guide my children through the death of a baby chick. The most I can do is show them that we will do our best to keep these precious fragile things alive, but that we are not in charge, and death, sad as it is, is an ordinary part of life.

Remembering our history can guide us forward

I sit here weeping silently as I watch the commemoration of D-Day – the 80th anniversary of The Longest Day. I think of Charlie Bell, who died a few months before his 100th birthday and who landed on Omaha Beach with 160,000 other U.S. and Allied soldiers. I would have liked it if Charlie could have been in Normandy today, along with his surviving comrades, those heroic veterans of D-Day who remain with us, reminding us of the stakes of that day and of that war.

According to the Associated Press, more than 4,400 soldiers were killed that day alone, including 2,501 Americans. They risked their lives to stop the advancement of a totalitarian government that stood against everything the free world stands for – democracy, freedom, respect for the law, respect for the religious faiths of all, the ability to live without fear of tyranny. One veteran of that day says, "I don't think of myself as a hero. I just did my job." Thanks to those who just did their jobs that day, those who survived, those who didn't, the world became a safer place.

The world's unity became evident after the war: the creation of NATO, the rebuilding of the areas that bombs and conflict had destroyed, the expansion of the idea of voting democracies, increase in global trade – things that made us see that while the world might be getting smaller in one sense, it was expanding in other good ways.

The United States was seen as a leader in these endeavors. Our country paved the way in re-establishing safety and prosperity in all corners of the world, all the while encouraging democracies to take hold in countries where authoritarianism had been the rule. We have steadfastly held that place for 80 years. We must continue to do so for many reasons, not the least of which is to honor those who, as Abraham Lincoln said, "... gave the last full measure of devotion – [and to again say] ... these dead shall not have died in vain ..."

We do that by upholding what those who bravely faced almost certain death on June 6, 1944, fought for: the right and obligation to vote, the right to be free from overbearing laws that constrain what we say, the importance of a free press, the right to worship whatever deity we choose and to be free from the government's imposition of a particular religion on us, and freedom from unlawful search and seizure. And, most importantly, respect for the law that binds us together in common purpose: to live in harmony with our neighbors, whether they be next door or in the next town or state over.

Our country currently exists in a fraught and, I fear, perilous time when much is at stake, including our very essence as a country that respects and lives by the rule of law. Remembering our history, especially the time that the United States, and I mean this literally, saved the world, can be guidance for a path forward. I hope we can use this solemn anniversary to rededicate ourselves to that task – to create a more perfect union.

You may be surprised that I've said little about Donald Trump's conviction on 34 felony counts. I have said little because a jury heard all the evidence and made its decision. I did not hear all the evidence, although I read some of it in daily transcripts; therefore, I am not competent to comment on the results.

Trump's charges weren't instigated by "Biden's Justice Department," as social media spews. Donald Trump was indicted by a New York State grand jury, which has nothing to do with the Justice Department. The Justice Department is, however, prosecuting Joe Biden's son Hunter, whose trial is currently underway. He is charged with lying on a federal form to purchase a gun. That trial will end, and a jury will determine his fate. Some people will like the verdict; some won't.

The result, though, is the same: Only the jury hears all the evidence. They reach the verdict. In Donald Trump's case, they did. In Hunter Biden's case, they will.

It's the law.

Empty lots and missing stores

As I drive around Sedalia these days, the neighborhoods look nothing like they did when I was young.

The block on East Fifth Street where I grew up, for example, used to have seven houses on it; there are now just two. Some of the other blocks where my friends lived when we were growing up have none. I admit the houses that replaced some of them are better than the ones that filled the blocks in the '40s and '50s, but the little one- and two-bedroom houses were homes to people I knew and visited back then.

It is the same with stores that were around back then but are gone now. Many of the places where mom-and-pop stores once stood are now parking lots or vacant lots. An example of this is the parking lot on East Engineer Avenue and Seventh Street across from Washington Elementary School. Washington School uses it as its parking lot now. It used to be a big grocery store where I could get a candy bar at recess if I were lucky enough to have a nickel.

Changes are going on all the time, and I saw more of that change today as I drove by the empty lot where they had just torn down the Long John Silver's building on South Limit Avenue. The lot will not be empty for long, I am sure, and the kids who come along now will never know there was a Long John Silver's there.

The buildings on Ohio Avenue have changed so much that a time traveler from the '40s, '50s or '60s would be lost trying to navigate it now. Landmarks that were so prominent in those days in downtown Sedalia, like the Uptown Theater, Crown Drug Store, TG&Y, J.C.

Penney, and Woolworths, are not there anymore. If he went into the Third National Bank, his confusion would be compounded when he was confronted by disc jockeys instead of tellers.

I am sure he would be begging to go back to his own time, when Knight's TV still sold televisions, Roy Rogers was playing at the Uptown, and George the Greek still served the best coney dog anywhere. Like me, our time traveler has nothing against progress, but would it have hurt to leave a couple of mom-and-pop stores?

“There’s forces within this country that are attacking the moral values that we hold true, and I’m not angry – if you want to vote for somebody that’s going to scream and yell and be angry, it’s not me,” Pollitt admitted. “I am concerned. I think common sense goes a long way to solve problems. If you don’t try to forge relationships with people at the capital or the federal level, then it’s hard to solve problems. We see a lot of angry folks and they have a right to be angry, but that’s not going to solve any issues, it’s not going to get people on your side.”

Pollitt went on to endorse Baeza and the working relationship he has with all three Pettis County commissioners.

“I had a good relationship with Israel, with all the commissioners,” Pollitt declared. “I appreciate working with them over the last six years. They have my cell phone number, I have theirs. They call me when they have a concern, I call them when I have a question.”

Kehoe, hoping to win the Missouri gubernatorial election, even expressed a bit of jealousy over the bonds formed between the local politicians.

“Although I don’t have Brad Pollitt’s cell number, so I’m gonna have to get that from Israel when I’m done here,” Kehoe quipped. “I know Israel would tell you the same thing, but since I’ve met him several years ago, I believe I was maybe in the state Senate when we first met, and he announced he was going to run for this job, I said that’s fantastic. Lo and behold, the guy worked his tail off and won and after he did that, we interacted on a lot of things that were happening in the Pettis County area because he was always very involved. When everybody’s at the state capital, he’s there on behalf of you guys. He’s talking about what’s important to families in Pettis County.”

Finally, candidate Baeza took the microphone to thank his supporters and encourage them to vote for him in the Republican primary a few months from now.

“It means so much to see so many of you guys here today,” Baeza said. “It’s such an honor to see so many friends, supporters, elected officials, and community leaders here to show their support as we move Pettis County forward, and it takes all of us to move our county forward in the right direction. I’m here to ask for your vote, but I’m also asking here to ask for your help in getting that vote out. When we ran in 2020, we were lucky that Pettis County spoke loud and clear when they gave us a victory with 54% of the vote in a three-way race, and we won every single precinct both rural and in the cities.”

Baeza said it was important he continue the work he started and be reelected as Pettis County Eastern Commissioner.

Baeza, a Republican, was nominated by the Pettis County Republican Committee in October 2018 and appointed by Gov. Mike Parson in November 2018 to fill a vacancy left by former Eastern Commissioner Brent Hampy. He served the remainder of Hampy’s term, which ended in 2020, and he was elected to a full term that year. Baeza, of Sedalia, is now seeking his second full term.

He will face Leonard Salmons and Bob Ramey, both Republicans from Sedalia, in the Aug. 6 primary election. The winner of that race will appear on the Nov. 5 general election ballot, although there is no Democratic opposition for eastern commissioner.

Absentee voting for the August primary begins June 25 and no-excuse absentee voting begins July 23.

Roughly two days after the shooting, he was arrested in the Longwood area of Pettis County by the U.S. Marshals Fugitive Task Force. The Mid-Missouri Drug Task Force and the Pettis County Sheriff’s Office K-9 and drone units were also part of the arrest operation.

Sedalia detectives were able to develop a second suspect, Henley, and a warrant was issued for his arrest. During a month-long investigation working with Columbia Police Department detectives, it was determined the second suspect was living in Sedalia. Detectives with the Crime Resolution Unit and Mid-Missouri Drug Task Force were granted a search warrant to look for Henley.

Sedalia officers and task force members arrested Henley on Tuesday, June 4 in the 1400 block of South Harrison Avenue while executing the search warrant.

Woolery expressed his relief the horrific crime has found some resolution in the newly requested murder charges.

“It’s completely unacceptable and that’s something that we will target and put forth whatever manhours and manpower we need to get resolved and get these people in jail,” Woolery said. “Detective Barrett put a lot of work in, he does on all those cases, but he put a lot of work into this, and a lot of effort and members of the CRU and the Mid-Missouri Drug Task Force also assisted and Columbia Police Department. It was a good effort all around and we’re appreciative of their work.”

Hagston is already charged with first-degree assault, armed criminal action and unlawful use of a weapon. He remains at the Pettis County Jail on no bond.

Henley is already charged with accessory to first-degree assault, accessory to armed criminal action, accessory to unlawful use of a weapon, and hindering prosecution of a felony. He is at the Pettis County Jail on a $100,000 bond.

The development of the soon-to-be-constructed 35-acre commercial park, a $10 million investment, will provide 40 new jobs with a state-of-the-art supply center that will enhance both the local economy and the quality of services available locally.

“US Quality Construction’s investment in the community demonstrates their confidence in our future and dedication in being part of our growth story,” Dawson said. “The impact of this project extends beyond the economic benefits. It symbolizes the power of collaboration between local business, government, and community members. Together, we are building a brighter future.”

Founder Vladimir Tutevich, a Ukrainian immigrant, then related his own American success story.

“When I was 19 years old, I stepped on American soil. I had $9 in my pocket and no place to stay,” Tutevich recalled. “God had a different plan for me, and from the first day I stepped on this American soil, I seek his presence in my life. I have a beautiful wife, he blessed us with eight kids, and I praise God for his blessings in my life.”

Tutevich explained the slow but steady progress in construction after he landed his first big job in St.

Louis and hired 10 young men from Sedalia to help. Keeping those employees working quickly became his focus.

“Our goal was not to make a lot of money,” Tutevich said. “Our goal was to give an opportunity for our people to work for US Quality Construction. It was a blessed time. This new headquarters is more than just a building, it stands for our promise to be leaders in construction and create job opportunities not just here but where our branches are located.”

Tutevich turned the microphone to CEO Tim Kondratyuk for closing comments before priests blessed the site and the first shovels of dirt were turned.

“Today marks a significant milestone in the life of US Quality Construction. We started with really humble beginnings, every day was a challenge for us,” Kondratyuk said. “Most people, they’ve told us whenever we’re beginning, who during COVID starts a business? This is our first-ever building that we’re building for US Quality Construction. Although we plan to set more up around the nation, this one will always be memorable as this is our start. From this building, many stories will be told, many legends will be made, and I’m really honored to be here today, standing here with our team.”

Chris Howell can be reached at 660-530-0146.

US Quality Construction’s new headquarters was blessed Monday by clergy during the afternoon groundbreaking event. Lt. Gov Mike Kehoe and Sedalia Mayor Andrew Dawson praised the new construction for bringing good jobs and bright futures for local working families.

Public Safety Committee Chairman Jack Robinson recommended the Sedalia City Council accept a two-station model for fire coverage in the city. Councilwoman Tina Boggess said the plan, which does not include a station north of the Union Pacific track, was acceptable if not ideal.

In the two-station model approved by the Sedalia City Council on Monday, the Central Fire Station, 600 S. Hancock Ave., would be renovated and expanded with a new training facility.

Models

“In response to that closing,” Robinson said, “city staff has put into effect a plan including use of cameras and temporary placement of fire vehicles across the track that alleviates the immediate problem of trains blocking access.”

With the closed bridge not allowing equipment over stopped trains, solutions had to be found. A third fire station north of the tracks was the solution Second Ward Councilwoman Tina Boggess had been pushing.

“My first year on council, I was a big advocate for revitalizing the station over on Hancock, once I made a tour of that, and they did do a lot of updates and upkeep,” Boggess told the Democrat on Thursday, June 6. “However, we knew that it was not going to be a long-term thing to complete. But I am disappointed that we’re not going to go to a three-station model, however, I do understand that it is very costly to do that.”

“The Public Safety Committee’s unanimous consensus is that we should proceed with a two-station model,” First Ward Councilman Robinson said Monday night. “Building the new station and training center behind the current Central station (600 S. Hancock Ave.). This way, the financing and design can be combined with the new aquatic facility and bowling alley, thereby saving considerable money.”

Over the past months, research on emergency response times in Sedalia found that building a new station elsewhere uncovered a broader area than it covered, necessitating the construction of the third station. This, the committee said, would require a tax increase they did not believe the community would support.

“The Public Safety Committee, therefore, makes the motion that we proceed with this plan,” Robinson said.

The City Council then voted unanimously to proceed with the committee’s recommendation of the two-station model.

Boggess told the Democrat that while she was disappointed, she could endorse the plan because it ensured the safety of her constituents on the north side of Sedalia.

“The plan that they have in place right now, I believe, will be sufficient for the time being of covering Sedalia completely,” Boggess said. “The camera system that we’re putting into place, the communication that we now have with Union Pacific Railroad, all of that improves the probability of them being able to get us in time. Would we prefer a station or a satellite station? Yes. Can we live with what they’re saying they’ll do? Yes. Would we like to see that station over there? Absolutely.”

With public safety paramount, Boggess received reassurance from Sedalia Fire Chief Matt Irwin that the community north of the railroad tracks would be taken care of.

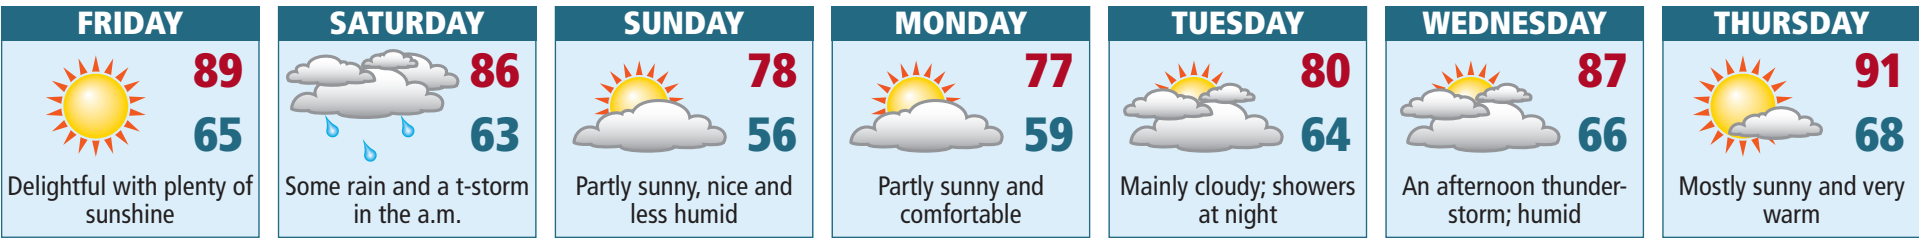

“The decisions are sometimes very hard to accept,” Boggess admitted, “but we’ve got to make them, we’ve got to accept them, and move on.”

Travelers' bats heat up in sweep of Lee's Summit

By Jack Denebeim
jackd@sedaliademocrat.com

The Sedalia Post 642 Travelers outscored the Lee's Summit Post 189 Outlaws 27-5 in the team's doubleheader sweep Tuesday, June 4.

The Travelers took Game 1 11-1 in five innings and then won the second game 16-4 in six innings.

Head coach Connor Spunaugle said it was nice to see the bats heat up after a bit of a slow start to the season. In the team's first four games before Tuesday, the Travelers were averaging just 3.5 runs per game.

"It's the first time we've been together and the first live pitching we've seen in a couple of weeks for most of them," Spunaugle said. "It's good to take a couple of lumps and be able to rebound the way we did tonight."

Infielder Ty Ollison said the Travelers did a nice job of being efficient at the plate.

"We weren't swinging at the bad ones, we were swinging at the good ones and putting a barrel on it," Ollison said.

Ollison was the main catalyst for the Travelers offense Tuesday night as he went a combined five for eight with six RBIs across the two games.

"I was hitting the ball very well. I was taking the bad pitches and hitting the good ones. My bat was going good today," Ollison said about his night.

Ollison went three for four with four RBIs in the first game of the doubleheader. He singled with the bases loaded in the second inning to score two runs, and then singled in the fourth and fifth innings to bring in a run in each inning.

Avyn Burkhart and Tanner Johnson also helped the Travelers' cause in Game 1 as both players recorded two hits, while Burkhart scored three runs.

In the second game of the doubleheader, a couple of Lincoln Cardinals led the way at the plate for the Travelers as Hunter Vandaveer and Camden Everhart each recorded three hits and three RBIs.

Vandaveer said the good night at the plate was a nice turnaround for him.

"I got to see the ball a lot better than last weekend," Vandaveer said, referring to the team's trip to Joplin for the Missouri Southern State University Classic Tournament. "It didn't go the way I wanted it to last weekend, but this went way better."

Vandaveer brought in the first run of the second game for the Travelers with a single in the first inning. He then singled again in the fourth inning to score another run before hitting a double in the fifth inning that scored another run.

Everhart's highlight of the night came when he roped a double into the left-centerfield gap in the sixth inning that scored two runs for the Travelers.

While he was happy to see the big numbers in the scoring column for the Travelers, Spunaugle said it was another statistic that caught his eye.

"We had no errors in either game tonight. That's the big thing for me," Spunaugle said. "We're not going to score like this every night. We don't have that kind of firepower, but our strength is going to be pitching and defense. So, to see zero errors in both games is huge for us."

Josh Hagle said playing clean baseball was a major uplifter for the team.

"We didn't have any errors in the field today, which boosted our confidence, boosted our teamwork and boosted our energy all over," Hagle said.

Lincoln, the district runner-ups, also had six players receive All-District honors. Seniors Lexie Dulaban and Courtney Stephens, and juniors Braylin Paxton and Alyssa Mellen were named to the All-District First Team while sophomores Rebekah Helland and Cadence Harvey were named to the All-District Second Team.

Juniors Mikensey DeVorss and Abby Warner, and sophomore Kayden Box represented Green Ridge on the All-District First Team as well.

Sedalia Post 642 Junior Legion crushes Oak Grove

By Jack Denebeim
jackd@sedaliademocrat.com

Not much went wrong for the Sedalia Post 642 Junior Legion baseball team Wednesday night.

The team made quick work of Oak Grove Post 379 in their doubleheader on June 5 as they won the first game 17-0 in three innings and the second game 17-4 in four innings.

Head coach Alex Lang said it was great to see the team keep their foot on the gas across both games.

"We kind of struggled with that in our last two series. We come out for one, but then we come out flat in the second one," Lang said. "So, it was good to see our guys come out and put up 34 runs in seven innings."

Infielder Jayden Archibeque credited the dugout for keeping the energy up all night, which helped the team light up the scoreboard.

"Our offense really kicked off all of a sudden when we got the energy up, and then we just started swinging the bats," Archibeque said.

Leading the way offensively for Post 642 was Elliot Nieters. Across the two games of the doubleheader, Nieters went five for seven with seven RBIs.

Nieters said he was so successful at the plate Wednesday night because of his aggressive approach.

"I just went out there attacking the first pitch. I attacked the first strike I saw," Nieters said. "For most of the at-bats, the first pitch was right there, so I was just out there in attack mode."

In Game 1 of the doubleheader, Nieters drove in three of the team's 13 first-inning runs as he singled and doubled in the inning.

Late UCM AD Hughes enshrined in MIAA Hall of Fame

By Joe Andrews
joea@warrensburgstarjournal.com

The legacy of former University of Central Missouri Vice President for Intercollegiate Athletics Jerry Hughes had another spotlight moment as a member of the MIAA Hall of Fame's 2024 induction class.

Hughes and the 11 other inductees were honored during the MIAA Awards Ceremony Celebration on Monday, June 3, at the Kansas City Music Hall.

Hughes' wife, Vici, and son, Greg, accepted the enshrinement on behalf of the Hughes family.

Jerry Hughes served as UCM's athletic director for 40 years before he died Jan. 21, 2023. Under his direction, the Mules and Jennies claimed 179 MIAA titles and 10 national championships. UCM also had 50 other top-four NCAA finishes, along with more than 300 NCAA postseason appearances.

"He wouldn't have retired forever, I think," Vici Hughes told awards emcee and Kansas City Star sportswriter Blair Kerkhoff during the ceremony. "He was not going to retire. He loved being on a college campus, a university campus. It kept him young. He was with the coaches, and he loved every part of that. He really enjoyed the student-athletes and being the person on campus that they could turn to for everything."

Vici Hughes added that student-athletes were extended members of the Hughes family.

"When I would meet parents, I would tell them we had four children, but we really had 535 children," Vici Hughes said. "I wanted those parents to feel like Jerry was going to take care of them. He did in every aspect."

Greg Hughes mentioned a number of names from around UCM, the MIAA and the NCAA that Jerry Hughes interacted with during his tenure.

Those included former UCM Associate Vice President for Intercollegiate Athletics Kathy Anderson, Pittsburg State Athletic Director/former MIAA Commissioner Jim Johnson and former MIAA Commissioner/Northwest Missouri State AD Bob Boerigter.

Greg Hughes also named Central Missouri women's basketball head coach Dave Slifer, University of Houston football coach/former UCM head coach Willie Fritz, St. Louis University baseball head coach/former UCM head coach Darin Hendrickson, Arkansas baseball head coach/former UCM head coach Dave Van Horn and Emporia State baseball head coach/former UCM head coach Brad Hill.

"All of these people, in terms of their support, was overwhelming," Greg Hughes said.

Vici Hughes carried the conversation of recognition further, mentioning the NCAA and NACDA.

She also recognized UCM Athletics and Vice President for Intercollegiate Athletics Matt Howdeshell alongside MIAA Commissioner Mike Racy, MIAA Senior Associate Commissioner Amber Feldman and the University of Central Missouri administration.

"[Jerry] was friends with the MIAA community, he was friends with the commissioners and I have to give a shout-out to the officials," Vici Hughes said. "He took care of the officials so well. I have to say, on the basketball court,

I made them see things they just missed. Sometimes they need that help, they just needed one more person to see a foul they might've missed. Then I became friends with them. Then I stopped doing it because I was like, 'oh my gosh, I know these folks as well as Jerry did.' They didn't need any help. They really didn't."

The Hall of Fame is the second Jerry Hughes has been inducted into in recent months.

In February, he was enshrined into the UCM Athletics Hall of Fame. He will also be enshrined into the NACDA Hall of Fame on Monday, June 10.

He also recently received the NCAA Division II 50th Anniversary Gold Award, an award given to an individual who made a lasting and positive impact on all of NCAA Division II.

In 2005, he was inducted into the Missouri Sports Hall of Fame, which also named him a Missouri Sports Legend in 2016.

The University of Central Missouri Multipurpose

Building was rededicated as the Jerry M. Hughes Athletics Center in February.

The MIAA also created the Jerry Hughes Rising Star Award. Jeff Mason, now in his first month as an associate athletic director at Southern Mississippi, received the honor in March.

Chiefs lineman taken to hospital after cardiac event

By Dave Skretta

Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Kansas City Chiefs backup B.J. Thompson was taken to a hospital in stable condition Thursday after the defensive lineman experienced a cardiac event during a team meeting, a person familiar with the situation told The Associated Press.

The person, speaking to the AP on condition of anonymity because they were not authorized to discuss the event, said team trainers and medical staff were able to react quickly and treat Thompson until paramedics arrived.

The Chiefs planned to wrap up their voluntary offseason workouts on Thursday, but a team spokesman said the practice would be pushed to Friday. That is when Chiefs coach Andy Reid and other players will speak to reporters.

The 27-year-old Thompson was a fifth-round pick of the Chiefs out of Stephen F. Austin in last year's draft. The only game Thompson appeared in was their regular-season finale against the Los Angeles Chargers, when Kansas City already had clinched its playoff spot and the game's outcome was meaningless. Thompson had two tackles in that game.

Doris Burke recognizes history of calling NBA Finals

By Joe Reedy
Associated Press

Doris Burke has been a mentor to many female analysts and announcers. However, it will be one of the announcers who helped pave the way for Burke to eventually become the first woman to serve as a game analyst on TV for a championship final in one of the four major professional U.S. sports leagues who will be watching with pride Thursday night.

Before calling Game 1 of the NBA Finals between the Dallas Mavericks and Boston Celtics, Burke said Robin Roberts was one of her biggest influences when she was starting out as an analyst calling women's college basketball games.

Roberts, the co-host of ABC's "Good Morning America," said Burke's acknowledgement of those who came before her has been among her best qualities.

ESPN's Doris Burke looks on before the start of an NBA basketball game between the Utah Jazz and Golden State Warriors Wednesday, Feb. 9, 2022, in Salt Lake City. Burke will become the first woman to serve as a game analyst on television for a championship final in one of the four major professional U.S. sports leagues on Thursday night, June 6, 2024, when the Dallas Mavericks meet the Boston Celtics in Game 1 of the NBA Finals. FILE PHOTO BY RICK BOWMER | AP PHOTO

"What I really appreciate about Doris is that she is respectful and acknowledging those who came before her and who helped pave the way. She knows how her being there is going to make a difference, as I and others have made a difference, for her to be where she is," Roberts said.

Burke, who joined ESPN in 1990, has covered the finals since 2009. She was a sideline reporter for ABC's coverage from 2009-19 before serving as an analyst on ESPN Radio for the past four finals.

Burke knows this year's assignment is different.

"My focus is in preparing for the games in front of me. ... But I would be lying if I didn't tell you that I am sort of mindful that there is something meaningful here, right," she said. "And the meaning for me would be if, in some way, this assignment makes life for women in sports easier or somehow aids in their process, then nothing could be more meaningful.

"Anybody calling their first NBA Finals game would probably be nervous, and I think if I allow my mind to drift too much into that space, it will make that nervousness a little bit worse."

Ann Meyers Drysdale, the first woman to work an NBA game for one of the broadcast networks in 1997 for NBC, said Burke has deserved this opportunity.

"She's worked hard. Somebody has given her an opportunity, she's taken it and been productive," Meyers said.

Burke has also acknowledged she feels "fortunate to be operating at the point in history within which I'm operating." Quite simply, she saw the experiences Roberts and Meyers went through breaking barriers while also forging their own path. But Burke is also in a position to mentor analysts and announcers who are coming up.

"I say it every time I see her and Ann Meyers Drysdale. I wouldn't have the role and the position that I have without them not only having done the job, but doing it with so much competence and diligence," said Sarah Kustok, an analyst for Brooklyn Nets games on YES Network. "How she has thrived in that role has set the table for so many of us."

Burke's influence goes beyond basketball. Jessica Mendoza said she pushed management at ESPN to start doing baseball after seeing Burke call a game. Mendoza started doing MLB games in 2015, was part of "Sunday Night Baseball" from 2016 to '19, and has done the World Series on ESPN Radio since 2020.

"When I heard Doris on an NBA game as an analyst, not a reporter, it just completely changed my thoughts about my own position but also women in general that have played the sport," Mendoza said. "She has helped me out with advice and how to approach things like she experienced her first few years. You know, all the questions that I can only ask a handful of women in the world."

During a conference call this week, Burke did not get emotional discussing her milestone, but in praising her teammates — announcer Mike Breen and analyst JJ Reddick.

Breen will be calling his 19th finals, but his first since 2006 where Jeff Van Gundy hasn't been an analyst. Van Gundy and Mark Jackson were laid off last July as part of job cuts by the network. Breen, Van Gundy and Jackson called 15 finals together.

Last August, Breen, Burke and Doc Rivers were announced as ESPN's main NBA team. Those plans changed in late January when Rivers left to coach the Milwaukee Bucks.

"He's never said it's been difficult, but knowing Mike and the position he's been put in, you know, this probably has not been easy, necessarily, throughout the course of the year," Burke said. "There's points at which Mike has navigated us through spaces, and I am incredibly appreciative. JJ has been as good a teammate on the air and off as I could possibly hope for."

Marcano, Porter betting scandals are hardly firsts in pro sports

By The Associated Press

Sports and gambling are once again in the spotlight following lifetime bans handed to San Diego Padres infielder Tucupita Marcano and Toronto Raptors forward Jontay Porter.

MLB said Marcano placed 387 baseball bets totaling more than $150,000 with a legal sportsbook in 2022 and 2023. The 24-year-old Venezuelan with 149 games of major league experience became the first active player in a century banned for life because of gambling.

New York Giants outfielder Jimmy O’Connell in 1924 was the last active major leaguer banned for life under the sport’s gambling provision. Pete Rose, baseball’s career hits leader, agreed to a lifetime ban in 1989 after an investigation concluded he bet on Cincinnati Reds games while managing the team.

Oakland Athletics pitcher Michael Kelly was also suspended for one year on Tuesday for betting on baseball while in the minor leagues, and three minor leaguers also were banned for one year for betting on big league games: pitchers Jay Groome of San Diego and Andrew Saalfrank of Arizona, and infielder José Rodríguez of Philadelphia. Each of those four players wagered under $1,000. Saalfrank and Rodríguez played previously in the majors.

Those bans came nearly two months after an NBA probe found Porter disclosed confidential information to sports bettors and wagered on games, even betting on the Raptors to lose. Here is a glance at other betting scandals involving professional sports:

— In 1920, a Chicago grand jury indicted eight members of the Chicago White Sox on charges of fixing the 1919 World Series, which became known as the “Black Sox Scandal.” White Sox owner Charles Comiskey immediately suspended the eight players, including “Shoeless” Joe Jackson, and they were banned permanently a year later by newly appointed baseball commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis. Although a jury returned a not guilty verdict on all charges against the eight, their ban from baseball remains in place.

— In 1946, Hockey hall of famer Babe Pratt was suspended for gambling before being reinstated weeks later, with the NHL Board of Governors issuing a warning that any further instances of gambling would lead to a player’s lifetime suspension.

— In 1948, Billy Taylor and Don Gallinger were issued lifetime bans from the NHL for betting on hockey games.

— In 1951, 35 active and former players were accused of fixing at least 86 games between 1947 and 1951. Among those implicated were four members of the Adolph Rupp-coached Kentucky Wildcats, accused of taking bribes from gamblers ahead of an NIT game against Loyola during the 1948-49 season. An NCAA investigation found several violations, which led to the cancella-

Pittsburgh Pirates shortstop Tucupita Marcano (30) in the first inning during a baseball game against the Arizona Diamondbacks, Saturday, July 8, 2023, in Phoenix. Major League Baseball has permanently banned Marcano Tuesday, June 4, 2024, for betting on baseball and suspended the four other players for one year after finding the players placed unrelated bets with a legal sportsbook.

tion of Kentucky’s 1952-53 season.

— In 1980, two Italian soccer teams were relegated and five others penalized for their involvement in a match-fixing scandal that was dubbed “Totone-ro.” Most notably, Paolo Rossi was banned for two years for his involvement while playing for Perugia.

— In 1981, Former Boston College basketball player Rick Kuhn and four others, including New York mobster Jimmy Burke, were convicted of conspiring to fix basketball games in the 1978-79 season.

— In 1985, Tulane suspended its basketball program in the wake of point-shaving and other allegations. The school resumed basketball for the 1989-90 season.

— In 1989, Pete Rose agreed to a lifetime ban after an investigation for MLB by lawyer John Dowd found Rose placed numerous bets on the Cincinnati Reds to win from 1985-87 while playing for and managing the team. Now 82, baseball’s all-time leader with 4,256 hits remains ineligible for induction into Cooperstown, and has numerous requests for reinstatement denied.

— In 1996, 13 Boston College football players were suspended for gambling, including two who bet against B.C. in a 45-17 loss to Syracuse. Coach Dan Henning, who informed school officials upon hearing allegations of players placing bets with bookies, resigned. No evidence of point-shaving was found.

— In 2007, current Vancouver Canucks coach Rick Tocchet was placed on two years probation after pleading guilty to conspiracy and promoting gambling while serving as an assistant coach with the Coyotes. He was reinstated by the NHL the following year. Also initially implicated in a gambling scheme titled “Operation Slapshot” involving a New Jersey-based ring were several players, Wayne Gretzky’s wife, Janet Jones, and Gretzky’s former agent and then Coyotes GM Michael Barnett.

— In 2008, NBA referee Tim Donaghy pleaded guilty to wire fraud and transmitting betting information for taking thousands of dollars from a gambler for inside tips on games, including games he worked. He was sentenced by a federal judge to 15 months behind bars.

— In 2019, former Wales men’s rugby team captain Rob Howley was sent home on the eve of the Rugby World Cup, where he was to work as an assistant coach. Howley had made 363 bets, including on Wales’ 2019 Six Nations Grand Slam decider against Ireland. He was suspended from rugby for 18 months.

— In 2021, England defender Kieran Trippier was banned for 10 weeks after providing insider information on his potential transfer to friends who were then betting on the outcome.

Hagle helped the defense’s cause in the first game as he took the mound for the Travelers and pitched all five innings while only allowing one run and struck out eight batters.

“I had great command of my fastball. So, I just challenged them to see if they could hit the ball and if they couldn’t, it is what it is, but I let my defense work and we got the job done,” Hagle said. Owen Caton took the mound in Game 2 and pitched four innings, gave up two runs and struck out four batters. The sweep of the Outlaws got the Travelers back to the .500 mark after the team started the season 1-3. Ollison said he thinks the two wins will establish some momentum for the team moving forward. “It’s very good for our team and boosts our confidence a lot going into tomorrow and the rest of the week,” Ollison said Tuesday. The Travelers hit the road to play against Fike Post 499 Wednesday, June 5. The team split the doubleheader as they lost the first game 9-8, but won the second game 8-6. The Travelers (4-4) will compete in the Sedalia Round Robin Tournament Saturday, June 8, and Sunday, June 9, at Liberty Park Stadium. Sports editor Jack Denebeim can be reached at 660-530-0142.

Caden Homan and Talon Newell also doubled in the inning to bring in three more runs for Post 642. Homan went three for three at the plate in Game 1.

Sedalia scored four more runs in the second to end the game via the 15-run mercy rule in the third inning.

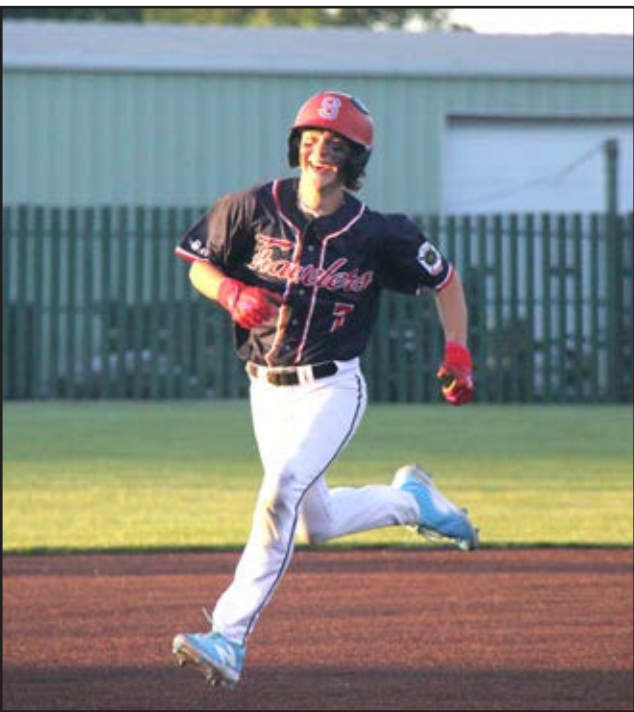

In the second game, Post 642 benefited from a couple of big innings as the team put up five runs in the second inning and then nine runs in the fourth inning.

Archibeque got things going in the second inning with his first of two triples in the game. Then, Newell singled to score Archibeque.

Homan and Nieters also had hits that scored runs in the second inning. Homan hit a double with the bases loaded to score three runs.

In the fourth inning, Quentin Madrid started things off with a two-run double. Then, Corbett Tanner hit a bases-clearing double to end the game via the 10-run mercy rule after four innings.

After the team suffered two recent losses, Nieters said it was nice to get back on the right track in such a strong way.

“It really boosts our energy and morale in the dugout because those are two losses that we probably should’ve won,” Nieters said. “So, getting these two monster wins is a big boost for our morale and energy.”

The sweep pushes Sedalia’s record to 7-2 on the season. Lang said the team has really come together to have a strong start to the summer.

“We’ve had really, really good starting pitching and that’s what’s kept us in most of our ballgames,” Lang said. “Then, we’ve had good enough hitting to get us those wins. So it’s been a team effort from our pitching staff to our defense to our hitters.”

The Junior Legion team will play in the Springfield Tournament starting Friday, June 7.

— In the NFL, at least 15 players have been suspended by the league for gambling violations. The list dates to 1963, when two eventual hall of famers, Green Bay halfback Paul Hornung and Detroit defensive tackle Alex Karras, were suspended for the season for betting on league games. In 2022, the NFL suspended then Atlanta receiver Calvin Ridley for the entire season for gambling on NFL games a year earlier while away from the Falcons addressing mental health concerns.

— In May 2023, Brazil’s lower house of Congress opened a probe into a soccer match-fixing scandal. It is the third investigation into evidence of wrongdoing by soccer players who allegedly made sure to get bookings and gave away penalties in exchange for bribes.

— Last summer, six-time major tournament-winning golfer Phil Mickelson was alleged to have wagered more than $1 billion over the last three decades, and wanted to place a $400,000 bet on the 2012 Ryder Cup, while representing Team USA, in a book written by renowned gambler Billy Walters. A month later, Mickelson wrote in a lengthy social media post that he has stopped gambling, and acknowledging his betting habits crossed the line from moderation to addiction. Mickelson denied ever betting on the Ryder Cup.

— Soccer players Ivan Toney of Brentford, Sandro Tonali of Newcastle and Nicolò Fagioli of Juventus have all served gambling bans this season. Fagioli was banned for seven months by the Italian soccer federation. Italian player Tonali was banned for 10 months last year for betting on teams he played for.

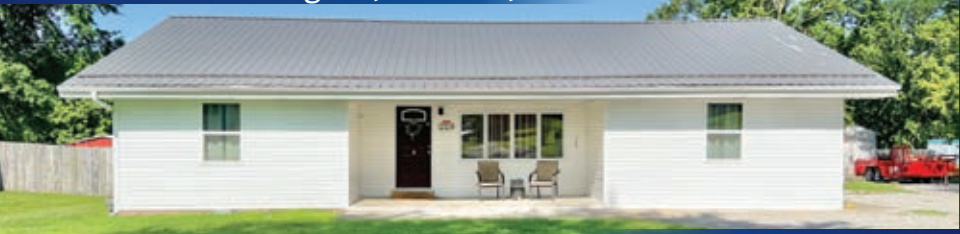

— In October, the NHL issued a 41-game suspension to Ottawa Senators forward

Shane Pinto for sports gambling. The NHL would only say there was no evidence of Pinto betting on hockey. Pinto declined to reveal any details upon rejoining the Senators in January.

— In March, the Los Angeles Dodgers fired Ippai Mizuhara, the interpreter and close friend of newly acquired two-way star Shohei Ohtani following reports regarding his ties to an illegal bookmaker. Three months later, Mizuhara pled guilty in federal court to bank and tax fraud for stealing nearly $17 million from Ohtani’s bank account. He spent the money to cover his growing gambling bets and debts with an illegal bookmaker, plus $325,000 worth of baseball cards and his own medical bills. Mizuhara capitalized on the language barrier to keep Ohtani’s financial advisers from understanding their client, and at times, Mizuhara even impersonated the player to the bank to prolong the fraud.

STORIES ABOUT LIFE

Experiencing the
'good old days' now

We just celebrated Memorial Day, a federal holiday honoring and remembering those who made the ultimate sacrifice in defense of our nation. For many, Memorial Day is a time to reminisce, hear or tell a story about a relative who has passed and place flowers on the graves.

As stories and antidotes are shared, someone is sure to say "Remember, back in the good old days..." No doubt there were many good times to remember but when were the good old days exactly and how good were they really? Funny when we were living through them, the good old days didn't seem that good. Every story an "old timer," like myself, tells makes "back in the day" seem pretty awful.

Back in my day, I remember we had to get up to change the TV channel on a black-and-white television. There were only three channels, so really you didn't have to get up very often. The stations would stop broadcasting between 11 and 11:30 p.m. When you heard the national anthem, you knew TV was over for the evening. If you were staying up late, it was time to play Mystery Date.

We had one telephone for the whole family. It was attached to the wall in the living room, so you had no privacy. My sister would pull the handset and cord out the front door and talk while standing on the porch.

We were on a party line, so we shared the line with two other families in the neighborhood. If you were really quiet, you could listen in on each other's conversations. Occasionally, you could hear a shocking story or two, but for the most part, it was just talk about everyday life – what they were having for dinner, sharing a recipe, how to get a stain out, or what they were going to wear to church on Sunday. If you put a sock over the mouthpiece of the phone and grabbed a bag of Ozark Hillbilly potato chips and a glass of Kool-Aid, you could settle into an entertaining evening of eavesdropping. It was our Facebook back in the day!

Doing laundry was the worst. My grandmother had a wringer washing machine. I was afraid to get too close to it. The wringer was two closely set rollers that would squeeze the water out of the clothes. If you got your hand too close, it could suck you in and break your fingers. You could be trapped until someone came down to the dark musty basement to save you. Another great childhood memory.

My mother had an automatic washer. I remember you could open the lid and it would keep spinning. Safety was not a big concern back in the day. Sears and Roebuck apparently trusted your parents to warn you about the dangers of sticking your arm into moving machinery.

Sherry Broyles
Contributing Columnist

Laundry was a two-day event. Hardly anyone had a dryer back then, but everyone did have a clothesline in their backyard. Depending on the weather, you could wait days for an outfit you were hoping to wear to be washed, dried and, of course, ironed.

I did love the smell of my mother ironing. She would set up the ironing board in the living room where she could watch her soap operas. "As the World Turns," "The Guiding Light," "Dark Shadows" and the "Edge of Night" were a few I remember. My siblings and I were not allowed to stay in the house and watch TV during the daylight hours. We were turned outside in the morning to play. You could come in for lunch or a drink of water, though we were encouraged to drink out of the garden hose. There was no air conditioning in the house, so outside under a shade tree was the best place to be.

There were other hardships back in the day. We struggled to pull up pantyhose, hook up garter belts and get your slip the correct length. We wore hair curlers to bed until big hair was over and straight hair was in. We threw away the curlers and got out our mother's iron.

Yes, we ironed our hair, and yes it was risky but necessary. We learned to watch the setting and to keep the iron moving. It was very important to unplug the iron. I remember my dad lecturing my sister and me about the cost of electricity and the dangers of leaving the iron on. Good Lord, we could burn the house down. Today, I have an iron that automatically turns off, but I still unplug it. Thanks, Dad.

I do look back at these memories and call them the good old days, not because they were good or bad, they were my life and I'm thankful for them. Today I am the youngest I will ever be again. I am doing and experiencing things right now that I will miss in the near future. The good old days are happening now, so enjoy the moment.

"I wish there was a way to know you're in the 'good old days' before you've actually left them. Someone should write a song about that." – Andy Bernard, "The Office."

Roots to Branches:

Sedalia's Latter-day church celebrates 100 years

By Faith Bemiss-McKinney
faithb@sedaliademocrat.com

The Sedalia Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is observing more than 100 years of service in the community. In August 2023, the church celebrated with a special event, "Roots to Branches: Becoming a Zion People."

According to information supplied by Judge Paul Beard II, the church's history notes that the first family of saints, Benjamin and Jemima Furnell, moved to Sedalia in 1906. This was after the Missouri governor expelled all LDS members from the state in 1838. In 1914, the Central States Mission sent the first missionaries to Sedalia.

Sedalia Branch organized

By 1923, the Sedalia Branch was organized with boundaries including Warrensburg, Clinton, Warsaw, Tipton and Marshall. The church met in an upper room at 412 1/2 S. Ohio Ave. In 1931, the Sedalia Branch Relief Society was formed, with Jemima Furnell as president. Fast-forward to 1956, when the church purchased land at South Park Avenue and West Broadway Boulevard and began constructing the present-day building, 1201 W. Broadway Blvd.

Throughout its history, many names have contributed to its progress, although two generational families, the Furnells and the Beards, are still active in the congregation.

Beard explained that his family is part of the second 50 years. They moved back to Sedalia in 1979. But his father, Richard Paul Beard Sr., was part of the first 50 years.

"He grew up here with his parents," he noted. "His dad joined the church right around the time he (his dad) was 3 or 4.

"However, my grandma died, and my (grand) dad remarried into the Furnell family," he continued. "And they are the church's original members here in this area."

Beard said that when the church hosted the celebration in 2023, they compiled a list of the local LDS church's history.

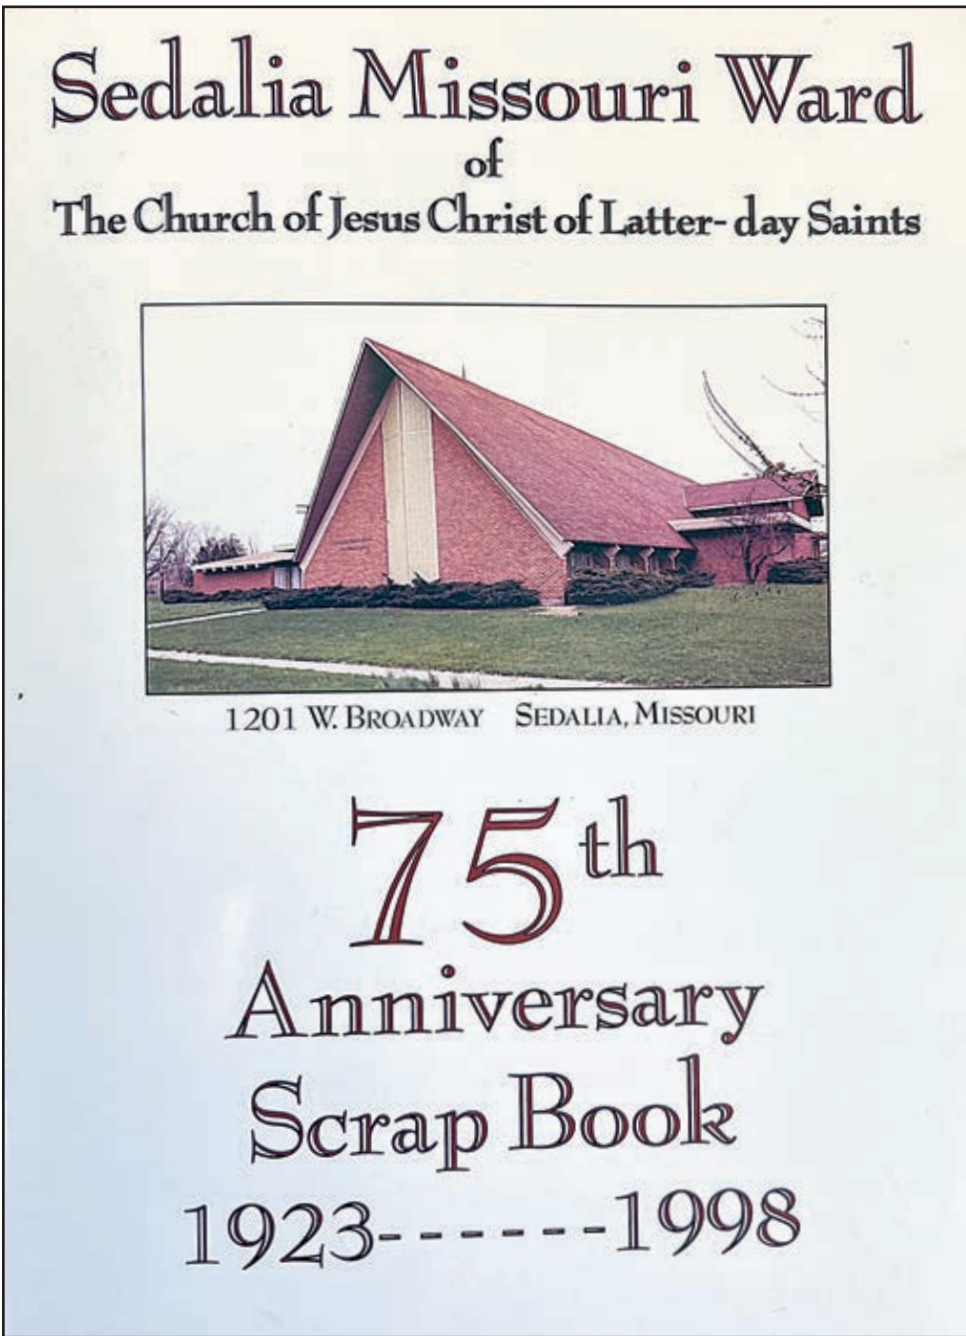

History of the LDS in Missouri

"The history of the church in Missouri, of course, began in 1831," Beard said. "The first missionaries were sent to Missouri. However, it resulted in the Mormon war in 1837-38, and the members of the church all left.

"The citizens of Missouri opposed the church being here," he continued. "We were growing too fast, it put enormous political pressure, plus we were a variant of Christianity that people were uncomfortable with."

He added that when people disagreed, they had a dual: "That was the way they handled things back then."

"This was the generation right before the Civil War," Beard noted. "And

The Sedalia Missouri Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints celebrated its 100th anniversary in 2023. The church also commemorated the 75th anniversary with a scrapbook compiled by the late Doyle Furnell, a long-time member.

the church, of course, was anti-slavery, and Missouri was a slave state, and it went into all that political conflict."

Beard said the saints settled in Jackson County, and the citizens of Jackson County assembled and issued them an order to leave or else. However, the saints didn't go. Eventually, the state of Missouri declared war on the Mormons and ordered them to leave the state.

Furnells, Beards return to Sedalia

As far as Beard knows, the church did not have any members in Missouri for the next 100 years.

"It's possible that the Furnell family was the first family to return," Beard added. "(Doyle Furnell) was the historian for our congregation. Everything I'm telling you now comes from Doyle Furnell's first 75 years of the church book."

Beard said his grandfather, William Noah "Bill" Furnell, became a member of the Sedalia church because, during the Great Depression, he joined a work crew sent to Utah to work in the National Parks. He then met Beard's grandma, Margaret, and they both came to Sedalia.

Beard said he and his immediate family, wife Stacey and children Madison, Maggie Lanie, Alex, and Caroline, have found that being in the church has created strong ties. The local branch now has around 500 members, and it is a union of nine different congregations.

"For me, what I love about the story of Jesus Christ and how it wraps up with my heritage and family and how it unifies and connects with other people in the world as it teaches us goodness," Beard noted. "It teaches us to be of good moral character and to care for one another."

He added that, as he sees it, we all have a compass, a desire or motivation to be part of the solution and to bless people rather than cause suffering and heartache.

Moving into the future

Bishop Evan Stout, who has been with the Sedalia LDS for seven years, said that as the church moves into future years of service, "it's an exciting time."

"We felt drawn to the area," he noted. "And that sentiment is shared by numerous other families who have moved here in the last five to seven years.

"So, (I'm) seeing growth in multiple ways," he continued. "With new families moving into the area that belong to the church as well as people that join with us in our congregation — converts from other walks of life or faiths. So, I see growth in those two areas."

THE GREEN THUMB

By Billie Long
Master Gardener Emeritus

How to prune a Crepe Myrtle

In the first place, you would want to plant a Crepe Myrtle that will fit the area where you want it. There are dwarfs (3 to 6 feet) and semi-dwarf (7 to 15 feet). You would want to place the plant away from the foundation of your house since it will very likely be hard to keep in bounds there. Placing it along the house is not a good location for it either since it will not get good air circulation and the foundation will leach lime out of the cement, raising the pH of the soil. Crepe Myrtles should be planted in full sun in slightly acidic soil. Soil pH should be from 5 to 6.5. They like hot, sunny climates. Heavy soil that retains moisture is fine, but they don't like wet feet and poor drainage. Water deeply once a week in periods of drought. Crepe Myrtles do not need a lot of fertilizer. A feeding of a balanced fertilizer such as 10-10-10 when growth begins in the spring is plenty. If it gets too much nitrogen, it will put out a lot of vegetative growth at the expense of the flower. Crepe Myrtles are hardy in protected locations to Zone 6 but will live in the lower sections of Zone 5 as a die-back perennial.

There are some plants that are resistant to powdery mildew. These are “Comanche” (dark pink); “Hopi” (light pink); “Arcona” (white); “Zuni” (lavender) and “Tonto” (red). They run from 5 to 15 feet high. Compact Crepe Myrtles between 3 and 6 feet include “Hope” (white); “Ozark” (lavender) and “Victor” (red). Compact plants are not resistant to powdery mildew. Crepe Myrtles do not need heavy pruning to promote bloom. They flower on new growth only, so be careful how you prune. They will produce larger flowers and bloom more if lightly pruned. You can also encourage a second bloom by pruning off the flowers immediately after they fade so the plant does not set seed. If this is done, it will also keep the plant from setting seedlings. Any heavy pruning is best done before the plant leaves out in the spring but after the risk of a hard freeze. For the shrub forms, carefully remove weak, twiggy, or crossing branches. Try not to take off the lower branches. This will make it look leggy. The lower branches will keep it from looking top-heavy. If you are planning on growing a tall form as a one- or two-trunked tree, remove competing branches early, but don't sacrifice too much growth on the remaining ones. Again, you don't want it to look top-heavy. You will have to remove all limbs growing from ground level except three to five of the strongest limbs. As the tree matures, remove lower lateral branches (limbing up) to one-third the height of the plant. Remove any branches that are rubbing or crossing with shoots growing into the canopy. Make your cuts to a side branch or close to the trunk. Head back any unbranched limbs. As it grows taller, remove the lower branches as needed. Remove any growth from the ground to keep your desired tree shape. This basal sprouting may occur whether the tree is being pruned or not. If you get them in the vegetative stage, you can pull them rather than cut them off. Practice corrective pruning to remove dead or defective branches. This should be done when you see it. Otherwise, prune to remove small branches and twigs in the center to create an open canopy for the sun while the plant is dormant. If you have inherited a Crepe Myrtle that has been deformed by top-ping, cut off the trunks to the ground in early spring. Any well-established plant will spring right back with good growth and may even flower in the same season. If you have a Crepe Myrtle in a bad spot and can't keep it in bounds where it's at, then prune the stems back to about 6 inches every year. Severe pruning will not kill or injure a healthy Crepe Myrtle. It will bloom with this care every year. Just be sure to water during dry spells and fertilize with 10-10-10 in early spring. Billie Long is a Master Gardener Emeritus with the Show-Me Master Gardeners, which is affiliated with MU Extension Pettis County.

LCAA to host several productions this summer

By Faith Bemiss-McKinney
faithb@sedaliademocrat.com

This summer, the Liberty Center Association for the Arts theater will be busy with several productions, including the Junior Theatre musical, “42nd Street,” slated for June 28-30.

Carl Hutcherson, chair of the LCAA Theatre Committee, said that the well-known local band Dirt Road Addiction will play at 7 p.m. Saturday, June 8 at The Lot outside behind the Center. LCAA describes Dirt Road Addiction as a hard-hitting country rock band. Their sound has been described as “Jump Country.” They play a mix of modern country, rock, pop, and their own original music. The cost is $10.

Later this month, the Junior Theatre will present “42nd Street,” a Broadway musical that pays tribute to the golden age of theater. The production, featuring a cast and crew of 50, will include youth who will showcase their tap-dancing skills.

“It’s a Junior Theater presentation of the Broadway musical, ‘42nd Street,’” he noted. “And it is a love story to old Broadway.

“Big songs, lots of tap-dancing, lots of dancing,” he continued. “It’s a play about a group of people putting on a play during the Great Depression.”

The theatre students spend a lot of time learning dance and tap-dancing techniques for the show.

“There’s a lot of dancing in the show,” he noted. “And then, we have a group of students who already knew tap, but we’ve been working with Dance with Grace to choreograph and teach a lot of the others to tap.”

He added that on Saturday, July 6, LCAA will host a stand-up comedy night with Steven Taylor and Mitchell Harmon from Kansas City. There will also be a 5th Street Improv show on Friday, July 12, and Saturday, July 13. The show is for ages 18 and older.

“We are doing our annual Junior Theatre Play in a Week, that starts on July 26,” he noted. “The performance is on Aug. 3. Our Play in a Week is completely written from scratch.

“We get together Friday the 26th of July, and we start writing a script,” he explained. “And then we start rehearsing it on the 27th, and we perform it on the 3rd.”

On Monday, April 22, during rehearsal for “Godspell” at the Hayden Liberty Center, the disciples meet and begin interacting with Jesus during the song “Save the People.” Several Liberty Center performances will take place this summer, including the Junior Theatre production of “42nd Street.”

The students have done this in the past, and Hutcherson said the production is an “insane amount of work” to do in a week, although all the students have fun producing the show.

“It’s completely different every year,” noted. “The students come in with ideas, then we all kick around (ideas). And there are several adult sponsors involved. “We guide things (rather) than give directions,” he continued. “So, we help to keep things in the realm of doable, but we’re not actually creating it. It’s all student (created).”

For those interested in being in an LCAA production, Hutcherson added that auditions for the fall classic comedy play “Exit the Body” will be the last week of July. Auditions for the Junior Theatre production of “Romeo and Juliet” will be at the end of August.

Hutcherson noted there will also be an Essential Theatre performance on Aug. 24.

“We’re planning to do something a little bit different,” he added. “And do a performance out on

The Lot. So, hopefully, it will be outside.”

Stout and his wife, Stephanie, have five children ages 4 to 17. The family hopes to see the church become more involved in community activities.

“We are hoping to host a community-wide family history event in the fall,” he noted. “In our faith, we’re really big on understanding your origins and your family history for a variety of reasons.

“It’s critically important to know who you are and where you come from,” he added. “But, beyond that ... knowing who your ancestors are is very important to us. We believe we’re one big family of God. So, connecting everybody together is really important.”

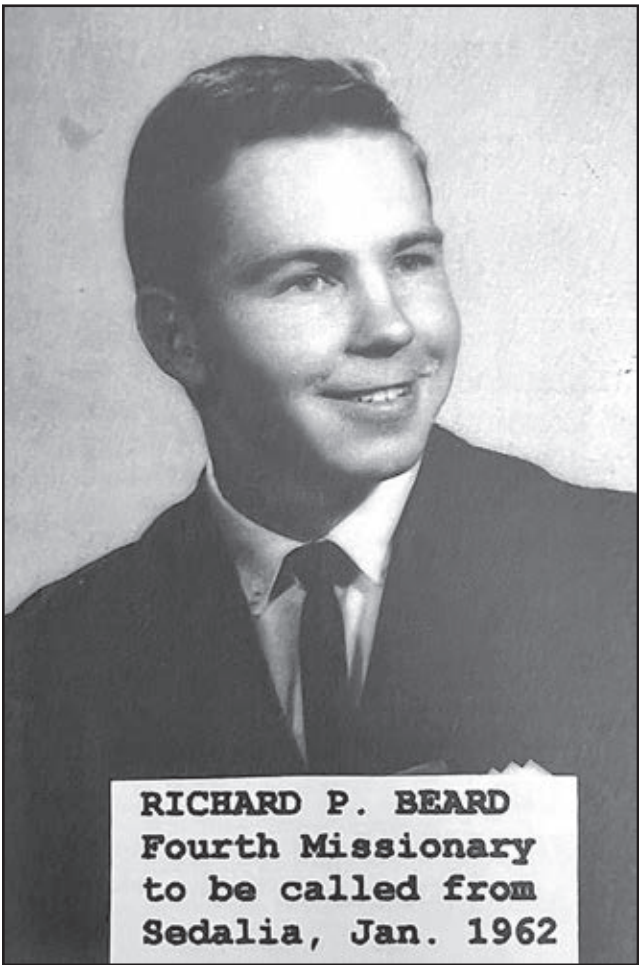

He also wants to find ways to become more involved in the community, such as partnering with the Open Door Service Center and helping serve meals on Sundays.

“We’re trying to get out in the community and be an asset,” Stout said. “A resource to our community members.”

Stout’s advice to others about serving God comes from two Biblical commandments: to love God and to love one’s neighbors.

“It’s very easy to fall into the trap of division,” he noted. “We really hold fast to those two important commandments — to love God, and when we love God, we naturally want to love our neighbors. We have so much more in common than we do differences, so remembering that is pretty important.”

In 1962, Richard P. Beard Sr. was the fourth LDS missionary to be called from Sedalia. Just like the Furnell family, Beard and his family have left a long legacy in the Sedalia LDS Church.

When the Sedalia LDS Church celebrated its 75th anniversary, the late Doyle Furnell, standing with his wife Norma, published a scrapbook covering the church’s history from the early years up to the late ‘90s. The Sedalia LDS celebrated its 100th anniversary in 2023 with the theme “Roots to Branches: Becoming a Zion People.”

The Sedalia Democrat reported on Sunday, Feb. 11, 1945, that Sgt. David S. Furnell Jr. was killed in action during World War II. Furnell was the son of Mr. and Mrs. David S. Furnell and the grandson of the first LDS family to settle in Sedalia.

The groundbreaking for the new Sedalia LDS Chapel at South Park Avenue and West Broadway Boulevard occurred in the 1950s. The photo and article appeared in the Sedalia Democrat. The late Doyle Furnell was the project agent.

From 1978 to 1981, father and son served together at the Sedalia LDS. From left are Jerry W. Furnell, Bishop Doyle D. Furnell and James Farley.

WHAT'S NEW ON NETFLIX "Bridgerton" - Season 3, Part 2

With the social season in full swing, more salacious romances and rumors abound. The hit Regency-era drama "Bridgerton" debuts the highly anticipated second installment of its third season Thursday, June 13, on Netflix. While Season 1 set screens aflame with the tumultuous romance between Daphne Bridgerton (Phoebe Dynevor, "Dickensian") and Simon Basset, Duke of Hastings (Regé-Jean Page, "For The People"), Season 2 focused on the love life of Anthony Bridgerton (Jonathan Bailey, "Broadchurch"), the eldest of the family's children, and Kate (Simone Ashley, "Sex Education"), who went from butting heads to blissful marriage. Now, Season 3 has set things heating up once again with the friends-to-lovers story of Colin Bridgerton (Luke Newton, "The Lodge") and Penelope Featherington (Nicola Coughlan, "Derry Girls"). After returning home from a months-long trip across Europe, Colin finds himself in a precarious position after offering his good friend Penelope lessons to help her overcome her awkwardness in social situations, find her confidence and win herself a husband. But, as the "lessons" between the friends start to bring the pair closer than ever, Penelope being courted by the handsome Lord Debling (Sam Phillips, "The Crown") has Colin questioning what his feelings for his friend really are. Meanwhile, Penelope's friendship with Eloise (Claudia Jessie, "Porters") remains rocky, while Francesca Bridgerton (Hannah Dodd, "Enola Holmes 2," 2022) shines as the queen's diamond of the season. From Shondaland Productions and executive producers Shonda Rhimes, Betsy Beers and Chris Van Dusen of "Grey's Anatomy," "Scandal" and "Private Practice," the series is directed by executive producer Tom Verica ("Scandal"), Tricia Brock ("Saving Grace") and Andrew Ahn ("This Close"). The Season 3 cast also includes Luke Thompson ("Dunkirk," 2017), Golda Rosheuvel ("Dune," fessor T"), Martins Imhangbe ("The Soldier's Tale," 2022) and Hannah New ("Black Sails").

"Ultraman: Rising" (2024)

Spanning decades, the Ultraman franchise is a Japanese sci-fi giant that includes television shows, films, comic books and more in its expansive universe. Now, the franchise's latest installment, the animated family adventure film "Ultraman: Rising," makes its debut Friday, June 14, on Netflix. With Tokyo suffering under mounting monster attacks, the city is in desperate need of a new hero to help bring peace back to the city. Reluctantly returning home to take up the Ultraman mantle, baseball star Ken Sato (Christopher Sean, "Star Wars Resistance") finds

Attorney's office is thrown into chaos when one of its own, chief deputy prosecutor Rusty Sabich (Jake Gyllenhaal, "Road House," 2024), is suspected of the crime. Exploring "obsession, sex, politics and the power and limits of love," the series follows Rusty's story "as the accused fights to hold his family and marriage together" (per Apple TV+). Written by executive producers David E. Kelley ("The Practice"), Miki Johnson ("Ozark") and Sharr White ("The Affair"), "Presumed Innocent" is directed by Anne Sewitsky ("A Very British Scandal") and Greg Yaitanes ("House"). The series' ensemble cast includes Ruth Negga ("Preacher"), Bill Camp ("American Rust"), Elizabeth Marvel ("Law & Order: Special Victims Unit"), Peter Sarsgaard change just as rapidly and dramatically. Looking at the many factors that go into modern music, the new two-part docuseries "How Music Got Free" premieres Tuesday, June 11, on Paramount+. From executive producers Marshall "Eminem" Mathers ("Lose Yourself"), LeBron James ("Uninterrupted's Top Class: The Life and Times of the Sierra Canyon Trailblazers"), Maverick Carter ("Top Boy"), Paul Rosenberg ("Mixtape," 2022) and Steve Stoute ("Student Athlete," 2018), the documentary, narrated by actor, rapper and Wu-Tang Clan member Method Man ("Power Book II: Ghost"), "details the fascinating, and often funny, inside story of the technology-driven disruption that changed music during the late '90s and early da Club"), Timbaland ("The Way I Are"), record executive Jimmy Iovine, Roci Diaz ("Dutch II: Angel's Revenge," 2024), Rhymefest ("Brand New"), Steve Stoute and more. "How Music Got Free" is directed by Alexandria Stapleton ("Reggie," 2023).

WHAT'S NEW ON HULU

"Brats" (2024)

ABC News Studios in partnership with NEON and Network Entertainment, presents the new, feature-length documentary film "Brats," premiering Thursday, June 13, on Hulu. In the 1980s, a number of coming-of-age films — including "St. Elmo's Fire" (1985) and "The Breakfast Club" (1985) — took the pop culture world by storm, with the young actors in the cast of such movies being labeled the "Brat Pack." As this new wave of '80s teen film connected with young audiences in a way that have never been achieved before, the actors in the Brat Pack found their careers and their lives being shaped by the label for decades. "Director and Brat-Packer Andrew McCarthy, who rose to stardom in such films as 'Pretty in Pink' [1986], 'St. Elmo's Fire' and 'Less Than Zero' (1987) and wrote the New York Times bestselling memoir 'Brat: An '80s Story,' goes right to the source, reuniting with his fellow Brat-Packers — friends, colleagues and former foes, many of whom he had not seen for over 30 years — to answer the question: What did it mean to be part of the Brat Pack?" (per ABC News Studios). Traveling all over the country, McCarthy meets up with some of his other Brat Pack members to get their perspectives, including Rob Lowe ("9-1-1: Lone Star"), Demi Moore ("Ghost," 1990), Ally Sheedy ("WarGames," 1983), Emilio Estevez ("The Way," 2010), Jon Cryer ("Two and a Half Men"), Lea Thompson ("Back to the Future," 1985) and Timothy Hutton ("Leverage"), along with directors, casting directors, screenwriters and producers who worked on these films. McCarthy also sits down with writer David Blum, who fatefully coined the term "Brat Pack" in a 1985 New York Magazine cover story.
