Thursday, the staff at Recovery Lighthouse was getting ready for the family friendly celebration. Recovery Lighthouse support services are offered free of charge thanks to support from the Missouri Department of Mental Health. "Everybody's invited all the time, all of our services are 100% free," Bridges said. "Our mission is to help individuals and families when substance use is or was present. We want to not only focus on just the individual, but we also want to focus on the family as a whole, because it takes the whole family to heal." Shooting threat at Homecoming demands action by Benton County Sheriff's Office

By Democrat Staff

A Warsaw juvenile was taken into custody Monday, Sept. 16, after making an implied threat of a shooting at the Warsaw High School homecoming parade. According to the Benton County Sheriff's Office, deputies were notified of the alleged digital discussion. Deputies proceeded to notify School Resource Officers and the Warsaw Police Chief. Following an investigation that included interviews with several individuals, probable cause was established and the suspect was taken into custody. The name of the juvenile suspect has not been released. "We want to emphasize the importance of the swift actions taken by other juveniles who were witness to this situation," the Benton County Sheriff's Office stated in a release. "They promptly alerted their parents, who then contacted law enforcement. These individuals are to be commended for their quick thinking and willingness to "See Something, Say Something," helping prevent a potentially dangerous situation." The case is the second that has occurred across the region in the last month. In late August, Spencer Holman, 18, was taken into custody by the Pettis County Sheriff's Office for making a terroristic threat against State Fair Community College.

A wave of threats were made across the state this week as well, including. Southern Boone Public Schools in Ashland. "It's crucial to remind everyone that even when statements are made in jest or are intended for a small group of friends, all it takes is for one person to feel uncomfortable and report it," the Benton County Sheriff's Office said. "This can lead to a very serious investigation because law enforcement cannot assume that any threat, implied or otherwise, is not real. The safety of our community is always our top priority, and every threat must be treated with the highest level of concern and diligence."

Studio A Dance Conservancy moves to larger facility

Special to the Democrat

Studio A Dance Conservancy has moved to a new and larger location in Thompson Hills Shopping Center. Anna Crumley Nelson, the owner and director of SADC said the new building at 3145 W. Broadway Blvd., is 5,000 square feet, compared to the former building, which had 1,800. They moved in on Aug. 1 with only 25 days to remodel the former Gene's Boots & Hats building. "It's unbelievable," Nelson said with a smile. "We made a lot of magic happen, though, at our tiny spot. With the bigger space, SADC will soon offer adult fitness classes during the day and evening. Due to its expanse, the studio room can be divided in half: one space for dance classes and the other for adult fitness classes. "So, this is a separate room," Nelson said. "This can be used for an extra rehearsal if we need it, fitness classes, more tiny classes, and more six-week type camps versus having to be in the conservatory for the 10 months. They can take a popup class and be done. "There's just a lot more opportunity for growth

Students at Studio A Dance Conservancy practice the "Doll" position during their first practice for the December performance of the "Nutcracker," on Saturday, Sept. 14. and expansion. We'll have more teachers and more community outreach, which was always my number one goal. This is to provide elite training and elite services to the community." Nelson added they have already lined up instructors for the fitness classes and are working on the times and classes that will be offered. She also has five staff members who will teach both the youth and adult classes. See MOVE, Page A6

Missouri regulators pare down ban on intoxicating hemp products

By Rebecca Rivas

Missouri Independent

Missouri Gov. Mike Parson’s ban on intoxicating hemp products hit another hurdle on Tuesday, resulting in an indefinite pause on a huge part of the effort.

Richard Moore, general counsel for the Missouri Department of Health and Senior Services, said in a letter Tuesday that the state’s health regulators will stop embargoing — or tagging — products simply because they contain hemp-derived THC.

“In regard to psychoactive cannabis products, the department will focus its efforts on the identification of ‘misbranded’ products,” Moore wrote to the Missouri Hemp Trade Association’s attorney, Chuck Hatfield.

When Parson signed his executive order on Aug. 1, he said his primary focus was to protect children consuming the products that resemble popular candy, like Lifesavers, but contain the intoxicating compound of the cannabis plant, THC.

“I trust that you understand that the consumption of these products may be dangerous,” Moore states, “and that under no circumstances should they end up in the hands of Missouri’s children.”

The department’s effort will now focus on just that — not banning all intoxicating hemp products.

“If the department identifies any such misbranded products, it will refer those products to the Missouri Attorney General’s Office for potential enforcement under the State’s Merchandising Practices Act...”

The letter comes after the Missouri Hemp Trade Association filed for a temporary restraining order against the department on Monday in response to the department inspecting a VFW post on Sept. 11, Hatfield said.

“We asked for the (temporary restraining order),” Hatfield said, “and in response, we got this letter, which is the same thing we would have accomplished with the (temporary restraining order).”

The motion for the restraining order states that the governor’s order directs the department to “designate foods adulterated simply because they contain hemp products, in direct contravention of Missouri law.”

In Moore’s letter, he acknowledges that state law says, “a food shall not be considered adulterated solely for containing industrial hemp, or an industrial hemp commodity or product.”

It is the same law fueling the Missouri Hemp Trade Association’s lawsuit against the governor’s ban.

As of Sept. 12, the Missouri Department of Health and Senior Services officials have inspected 74 establishments this month and found intoxicating products at 42 of them, said Lisa Cox, spokeswoman for the department.

During the visits, inspectors have asked the store owners to destroy the products within the facilities. If they don’t, inspectors tag them as embargoed.

According to Moore’s letter, all psychoactive cannabis products that the department has tagged as an embargoed product will be referred to the attorney general’s office for evaluation of misbranding violations.

“The department has no intention at this time to embargo additional psychoactive cannabis products as adulterated,” the letter states. “Further, within 30 days after referral to the attorney general’s office, the department will release all currently embargoed products and remove all embargo tags.”

Once embargo tags are removed, it states, such products will not be subject to an embargo as long as there is no court order prohibiting its sale or ordering its destruction.

“Pending further action from the General Assembly as to intoxicating cannabis products,” the letter states, “the department believes that channeling future enforcement authority via the Merchandising Practices Act is the best way to ensure that Missouri consumers know what they are purchasing and ingesting, and to keep harmful products out of the hands of children.”

Missouri Hemp Trade Association spokesperson Craig Katz said the association supports the attorney general’s efforts “to prosecute bad actors marketing counterfeit and misbranded hemp products to children.”

Five Missouri, Kansas members of Congress send tough critique of troubled mail service to D.C.

By Tim Carpenter

Kansas Reflector

Three Missouri and two Kansas members of Congress serving constituents in the greater Kansas City area forwarded a joint letter Tuesday to the U.S. Postal Service demanding action to rectify problems with missing or delayed mail and protracted periods in which no mail was delivered at all.

Republicans Reps. Sam Graves and Mark Alford, both of Missouri, and Rep. Jake LaTurner of Kansas, as well as Democrats Emanuel Cleaver of Missouri and Sharice Davids of Kansas, forwarded the letter to USPS postmaster general Louis DeJoy. They pointed to the July federal audit of the Kansas City Postal and Distribution Center in Kansas City, Missouri, and stations in Hickman Mills in Missouri as well as in Mission and Kansas City on the Kansas side of the border.

Deficiencies at the distribution center touched on mail clearance times, delayed mail, late cancellations and dock scanning during an inspection period in May, USPS auditors said. The report said challenges at the three stations included document scanning, delayed mail and property conditions.

The inspector general concluded USPS ought to address problems with employee staffing and recommended supervisors prepare better for staff absences in the Kansas City region.

“The audit makes clear that the USPS must do more to ensure Kansans receive reliable, timely mail delivery,” said Davids, who is seeking reelection in the 3rd District of Johnson and Wyandotte counties. “I will keep working across the aisle with my colleagues in the KC area to help fix these issues and ensure our postal service meets the needs of our communities.”

In recent months, the let-

A bipartisan group of two Kansas and three Missouri members of Congress sign a joint letter urging the U.S. Postal Service to address persistent problems with mail delivery in the greater Kansas City area.

ter said, all five congressional offices received a growing number of complaints regarding inadequate mail service.

“It is unacceptable that these facilities . . . are failing to keep up with the USPS standard of service,” the bipartisan letter from U.S. House members said. “We wholeheartedly urge the leadership of the Postal Service to roll out the recommendations of the USPS office of the inspector general immediately.”

The federal lawmakers said USPS ought to implement strategies to mitigate mail delays, ensure compliance with processing procedures, improve delivery logistics, and upgrade safety and security policies for staff at the mail facilities.

The representatives said residents of communities across Kansas and Missouri relied on consistent mail service and deserved better support from USPS management.

We haven't been gone long, but I've learned a lot

Spend the extra $25 on the already-exorbitant airplane ticket to sit in the exit row or the bulk-head on overseas flights.

Though I had a strategy for getting through the night asleep, the same one I used to sleep for eight hours on the way to and from Afghanistan, it didn't quite work because though at 5'2", I fit perfectly in an airline seat, most people do not. This causes crowding and discomfort. Additionally, even though my legs are short, the planes do not provide enough leg room to stretch them out. And if I can't do it, pity the poor six-foot-tall guy who's sitting next to me. And pity me because he is.

Do not, I repeat, do not rent a car from just any fly-by-night company. Find a good old American company and rent a car. Be sure to check with your insurance company to see what they will and won't cover should something happen to a rental car in another country. Nothing happened, but the drivers in Barcelona were erratic, to say the least. The good thing about cities is that they are either walkable, or they are full of cabs and Ubers to get you where you need to go.

Figure out the overseas plan with your cell phone. We tried to do that, but my "favorite" company, Spectrum, is not quite clear. I have a feeling that, because we are traveling in a group but not staying at the same place and must communicate about when and where to meet, my next bill will come close to equaling the national debt. Oh, and using a map on the phone? I don't even want to think about it.

Finally, be sure to tell the bank that you are going to be in another country. Then you probably won't have to deal with a frozen account when you are trying to pay the bill in Spain.

Seriously, all these things will be great stories to liven up boring cocktail parties, but all in all, we have had a fabulous, enlightening time. Many people in Barcelona speak some sort of English, and we are finding the same in little Angoulins, France.

In Barcelona, we stayed in a lovely hotel for a couple of days. It was located in a nice part of town, full of shops and restaurants. Emily, however, had chosen restaurants that were a mile or so away. The first day, we walked 13.9 miles (or so said my step-counting ring). The second day, we walked six miles or so. We saw the Picasso museum, and the Gaudi basilica that was started in 1882 and is scheduled to be finished 2026. Fat chance. There, we went into the nativity towers, and I, with acrophobia and claustrophobia, went up really high in an elevator and walked down innumerable spiraling steps holding onto the wall because it was such a tight squeeze.

The city is beautiful, with stunning architecture and beautiful gardens. The streets are wide, and the intersections are huge, making way for the large number of pedestrians. In some ways, the city is designed for pedestrians, with walking lights and a broad pathway between driving lanes, where people stroll and sit on benches.

The weather was perfect, sunny and warm but not hot. We dined al fresco every chance we got, sitting in the warmth and listening to the cacophony of a big city – traffic, blaring horns, chatter, and the inevitable big trucks that keep a city moving.

We had tapas every day, which are little plates that can quickly build to a big tab. Shrimp? Yes, please. Bread? Fresh and hot and delicious. Patatas bravas? Different at every place. Squid? No, thanks. Best of all? The wine is, for lack of a better word, cheap. A glass of wine in America can run $14. In Barcelona? 3 Euros and change.

It's been fun. And best of all, it's not over. Next, I will bring news of little Angoulins and La Rochelle, France, which are on the water. It's a lovely day, and we're going exploring. Maybe someone will speak English!

How Jay Ashcroft politicized the Missouri secretary of state's office

His waning days as Missouri's secretary of state have not been kind to Jay Ashcroft.

Once considered a frontrunner to become governor, he finished a dismal third in the August Republican primary.

A few weeks later, he was forced to certify Amendment 3, an initiative petition clearing the way for voters in November to decide whether to remove Missouri's near-total abortion ban and embed the right to an abortion in the state constitution.

Back when he expected to be governor, Ashcroft told reporters he would "have to quit" if being in that office meant defending a woman's right to end a pregnancy. So you know he hated putting that initiative on the ballot.

Now, in the unkindest cut of all, Ashcroft has unwittingly become the fall guy for a last-ditch effort by abortion opponents to stop a vote on Amendment 3. The irony here is rich, because Ashcroft used every trick at his disposal to thwart a public vote on abortion rights.

He wrote outlandish ballot language, invited legal challenges, delayed and delayed some more in hopes of running out the clock on signature-gathering efforts.

None of it worked. The campaign, known as Missourians for Constitutional Freedom, gathered 380,000 signatures in short order. Ashcroft waited until Aug. 13, the last day possible under Missouri law, to place the initiative on the Nov. 5 ballot.

And then — because this is Missouri, where

Barbara Shelly
Guest Columnist

the will of the people is always at risk — some anti-abortion legislators and lawyers went to court to claim that the secretary of state erred when he placed the amendment on the ballot.

The rationale of the plaintiffs in the case officially titled Coleman et al. v. Ashcroft is almost incomprehensible to anyone who isn't a lawyer. But they managed to have their case heard by a judge ideologically inclined to agree with them. Cole County Circuit Court Judge Christopher Limbaugh, cousin to Rush, the late conservative radio host, ruled in so many words that "defendant Ashcroft" had indeed screwed up.

Ashcroft announced that "on further review" he now realized he never should have certified the petition in the first place. He removed it from the list of 2024 ballot measures on the Secretary of State's website.

The Missouri Supreme Court quickly interceded. Judges last week reversed Limbaugh's ruling and ordered Ashcroft to place Amendment 3 back on the statewide Nov. 5 ballot.

The Coleman et al. v. Ashcroft saga played out over a whirlwind five days, from the time Limbaugh held his hearing in Cole County on a Friday until the state Supreme Court reversed his ruling last Tuesday.

It was a bad look all around for Ashcroft, and in the end he is left with the task, as secretary of state, of standing watch over a statewide ballot that now contains a constitutional amendment that he loathes and lists Mike Kehoe, the current lieutenant governor, as the GOP nominee for the governor's post that Ashcroft had sought.

Despite his early lead and name recognition as the son of John Ashcroft — a legend in Missouri politics who went on to become George W. Bush's U.S. attorney general — Jay Ashcroft was outflanked in the governor's primary.

Moderates favored Kehoe and ultraconservatives voted for the anti-establishment state Sen. Bill Eigel. Ashcroft was left in the middle, a bleak no-man's land in primary politics.

He will not follow in the family footsteps. He will not impose his controversial beliefs on the people of Missouri.

I say this because beneath the rumpled, somewhat goofy exterior that Ashcroft puts forth to the public beats the heart of an ideologue.

As secretary of state, Ashcroft took it upon himself to draft an administrative rule telling public libraries how to shield children and teenagers from material that he worries may be inappropriate.

He used his rule-making ability to restrict banks in the state from using environmental and other social factors in investing practices.

In January, Ashcroft suggested that President Joe Biden's border policies are akin to an insurrection and could theoretically be used to keep him off Missouri's presidential ballot.

In 2019, after Gov. Mike Parson signed a bill criminalizing abortion after eight weeks of pregnancy, Ashcroft snuffed out efforts to place a referendum on the new law on the statewide ballot. He simply rejected petitions and dragged his feet until time ran out on signature gatherers.

For nearly eight years, Ashcroft has stretched the limits of his office to get his way. Especially with his handling of abortion-related petitions, he has shown deep disrespect for the volunteers who gather signatures and the voters who provide them.

If things have gone south for him at the end, a bit of gloating is not out of order.

But let's not get carried away. Waiting in the wings to replace Ashcroft in the secretary of state's office is Denny Hoskins, a member of the far-right Senate Freedom Caucus. Among other worrisome concerns, he believes with all his heart that the 2020 election was stolen from Donald Trump.

Ashcroft politicized the secretary of state's office, but he did recognize boundaries such as court orders. As impossible as this sounds, we may miss him once he's gone.

The Subprime Student Loan Debt Bubble

CBO reports how few borrowers are actually repaying their loans

By The Wall Street Journal

It's a dirty job, but someone has to tell you about the federal government's budget tricks. The latest is exposed in a new Congressional Budget Office report that shows how the 2010 Democratic takeover of student debt has created a new and vast entitlement.

CBO examined a sample of federal student loans that entered repayment between July 2009 and June 2013 to measure the extent borrowers were making progress on repaying their debt before the three-and-a-half years of pandemic forbearance. Short conclusion: They weren't.

During the first six years after borrowers were supposed to begin making payments, CBO estimates that loans were in repayment status for only 45% of the time—about 32 months. Borrowers weren't making payments for most of that time because they were either in default, forbearance or deferment.

It gets worse. CBO says "borrowers made payments greater than $10 in only 38 percent of the months" in which a payment was due. That means that even most borrowers who were making payments were doing so inconsistently and often in token amounts.

One reason is that the Democrats' 2010 income-based repayment plans capped payments at 10% of discretionary income—i.e., income exceeding 150% of the poverty line—and canceled debt after 10 to 20 years. As a result, many borrowers had negligible required payments. But then their loan balances ballooned as they accrued interest.

After six years in repayment, the typical borrower owed 8% more than his beginning balance. A quarter of borrowers owed 30% or more debt. More than 75% of those in income-driven repayment plans had rising balances. Borrowers in such plans made payments of more than $10 a month in only about a third of the months.

Democrats say the student debt "crisis" is caused by for-profit colleges. But CBO shows that many students at nonprofit and public colleges are failing to repay their loans. After six years, the typical borrower who attended a nonprofit or four-year public college had paid down only 1% or 2% of his starting balance.

Unlike private lenders, the government has no incentive to ensure borrowers are making payments. The political imperative is to conceal the taxpayer losses on student loans by reducing defaults while effectively turning the program into a new entitlement.

This is what President

Biden's SAVE debt-forgiveness plan does. It eliminates payments for millions of borrowers while reducing them for most others to negligible amounts. Uncle Sam simply waives away unpaid interest. Wouldn't it be nice if your credit card company did the same?

This accounting trick prevents the government's $1.6 trillion in student debt from ballooning as borrowers fail to pay down their loans. Mr. Biden's SAVE plan is estimated to cost $475 billion over a decade, which is on top of hundreds of billions that were already set to be written off.

To sum up: Democrats conned taxpayers by claiming their student loan takeover would save the government money. Now they're trying to obfuscate the cost of their entitlement by expanding it. And they wonder why Americans don't trust government?

Josh Hawley, Lucas Kunce agree to Missouri Senate debate

By Jason Hancock
Missouri Independent

After weeks of tussling between the two campaigns, Republican U.S. Sen. Josh Hawley and Democrat Lucas Kunce are finally set to square off in a televised debate less than a week before voters head to the polls.

The debate will air Oct. 31 on Missouri Next-star stations, including KTVI/KPLR-St. Louis, WDAF-Kansas City, KRBK-Springfield and KSN-Joplin and their digital platforms. It could be the only time the two main contenders for Missouri’s U.S. Senate seat share a stage.

The Missouri Press Association has held a Senate debate every election cycle for years at its annual convention. Kunce is set to appear at this year’s debate on Friday in Springfield along with third-party candidates Jared Young and Nathan Kline, according to Mark Maassen, the press associations executive director.

“No word yet from Josh Hawley,” Maassen said.

Hawley’s campaign did not respond to a request for comment on Friday’s debate.

Caleb Cavarretta, Kunce’s campaign manager, said in an emailed statement that Kunce agreed to Friday’s debate because “unlike Josh Hawley, Lucas respects the responsibility of a candidate and U.S. Senator to connect with folks they are meant to represent.”

“This year, we’ve got two weeks of no excuse in-person absentee voting in Missouri so it would be great for voters to hear from Josh Hawley before then,” Cavarretta said, “but unfortunately he wants to hide out as long as he can before election day.”

Kunce initially challenged Hawley to five televised debates. Hawley, however, demanded a debate at the Missouri State Fair in early August.

When State Fair officials said that was not possible, and that no one from Hawley’s campaign had alerted them to the possibility of a debate, Hawley pushed for a debate hosted by the Missouri Farm Bureau, which has endorsed him in the race.

Kunce said he would sign off on the idea as long as Hawley would formally agree to his suggestion of five televised debates, and the farm bureau show-down never materialized.

Instead, Kunce and Hawley crossed paths at the Governor’s Ham Breakfast at the Missouri State Fair, trading insults and demands for debates.

In 2022, Republican Eric Schmitt also refused to participate in the press association’s debate, only the second time since 1988 that a major-party candidate refused to attend one of the organization’s forums.

While Hawley is unlikely to attend, the two major candidates for Missouri governor will debate on Friday, Maassen said.

Republican Mike Kehoe, Democrat Crystal Quade and third party candidates Paul Lehmann and Bill Slantz have agreed to participate in the gubernatorial forum, Maassen said.

Both the gubernatorial and Senate debates will be moderated by David Lieb of the Associated Press, with a panel of journalists from around the state — Lucas Presson of the South-east Missourian, Christine Temple of the Springfield Business Journal and Alvin Reid of the St. Louis American.

“And then we’ll have a couple outside people, since a local gym has closed down, a lot of their instructors have reached out to me and their clients,” Nelson said. “They said, ‘We want to keep doing Zumba, we want to keep doing our bar class, we want to keep doing our yoga class.’ So, I said, ‘Sure.’

“We’re also going to have karate by one of the community instructors,” she added. “He’s going to be teaching karate on Monday and Thursday nights. So, that will be a different clientele coming in.”

On Saturday, Sept. 14, SADC students began their first rehearsal for the annual December “Nut-cracker” performance.

Nelson said this year, 70 students will participate in the performance. She added that she’s also thankful for the bigger facility.

“It’s very exciting, and it’s so fitting that we are doing this on this day,” Nelson said of the rehearsal. “We just feel so blessed to be able to be here. It was such a quick transition, and Dianne Simon (vice president of the Thompson Hills Investment Co.)

helped me so much with this. From businesswoman to businesswoman, it was just truly a God-thing for me to know her and for her to help me in the way she did. We moved in, and we did it in 25 days.”

There is a Recovering Families group open to individuals receiving services at Lighthouse along with their families,” Bridges said, “and the individual doesn’t have to come to that group if they’re not ready too, their family can.”

A family advocate can even talk with families in one-on-one sessions.

Briscoe recognizes the facility from a different time in his young life.

“I graduated from the Recovery Court here, so this place holds a place in my heart,” Briscoe said. “Being new on staff and now being able to reach out to people and help them in the same way, I’m really looking forward to being able to do that.”

There was a journey Briscoe had to make, from drug user to helping others give up a life of drugs.

“Being an adolescent, having different traumas in the household with a broken family with my parents,” Briscoe said. “Finding an outlet to cope through substance use. Trying to figure out how to handle life and going through the pain, coping with it through more substance use. But I ended up getting into some trouble, that trouble landed me in front of my mentor Dave White.

David White was the 18th Circuit Treatment Court Administrator for treatment court, also known as drug court. Started in 2000, it was one of the first drug courts in Missouri.

“I came into Recovery Court, which was hosted through Recovery Lighthouse,” Briscoe said. “I was sworn in Jan. 2021, and I completed the program 18 months later in Aug. 2022.”

Briscoe faced up to relapsing into drug use but got hold of his impulsive turn to drugs.

“I was able to implement the same tools that I gained from recovery court, from all the groups and from Recovery Lighthouse in a more self-directed way,” Briscoe said.

Briscoe said he got back on his feet, got outpatient and available community resources and went through the training necessary to work as a Certified Peer Specialist.

“So that I could be of assistance,” Briscoe said. “In the same way that many others were. I’ve been able to empathize, I’ve been in their shoes and that’s what makes us all as peers so important, we have that experience, we’ve made that journey.”

Lindsey Adams started as client of Recovery Lighthouse three years ago.

“I did the RSS program which is recovery support services,” certified peer specialist Lindsay Adams said. I was in the program for two years, I’ve been an employee of Recovery Lighthouse since July of last year.”

Helping others on their road to recovery is not about disappointment when there’s a stumble, it’s about the celebration when even the most modest steps are achieved.

“It’s the best feeling,” Adams told the Democrat. “I’m finally getting to the point with a lot of my clients where they’re finishing up their programs and they’re completing things. I’ve had clients before that have failed several times in the past. Now I’m getting to see them and help them complete their program. That’s the best feeling. When a client can come in and successfully complete what they sought out to do.”

The event Saturday will held next to Recovery Lighthouse at 1000 West Main St. from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Chris Howell can be reached at 660-530-0146.

The program has processed $9.5 million of patient financial needs since 2014.

“It’s been wonderful,” Petersen said. “In the last 10 years, we’ve processed about 2,500 loans, those are individual loans. As patients have other things that happen, we refinance those, so we don’t count that as a new loan, but we do allow them to add those new debts to their loan and refinance.”

The loan program has been a success due to the ease of no credit check and no interest for up to five years.

“We’ve expanded the program,” Davis said. “We still do three-year no interest, but if they want to, they can do up to a five year and we start charging interest after the third year, so they have opportunity to pay it off sooner. It’s been amazing for the patients. Patients that couldn’t afford to get their diagnostic tests went ahead and did their tests and were happy because they were able to get in front of health issues that could have been catastrophic down the road.”

Petersen encountered one thankful man who expressed his gratitude for the no-interest loans.

“I had a gentleman come up to me, his wife had cancer and she had a very large bill,” Peterson said. “He said, ‘I just can’t explain to you what this has meant to our family because we’re able to take care of my wife and we don’t have to worry about what’s going to happen, we know what’s going to happen, we’re going to be able to make this payment.’

The man paid back every cent of the loan, highlighting the program’s intention.

“Just the ability for patients to pay, it meant giving them many options and setting them up on payment plans,” O’Connor said. “Sometimes their bills were larger where they couldn’t pay it in a 12-month period, this gave them the option of a no interest loan where the payments could be more manageable for them.”

The point is getting life-saving procedures and diagnostic tests with less stress about the payment.

“The people at Bothwell just want you to take care of your health now, they have many payment options available for later,” O’Connor said. “The total payment in full with the discount, you can pay it over 12 months at the hospital, and the loan program here; the 36 months or the five-year loan. We also offer financial assistance if none of those options are available.”

Chris Howell can be reached at 660-530-0146.

S-C's Cantrell reaches 1,000 career dig milestone

By Jack Denebeim
jackd@sedaliademocrat.com

The only thing sweeter than reaching 1,000 career digs for Piper Cantrell may have been the treats she received from her team for achieving the milestone.

"They gave me a little certificate and my favorite candy and chips," Cantrell said. "It was really nice of Coach to do that and just be with my teammates."

Cantrell surpassed the career mark during the Husker Spikefest Saturday, Sept. 14.

Head volleyball coach Emily Ruckman found out when she was putting together her weekly report after the tournament and couldn't have been more excited for Cantrell.

"She's averaged out however many a year, and whenever I looked at it, she was at 1,015," Ruckman said. "I was like, 'Oh, my gosh.' So, we wanted to celebrate her and make a big deal out of it."

Ruckman posted about Cantrell's achievement on the Lady Tigers' Facebook page and arranged for a celebration on the bus ride to Jefferson City High School on Monday, Sept. 16.

Cantrell said she was shocked to learn she had reached the mark.

LADY TIGERS GOLF TEAM SHOWS OUT AT S-C CLASSIC

By Jack Denebeim

Waiting for the scores to come in was agonizing for Charlotte Fischer and Hannah Lowman.

The Smith-Cotton girls golf duo stood by with angst while they watched their coaches add up the results for each of the 17 schools competing in the S-C Classic Monday, Sept. 16.

"We saw some really good competition here," Lowman said. "It's just so scary waiting for the scores to come in."

But when the scores were finally posted, both players were ecstatic to find out they had earned their first-ever medals at the annual home meet.

Fischer came in third place with an 83, while Lowman tied for seventh with an 87.

"St. Joe is usually here and their top scorer had an 84 here and didn't medal last year," Fischer said. "So, getting third with an 83 is not what I was expecting. I mean, between the two of us, we had like 20 members following us. They kept switching between us. It was kind of scary, but it was fun. I loved it. It was a fun day today."

SANDERS-YOUNG CONNECTION HELPS EXPAND CARDINALS' OFFENSE

By Jack Denebeim
jackd@sedaliademocrat.com

LINCOLN — It's a connection that started to grow when they were in kindergarten and first grade.

However, the link between Lincoln junior quarterback Riley Sanders and senior wideout Chase Young hit full bloom Friday, Sept. 13, when the two accounted for 84% of the Cardinals' points in the team's 50-31 win over Crest Ridge.

Sanders scored six total touchdowns, including five through the air on 15-of-22 pass completions for 354 yards, while Young hauled in three touchdown catches on nine catches for 263 receiving yards.

"It's just built every year and every day," Sanders said about the duo's connection. "We come out here and put in the work. It just gets better every day."

Young said the confidence he and Sanders have in each other was the key to their big performances last Friday.

"Being able to trust Riley and knowing he's going to give me a good ball every time no matter what," Young said. "That trust helps a lot."

Head coach Brad Drehle said he was proud to see all the effort Sanders and Young put in pay off.

"Those guys have worked hard and gotten themselves to a place where they were able to go out and have success," Drehle said. "Chase wears a gray shirt [at practice], which means he is a young man that's got a 3.5 or higher GPA. He's 95% or higher attendance at school. He just works extremely hard in everything he does...Riley's progressing. He's done a lot of good things for us as well...They both had a great night."

The Sanders-Young connection helped send a spark through the team and home crowd early on against Crest Ridge.

Young turned a five-yard hitch route into a 50-yard touchdown on the Cardinals' first score of the night, giving them an 8-7 lead following a two-point conversion.

LADY MUSTANGS DOMINATE LA MONTE

By Jack Denebeim
jackd@sedaliademocrat.com

LA MONTE — The Northwest volleyball team made quick work of La Monte Tuesday, Sept. 17, to earn its first conference win of the season.

The Lady Mustangs won the match in straight sets 25-8, 25-13 and 25-7.

"It was a big win for us," head coach Katie Walker said. "We were in the Higginsville Spikefest this weekend and did not play our best. So, we changed a few things up in practice yesterday [Monday] and the girls worked really, really hard for me, and they were a little nervous because we changed our rotation, but they came through and showed they wanted to play some volleyball."

The win brought the Lady Mustangs to 4-6 on the season.

Even though it's been a slow start to the season compared to last year, Walker said the team is starting to gain confidence.

"We only have two returning starters this year," Walker said. "So, this group has never played together before, and it's been really hard to make that togetherness happen. I think they're starting to gain a little bit of confidence in each other and learn and grow as a team. I think that helps a lot."

One of the Lady Mustangs' returning starters is All-State selection Gabby Meyer.

Meyer put on a show against the Lady Vikings Tuesday, recording kill after kill as well as a handful of aces.

"She's an amazing athlete and she was a great leader tonight," Walker said. "I have nothing but good things to say about her."

Roadrunners basketball adds 15 players to roster

The State Fair Community College men's basketball team announced the addition of 15 student-athletes to its roster Friday, Sept. 13.

Among the area signees is Weston Crawford, a 6-foot-2 guard, who played at Green Ridge High School.

Crawford will also be a member of the track and field team at SFCC.

"Weston is a great kid and a hard worker," Roadrunners head coach Matt Brown said. "He is appreciative of the opportunity and will be another good team guy."

Michael Vansell, a 6-foot-4 forward, played his high school basketball at Versailles High School.

Vansell will be a part of the track and field program at SFCC as well.

"Michael is a tough physical player and is also a hard worker," Brown said. "He is a good team guy."

Also out of Versailles is Tristan Albrecht, a 6-foot-5 guard/forward.

"Tristan is long, lanky and a really good athlete," Brown said.

Other new additions include Jon Brandtner, a 6-foot-4 guard from Cape Girardeau, who transferred from Shawnee Community College.

Brandtner played in 23 games off the bench as a freshman at Shawnee and averaged 1.2 rebounds per game.

"Jon is a skilled player, who can really shoot,"

Brown said. "He is tough as nails. He played his prep school basketball at SEMO Prep. I believe he will be able to step in and help us right away."

Eric Shaw, a 6-foot-4 guard/wing from St. Louis, who played his high school basketball at Maplewood Richmond Heights.

Shaw scored over 1,000 points during his high school career and was named to the All-Metro Team in St. Louis.

"Eric is an extremely athletic player," Brown said. "He played against really good competition in St. Louis. It is always great to add another Missouri student-athlete. We are excited to have him."

Donta Davis, a 6-foot-4 point guard from New York, transferred to State Fair from Shawnee Community College.

Davis sat out last semester, but played prep school basketball at Tennessee Prep.

"Donta is a bigger guard," Brown said. "Donta has a high basketball IQ and is a leader on the floor."

Rashawn Witherspoon, a 6-foot guard, played at Tuscaloosa County High School in Northport, Alabama. Witherspoon helped his team to a 21-7 record as a senior.

"Rashawn is a player that we signed a couple of years ago but, he was unable to play because of injury," Brown said. "He will be ready to go this fall."

Sam Bradford, a 6-foot-6 guard/forward from Howard College in Texas, played in 22 games and averaged 2.8 points per game and 1.7 rebounds per contest in a reserve role.

Bradford played prep school basketball at Hargrave Military Academy in Virginia.

"Sam is a player who can play multiple positions," Brown said. "I think he's going to be a terrific player for us."

Chin Hanson, a 6-foot-9 forward, transferred from Roosevelt University, an NAIA school in Chicago.

"Chin is a good athlete who runs the floor," Brown said. "He will be a good fit for our team in Region 16."

Daniel Garza, a 6-foot-6 guard/forward, played at Don Bosco Preparatory School in Indiana. Garza shot 43 percent from the field and averaged 11.2 points in 10 games. He pulled down 42 total rebounds at Don Bosco.

"Danny can really shoot the ball," Brown said. "He has a high basketball IQ and is an excellent student, we are looking forward to having him."

Tyson Mobley, a 6-foot guard, played his high school basketball at Newtown High School in Connecticut and Hargrave Military Academy in Virginia.

Mobley earned All-Conference and All-State honors in Connecticut. Mobley also played prep school basketball at We Believe Academy in New England.

"Tyson is a guy who comes here with some experience," Brown said. "He is a very smart player and brings a good work ethic. Tyson is an experienced player who knows how to play the game. Tyson will give our team more toughness. He is an excellent student and a team player."

The Roadrunners also signed Malick Ndiaye, a

6-foot-8 guard/forward from Arlington, Texas.

"Malick is a long and athletic player who is really good in transition," Brown said. "Malick can get to the basket."

Timothy Palmer, a 6-foot-8 forward from Brinkley, Arkansas, transferred from Shorter College in North Little Rock, Arkansas.

Palmer averaged two blocks per game as a freshman which was good enough to finish 13th in the country in NJCAA Division II. Palmer averaged 3.8 points and 2.4 rebounds in 22 contests last season at Shorter.

"Timothy is another long and athletic player," Brown said. "Timothy is a shot blocker who will only get stronger."

Also signing with the Roadrunners is Wendell Youyou, a 6-foot-4 guard/forward from New Haven, Connecticut.

"Wendell is a high-energy guy, who will play the guard or forward position," Brown said. "Wendell is really liked by his teammates and will provide a lot of toughness and energy. Wendell is a really good athlete on the defensive end."

Donovan Matthews, a 6-foot-5 forward, played his high school basketball at Cypress Park High School in Houston, Texas.

"Donovan is a big, strong player who's good around the basket," Brown said. "He will provide us a physical presence inside."

Not only did Fischer and Lowman place well, but so did the team as a whole, as the Lady Tigers finished third overall in the Class 3-4 division with a 369, bettering the 376 mark the team set last season at the S-C Classic.

The Lady Tigers finished just four strokes behind second-place finisher Helias Catholic, while Rock Bridge took the meet with a 358.

“I’m really excited how our young team shot today,” head coach Craig Harvey said. “We shot a 369 with three freshmen, a sophomore and a junior. I’m really excited for all of them. Our best round last year was a 363, so we weren’t far off last year with a young group.”

The three freshmen — Camdyn Jones, Harper Cromley and Ascher Callis — shot a 93, 106 and 108, respectively, with each score being a personal-best for the players.

“Usually, freshmen come out in their first couple matches and shoot in the 120s,” Harvey said. “Those are really impressive scores for a young group that’s just kind of getting into the sport.”

Fischer said she is also impressed with what she’s seen from the freshmen early on in the season.

“My freshman year here, I shot a 130,” Fischer said. “So, them coming and shooting like this is amazing, especially for how early in the season it is. It’s usually much later.”

Lowman said it feels good to see the entire team playing so well to start the season, rather than late in the year.

“This is actually how we ended last year, so to start off like this is awesome,” Lowman said. “It feels so good.”

Prior to Monday, the Lady Tigers tied for first at the nine-hole Marshall Quad, with Fischer shooting a one-under 35 on the day.

Then, Smith-Cotton placed eighth out of 21 schools at the Helias Catholic Invitational Wednesday, Sept. 11.

Harvey said the hot start to the season shows what the Lady Tigers are capable of this year.

“We’ve got three of our girls who dual sport, but they still come out and make time to improve their golf game,” Harvey said. “That can’t be taught. That’s their own work ethic and dedication. So, I’m really pleased with that. I think, you know, it’s early in the season, but seeing the other conference scores, I think we could challenge for a conference title.”

The Lady Tigers were runner-ups in the CMAC Tournament last season.

Even though the team is off to a good start, Lowman said there is a lot of season left, and she learned at the S-C Classic Monday that you have to take things one shot at a time.

“Don’t let one bad ball get to you,” Lowman said. “Then, don’t let that one good one get to you either. Each hole is a new hole, and each shot is a different shot.”

The Lady Tigers traveled back to Marshall for the Marshall 18-hole Tournament Tuesday, Sept. 17, and placed third with a team score of 386.

Fischer earned a medal by placing fourth with an 84, as did Lowman, who placed sixth with an 87.

Jones shot a 104, Cromley finished with 111 and Callis had a 114.

Then, on Wednesday, Sept. 18, the Lady Tigers competed in the Richmond Invitational where they placed fourth.

This time, Lowman led the way by placing sixth with a 90, followed by Fischer with a 93, which was good for 10th.

Jones turned in a 102, sophomore Cheyenne Crow posted a 115 and Cromley finished with a 118.

The Lady Tigers’ next meet is the Lady Jays Invitational Monday, Sept. 23, in Jefferson City.

Class 1-2 Division

Green Ridge also competed at the S-C Classic Monday in the Class 1-2 division.

Senior Hannah Lentz shot a 104, senior Katlynn Hiller finished with a 117 and senior Miley Hayes came in with a 118.

MILESTONE

“Last year, I knew I was getting close, but I kind of forgot about it,” Cantrell said. “So, I was surprised.”

Cantrell has been playing volleyball since seventh grade, and when she got to high school, she immediately made an impact on the varsity squad.

“She is extremely dynamic in the back row,” Ruckman said. “She is moving all the time. She is so quick. She’s got crazy reaction time, and just the way she moves and gets to almost every ball is extremely impressive. The way she works all the time, too, and she always puts in that hard work. It’s no wonder why she’s at this milestone so early on.”

Cantrell said getting a lot of playing time and practicing has helped her improve so she could reach the milestone.

“Honestly, just playing is how I got better,” Cantrell said. “Seeing fastballs and having people hit it to me.”

Cantrell is also in the middle of her club soccer season and plays for the Lady Tigers soccer team in the spring.

She said playing both volleyball and soccer has made her a better athlete as well.

“Soccer definitely helps keep me in shape,” Cantrell said. “When I’m out on the court, I don’t really get tired because we do a lot of running in soccer.”

Even if she does get tired, Cantrell said her team always helps her stay motivated to do her best.

ed to do her best.

“I really enjoy just being around my teammates,” she said.

Cantrell said if she plays a sport in college she will play volleyball, but for now she is setting her sights on 2,000 career digs by the end of her senior season next year.

Cantrell added 27 more digs to her total Tuesday, Sept. 17, in the Lady Tigers’ sweep of Warrensburg. S-C won the sets 26-24, 25-17 and 25-17.

The team took on Rock Bridge at Sept. 19, in a home matchup after press deadline.

The Lady Tigers play Marshall at home at 7 p.m. Monday, Sept. 23.

CARDINALS

Young and Sanders agreed this was their favorite moment from the game.

“That was pretty great to start the game,” Young said. “It got everybody going, everybody was riled up.”

Lincoln’s next score was another 50-plus yard pass play from Sanders, but this time he found junior Dawson Parrott on deep shot.

Sanders then scored on a five-yard touchdown about midway through the second quarter to help the Cardinals gain a 26-7 lead heading to halftime.

Out of halftime, Sanders threw his third passing touchdown that went the way of senior Camden Everhart, who found himself wide open on a tight end seam up the middle for a 23-yard score.

Early in the fourth quarter, Sanders found Young on another hitch route that Young took 67 yards to the house to put the Cardinals up 42-18.

Sanders said throwing the hitch to Young was a play that was successful all night long.

“Their corners bailed a lot at the snap, so it was just six yards, turn around, catch the ball and get upfield,” Sanders said. “That hitch route worked really well.”

Sanders and Young capped off the night with their final touchdown connection of the night midway through the fourth quarter when Sanders found Young on a 10-yard in-route that Young broke loose for a 47-yard score.

Both players said that helping lead their team to a big win meant a lot to them.

“It just feels good,” Sanders said. “Any win feels good, but playing good in front of the home crowd and on homecoming, too, just feels really good.”

Drehle said having an offensive night like the Cardinals had Friday will be big for the team going forward.

“We needed to begin to expand our game a little bit,” Drehle said. “It’s something that’s come along slowly. It’s just one of those things that’s got so many moving parts to it when you talk to the receivers, you talk to the offensive line and the quarterback, there’s a lot of different things that go into it. So, we hope to grow and continue to do that.”

Along with the big passing night, the Cardinals still had over 100 yards rushing on the ground against Crest Ridge as well.

Sanders gave credit to the offensive line for being the ones who really opened the playbook up.

“Our offensive line played really well,” Sanders said. “That helps open up the pass game, and then the receivers get open and it’s just pitch and catch. We rushed for over 100 yards, too.”

As a result of Friday’s performance, Young said the team is riding high into a tough matchup this week against Holden.

“It gives everyone a boost of confidence to know what we are capable of,” Young said.

The Cardinals will hit the road for the first time this season when they head to Holden for a 7 p.m. kickoff Friday, Sept. 20.

LIBERTY CENTER TO PRESENT

‘EXIT THE BODY’

By Faith Bemiss-McKinney
Special to the Democrat

Exit the Body, a who-done-it mystery/comedy will open at the Hayden Liberty Center on Friday, Sept. 20.

Although the show isn’t as well-known as some, it’s filled with fast-paced fun.

Director Jan Bahner noted the show has 10 actors, five women, and five men, and it’s a show that she directed and loved for many years.

“It deserves to be a well-known play,” Bahner said. “This needs to be a crowd favorite. Something that theatres come back to year in and year out.”

“Exit the Body” was written in 1961 by Fred Carmichael, who wrote summer theatre stock in New England. The particular setting of the LCAA play is 1964. Bahner added that the storyline is about a woman who writes murder mysteries. She and her secretary go to New England for a working vacation. While there, they get more than they bargained for.

“They check into a rental home that is like an Airbnb gone horribly wrong,” Bahner said. “They start finding bodies in the closet that, shortly after they’re discovered, seem to disappear — only to be followed by another body.”

“The previous tenant of the house was an underworld mob figure who committed a jewel heist. Of the jewels that he stole, there was a set of diamonds that are rumored to still be in the rental house because he was killed before his lease was up.”

People believe the jewels are still somewhere in the house, and those involved in the story begin to form smaller groups and decide to hunt for the jewels.

“But it turns out they are all hunting at the same time,” Bahner said. “A lot of the comedy of the play comes from all these different groups sneaking around the house in the middle of the night.”

Bahner added she chose the play because she has a history with it.

“I was looking for a play for my (Sacred Heart) high school kids back in 1985,” Bahner said. “And I ran across a play that seemed to fit the cast I had then and would go really well.”

I loved the way it was written, it was so clever. The dialog is sparkling; it just hums along. Although it’s not a famous play, it was one that I thought really suited us well. And it surpassed all my expectations — and I just absolutely fell in love with it by the time it was finished.”

A few years later, she was looking for a play and decided to use “Exit the Body” again.

“And once again, it just blew me away,” Bahner said. “And then a few years after that, I don’t know the exact year, it was somewhere in the early 2000s. They wanted me to direct a play for Community Theatre, the Liberty Center, and I said, Lillian Seymour (Suzanne Peterson) and Kate Bixley (Jessica Jones) help Mystery author Crane Hammond (Amber Harshner) to her feet following a big stampede through her house during a dress rehearsal for “Exit the Body” on Tuesday, Sept. 17, at the Hayden Liberty Center. The play will open at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 20.

‘I have the perfect little comedy.’”

Danher told the LCAA the play was “light-hearted summer perfection.” The cast included Sedalia’s well-known actor, the late Thom Fuller, and actor Ellen Cope.

“And we just had a ball,” Bahner said. “And the audience did too. It was just the perfect summer show.”

Bahner said she decided to bring the show back for this fall. It will be her fourth time acting as a director, which has a lot of meaning for her, and she is proud of the LCAA actors.

“When we first started rehearsal, I told them that I wanted this to be a real collaboration,” Bahner said. “I wanted everyone to contribute their ideas. I’m the director in name, but this is really ... our show. “And they really stepped up to that. They were inventive and creative, and it’s just been a dream to be their director.

Wasson family 84th reunion Sunday at Heckart Community Center

By Chris Howell
chrish@sedaliademocrat.com

The Wasson family reunion will be held at noon Sunday, Sept. 22, at the Heckart Community Center, 1800 W. Third St.

The reunion is held the third Sunday in September,” Eleanore ‘Elle’ Wasson Duggan told the Democrat.

“This is our 84th reunion,” Duggan said. “We didn’t have one last year.”

Duggan’s table at home held several history books about Sedalia’s past, and she had many clippings of Democrat articles about her family’s large reunions pasted to large posters.

“It was kind of exciting when I found the newspaper article from 1944,” Duggan said. “Which would make it 80 years from that particular article.”

Duggan searched for Sedalia Democrat articles on the Wasson family reunions and found one even older.

“If we go all the way back to 1899, that was a big one,” Duggan said. “There was nothing recorded after that one because it was quite uneventful until 1939.”

Duggan traced the

“I always tease that Bob my husband had to go to California to marry somebody who he wasn’t related to.”

Missouri Wasson’s back to Thomas Wasson.

“Thomas Ryland Wasson Sr. came to Missouri in the early 1800’s,” Duggan said. “The family was always on the frontier.”

Born Sep. 25, 1796, in Kentucky, according to his tombstone, Thomas is believed to be the grandson of Joseph Wasson of North Carolina who fought for the American cause in the revolution.”

Feb. 11, 1814, he married his first wife, Polly O’Bannon in Fort Cooper in what is now Howard County.

“The settlers in that area had gathered in the forts as protection from the Indians who were helping the British in the War of 1812,” Duggan said. “Thomas and a Joseph Wasson are listed with the other men of fighting age. They had to register all the boys, and they joined them in militias.”

Thomas Waason was the pioneer that came to the area and started a family.

“He had ten children by his first wife,” Duggan said, “and five by his second wife Elizabety after Polly died...15 children.”

With such a healthy start on a family the reunions grew and grew with more marriages and children added over the years.

“The top one that I could was in 1940,” Duggan said, “and it said ‘Wasson family reunion held on Sep. 22, about 180 present.’ It just mentioned the eldest person present, he had just turned 80 years old.”

Duggan moved to Sedalia in 1974 and found 13 other Wasson’s in the phonebook.

“I always tease that Bob my husband had to go to California to marry somebody who he wasn’t related to,” Duggan laughed, “because everybody north in town was related, and they really were.”

Many families have been blended over the years, others moved away, and naturally many of the old-timers have passed on.

But knows Duggan if she writes enough invitations, calls enough distant relatives and gets the word out dozens will show up to the 84th Wasson reunion.

“We usually have anywhere from 30 to 50 that are consistent,” Duggan said. “But we’re losing so many of the elderly ones this year.”

Despite losing loved ones, new babies are always born, and new families are added to the family tree.

Nearly 138,000 beds are being recalled after reports of them breaking or collapsing during use

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Nearly 138,000 platform beds sold at major retailers including Amazon and Walmart are being recalled across the U.S. and Canada because they can collapse, posing fall and injury risks.

Utah-based importer CVB Inc. is recalling the Lucid-branded platform beds with upholstered square tufted headboards. According to Thursday notices from the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission and Health Canada, the beds can sag, break or collapse during use.

To date, there have been 245 incidents of this occurring in the U.S., resulting in 18 related injuries such as contusions and bruises, the CPSC said. An additional 11 reports of “bed failures” have been reported in Canada, with no further injuries.

According to Lucid, the recall covers a discontinued version of its platform beds, which the company says were manufactured between 2019 and 2021.

While manufacturing ended several years ago, the now-recalled beds continued to be sold at major retailers through April 2024, the CPSC said. In addition to Amazon, Walmart and Lucid’s website, consumers may have also purchased the beds at Bed Bath & Beyond, eBay, Home Depot, Macys, Target.com, Wayfair and other retailers.

About 137,000 of the recalled beds were sold in the U.S. and 890 in Canada, the CPSC said.

The beds — which were made in Malaysia and come in twin, full, queen, king and cal-king sizes — can be identified with a white law label found on the back of the headboard. “Made For: CVB INC, 1525 W 2960 S, LOGAN, UT 84321” should be printed on it.

People who have the recalled beds are urged to stop using them immediately and contact Lucid for a free replacement frame.

Consumers will have to write the word “recalled” on the bed’s support rails with a permanent marker and send photos to Lucid. More information about getting a replacement can be found on Lucid’s recall page.

Smith-Cotton Class of ‘59 celebrates 65th reunion

The Smith-Cotton Class of 1959 joined together for their 65th class reunion on Sep. 13, 14 and 15.

The reunion began at Goodies — a memory of the original Garst’s Drive-In that was at the corner of Ohio and Broadway. If you had a car, you drove “the Drag” on Friday and Saturday nights.

Going worth on Ohio, back up Ohio, and around Garst’s; then west on Broadway to drive around the Wheel-Inn Drive Inn and then to see who was at Dog ‘N

Suds on 65 Highway.

Some of us worked at Garst’s and the Wheel Inn and Dog ‘N Suds (now Kehde’s).

Most of us didn’t have a car! 1959 was the era of Rock ‘N Roll music, dancing the jitterbug, and going around in groups talking to each other, and the beginning of the Vietnam War.

As a class, we were all connected. We gathered in groups often.

We have stayed connected for the last 65 years and we still have lunch together once a month. We still we still

Fall Prevention Week to be observed Sept. 22 through Sept. 27

Care Connection for Aging Services is observing Falls Prevention Awareness Week from Sept. 22 to 27 and wants to invite the community to join.

Care Connection and their community Senior Centers are committed to empowering older adults to reduce their risk of a fall — which is a major cause of serious injuries and death among people older than 65, according to the Centers for Disease Control.

The National Council on Aging says one in four older Americans will experience a fall this year, with the cost for such accidents estimated to soar to more than $101 billion by 2030. However, lifestyle adjustments, evidence-based falls prevention programs, and clinical-community partnerships can help reduce falls among older adults.

“We offer so many online classes, including one focused on falls prevention called ‘Matter of Balance’ that is proven to help prevent falls and reduce the fear of falling,” said Teresa Etters, Care Connection’s Director of Health and Wellness.

“We also offer Tai Chi for Arthritis and Falls Prevention, which helps improve core strength and reduce the risk of falls as well.”

Even if a fall doesn’t injure an older adult, the fear of falling limits activities and social engagements, resulting in physical decline, depression, social isolation, and feelings of helplessness.

Here are some steps from the NCOA that you and your loved ones can take to prevent falls:

Find a good balance and exercise program such as the ones offered at Care Connection. Visit the events section www.goaging.org/events or call 1-800-748-7826. Look to build balance, strength, and flexibility.

Talk to your health care provider. Ask for an assessment of your risk of falling. Share your history of recent falls.

Regularly review your medications with your doctor or pharmacist. Make sure side effects are not increasing your risk of falling. Take medications only as prescribed.

Get your vision and hearing checked annually and update your eyeglasses. Your eyes and ears are key to keeping you on your feet.

Keep your home safe. Remove tripping hazards, increase lighting, make stairs safe, and install grab bars in key areas.

Talk to your family members and enlist their support in taking simple steps to stay safe.

Care Connection for Aging Services is a non-profit area agency on aging serving people 60 and older in 13 West Central Missouri counties: Bates, Benton, Carroll, Cedar, Chariton, Henry, Hickory, Johnson, Lafayette, Pettis, Saline, St. Clair, and Vernon. The mission is to provide opportunities to create positive aging experiences. For more information, visit www.goaging.org or call 1-800-748-7826.

PASTOR'S PULPIT

Understanding the past, present and future in life

By Candace Fowler

Lead Pastor, First United Methodist

This weekend, Sedalia will remember the Ozark Music Festival that came to town in 1974. Admittedly, I'm a little too young to recall this event, but plenty of people do.

Those who remember have colorful tales to tell. One of my favorite stories from the festival that I've read is about the guy who left a note for his roommate telling him he was headed to the music festival and to told him to take care of his cat. When he got to the music festival, his roommate was there. He wondered who was taking care of his cat. Good, bad, or ugly, no one can deny that Sedalia made its mark on history that weekend.

As with any memory of the past, some details fade over time. Typically, stories grow funnier, villains become meaner, and situations seem scarier as the tales get taller. It's important for us to remember our personal and communal histories. Remembering helps us appreciate how far we've come. And, let's be honest, sometimes our past feels like a collection of embarrassing moments we'd rather forget or painful memories we can't face.

The past is often hard to confront. Yet, we can embrace the present, for that is where God invites us to experience His grace. It's a divine "now" where we can live fully, recognizing that God is the God of our past and present. This grace invites us to acknowledge our missteps without fear, trusting that God is at work even when we can't see it.

As we look forward with Christ, we recognize that the future is rich with potential. The sanctifying grace of God is transformative, enabling us to grow in holiness and love. John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, said, "I am not what I ought to be, I am not what I want to be; but by the cross of Christ, I am not what I was."

The future can feel daunting. In a world filled with uncertainties—political strife, climate change, and whether pineapple belongs on pizza—it's easy to become anxious. Yet, as people of faith, we are called to look forward with hope. Jesus assures us, "Do not worry about tomorrow, for tomorrow will worry about itself" (Matthew 6:34). If we can trust God with our eternal future, we can trust Him with our immediate concerns.

The beauty of faith is that our past, present, and future are interconnected, enhancing our understanding of God's work in our lives. This is why it's good to look back and remember. Our memories remind us of God's steadfast love, showing us where He was with us, even when we didn't see it then. Our present invites us to love God and others as we love ourselves.

As we navigate this journey together, it's essential to embrace both the joy and the challenges knowing that they are both part of life. Community plays a vital role in this process. Sharing our stories—whether filled with laughter or tinged with sorrow—fosters deeper connections among us. It's in these shared moments that we find encouragement and strength and we are reminded of God's care.

Think about the times you've gathered to reminisce about your favorite family memories or sat around and talked about the good ole days. Each story contributes to our collective identity and serves as a reminder that we are not alone. And with these stories, we learn. We learn from our mistakes and if we listen carefully, we can learn about each other. Just as the Ozark Music Festival united people in celebration, recognizing God's presence each day can bind us together in faith. These shared experiences remind us of our shared journey and the power of unity in diversity.

As we look to the future, let's commit to supporting one another through life's ups and downs. Every stumble is an opportunity for growth, and every setback can be a setup for a comeback. And in every sorry we have opportunities to find God's grace.

Together, we can face the uncertainties of tomorrow with confidence and grace. Together, let's remember our past, embrace our present, and look forward to the future with hope, knowing that Christ walks beside us every step of the way. And don't forget to enjoy some great music this weekend!

Mystery author Crane Hammond (Amber Harshner) and Kate Bixley (Jessica Jones) try to explain the crazy events to the local sheriff, Vernon Cookley (Jeremy Lobaugh), during a dress rehearsal for “Exit the Body” on Tuesday, Sept. 17.

Crane Hammond’s secretary, Kate Bixley (Jessica Jones), doesn’t believe Hammond’s (Amber Harshner) story about the “dead body in the closet.” The scene was part of a dress rehearsal for the Liberty Center Association for the Arts play, “Exit the Body.”

Mystery author Crane Hammond (Amber Harshner) finds the first body (Matthew Dillon) in the closet during a dress rehearsal for “Exit the Body” on Tuesday, Sept. 17, at the Hayden Liberty Center.

“Exit the Body” will be performed at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 20, and Saturday, Sept. 21, and at 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 22, at the Hayden Liberty Center, 111 W.

Fifth St. Tickets are $17 for adults, $15 for seniors, and $12 for students; tickets can be purchased online at libertycentersedalia.com or the box office.

WASSON

Dr. Rebecca Imhauser and Betty Wasson Singer have been invaluable Duggan’s research on the Wasson’s history by writing books and collecting material on the clan.

“Betty has left me materials, but she wrote lots of books about the early settlers,” Duggan said. “Back down prior to 1812 when they were here in Missouri.”

Researching relatives is always interesting to Duggan, but she is really looking forward to Sunday’s reunion.

“It’s always fun and exciting,” Duggan said. “People are happy to see each other and catch up. We have regular customs, things that we do, of course... food first thing always and we have a candy corn count, you know.”

Duggan found a saying she loves on one of her books, “The path of the family takes us in many directions, but we will always remember where we began.”

In 1998 the Wasson family raised enough from an auction to fund a mural in the Pettis County Courthouse called “The Seats of Justice.”

“How do you know where you’re going, if you don’t know where you’ve been?” Duggan said. “We’re not supposed to always look back, but to cherish that history. Our pioneer relatives really sacrificed a lot, life was not easy.”

Chris Howell can be reached at 660-530-0146

A potluck dinner was held at Bothwell Park for the 80th Wasson family reunion in 2018.

WHAT'S NEW ON NETFLIX

"Rez Ball" (2024)

Get back in the game with the coming-of-age sports film "Rez Ball" when it makes its premiere Friday, Sept. 27, on Netflix. Inspired by Michael Powell's celebrated book "Canyon Dreams: A Basketball Season on the Navajo Reservation," along with "the New York Times articles that laid its foundation" (per Netflix), "Rez Ball" follows the Chuska Warriors, a high school basketball team in the heart of Chuska, New Mexico, in the Navajo Nation. After tragically losing their star player, Nataanii (newcomer Kusem Goodwind), the Warriors are struggling to keep their dreams of a state championship alive and are desperate for a new leader, while the community points its frustrations toward the team's coach, Heather Hobbs (Jessica Matten, "Dark Winds"). Turning to their Native American roots to put a unique spin of their game, Nataanii's best friend, Jimmy (new talent Kauchani Bratt), Coach Hobbs and the rest of the team rally together to turn their fate around. "A journey of resilience and unity," as described by Netflix, "Rez Ball" comes from director Sydney Freeland ("Drunktown's Finest," 2014),

WHAT'S NEW ON PARAMOUNT+

"Apartment 7A" (2024)

Before Rosemary, there was Terry. Exploring the events that took place in New York City's infamous Bramford building before the harrowing tale of Rosemary Woodhouse (Mia Farrow, "The Purple Rose of Cairo") in the 1968 horror classic "Rosemary's Baby," the new prequel film, "Apartment 7A," makes its debut on Paramount+ Friday, Sept. 27. Still based on Ira Levin's novel "Rosemary's Baby," this new film is set in 1965, as Terry Gionoffrio (Julia Garner, "Ozark"), an ambitious young dancer, brings her dreams of fame and fortune with her to the Big Apple. But when Terry suffers a devastating injury with the potential to dash her dreams entirely, she is taken in by a wealthy older couple, Margaux "Minnie" Castevet (Dianne Wiest, "Bullets Over Broadway," 1994) and Roman Castevet (Kevin McNally, "Pirates of the Caribbean: The Curse of the Black Pearl," 2003), who gives her a room in their luxury apartment in the Bramford. When Alan Marchand (Jim Sturgess, "Across the Universe," 2007), a fellow resident and Broadway producer, offers Terry another chance to hit the big time, it seems as though her luck has turned around entirely. But disturbing circumstances and something truly evil in the Bramford soon force Terry to confront exactly how much she's willing to sacrifice for her career.

"Colin From Accounts" - Season 2

A romantic comedy series about the complexities of human relationships, Season 2 of Australia's "Colin From Accounts" makes its way to American audiences Thursday, Sept. 26, on Paramount+. The series centers around Ashley (Harriet Dyer, "Love Child") and Gordon (Patrick Brammall, "Evil"), "two single(ish), complex humans who are brought together by a nipple flash, a car accident and an injured dog" (per Paramount+). Both flawed and funny people, "Colin From Accounts" follows Ashley and Gordon as they find the bravery to choose each other and show their true selves, scars, ugly bits and all. Season 2 finds Ashley and Gordon now living together and learning more about each other — and their living habits — than either of them ever possibly wanted to know. Meanwhile, they're doing everything they can to get their dog, Colin, back from his new owners.

WHAT'S NEW ON PEAOCK

"Brilliant Minds" - Season 1

Oliver Sacks, NBC's newest medical drama, "Brilliant Minds," premieres Tuesday, Sept. 24, on Peacock. The series stars Zachary Quinto ("Star Trek," 2009) as Dr. Oliver Wolf, a "revolutionary, larger-than-life neurologist" (per Peacock) who explores the seemingly endless intricacies of the human mind. Along with his team and interns, Dr. Wolf solves fascinating, often tricky cases — all while the group tries to balance their own personal lives and mental well-being. Created, written and executive produced by Michael Grassi ("Degraasi: The Next Generation"), "Brilliant Minds" also stars Tamberla Perry ("Death and Other Details"), Ashleigh LaThrop ("The Kominsky Method"), Alex MacNicoll ("The Society"), Aury Krebs ("Triple Threat," 2020), Spence Moore II ("All American"), Teddy Sears ("Masters of Sex") and Donna Murphy ("The Gilded Age").

WHAT'S NEW ON APPLE TV+

"Wolfs" (2024)

After premiering in theaters last week, the star-studded action comedy "Wolfs" makes its streaming debut Friday, Sept. 27, on Apple TV+. The film stars George Clooney ("The Monuments Men," 2014) as a lone wolf professional fixer who is more than content to carry out his work alone. Hired to cover up a high-profile crime, his carefully laid plans go sideways when a second fixer (played by Brad Pitt, "Snatch," 2000) shows up for the same job. Forced to work together and attempt to salvage the situation, the duo of prickly professionals "find their night spiraling out of control in ways that neither one of them expected" (per Apple TV+). From writer, director and producer Jon Watts ("Spider-Man: Homecoming," 2017), the film also stars Amy Ryan ("Only Murders in the Building"), Austin Abrams ("Euphoria"), Poor-na Jagannathan ("Never Have I Ever"), Richard Kind ("Argo," 2012) and Zlatko Buric ("Triangle of Sadness," 2022).
