Filing for the April Municipal election opened Tuesday, Dec. 10. Sedalia City Clerk Jason Myers and his staff were busy getting candidate signatures on the many forms needed for the upcoming ballot. “This will be for the April 8 election for City Council,” Meyer said. “The seats that are open will be the ones for Councilman [Tom] Oldham, Councilman [Chris] Marshall, Councilman [Bob] Cross and Councilman [Steve] Bloss.” Candidates entered the Municipal building lobby and filed paperwork for the election at the City Clerk’s window. With a set deadline of Dec. 31, seven candidates had filed as of Thursday.
Thomas J. Oldham has refiled for the Ward 1 position and faces opposition from Albert Reine. Oldham was in early Tuesday to ask Sedalia for another term and remarked on the renewed interest people had in running for council. “It was nice that we had a few more people than we normally have for this reelection,” Oldham said. “Out of the chaos that spurred from the last couple of years one of the great things that has happened is there’s been much more community involvement; so even though there’s a small group out there that yells a lot, there’s still a large group though that knows what the city does and appreciates what the city does.” Oldham links today’s distrust of local government to larger four-year presidential election cycles. Sedalia Habitat for Humanity is putting out the call for volunteers to help build a new home on Saturday, Dec. 14. and Saturday Dec. 21. Five more volunteers are needed for a crew working with a single mother to build her dream home. “The location is at 25th Street and South Lafayette Avenue,” Board President David Limbaugh said. “Over by the middle school; it’s 500 E 25th we start about 8 a.m. on Saturday.” Volunteers just need to call and sign up beforehand in order for enough supplies and lunch to be ordered. The site is already prepared. “We have the slab and the concrete all down and the yard graded for our next homeowner,” Limbaugh said. “We’re going to start framing this Saturday, Dec. 14.” Those with any construction skill are invited, but a willingness to put in a good five- or six-hours helping a worthy person become a first-time homeowner is all that’s required. The Sedalia Senior Center offers ‘more than a meal’ to Pettis County seniors. From their rented space at the Heckart Community Center, 1800 W. Third St, the Sedalia Senior Center has home-delivered over 51,000 meals and served another 9,400 meals in their dining room this year. Machele Thierfelder is the Center Coordinator for Sedalia Senior Center. “We’re an agency that’s ran through Care Connection,” Thierfelder said. “Care Connection has 20 centers in 13 counties. We are one of the biggest that they have, so our need is bigger than everyone else’s.” Several dedicated volunteers and staff members arrive early each day to prepare, sort and deliver nutritious meals across Pettis County. “Our impact is definitely great,” Thierfelder said. “What we do for the community, we provide meals to homebound seniors, we also have people that come in the dining room and eat, we do activities in the dining room as well we play bingo twice a week.” See CENTER, Page A3

Democrat Salutes

The Sedalia Lions Club had an aggressive plan to support our local Salvation Army's Bell Ringing program this year. On Dec. 6, the Lions Club rang all day at both the east and west doors of Wal-Mart. The Lions Club matched the total money raised from those awesome Sedalians who contributed into Salvation Army's Red Buckets. Sedalia Lions Club Board members Theresa Rooks and Jessica Borchers recently presented a $2,500 check to Sedalia Salvation Army Director Magen Hudson.

Over 2,800 hours of recreation time, 490 hours of education and 1,400 hours of care management were provided, and over 4,600 volunteer hours were served in fiscal year 2024.

Unfortunately, expenses are high and the realities of operating as a business require the Sedalia Senior Center board to meet a lofty goal.

“We have a $200,000 fundraising goal that we need to meet by June 30,” Thierfelder said.

Sedalia Senior Center board member Ruth Dale told the Democrat the center needs assistance in feeding and caring for the elderly of Pettis County.

“We need to make money,” Dale told the Democrat, “we have a budget and so we have a very small board, what we’re doing is trying to find some people who will serve on the board and find some corporate sponsors that would help. All the nonprofits around have large corporate sponsors who helped them throughout the year, we don’t have that. We have to pay our bills and be able to stay open and take care of our folks.”

Dale praised the volunteers how make the entire operation possible.

“Our volunteers are wonderful but many of our volunteers are about my age, and I’m 73,” Dale said. “Some of our drivers are my age or older, and when they have to retire because of health reasons or other things that come up we need somebody to take their place, or those meals can’t be delivered.”

Thierfelder said the Sedalia Senior Center is not downsizing staff but is cutting back on some hours trying to make the $200,000 fundraising goal.

Four yearly fundraisers should help as will the Senior Center’s June gala.

“The gift of a donation a financial donation is always welcomed,” Thierfelder said. “Even giving their time is great, too. We’re always looking for home-delivered meal drivers, we’re looking for people that want to volunteer in the kitchen, people that want to volunteer in the dining room, we have needs for everything.”

Those wanting to sponsor the Sedalia Senior Center are encouraged to call Machele Thierfelder at 660-826-0713.

For good health, go back to the basics

Carnivore. Atkins. Raw food. Paleo. Ketogenic. Vegan. Ayurveda. (Are you humming “We Didn’t Start the Fire” yet?) There are enough fad diets and “lifestyle changes” out there to rewrite Billy Joel’s whole song, and then some.

As a cancer survivor, I’m regularly subjected to this kind of dietary and lifestyle advice, even (and mostly) from people who have never met me. Acquaintances are sure I can extend my life and prevent my cancer from coming back if I just take ivermectin/drink hot lemon water every morning/stop eating carbs for the rest of my life/ lower my PH. The list goes on and on. Oftentimes, the advice of these well-meaning individuals contradicts each other! But all the time, these types are astounded to find out that I adhere to no particular diet, take very few nutritional supplements, and just generally try not to pay attention to the realm of popular nutrition. I tell them the stress of it all will take years off my life.

Though my health history means I get offered such advice more frequently and more intensely, I’m certainly not the only one. We have never been more “in tune” with our bodies as a culture, and as a result, there’s been an explosion of nutrition-based lifestyle philosophies: foods, drugs, farming methods, pills, oils, exercises and even personal hygiene practices. They all promise to improve or cure obesity or chronic illness, the twin malaises of our time.

We are a very sick society, and good health is a good goal. But in typical modern fashion, we are massively overthinking it. We are willing to pursue complicated diet regimes, ancient or futuristic health secrets, but most of us aren’t even able to adhere to the bare basics of what’s necessary for good health here and now. There are three pillars of wellness that transcend time and culture, and the average American doesn’t bother with any of them.

1. Good sleep: Humans must get adequate sleep for their bodies and brains to be able to function properly. There are no known shortcuts or workarounds. But Americans are so bad at going to sleep that the CDC has labeled this a public health problem. More than a third of adults get less than seven hours of sleep per night, and a staggering 97 percent of teenagers get less than the 8-10 hours of sleep necessary for healthy development. This phenomenon is only getting worse. Technology in particular is a killer of good sleep, and artificial light, especially the “blue” light that comes from TV and phone screens, stimulates the brain in a way that makes restorative sleep difficult. But we don’t care. Sleep advice doesn’t sell as well as supplements and zoning out with Netflix at the end of a long day is much more satisfying than staring at the inside of your eyelids.

2. Whole Foods: “Whole foods” is one of those trendy terms that actually matters. But we used to just call them “foods.”

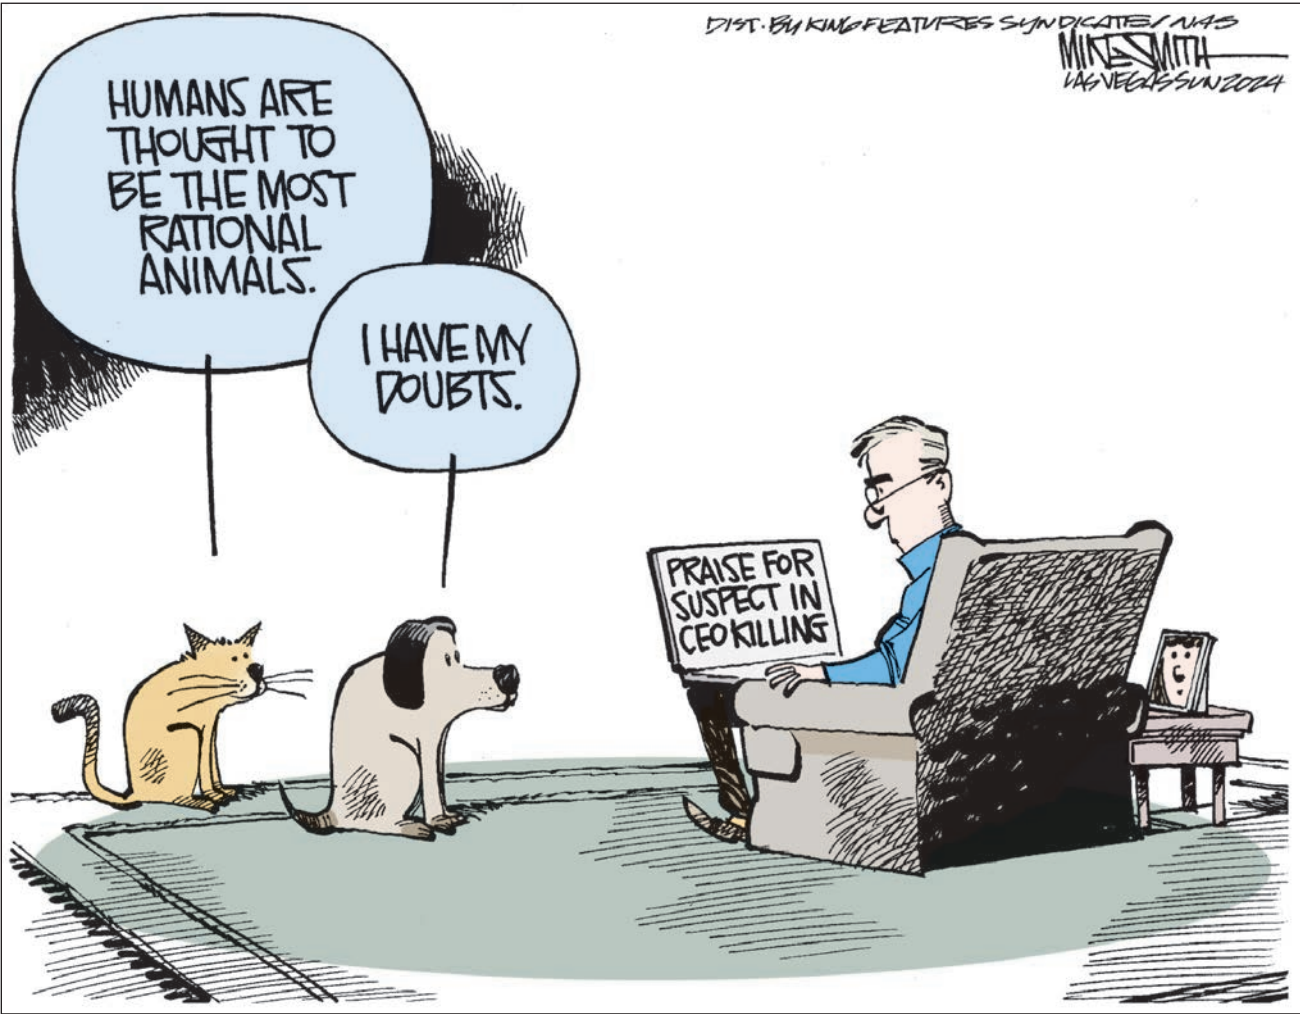

Liz Schleicher
Contributing Columnist

It’s only been in the past seventy-five years or so that ultra-processed foods have proliferated, and as they’ve done so, we’ve gotten more and more chronically ill. Even when they’re labeled “healthy,” ready-to-eat meals and snacks are full of artificial dyes, sweeteners, and other inventions of man. But they’re empty of actual substantive nutrition, and they make up “more than half of calories consumed at home by U.S. adults.” That’s not even counting the 34 percent of total calories the average American gets from restaurants! These statistics imply that most of us get only about 15 percent of our calories from real, whole food. There’s an old joke about a teenager looking into the fridge and complaining that his family doesn’t have any food, just “ingredients.” But that’s the key – if we want good health, we have to be willing to take the time and effort to prepare and eat “ingredients.”

3. Movement: Why were people in the 1950s and 60s so much healthier than us? It was the era of white bread and cigarettes, the rise of fast food, and the generation of TV dinners. The answer is activity. We were moving all the time. Not just exercising in a gym but moving our bodies naturally throughout each day. Schoolchildren had multiple recesses and were expected to play outside in all weather. Addictive stationary pursuits like video games had not yet been invented. True desk jobs were rare. Especially in urban areas, people were apt to walk to get from place to place. By contrast, about a quarter of U.S. adults today are sedentary. Physically active jobs make up less than 20 percent of employment. And we’ve eschewed moving our bodies for fun. We mostly just sit all day and move briefly from place to place.

If you’ve run the gamut of diets and weight-management apps, blown your budget at supplement stores, and are still sick, tired, and sad, take a closer look at the most basic practices of your life. Are you sleeping enough? Are you eating “ingredients?” Are you generally moving your body, or are you generally at rest? Most of us aren’t doing any of it, and we’re not even admitting it to ourselves. We’re all too willing to reach for the next exciting wellness trend, but we will never achieve good health if we can’t take care of the most boring, ordinary facets of daily life.

Christmas carols at ‘City Come Again’

I think I know every verse of every Christmas carol ever written. The day after Thanksgiving, mother started playing the Mario Lanza Christmas album over and over on our Philco cabinet stereo, and he sang all the verses of each song.

My favorite part of the album was when some deep, mellifluous voice intoned: “Then Balthazar spoke.” (One of the three kings, you know.) Listening to those songs daily for a month every year put them solidly in my head.

Additionally, my Methodist church wasn’t really high on Advent hymns, thank heaven. Other than “O Come Emanuel,” I’ve never met an Advent hymn I really like. Advent hymns are generally either like a dirge, or they are written with no love for the organist, whose feet have to move on every word. I want to make it clear that I have never, in what seems like the thousand years I have been trying to play the organ, hit every note with my feet. Sometimes I skip, sometimes I hit the wrong note and sometimes I just stay on a note that will work for that particular chord. In Thayer, we began singing all the verses of lovely, melodic Christmas carols on the first Sunday after Thanksgiving and didn’t stop until “We Three Kings” on Epiphany. This – and Mario Lanza – cemented those songs so that now, I don’t even look at the hymnal during the paltry time we get to sing Christmas carols.

That smugness tripped me up last week. Every December, on the first or second Monday, William Jewell College presents a program of music and word at Grace and Holy Trinity Cathedral, an Episcopal church (I always thought it odd, back in the day, that a Baptist college presented a program at an Episcopal church – nowadays, since Jewell dissolved its connection with the Southern Baptist Convention, presenting at an Episcopal church seems normal). I’ve never been able to go, either because I was teaching a class on Monday, or I had Court on Monday, or we had been to Arkansas to see Emily and were coming home on Monday. This year, however, the timing was perfect. We were in Kansas City on Sunday night for a birthday party, and we just spent the night with friends, so we were already there. The event is entitled “The City Come Again,” which comes from the Robert Frost poem “Christmas Trees.” This year, Jewell’s choir sang, readers interpreted poems, and the congregation sang Christmas carols. I was sitting between my good friend and one of her friends, whom I know tangentially, and I didn’t open my hymnal. I didn’t have to. I know all those songs. Imagine my surprise – and embarrassment – when verse 2 of “O, Come All Ye Faithful” wasn’t the same as verse 2 when Mario Lanza sings it. And neither was verse 4. All the verses I know were in the song, but they were just in a strange order. And that happened more than with just that one hymn. Eventually, I had to be like everyone else and read the verses as I sang them. I could look up during the verses I knew, but I always had to check to make sure I was in the right place. I guess Episcopalians like singing more than Methodists, so they add more verses to hymns. Regardless of the Christmas carol fiasco, “The City Come Again” is worth going to again. As was the case when I was in school there, the choir was nothing short of spectacular. Dr. Forbis was the conductor way back then; now, Dr. Anthony J. Maglione leads the choir, and I think he channels Dr. Forbis, who could just look at the choir and they would know when to sing and when to stop. While Dr. Riddle was the organist when I was a student (she told me I couldn’t play the organ, and she was right), Dr. Ann Marie Rigler made the huge organ sound sublime – and loud, in a good way. All in all, I was glad I went again to the city, and I promise you, it won’t be the last time. Now, I have to practice. It’s those darn Advent hymns. Deborah Mitchell is a Sedalia attorney.

The nurse practitioner will see you now

A quiet revolution has been going on for some time in the field of nursing, and Bothwell Regional Health Center is in the thick of it. Twenty-nine nurse practitioners are working at BRHC, either in the hospital or its clinics. The NP is a registered nurse with a master’s degree. But she or he can go on from there all the way to the doctorate level. Although most NPs work in family practice, many specialize in other areas. I’ve been seen by NPs in three specialties, and was impressed with them all. I talked to Liz Kessler, who works in Bothwell’s ENT clinic as a NP, about how nursing has changed. “I just really love the role of the nurse practitioner,” Kessler said. Because of the shortage of physicians in non-urban areas, Kessler said the NP can give primary care to people who otherwise would not have a health-care provider. Due to the influx of NPs, nursing care “has been greatly expanded,” Kessler added. Since the first NP was licensed in 1965, their growth has been steady. There are currently more than 385,000 NPs working in the United States, its territories and the District of Columbia. The median base salary for a NP is $126,260 a year. NPs can treat patients, prescribe medications, order clinical tests, and screen those who need to see a physician. Missouri is one of 11 states that require NPs to work under the supervision of a doctor. Kessler said she hoped that requirement will be dropped, as it limits where NPs can work. But she also admitted that she didn’t want to lose “my collaborator.” NPs are trained at colleges and universities, receiving both classroom and hands-on instruction. There are two certifying boards, one of which must approve graduates before they can practice. I asked Kessler if she had any desire to pursue a doctorate. Her answer was no, adding: “I think I’m where I want to be.” When I recently had my last appointment with Dr. William Woolery, who is retiring at the end of the month, he said NPs were essential to “fill the void” created by the doctor shortage, adding that “a lot of them do that very well. It’s the way it’s going to be.” Dr. Woolery’s admiration for NPs led him and his wife to select one for their primary care. Doug Kneibert is a former editor of the Sedalia Democrat.

“What happens every four years?” Oldham asked. “Presidential elections, right? So out of that chaos and the mistrust of the federal government spurs down to state and now even local government. But the silver lining is the community has become more engaged and now have a better understanding and appreciation of what the city does.”

The divisive tone at City Council meetings has lured Oldham into running for another term to safeguard any accomplishment the city has made.

“We need to get Sedalia back on track,” Oldham said. “We’ve got some big projects on our horizon but there’s been some anger and some mistrust from the community and that’s warranted in some respects. I believe that we’re entering in a time where we need strong leadership that understands the community drives our city forward, so we need to represent that on the City Council.”

Albert Reine filed early

Wednesday and asked for a statement to be printed.

“I’m running for Tom Oldham’s seat to get his attention and his commitment to help rescue the First Ward from an oppressive code enforcement and city government out of control,” Reine’s statement said. “He has proven to me he don’t to listen to me or take seriously my opinions and concerns. So maybe the First Ward voters will next spring. I want a kinder city government and code enforcement off our backs. I’m broken hearted for what the city has put us through with no end in sight. I will demand a change with a commanding voice.”

Ward 2

Michelle Abney reached out to the Democrat Thursday to introduce herself in her run for the open Second Ward Seat.

As of early Thursday, the race is unopposed.

“I’ve lived in Sedalia since 1991 and I’m very involved in my community,” Abney told the Democrat. “If I can help out in any way that’s what I’m trying to do. I don’t like all the overreach right now that the city has with all the citizens; all the houses that are being taken from citizens for minute infractions, it’s just so very much overreach.”

Abney has sat in on several City Council meetings and does not care for the way they are conducted with little conversation with citizenry.

“There’s no feedback from them, you don’t have any dialogue with them,” Abney said. “I think that’s wrong, and I think that they should have it open where you have dialogue with them.”

Ward 3

Bob Cross has refiled for the Ward 3 position and faces opposition from David Covington.

“I’ve lived in Sedalia all my life and Sedalia’s been good to me,” Cross said. “I’d like to pay it back by doing all I can for my constituents, not only in the Third Ward, but the whole city of Sedalia.”

Like Oldham, Cross also said great progress has been made in Sedalia recently and it must continue into the next City Council term.

“We’re looking forward to having the Heckert Bowling alley and we’re doing a lot of sidewalks, a lot of resurfacing streets,” Cross said. “We’re continuing working with economic development trying to get new factories, new jobs in Sedalia. Not only that but keeping the factories in Sedalia that are here.”

Covington said he has been gathering information for his run.

“Just going around listening to the people and seeing what they want us to get done in Sedalia,” Covington said. “One of the biggest cries I’ve been hearing it is about code enforcement and the transparency they’re not getting from the council.”

Covington urged some more consideration should be taken in the code enforcement and building permitting process.

“I would sit down and discuss with the business owners and the citizens with their residential and right now see what it is we can do as the city that will prevent them from losing their homes or having these high fees,” Covington said. “Another thing, the time frame. We’ve got to give them enough time to get what they need to get done to get the permits they need to have so they can keep their keep their homes and keep their businesses.

Ward 4

Candidates Michele Franklin and Harry Hoffert III have filed for the Fourth Ward seat.

Hoffert III, a downtown business owner, said he is running against Bloess for the Fourth Ward seat after attending some City Council meetings in person.

“I’m around the community a lot and I’ve had a lot of people just come in to visit and talk,” Hoffert said. “They were concerned and asked why we thought things were going this way and I started coming to some City Council meetings.”

Discussions on the fate of Spring Fork Lake were important to the avid angler as was the closure of the Washington Avenue viaduct.

Hoffert wants to bring his own common-sense pragmatism to council meetings.

“What you see is what you get with me. I’m straightforward, no BS,” Hoffert said. “This city has kind of lost its way from what it used to be.”

Hoffert wants more open communication with council members outside of council chambers and said they need to find a way to deal with onerous permitting issues.

“I don’t see a lot of interaction with City Council members and other people with the community unless you come to a meeting,” Hoffert said. “The way it’s been going on with building permits, I mean, I’m all in for safety, safety is key, but this is an older community and sometimes it can’t be just black and white.”

Hoffert wants some compromise in Sedalia government and said he’s willing to put in the effort to keep Sedalia on the right path forward.

“I know there’s room to work and improve,” Hoffert said. “I feel that if nobody is going to step to the plate, I have to. I’m gonna vote the way that I feel is the best for Sedalia, not just the best for individuals.”

The Democrat left a message with Franklin on Thursday but did not hear back ahead of deadline.

Chris Howell can be reached at 660-530-0146.

No construction skills? Contractor Marshall Mill-sap will be there to help keep the job on track.

“We always try to train them on how to do a task,” Limbaugh said. “If they don’t know how to do it, but the main one we have in mind is the homeowner. She has to do sweat equity and then the volunteers can come, hopefully they have some skills but if not, we’ll show them how.”

A warm meal will be provided and donations to feed the hardworking homebuilders are always welcomed.

The potential homeowner is not simply given a free house and has normal mortgages they must pay. Habitat provides a tailored way for those unable to get a traditional mortgage to become homeowner.

Limbaugh says applicants have something else they must provide.

“Sweat equity,” Limbaugh said. “Most of the time you’ll be right next to the homeowner, she’s going to be working right beside you, and you can see how excited she is to change her life with a new home. We appreciate the citizen’s support of this for the last 30 years, we’re building our 47th house and we’ve changed a lot of lives. It’s a worthwhile cause and we appreciate the community’s support.”

If you would like to volunteer or donate to Sedalia Habitat for Humanity, please contact volunteer chairperson Beverly Clark at 660-287-7798, board member Jessica Granados at 417-317-7676, or Secretary Kirstie Miller at 804-824-6489.

“We’re needing some volunteers for the Dec. 14 and Dec. 21,” Clark said. “Please call us first so we can schedule per the scheduled dates. Any churches or organisms that would like to donate they need to also call as do pastors, ministers or clergy of the church that want to provide the invocation.”

Chris Howell can be reached at 660-530-0146.

S-C's Rathmann to play softball at State Fair

By Jack Denebeim
jackd@sedaliademocrat.com

Smith-Cotton senior Miley Rathmann has been waiting her entire life to achieve one goal: play softball at the college level.

Rathmann was able to cross that goal off her list Tuesday, Dec. 10, after she signed her letter of intent to continue her softball career at State Fair Community College.

"It's definitely an accomplishment I've been waiting to achieve," Rathmann said. "It's like a lifelong goal of mine to be able to play in college, so it feels really good."

Rathmann said there were a couple of reasons why State Fair was the right choice for her aside from softball.

"I like how local it is," Rathmann said. "It also offers the program I want to go into."

Rathmann plans to study sonography at State Fair.

On the softball field, however, Rathmann said she likes how connected the Lady Roadrunners are.

"I love how family-oriented they are and how they treat each other like family," Rathmann said. "I just like the openness of the entire program."

State Fair went 27-27 last season and reached the Region 16 Tournament. The Lady Roadrunners had a combined batting average of .307, hit 74 home runs and scored 324 runs.

Roadrunners head to break with win over William Woods JV

By Jack Denebeim
jackd@sedaliademocrat.com

It took the State Fair Community College men's basketball team 28 games to reach 11 wins last season.

In just 15 games this season, the Roadrunners are already up to 12.

The Roadrunners' most recent victory came in the form of a 96-42 thumping of William Woods University's reserve team Tuesday, Dec. 10, at the Fred E. Davis Multipurpose Center.

The contest was State Fair's last before Christmas break.

"Exactly the type of game we need right before Christmas break," head coach Matt Brown said. "It was a good game for us."

Brown said he is proud of the team for already surpassing last season's win total and he thinks he has a special group around him.

"We've played some really good teams this year," Brown said. "We played Triton, who was the fourth ranked team in the country and beat them. We played the eighth-ranked team in the country and lost last week. So, I think from a competition perspective, we've played about as good as there is. We're going to be really competitive in our region, which is going to be what it's all about trying to get to that national tournament."

Lady Tigers fall to Hickman, bounce back against Bolivar

By Jack Denebeim
jackd@sedaliademocrat.com

An issue that plagued Smith-Cotton girls basketball last season reared its ugly head in the team's first loss of this season.

A poor night at the free throw line translated to a 68-38 home loss for the Lady Tigers to Columbia Hickman on Monday, Dec. 9.

Smith-Cotton went just 12-of-35 (34.3%) from the line, while the Lady Kewpies went 3-for-4 (75.0%).

"I don't know how to fix our free throw shooting," head coach Ron Rhodes said. "It is awful, and it's been awful all year. It was awful last year."

The Lady Tigers shot 20 free throws in the first half, including 15 in the second quarter, but only made nine of them, allowing Hickman to take a 33-21 lead into the locker room.

Hickman led by 20 midway through the second quarter, but Smith-Cotton sparked an 8-0 run to cut the deficit before the break.

Freshman Bella Black-

aby got the stretch started with a bucket off an assist from senior Eliza Cavanagh. Then, junior Dominique Bell hit a pair of free throws, junior Brelyn Scanlon finished a layup and freshman Camdyn Jones made two free throws to finish the first half.

Still, six missed free throws during that stretch prevented the Lady Tigers from cutting into the deficit even more.

"If we hit our free throws in the first half, we're only down one at halftime instead of [12]," Rhodes said.

Hickman answered out of the break with a 10-0 run to extend its advantage to 43-21.

Scanlon then took over for Smith-Cotton, as she scored the Lady Tigers' next eight points. The only problem was Hickman sophomore Carlie Moore hit two 3-pointers to keep the Lady Kewpies' lead at 21 by the end of the third quarter at 53-32.

Hickman had an 8-0 stretch halfway through the fourth quarter to turn on the running clock and ultimately secure the win.

Smith-Cotton wrestling sweeps Battle in home opener

By Daniel Pyle
Special to the Democrat

Smith-Cotton wrestling fans didn't get to see very many contested matches, but what they did see were matches that came out in the Tigers' favor.

Both Smith-Cotton wrestling teams made quick work in their dual matches against Battle on Wednesday, Dec. 11, as the girls team won its dual 60-15, while the boys team won its dual 69-12.

Sophomore Kylie Guerrero had the fastest match of the evening time-wise for the Lady Tigers, as she secured a fall in just 25 seconds.

Guerrero got off to a quick start by taking her opponent to the mat for a takedown and then securing a two-point near fall before pinning Battle's Kaylee Holt.

Freshman Alivia Washington needed just 58 seconds to defeat Battle's Julissa Gonzalez-Pedroza. Washington recorded a quick take-down and then put Gonzalez-Pedroza on her back for a four-point near fall before eventually pinning her.

"At first, I was going to do a single side shot, but when that didn't work out in the beginning, I did a double leg and I ended up taking her down with the power half," Washington said.

Freshman Shelby Woolery recorded a pin in 2:17.

She scored a takedown in the first period and then secured a four-point near fall in the second period before defeating Battle's Jashayla Johnson.

Cole Camp boys wrestling edges out Stover

By Democrat Staff

The Cole Camp boys wrestling team narrowly defeated Stover 39-36 in a dual Wednesday, Dec. 11.

With the Bluebirds trailing 36-33, junior Christian Draper pinned Stover's Noah Woodard in the 285-pound division to get the six points Cole Camp needed to secure the win.

Cole Camp trailed 18-0 after the first four matches, as Stover freshmen Brodie Zeller and Brayden Jones got wins with falls, while sophomore Alias Murray and freshman Justus Boyd got wins by forfeit.

Cole Camp junior Makiah Murguia got the Bluebirds' first points of the afternoon after he pinned Stover's Ethan Adams in 3:43. Then, junior Teagan Sharp had a 15-0 technical fall win over Stover's Dustin Koeller.

Stover senior Logan Scott answered with a pin over Cole Camp's Aiden Craig to put the Bulldogs up 24-11.

Four straight wins by Cole Camp's Jason Clancy, Grant Rodriguez, Dahved Stuerke and Clayton Archambault put the Bluebirds up 33-30.

Stover's Ivan Judd then got a win over Cole Camp's Carson Webb to give the Bulldogs the lead again at 36-33.

Draper got his fall-win over Woodard in 2:55 to get Cole Camp the win.

On the girls side, Stover won 24-12.

Stover's Chloe Zeller, Shelby Burnett, Ella Hodges and Bella Bauer recorded forfeit victories for the Lady Bulldogs in the win.

Cole Camp's Mya Friedley got the only match win with a pin over Stover's Alessa Elledge.

Cole Camp's Kadin Curtis also got a win via forfeit for the Lady Bluebirds.

Tipton wrestling competes at Versailles Tri

The Tipton wrestling team competed at the Versailles Tri on Tuesday, Dec. 10.

The boys team defeated South Callaway 36-30, but lost to Knob Noster 34-17 and Versailles 34-23.

Against South Callaway, Dalton Doss, Cooper Doss, Paxton Pyle, Evan Ragsdale, James Kuttenkuler and Kade Williams all earned victories for Tipton.

Williams' forfeit win at 132 pounds broke the 30-30 tie and gave the Cardinals the win.

Williams, Pyle, Cooper Doss and Ragsdale all earned wins in the dual against Versailles as well.

Pyle defeated Versailles' Dalton Lewis with a pin in 1:50, while Cooper Doss won with a fall over Gage Judd in 3:59.

Ragsdale had a 17-2 technical fall win over Braxton Johnson, while Williams won via a forfeit.

Finally, against Knob Noster, Dalton Doss, Pyle and Ragsdale earned wins.

Dalton Doss had an 18-3 technical fall over Joshua Taitano.

Pyle won with a pin in 2:28 over Jason Fetcho and Ragsdale won with a fall in 15 seconds over Robert Vreeland.

On the girls side, Tipton beat South Callaway 12-6, but lost to Knob Noster 60-6 and Versailles 54-6.

In the match against Knob Noster, Tipton's Kya Smith got a fall in 51 seconds over Knob Noster's Taylor Francis, while Alayna Daniel got a forfeit win against Versailles.

Both Tipton wrestlers won by forfeit against South Callaway.

"I was going for a hip toss," Woolery said.

Senior Jasmine Wolfe received a forfeit victory at 135 pounds, but was recognized on the mat and was awarded a plaque for achieving her 100th career win earlier this season.

Freshman Tymberlynn Hardy also added six points to the team score as she received a forfeit victory for the Lady Tigers.

Sophomore Joey Arbisi had an exciting match, as she trailed early but made a comeback in the third period to tie the match at 15 and force a sudden victory overtime.

However, Arbisi went on to lose by an 18-15 decision.

The Lady Tigers also lost in the 190-pound weight class to start the evening, but went on to win the next four matches by forfeit after a double forfeit in the 235-pound weight class.

Lady Tigers head coach Nicki Renfrow said the team did a nice job of focusing on getting the win despite the many open matches.

"Our girls were ready to go and [were] on fire after we refocused in and got ready to go," Renfrow said. "It was a nice moment after we realized that it wasn't going to be so easy for them. We did have a lot of opens from the other team tonight, so they thought it was just going to be a walk in the park and the other team had a couple of really good girls and they just didn't realize how tough it was going to be."

In the boys match, sophomore Avery Skutnick put the first six points on the scoreboard for S-C with a forfeit win at 215 pounds.

Senior Luis Juarez wrestled at 285 pounds and picked up a second period pin in 2:32.

"I wanted to take it at a certain pace that I wanted to and keep it comfortable, so I could work on what I've been taught," Juarez said. "I wanted to do an assassins' finish instead of a good ole head lock that I always do."

Battle got its only victories in the next two matches via a forfeit and a pin to tie the dual up at 12 apiece.

Dennison with a major decision victory of 21-11.

Junior Javier Martinez recorded a technical fall victory, as he beat Battle's Shawn McGrail 19-1 in 2:31.

Four more open weight classes from Battle allowed Smith-Cotton's Xadrian McGruder, Phillip Chastain, Josh Rivera and Alex Walden to record forfeit victories.

"Overall, we wrestled well," Hulsey said in a statement. "Our young guys got some experience and were able to get some nice wins. We were doing things we have been working on in practice and picking up falls and a lot of matches."

Both Smith-Cotton wrestling teams compete in tournaments next. The girls will compete at the Excelsior Springs Tournament on Friday, Dec. 13, while the boys compete in the Versailles Invitational Tournament on Saturday, Dec. 14.

Lady Roadrunners head coach Michele Rupard said Rathmann’s leadership and personality is what made her an attractive recruit most of all.

“She motivates others around her, and she has the ability to get everyone on the same page because they appeal to her as a person,” Rupard said. “I think she’ll be a great leader for us, and offensively,

I think she can help us as well.”

During her senior season at Smith-Cotton, Rathmann hit .269 and had 13 RBI. Rathmann was also an All-Central Missouri Activities Conference Second Team player in 2023.

Smith-Cotton head softball coach Amy Miller agreed with Rupard, though, that Rathmann’s skills as a leader are perhaps her best trait.

“Her personality does take her to that next level,” Miller said. “[It] gives her that step ahead of everybody else and makes her stand out in certain situations. So, it’s going to be good for her. I hope it goes great.”

Miller said she is just excited to see what Rathmann can do at the next level.

“She loves the game and she has always talked about playing [in college],” Miller said. “I’m glad that she has made the choice to continue on and she’s even close so I can go watch.”

State Fair currently has a better record than all of the Region 16 Division I opponents it will see in the back half of its schedule.

Moberly Area Community College is 8-3, but is ranked No. 25 in the country. Mineral Area College is 10-3, Three Rivers Community College is 10-5 and Missouri State University — West Plains is 5-7.

“It’s great for the whole team,” freshman forward Daniel Garza said. “Being 12-3 right now is beneficial for all of us from the top to the bottom of the roster. It’s beneficial for everybody.”

Just about everybody on the roster saw action in Tuesday’s win.

Sophomore Chin Hanson and freshman Tyson Moberly got the Roadrunners going in the game’s opening minutes with consecutive basket-and-ones.

Then, freshman Malick Ndiaye, sophomore Sam Bradford and sophomore Timothy Palmer combined for an 11-0 run to put State Fair up 23-5 about midway through the first half.

The Owls responded with a 7-2 stretch, but sophomore Alex Gunnels scored on a tough layup and made two free throws to put the Roadrunners back up 17.

Bradford made a corner 3 off a pass from sophomore Donta Davis before he closed out the half with a bucket to bring the score to 46-23 at the break.

Bradford said it felt good to contribute because he has been sidelined recently with an ankle injury.

“I was just glad to be back out there,” Bradford said. “I was just trying to give it my all.”

Garza started the second half on fire for the Roadrunners, as he scored 10 points in the span of about five minutes. Four of those points came on back-to-back dunks to put the Roadrunners up 35 at 58-23.

Bradford took over in the latter part of the second half and had a couple of high-light plays of his own.

On one layup, Bradford drove to the rim and moved the ball behind his back to avoid a defender and get the angle for the deuce. Then, Bradford skied high for a dunk on a fast break.

Green Ridge alum Weston Crawford also got in the game and hit two 3-pointers, but freshman Wendell Youyou put the exclamation point on the win with a dunk in the final seconds.

Bradford led the team with 25 points, while Garza had 12.

Palmer and Ndiaye each had 11 points.

Moberly finished with nine, Hanson scored seven, Crawford and Youyou each had six, Gunnels and sophomore Mosa Osagie each recorded four points and Davis had one.

Hanson led the team with seven rebounds, while Gunnels and Davis both had four assists.

The Roadrunners will return to action Saturday, Jan. 4, at home against Kennedy-King College. State Fair’s first matchup against a Region 16 Division I opponent is Jan. 8 when the team travels to Moberly.

Bradford said he wants to see the team come back from Christmas break rejuvenated and ready to take on a tough schedule.

“It’s conference [games], so teams are going to go even harder,” Bradford said. “We got to be ready for conference.”

Smith-Cotton girls 54, Bolivar 49

The Lady Tigers bounced back from the loss to Hickman with a 54-49 victory on the road against Bolivar on Wednesday, Dec. 11.

Blackaby had a big night with 17 points, while Eliza Cavanagh had 14 and Bell chipped in with eight.

“We were basically losing for three quarters tonight and found a way to find some energy with about three minutes left in the game and pull it out,” Rhodes said in a statement. “I’m super proud of these kids and their effort tonight. We are getting better each game.”

The win improved Smith-Cotton to 6-1 on the season before the team played Appleton City after press deadline Thursday, Dec. 12.

The Lady Tigers travel to Rock Bridge on Monday, Dec. 16, before returning home against Camdenton on Thursday, Dec. 19.

Boys update

Smith-Cotton boys basketball lost on the road to Hickman 67-41 on Wednesday, Dec. 11.

The Tigers trailed by only four at halftime, but just couldn’t find the offense in the second half.

The loss drops the Tigers to 3-2 on the season, as the team hosts Blair Oaks for its home opener at 7 p.m. Friday, Dec. 13.

WINE FROM THE VINE

Enjoy some mulled wine this Christmas

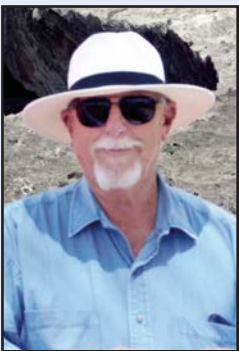

Fa La La La 'tis the holiday season and special concoctions appear. This is the time of year that we see chocolate wine (you get what you pay for – avoid the cheap varieties). We see sparkling sweet wines, both red and white, champagnes, and an assortment of sweet wines. Remember good wine is what you like.

This season I would like to introduce my readers to something you might not have tried before – Glühwein also known as Glogg. The oldest documented Glühwein tankard is attributed to Count John IV of Katzenelnbogen, a German nobleman who was the first grower of Riesling grapes. This gold-plated lockable silver tankard is dated to 1420 A.D.

Germany and Austria call it glühwein and In England it is called mulled wine. There is no difference between them although the recipes vary by the person making it. The first traces of mulled wine date back to the Roman Empire, in the year 20 A.D., where it was called Conduntum Paradoxum. To make it, the Romans put honey to boil in wine, then added spices (pepper, laurel, saffron), and dates. This mixture was then blended with better wine to soften the substance.

Many skiers may know glühwein from the bars in ski resorts to warm the innards after a good run down the mountain. One will find it in winter markets in Austria and Germany and various other northern European countries. But glühwein is a special treat during the Christmas season. It is served hot in a coffee mug or tankard, I fondly remember visiting the Christmas markets in Austria while sipping on glühwein and munching on roasted chestnuts and kartofl puffers (potatoes that are air fried). Dressed in my warmest German overcoat with a muffler and Russian muskrat hat and JoAnn and Ashley in their durndals and Austrian folkdress. This while visiting the outdoor markets with homemade Christmas items such as pyramids and baked goods.

Now what about

Turf Martin
Guest Columnist

Glogg and Glühwein? 'Tis the season, where a pot of simmering mulled wine lets us know that winter is here. Whether you're on the ski trail or in front of the fireplace, mulled wine, served warm with seasonal spices, is the perfect drink to sip with friends in the darkest month of winter.

For years, I have assumed that all mulled wine recipes were essentially the same, save for the type of wine you use or the spice ratio. However, a Norwegian friend pointed out the difference between preferred Austrian Glühwein to Norwegian Gløgg.

"What?!" I exclaimed. "There's a difference?? Potäto, potäto. Tomäto, tomäto. Right?"

Nope. First, let's review all that these two drinks with the funny letters ü and ø have in common:

- 2 bottles of dry red wine — a very good place to start
- 4 cinnamon sticks — whole
- 2 oranges — sliced
- 1 lemon — sliced
- 8 cloves — whole
- 1 star anise — smells like licorice
- 2 tablespoons of sugar — white or brown

With all of these ingredients, you're off to a good start. Add them to a large pot and bring the mixture to a simmer. Careful that it doesn't boil and evaporate the alcohol.

For Austrian Glühwein, your drink is pretty much ready. Strain the seasonings out of the wine and serve warm. If you arrived late to the party, you can order mit Schuss — a shot of rum for a little extra kick. What the Austrians call turbopunch. I gave my 85 year old mother-in-law some when we touring Vienna Christmas markets and she was cold. Within minutes she was neither cold nor hardly able to stand!

Cole Camp's Missouri Made has something for everybody

By Faith Bemiss-McKinney
faithb@sedaliademocrat.com

COLE CAMP — Missouri Made Shop & Comfort Café opened in August 2023.

Since then, it has been selling products from the Show-Me-State and offering tasty homemade comfort foods.

The shop is owned by Beth and Kurtis Heimsoth, who also have a cattle farm in the area. Information supplied by the couple said that the shop is only one of 53 retail partners of the "Buy Missouri" program through the Missouri Lieutenant Governor's Office.

It sells a variety of state-made items, such as arts and crafts, wines, whiskeys and bourbons. One will also find soaps, honey, 3-D critters, earrings, popcorn, coffee, summer sausage and more. Besides retail, the shop offers homemade lunch and dinner items.

Beth Heimsoth said the retail items come from all across the state.

"We have things from KC, St. Louis, the Iowa border, up from Edina down to the Joplin area, down past Springfield," Beth Heimsoth said. "The only area I don't have anything from right at the moment is down by the bootheel."

Beth Heimsoth added she is working on getting items from the bootheel area with some people interested in selling art and wood art.

Missouri Made also carries books by four authors. Kim Knowle-Zeller, of Cole Camp, has her book "The Beauty of Motherhood" available.

Authors Elizabeth Wenig and Randy Linss, who grew up and graduated from Cole Camp, also have books for sale. Author Darla Noble of Rolla has books available as well.

"There's such a variety of different things that come out of this state, it hard to focus on just one thing," Beth Heimsoth said.

Kurtis Heimsoth is an engineering product manager who used to work in Kansas City. When he began working from home, Beth Heimsoth decided opening the shop would be an opportunity to do something creative. She had always wanted to open a restaurant but knew that for it to be a feasible idea, there would need other components to be successful.

"In this day and age and economy, you can't just be one thing and survive," Beth Heimsoth said. "So, trying to do both the food and the retail, as well as the drink and the ice cream, it diversifies it as much possible — to be a one-stop shop. That would increase the chances of success."

The shop serves lunch and dinner and is open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. During those hours, it serves sandwiches, soups, salads, baked potatoes, and a comfort food special each week.

"Our salads are pretty popular," Beth Heimsoth said. "Because we have just about everything on it. We have ham, turkey, broccoli ... and then we have Ott's dressing which is made in Missouri. And our baked potatoes aren't just your butter and sour cream. We got the broccoli and mushrooms, onions, bacon — we load it up. So, it can be a meal within itself."

Each week, the shop offers a comfort meal. This week, it was chicken fried chicken with mashed potatoes and gravy and steamed vegetables. Last week, she served Salisbury steak with mashed potatoes and gravy. Next week, they will serve spaghetti and meatballs.

In the past, Beth Heimsoth has offered old-fashioned chicken and noodles served on a bed of mashed potatoes, open-faced roast beef, sloppy joes, and salmon patties.

"It's some of the old-fashioned comfort foods," Beth Heimsoth said. "That kind of thing that people don't have time to make anymore, and the younger generation just don't know how."

Beth Heimsoth said the shop's demographic includes both younger and older people.

"Each demographic comes in for a different reason," Beth Heimsoth said. "Our older generation comes in for their big meal of the day, and the younger ones come for the ice cream, the boba, the nachos, pretzel sticks, and iced coffees."

Missouri Made has full pies available for the holidays. Brooklyn Schardan, who attends Cole Camp High School, makes the pies.

Kurtis Heimsoth added that's another "spin" on the local aspect of Missouri Made.

The pies served during lunch are made by Paula Walter of Sedalia, who owns Broadway Carryout Cuisine in Sedalia.

The shop's kitchen is set up to handle food sensitivities and allergies. Beth said

Madison Westermier, of Cole Camp, sells her pressed flower creations at Missouri Made Shop & Comfort Café in Cole Camp. The shop sells a variety of Missouri-made products from many different areas of the state.

PASTOR’S PULPIT

By Dr. Jeremiah Greever

Senior Pastor First Baptist Church of Sedalia

I love holidays. Any excuse to get together, eat good food, and have fun is a win in my book. While as a child I looked forward to different holidays like Easter or Independence Day, Christmas was always the king. When the weather became cold, my expectation and anticipation only heated up more. If you’re like me, there’s just something about Christmas that makes it special.

Have you ever considered why that is? Why is Christmas so significant, special, and almost magical? It can’t be because of commercialism — that’s common to all holidays now. It can’t be because of family and friends — Thanksgiving has that too. And it certainly isn’t because of the weather — it’s doubtful whether there’s arguably a worse time of year to celebrate a holiday. So, what is it that continually brings us back to Christmas as important?

I think it’s because there’s an echo within each of us that Christmas’s meaning reaches the deepest recesses of our being. Christmas helps us answer the existential crisis present in all of us — is there something more? If you’ve lived long enough, you know that material possessions won’t satisfy or give your life meaning. December’s presents just fuel April’s garage sales. Lao Tzu once famously said, “If your happiness depends on money, you will never be happy with yourself.” The Bible states more clearly, “For the love of money is a root of all sorts of evil” (1 Timothy 6:10). Possessions, experiences, relationships, money, pleasure, entertainment, accolades, and affirmation — they can’t satisfy our deepest desire or answer our deepest question — is there something more?

This is where Christmas becomes so beautiful. The holiday is undoubtedly about Christ’s birth. The lights are meant to represent that the Light (Jesus) came into a dark and needy world (John 1:5). The decorative stars remind us that Jesus’s birth was both perfectly predicted and just like the wise men, we ought to be led straight to Christ (Matthew 2:1-12). The reason why we have a Christmas tree is because it represents the Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil, which is restored by the second Adam (Jesus) from the failure of the first Adam (Romans 5:12-19).

We give gifts because we have received the greatest Gift — the gift of God’s grace and salvation through Jesus Christ’s death, burial, and resurrection (Ephesians 2:8-10). The Christmas songs we sing and love all point to Christ’s birth (e.g., “Handel’s Messiah,” “Silent Night,” “Joy to the World”). Even the name of the holiday itself, “Christmas,” is a proclamation of the arrival of the Christ, the Messiah. Nearly every aspect of Christmas in some way points to Jesus’s birth and its eternal meaning.

Maybe that’s why we love Christmas so much. Maybe we instinctively understand that while gifts from others will one day fade, the eternal Gift born in Bethlehem is the ultimate Satisfier of our souls. Maybe we naturally know there’s goodness in the world, but that goodness is found only in Jesus Christ.

Maybe when we’re celebrating Christmas, there’s something deep within us that is celebrating that “God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believes in Him shall not perish, but have eternal life” (John 3:16).

I would encourage you to ask this important question, “What am I celebrating this Christmas?” Maybe our celebrations this Christmas can be filled with joyful realization that there is something more to life, and His name is Jesus Christ. As we celebrate this Christmas season, may we never forget that Jesus is truly the reason for this magical and special season. Merry Christmas!

Fewer grandparents were living with and taking care of grandchildren, there was a decline in young children going to preschool and more people stayed put in their homes in the first part of the 2020s compared with the last part of the 2010s, according to U.S. Census Bureau data released Thursday, reflecting some of the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic.

The latest figures from the most comprehensive survey of American life compare the years 2014-2018 and 2019-2023, timeframes before the COVID-19 pandemic and during the virus’ spread. The American Community Survey data show how lives were changed and family relationships altered by the pandemic and other occurrences like the opioid crisis.

The survey of 3.5 million households covers more than 40 topics, including ancestry, fertility, marital status, commutes, veterans status, disability and housing.

The decrease in grandparents’ taking care of their grandchildren is most likely because opioid-related deaths stabilized and then declined during the more recent timeframe since substance abuse is a leading reason grandparents find themselves raising grandchildren. A reduction in the number of incarcerated women also likely played a role, said Susan Kelley, a professor emerita of nursing at Georgia State University.

“It’s very rarely for positive reasons that grandparents find themselves in this situation. Usually, it’s a tragic situation in an adult child’s life — either a death, incarceration or mental health issues which correlate with substance abuse,” Kelley said. “Many grandparents thrive in that role, but there are still socioeconomic and emotional burdens on the grandparents.”

A stronger economy in the most recent period also may be a reason the number of grandparents living with their grandchildren declined from 7.2 million to 6.8 million by making it less likely that adult children with their own children were seeking housing help from their parents, she said.

The decline in the number of young children enrolled in preschool stemmed from an unwillingness to send young children to school and the closure of many schools at the height of the pandemic, according to the Census Bureau.

“These data show how the COVID-19 pandemic had a significant impact on patterns of early childhood education,” the bureau said in a separate report. “Future research will show if this was the start of a long-term trend or if enrollment will bounce back to prior levels.”

Americans continued to get older, with the median age rising to 38.7 from 37.9 and the nation’s share of senior citizens hitting 16.8% from 15.2%. The share of households with a computer jumped to almost 95% from nearly 89%, as did the share of households with a broadband connection to almost 90% from 80%.

Additionally, fewer people moved and more people stayed put in the most recent time period compared with the earlier one, in many cases because of rising home values and the limited availability of homes to buy.

Home values increased by 21.7% and the percentage of vacant homes dropped from 12.2% to 10.4%. The median home value jumped from $249,400 to $303,400 nationwide.

In some vacation communities popular with the wealthy, the bump was even more dramatic, such as in the county that is home to Aspen, Colorado, where it went from $758,800 to $1.1 million, and in the county which is home to Martha’s Vineyard in Massachusetts, where it jumped from $812,400 to $1.1 million.

Smith-Cotton alum returns for one-night performance at Hayden Liberty Center

By Kayla Niilges
Special to the Democrat

In his own words, Eric Poindexter is a “classic case.”

Before Poindexter was old enough to conceptualize what it means to be an actor and musician, he knew it’s the path he would follow.

“I always say that I came out of the womb singing,” Poindexter joked. “I would say that my entire family—we’re all a cast of characters. I’m just the one who decided I want to get paid to do it.”

Now a New York City-based actor, singer, and teaching artist at Symphony Space—a non-profit Manhattan performing arts center—Poindexter was once a rural Missouri kid with a dream.

During his time at Smith-Cotton High School, Poindexter immersed himself in local performance opportunities, including New Score Singers—an extra-curricular that would one day bring him full circle.

One evening, in a Kansas City restaurant, a chance encounter between his friend and producer Kim Boggs’ daughter, and former New Score choreographer Chad Williams occurred.

Sharing Poindexter in common, the two discussed his life and career: his roots in the Midwest and his present life in New York. The discussion turned toward a way to meld his worlds together. Then the idea struck: why not host a concert in Poindexter’s hometown?

“I thought, ‘Oh, that would be a great idea,’” Poindexter said. “So this idea was put into the universe many years ago. And then last year I was home over the Christmas holiday and I was telling my friend, Kim, what my ideas were about my career and what I would like to do.”

As Poindexter spoke to Boggs, and looked back over his past performances, he recalled a 2021 Symphony Space Christmas concert that he upheld with particular fondness.

“It was fantastic, and I thought, ‘I want to do more of this,’” Poindexter said. “I want to perform with a band and curate my own songs and put my own shows together.”

Boggs reminded Poindexter of her daughter’s discussion with Chad Williams years earlier, and the logistics began to fall into place: The Hayden Liberty Center was the perfect venue for such an event. And as long as Poindexter was performing at home, why not find a way to give back to the community that raised him?

“We thought, ‘It should be a benefit to raise money,’” Poindexter said. “Now we didn’t know what kind of benefit it was going to be, but then (Kim) said, ‘How about (raising money) for The Liberty Center, and I thought, ‘Brilliant!’ That’s right up my alley and it makes so much sense... the arts are very, very important to me... I love being able to share that in any way that I can.”

As 2024 unfolded, “An Evening with Eric Poindexter,” was added to the Hayden Liberty Center’s yearly event calendar. Eleven days out from Christmas, the concert will feature a blend of holiday music and other big band staples.

“It’s also going to be a mix of other kinds of music that I’ve always loved and that I’ve been moved by,” Poindexter said. “So there’s going to be some blues, some music from movies that I’ve been inspired by ... and I’ll have some old friends and new friends singing with me in the show. It’s going to be a really good time.”

Poindexter is additionally thrilled with the excellent turnout.

“We are very ecstatic about the fact that the show is a sell-out,” Poindexter said. “...I’m very flattered and pleased and deeply touched by that. I am just so proud of the work that’s gone into this show. There

Rep. Alford Hosts Record-Setting Town Hall Tour

U.S. Representative Mark Alford hosted a record-setting Town Hall Tour in August, making 16 stops in 13 counties across Missouri’s Fourth Congressional District — including 5 in-person town hall meetings.

“One of my greatest privileges is the chance to hear directly from constituents,” says Alford. “I’m proud to be your voice and your vote in DC, and our Town Hall Tour is one of the many ways I am working for you.”

Missouri Congressman Combatting Deadly Fentanyl Crisis

Missouri’s 4th District Congressman Mark Alford continues to hold Fentanyl Forums to raise awareness about the dangers of fentanyl and to share prevention resources.

One speaker at the forum was Sarah Eager, who tragically lost her teenage daughter Lauren to fentanyl poisoning. “The worst possible thing in the whole world is to bury your child,” Eager said.

“Illicit narcotics are flowing across the open border, devastating communities. These Fentanyl Forums are making a difference, providing education and resources to combat this crisis,” said Alford.

To schedule a Fentanyl Forum in your town, please call Rep. Alford’s Raymore office at 816-441-6318.

Millions Returned to Missourians by Alford Casework Team

Over $2.65 million has been saved or returned to the hard-working taxpayers of Missouri’s Fourth District, Rep. Mark Alford’s office announced.

Alford says that the office has opened over 1,800 cases to recapture money that is rightfully for his constituents, with zero cases closed unfavorably.

Missourians who need help with a federal agency are encouraged to contact Congressman Alford’s office in Raymore at 816-441-6318.

Alford Stands Up For Conservative Principles, Named “Defender of Limited Government”

The Institute for Legislative Analysis named Rep. Mark Alford a “Defender of Limited Government” due to his conservative voting record. Alford said he remains committed to being the “loudest, strongest, most consistent, unwavering voice for conservative values that the district has ever seen.”

Alford has consistently championed Conservative causes in Congress, including introducing the “Diversity, Equity, Inclusion (DEI) Dead on Arrival (DOA) Act” to eliminate all DEI programs across the federal government.

VINE

For Norwegian Gløgg, you still have some work to do. Take out the mixture you concocted yesterday that has steeped for the past 12 hours, including:

- 1 cup aquavit — ideally from your neighbor’s basement homebrew (Akvavit or aquavit is a distilled spirit that is principally produced in Scandinavia, where it has been produced since the 15th century.)
- 2-inch piece of ginger — sliced
- 8 dried figs — quartered
- ½ cup raisins
- ¼ cup blanched almonds

Stir this aquavit mixture into the wine and spice base, then let it simmer on low heat for about an hour. Ladle it into mugs, then add figs, raisins and almonds. Serve warm and with a spoon. You’ll need it to scoop the dried fruits and almonds at the end.

Now, these recipes come with the asterisk that everyone has their own method and ingredients for the perfect mulled wine — these are just a sample of what you can tailor to your taste buds.

Since my home is a Swede married to an Austrian, our glühwein is blend between gløgg and glühwein.

We use the basic glühwein formula, but add the raisons, almonds, oranges, lemon and figs from gløgg and do not filter out the mulled spices. This gives it a much a heartier flavor and is guaranteed to make your entire house smell like Christmas. Mix everything in a crockpot and put it on medium for at least 8 hours. Do not boil, but do evaporate the alcohol. I like a fruity red wine like an old vine Zinfandel or a red blends like Hot to Trot. Watch out, we like to turbopunch! Rum is to be added at the end of the steeping process to maintain the alcohol.

Now where do you buy mulled spices? If you have a favorite international market for example in Columbia or Kansas City. You can also google where do I buy mulled spices and a whole range of online shops are available. Just be sure you distinguish between German glühwein and Scandinavian gløgg.

Whether you prefer a little holiday Hygge or genuine Gemütlichkeit, these two mulled wines should help warm you up this December.

Still rockin’

As a singer turns 80, the Christmas song she sang as a teen is a holiday staple

By David Bauder
AP Media Writer

NEW YORK — Her memories of recording “Rockin’ Around the Christmas Tree” are a little hazy. She remembers the producer placing decorations around the studio and blasting the air conditioner on a warm Nashville day to create a holiday spirit. The musicians, she recalls, nailed it in a couple of takes.

That’s about it. After all, Brenda Lee was 13 years old at the time — and it was 66 years ago, in 1958.

Somewhat implausibly, her celebration of a “Christmas party hop” is more popular today than ever before. It’s an unusual trajectory, even accounting for the fact that music listeners during the holiday season tend to embrace songs they’ve known for years.

“Rockin’” eclipsed Mariah Carey’s perennial favorite “All I Want for Christmas is You” last December to top the Billboard music chart and make Lee, at age 78, the oldest woman to achieve that feat. A week later, following a birthday, she beat her own mark. Kendrick Lamar likely stands in her way of doing it again this year.

Another record: Sixty-five years represented the longest interval between a record being released and making it to No. 1.

“It is a good song,” Lee told The Associated Press. “It’s a song that anybody can sing. You can join in, you can sing it, everyone is happy. I sure am glad that I have it. I never thought in my life that a Christmas song would be my legacy. But I’ll take it.”

‘An ear worm on steroids’

It’s a phenomenon that music journalist Holly Gleason noticed recently while stopping for coffee in Florida. The song came over the loudspeaker and the room — parents, kids, hipsters — erupted in singing and laughter. “It’s kind of an ear worm on steroids,” said Gleason, whose 2017 book “Woman Walk the Line: How the Women in Country Music Changed Our Lives” featured Lee, among others.

The song manages the neat trick of sounding retro yet not dated. Sweet guitar licks snake around Lee’s voice in the original recording. Boots Randolph’s saxophone solo drives it home. The party flies by quickly, the song over in two minutes, six seconds.

Composer Johnny Marks already had some seasonal hits to his credit, including “Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer” and “A Holly Jolly Christmas.” He specifically sought out Lee for his new song in 1958 and it’s easy to see why: Who better to convey its innocence and spirit than a 13-year-old girl at the forefront of the Baby Boom? Rock ‘n’ roll was in its infancy then, too.

In the song, Lee sings about “mistletoe hung where you can see, every couple tries to stop.”

In real life, she hadn’t experienced her first kiss. “Lord, no,” she said. “Not to say I didn’t want to. I wasn’t even allowed to date until I was 16.”

What is the ‘new old-fashioned way,’ anyway?

The song hits plenty of holiday reference points — pumpkin pie, caroling, boughs of holly. You can overlook the part of the chorus that doesn’t make much sense: what is the “new old-fashioned way,” exactly?

The simplicity of “Rockin’ Around the Christmas Tree” is a big part of its appeal, said Nathaniel Sloan, a musicologist at the University of Southern California and co-host of the “Switched on Pop” podcast. Like many successful holiday songs, it evokes nostalgia for a happier, more peaceful time — even if that’s more imagination than reality, he said.

The style is more rockabilly than traditional rock or country, and Sloan believes that has much to do with why it continues to sound fresh.

“The thing that has always stunned me about the song is that you’re listening to a 13-year-old’s performance, and it doesn’t sound that way to me,” he said. “There’s a depth to the vocal, even a weathered quality, that I can’t believe she was so young. It’s pitch-perfect.”

For all of its success, the song was barely noticed upon its release in 1958. Not until two years later, when Lee’s profile was higher through hits like “I’m Sorry,” did it make the music charts. Its biggest boost came 40 years after that, when “Rockin’ Around the Christmas Tree” was featured in the hit movie “Home Alone.” The movie itself has become a holiday staple, giving more exposure to the song each year.

Her record company continues to push the song, recording a video in 2023 that included guest appearances by Tanya Tucker and Trisha Yearwood. This year it has released “Noche Buena Y Navidad,” a Spanish-language version using artificial intelligence to create a vocal derived from Lee’s voice.

The record company is throwing Lee a birthday party

Universal Music is holding a party for her in Nashville to celebrate her 80th birthday on Wednesday. “She’s just a force and a character,” said Cindy Mabe, the company’s chairwoman and CEO. “She’s full of spunk in the same way that 13-year-old girl was.”

“Rockin’ Around the Christmas Tree” made the Grammy Hall of Fame in 2019. It has been streamed more than 2.5 billion times globally and certified seven times Platinum, meaning at least seven million copies sold. Kelly Clarkson, Miley Cyrus, Meghan Trainor, Kacey Musgraves and the duo of Darlene Love & Ronnie Spector are among the artists who’ve covered it.

Lee has sung it countless times over the years, most recently at a charity event last year. It made her concert setlist even in the heat of summer. How much money the song has earned is murky; the record company wouldn’t talk about it. The bulk of its income would likely go to Marks’ estate.

“It has never been a money thing for me,” Lee said. “It’s been a love thing. The money is great, yes, and I’m grateful. But I would be singing it on the corner for pennies because that’s what I love to do.”

More beans and less red meat: Nutrition experts weigh in on US dietary guidelines

By Jonel Aleccia
Associated Press

Americans should eat more beans, peas and lentils and cut back on red and processed meats and starchy vegetables, all while continuing to limit added sugars, sodium and saturated fat.

That’s the advice released Tuesday by a panel of nutrition experts charged with counseling the U.S. government about the 2025 edition of the dietary guidelines that will form the cornerstone of federal food programs and policy.

But the 20-member panel didn’t weigh in on the growing role of ultraprocessed foods that have been linked to health problems, saying there’s not enough evidence to tell people to avoid them. And the group steered clear of updating controversial guidance on alcohol consumption, leaving that analysis to two outside reports expected to be released soon.

Overall, the recommendations for the 2025-2030 Dietary Guidelines for Americans sound familiar, said Marion Nestle, a food policy expert.

“This looks like every other set of dietary guidelines since 1980: eat your veggies and reduce consumption of foods high in salt, sugar and saturated fat,” Nestle said in an email. “This particular statement says nothing about balancing calories, when overconsumption of calories, especially from ultra-processed foods, is the biggest challenge to the health of Americans.”

What the scientific panel said about healthy diets

The nutrition panel concluded that a healthy diet for people aged 2 years and older is higher in vegetables, fruits, legumes, nuts, whole grains, fish and and vegetable oils that are higher in unsaturated fat.

It is lower in red and processed meats, sugar-sweetened foods and beverages, refined grains and saturated fat. It may also include fat-free or low-fat dairy and foods lower in sodium and may include plant-based foods.

The panel, which met for nearly two years, was the first to focus on the dietary needs of Americans through what they called a “health equity lens,” said Dr. Fatima Cody Stanford, a Massachusetts General Hospital obesity expert who was part of the group. That meant considering factors such as household income, race, ethnicity and culture when recommending healthy diets. It will help ensure that the guidance “reflects and includes various population groups,” she said in an email.

The panel didn’t come to conclusions on ultraprocessed foods or alcohol Ultraprocessed foods include the snacks, sugary cereals and frozen meals that make up about 60% of the American diet.

The panel considered more than 40 studies, including several that showed links between ultraprocessed foods and becoming overweight or developing obesity. But the nutrition experts had concerns with the quality of the research, leaving them to conclude that the evidence was too limited to make recommendations.

That decision is likely to bump up against the views of Robert F. Kennedy, Jr., the nominee to lead the U.S. Health and Human Services Department, who has questioned potential conflicts of interest among members of the dietary guidelines panel and vowed to crack down on ultraprocessed foods that contribute to chronic disease.

The panel also didn’t revise recommendations that suggest limiting alcohol intake to two drinks or less a day for men and one drink or less a day for women.

In 2020, the last time the guidance was updated, the government rejected the advice of scientific advisers to recommend less alcohol consumption.

Two groups — the National Academies of Science, Engineering and Medicine and a committee of the government agency that oversees substance abuse — are expected to release reports in the coming months on the effects of moderate alcohol use to inform the guidelines.

Do Americans follow dietary guidelines?

The advisory panel acknowledged that the diets of most Americans don’t meet the current guidelines. More than half of all U.S. adults have one or more diet-related chronic health conditions and 18 million U.S. households have insecure sources of food, according to the report.

“Nutrition-related chronic health conditions and their precursors continue to threaten health through the lifespan,” the report concludes. “Which does not bode well for the future of health in the United States.”

What happens next?

The scientific report informs the dietary guidelines, which are updated every five years. Tuesday’s recommendations now go to HHS and the Agriculture Department, where officials will draft the final guidance set for release next year.

Starting Wednesday, the public will have 60 days to comment on the guidance. HHS and USDA officials will hold a public meeting Jan. 16 to discuss the recommendations.

The new guidance, which will be finalized by the incoming Trump administration, is consistent with decades of federal efforts to reduce diet-related disease in the U.S., said Dr. Peter Lurie, president of the advocacy group Center for Science in the Public Interest.

“Broadly, I think these are well-formulated recommendations that the incoming administration would do well to adopt,” Lurie said.

"Virgin River" - Season 6
Romance is in full bloom in "Virgin River" as the feel-good romantic drama based on the books by Robyn Carr ("Sullivan's Crossing") returns for its sixth season Thursday, Dec. 19. As Mel (Alexandra Breckenridge, "This Is Us") and Jack (Martin Henderson, "Grey's Anatomy") prepare for their romantic spring wedding — with dress shopping, bachelor and bachelorette parties and plenty of planning to be done — the series takes a look back at Virgin River in the '70s as Mel's parents begin their own love story. With Jessica Rothe ("Happy Death Day," 2017) and Callum Kerr ("Monarch") joining the cast as a young Sarah and Everett, their story unfolds as Sarah, "a witty free spirit from the big city with an ardent passion for activism," meets Everett, "a handsome and freewheeling singer-songwriter with a poet's soul" (per Netflix Tudum). With "fresh twists and turns, escalating love triangles, delightful wedding drama, as well as uncovered secrets from Mel's father's past" (per Netflix), Season 6 of "Virgin River" also stars John Allen Nelson ("24"), Tim Matheson ("Hart of Dixie"), Annette O'Toole

Alexandra Breckenridge and Martin Henderson star in "Virgin River"

WHAT'S NEW ON PEACOCK

"Laid" - Season 1

Romance is dead, literally, in the new rom-com "Laid," premiering Thursday, Dec. 19, on Peacock. Doing her best to live an ordinary life, Ruby's (Stephanie Hsu, "Everything Everywhere All at Once," 2022) reality takes a surreal turn when one of her exes ends up dead. And then another one ... and then a few more. Beginning to suspect that she is the problem and being involved with her is killing her past lovers, Ruby and her best friend, AJ (Zosia Mamet, "Girls"), work to track down all the men from her past to warn them about their impending doom, hoping that confronting her past will help them all move forward. From co-showrunners, writers and executive producers Nahnatchka Khan ("Fresh Off the Boat") and Sally Bradford McKenna ("Don't Trust the B in Apartment 23"), "Laid" is based on the Australian series of the same name from Kirsty Fisher ("The Family Law") and Marieke Hardy ("Short Cuts"). WHAT'S NEW ON DISNEY+

"The Simpsons: O C'mon All Ye Faithful" – Christmas Double Episode

Celebrate Christmas in Springfield, with the festive double episode "The Simpsons: O C'mon All Ye Faithful," premiering exclusively on Disney+ this Tuesday, Dec. 17. Celebrating the 35th anniversary of the first-ever "Simpsons" episode to air on television — which also happened to be a Christmas special, 1989's "Simpsons Roasting on an Open Fire" — this super-sized holiday special features mentalist Derren Brown ("Derren Brown: Trick or Treat"), singer Patti LaBelle ("On My Own") and the music group Pentatonix ("Meet Me Next Christmas," 2024) as guest stars, all appearing as themselves. Seeing a man lacking Christmas cheer, Derren does his best to hypnotize Homer, hoping to boost his holiday spirits. Instead, Homer becomes convinced that he's a certain "sparkly elf" — Santa Claus — and causes the rest of Springfield to question their own beliefs and consider whether or not Homer's hypnosis resulted in a miracle. Written by Carolyn Omine ("The Angry Birds Movie," 2016), and directed by Debbie Mahan ("The Simpsons Movie," 2007) and Matthew Faughnan ("The Simpsons Take the Bowl," 2014), this two-parter also features the voice acting talents of Dan Castellaneta ("Futurama"), Julie Kavner ("Click," 2006), Nancy Cartwright ("Rugrats"), Yeardley Smith ("Maximum Overdrive," 1986), Harry Shearer ("This Is Spinal Tap," 1984) and Hank Azaria ("Brockmire").

WHAT'S NEW ON HALLMARK+

"Deck the Halls on Cherry Lane" (2024)

Returning for more Christmas magic throughout the decades, the Cherry Lane film series continues with "Deck the Halls on Cherry Lane," premiering Thursday, Dec. 19, on Hallmark+. In three different decades, families on Cherry Lane experience the many highs and occasional lows that the holiday season has to offer, from life-changing discoveries to Christmas surprises. From director Ali Liebert ("North to Home," 2022) and writer Rick Garman ("The Groomsman Last Dance," 2024), "Deck the Halls on Cherry Lane" stars Benjamin Hollingsworth ("Virgin River"), Chelsea Hobbs ("Lords of Dogtown," 2005), John Brotherton ("The Conjuring," 2013), Erin Cahill ("Holidazed"), Sam Page ("The Bold Type"), Brooke D'Orsay ("Royal Pains"), Matt Dusk ("Call Me Fitz"), Lauren Jackson ("My Little Pony: Friendship is Magic"), Garrett Black ("Christmas on Cherry Lane," 2023), Ryla McIntosh ("Falling Together," 2024) and new talent Tessa Rae Kelly.
